Bomber Returned MiG's Fire Only After Fighter Attacked

Horrified Tito Sees Two U.K. Jets Crash, Pilots Die

DUXFORD, England (AP)—Two British jet fighters collided today before the horrified gaze of Marshal Tito, killing both pilots. Then the shaken Yugoslav leader for the first time saw and heard another jet crash the sound barrier. Britain trotted out its hottest military aircraft for inspection by Tito who is anxious to get similar planes for the Yugoslav air force. The collision occurred during tight formation flying by Meteors. Twenty-four jets in all were involved. As four of the Meteors were changing position one ran into the tail of another. The wreckage fell six miles away from this RAF airfield in Cambridgeshire.

When the Meteors returned to land, Tito saluted the planes in tribute to the dead pilots.

The accident wiped the marshal's usual wide smile from his face. He leaped up in horror as the planes came together. Later he was pale and disturbed as he entered the officers' mess for luncheon.

SECOND CRASH

It was the second incident of its kind Tito has witnessed since he left his homeland to pay an official visit to Britain. Six days ago, while he was en route here, three British naval aircraft crashed off Gibraltar. Four men were listed as missing and presumed dead in that accident.

Visibility was down to about 1,000 feet today at the time of the crash. The scattered wreckage of the Meteors sent flames and smoke hundreds of feet into the air.

Both planes crashed on open ground about a mile from each other. One was burned out. The other had exploded into small pieces.

CLOSE-IN RUNS

Before the Meteors took off the Yugoslav leader witnessed an impressive display by a Canberra jet bomber. The bomber took off in a steep turn and made high speed runs only about 100 yards in front of Tito's chair.

An RAF officer said Titol had twice asked before the flying began to cancel the display because of the weather. After the crash he turned to Lord Tedder, marshal of the RAF, and said: "Please, do not have any more."

But Sqdn. Ldr. Neville Duke—one of Britain's hottest, best known pilots—already had taken up a gleaming Hawker hunter into the heavy overcast.

SONIC BOOMS

Then Duke came roaring down. As his engines screamed he pushed past the speed of sound. Tito who had started for his car thinking

US Demands Discipline Of MiG Pilot

Stiff Note Requests Action To Stop Repetition of Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP)— The United States today demanded that Russia discipline the Soviet jet fighter pilot who attacked a U.S. weather reconnaissance plane last Sunday 25 miles off Kamchatka.

The state department announced a protest has been delivered to the Moscow foreign office by the American embassy.

The note asks measures to prevent a repetition of such an attack and "disciplinary action" against those responsible for Sunday's incident.

DIDN'T PRESS

The air force announced Tuesday that the American B-50 bomber, flying out of Alaska, was trailed by two Soviet MiG-15s and that one Russian plane opened fire on it. The B-50 returned fire and the Soviet plane did not press the attack.

The exchange apparently did no damage to either plane.

The state department announced the substance of the protest, but the text of the note was not made public for the time being.

The department's announcement said:

"The American embassy at Moscow this morning on instructions from the state department lodged a vigorous protest with the Soviet foreign office against the attack by MiG fighters upon a U. S. Air Force B-50 in the North Pacific on March 15.

WANTS DISCIPLINE

"The note sets forth the position of the U. S. plane when attacked (about 100 miles northeast of Petropavlosk and at least 25 miles from the nearest Soviet territory), vigorously protests the action of the Soviet aircraft, states that the government of the United States expects to be informed at an early date of the disciplinary action taken with regard to the Soviet personnel responsible for the attack, and asks for information concerning measures adopted by Soviet authorities to prevent a recurrence of incidents of this kind."

Eisenhower Refuses To Comment On Latest Incident

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The quick-acting commander of a United States Air Force plane said Tuesday night he ordered the chief gunner to "fire back" when his B-50 bomber was attacked by a Russian-type MiG high off the coast of Siberia Sunday. Lt.-Col. Robert R. Rich, 35, told a press conference at Elelson air force base near here that he tried to escape the attacker with a 390-mile-an-hour dive into a cloud bank and fired only after the MiG had opened up.

The attack occurred as the United States plane, on a routine weather flight, cruised north 25 miles out to sea from the Siberian coast. The air force said apparently neither aircraft was damaged in the third such sky encounter between planes of the East and West in a week.

The shooting scrape, the first reported by the air force in which an Alaska-based plane had actually been fired on occurred March 15.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower declined to comment on the latest incident in the cold war amid congressional demands for an investigation and warnings the Russians might attack commercial planes on the Orient run.

"TRIGGER HAPPY"

In Washington, Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem. Wash.) said if the Russians are going to be so "trigger happy" they might attack U.S. commercial aircraft flying the great circle route from the Pacific Northwest to the Orient if they stray off course.

Mangnuson said there was no excuse for the MiG to fire first and that it should have radioed the U.S. plane to see if it was lost before opening fire.

Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.), a member of the Senate armed services committee, said he was going to ask the committee to investigate whether "an element of a chip on the shoulder" on the part of the B-50 may have entered into the skirmish.

TOO CLOSE?

Both Magnuson and Flanders express the opinion the U.S. plane might have ventured too close to Russian territory just to observe the weather.

The B-50, on duty with the 15th weather reconnaissance squadron at Eielson, was approximately 100 miles east and slightly north of the huge Russian military base at Petropavlovsk on the Amchatka peninsula when it was attacked.

Rich gave this account of the skirmish:

The B-50 had been flying north about 25 miles off the Siberian coast for 30 to 40 minutes when the vapor trails of two planes were sighted 10 miles coastward

Say Reds Stall On UN Head, Await Vishinsky

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The Russians are reported going to stall off any decision on a new UN secretary-general until Andrei Y. Vishinsky returns March 26 from his Moscow conferences with the new Malenkov regime.

Informed sources said the Kremlin has ordered its delegate Valerian A. Zorin to make no commitments in security council negotiations with the West for a successor to Trygve Lie until Vishinsky arrives.

The five permanent members of the 11-country security council—Russia, the U. S., Britain, France and Nationalist China—were scheduled to huddle behind locked doors today in an effort to end the East-West deadlock over Lie's successor. Zorin's announced refusal to confer directly with Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang indicated the meeting would have to be split up.

The general assembly's political committee also was to meet today, opening a debate on world disarmament.

Vishinsky, demoted from foreign minister to chief UN delegate as he embarked for Moscow after the death of Stalin, is expected to bring back new instructions from the the government of Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov.

Zorin, sitting in for Russia at the two security council meetings held thus far on the question of a new secretary-general, vetoed both Canada's L. B. Pearson, who polled a nine-vote majority, and U. S.-backed Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines. Russia's candidate, Polish Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzessewski, got only Zorin's vote.

News of the Russian delegation's mark-time until Vishinsky's return set other delegates to wondering whether the Malenkov government intended to back up its peace talk with concrete action here. But almost no one had much hope of any change in the Soviet attitude toward Korea and other major world-troubling problems.

Ceylon To Send Reds Rubber; Stand By Pact

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Ceylon announced today it is standing pat on its agreement to supply Communist China with 250,000 tons of rubber.

The announcement was made after Sir Cecil Syers, Britain's high commissioner, had a 20-minute talk with Prime Minister Dudley Senanayake in which Sir Cecil expressed Britain's concern over Ceylon's rubber-for-rice deal with Peiping.

Foreign Secretary Athony Eden of Britain agreed at recent Washington conferences that Britain will prevent strategic goods from reaching Red China in British ships and will not permit any Communist ships carrying such goods to fuel in British ports.

Sir Cecil handed the Ceylon prime minister a copy of the communique issued in Washington on the results of talks with State Secretary John Foster Dulles.

NO CHANGE

The government of this independent British Commonwealth country then issued this statement: "So far as Ceylon is concerned there is no change in the existing arrangements under which trade agreements between the People's Republic of China and Ceylon are concerned."

China is using Communist ships—usually those of Polish registry—to pick up the rubber. The Polish ships are diesel-engined and do not need to refuel en route to China.

The Chinese are paying a 40-per-cent premium above the world market price for the rubber. The United States offered to buy the rubber at the regular going rate to keep it from the Communists. The Ceylon government has said the lucrative deal with China gives it a premium of about $19,000,000 and keeps 300,000 laborers at work.

Need $140 Million To Clear Pollution

OTTAWA (CP)—An expenditure of about $140,000,000 will be needed to clear up pollution in Canada-United States boundary waters around Southwestern Ontario, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said Tuesday.

Gen. McNaughton, Canadian co-chairman of the international joint commission that regulates the use of these waters, told the Commons external affairs committee that the commission is "on the high road to getting this problem solved."

Under a reference from the two countries, the commission has been investigating the problem for several years.

Gen. McNaughton said projects such as sewage disposal works had been started which, when completed, would total to about two-thirds the $140,000,000 aggregate. The situation was gradually improving.

He also said the commission is seeking "additional authority" from the two federals governments in connection with a reference to find means of cutting down air pollution in the Detroit-Windsor area.

Supreme Court Agrees On Damage Award

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today allowed an appeal on behalf of the estate of the late Harry W. Stewart of Louth township, Lincoln county, Ont., awarding his family $25,250 damages.

Mr. Stewart was killed in an automobile accident in December, 1949, when run over by a truck. Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven of the Supreme Court of Ontario awarded his widow and children $25,250, but the Ontario Court of Appeal reduced this award to $11,250.

Today's judgment allowed the appeal with costs and restored the judgment of the trial judge.

Thorold Firemen Dye Beards For St. Pat

THOROLD (CP)—How's a poor fireman to show his devotion to St. Patrick, when a black tie and blue uniform—with never a touch o' green—is regulation wearing apparel?

The problem worried true lovers of the "ould sod" in the fire department of this town 10 miles southeast of St. Catharines, but not for long.

The firemen had started to grow beards last January for their department's centennial next August.

Tuesday they dyed their beards green.

Two Grab Jewels Worth $500,000

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two armed men, their faces masked with handkerchiefs, battered in the rear door of a jewelry store and fled with $500,000 worth of diamonds, police reported early today.

Police said the store's owner, Abe Taylor, his wife, Lillian, and their son, Donald, were working in the closed establishment and were about to transfer two trays of diamonds from a window to the safe when the two men battered down the rear door with a six- by eight-inch timber, fired three or four shots into the floor, and chased the Taylors to the front of the store.

Japanese Girl Becomes Man With Operation

NIIGATA, Japan (AP)—A successful change of sex the reverse of Christine Jorgensen's Danish transformation was reported Tuesday in domestic court here.

Kiyoko Hirose, 20, asked for a name change to the masculine Kiyoshi.

Since birth Kiyoko had been regarded as a female. She attended girls' school and joined the young women's association of her village.

She entered hospital Feb. 6 for three operations and a month later, Kiyoko said, was produced a man.

The court okayed Kiyoshi.

B-29s Wipe Out Red Centre Near Manchuria

SEOUL (CP)—The Communist supply and troops centre of Pungha, within shooting distance of anti-aircraft guns inside Manchuria, was virtually wiped out today by U. S. B-29s in the fourth largest bomber strike of the Korean war.

It was the first time UN planes hit Pungha, three miles southeast of Sinuinju in northwest Korea. The Red anti-aircraft guns inside China fired on the B-29s. There was no report whether any were hit.

On the ground, Dutch and South Korean troops teamed to smash Chinese attacks on two advanced positions in the western sector northeast of Yonchon.

STRAFE POSITIONS

Behind the line, four unidentified aircraft strafed positions on the eastern front. The 8th army reported there were no casualties.

Forty Okinawa-based Superforts, 27 of which smashed against Pungha's 320 wooden buildings, plowed through 40 miles of anti-aircraft fire and braved Red night fighters to reach their target. The other 13 hit Red lines.

One airman said the Communist supply, troop and factory complex at Pungha "went up at once, as though someone had spilled gunpowder over the area and lit it."

British planes from the carrier Glory blasted targets from Taetan to Haeju on the west coast. Seventy-six sorties there resulted in damage or destruction of 19 buildings and a railroad bridge.

Dutch and RoK infantry beat back seven Communist probing attacks before dawn—the largest in a bitter 45-minute battle northeast of the Hook on the western front. The 8th army reported they killed or wounded 80 Chinese.

No Extension

TORONTO (CP) — Today's the last day Ontario motorists can drive their cars with 1952 licence plates and J. P. Bickell, registrar of motor vehicles, said there won't be any extension of the deadline for buying 1953 plates.

Central Ont. Spring Show Opened By Deputy Minister Seed Champions Announced

Durham county farmers have retained their prominence in numbers as seed grain growers and exhibitors at the Central Ontario Spring Show which opened this afternoon at the Exhibition Park. They transfer their own seed fair to this annual event in Peterborough, thereby doubling their interest in the district Spring Show. Championships announced this morning by the secretary of the main competition, A. O. Dalrymple of Stirling, are awarded as follows:

Winter wheat: Col. Roscoe L. Vandewater of Foxboro, Hastings county.

Oats: John Cruickshank, Hampton, Durham.

Barley: Gerald Brown of Newcastle, Durham county.

Small seeds: William E. Curle of Campbellford, Northumberland.

Potatoes: Ivan Norton of Goodwood, Ontario county.

John Dawson of Ottawa, district supervisor of the plant product division of the federal Department of Agriculture, rated the grain display as probably a little better quality than the entries of a year ago, particularly in the color of oats. In that detail the seed appeared to be slightly superior to similar displays in the Ottawa Valley. Volume of the seed is about the same as last year.

400 BUSHELS ENTERED

In the 10-bushel lots there are more than 400 bushels entered, the largest supply of seed grain, most of registered, for the auction sale Friday afternoon that winds up the show.

Col. Vanderwater's winter wheat was the comparatively new variety of Dawbul. It was noted that the old standby variety, Dawson's Golden Chaff, was entirely absent. Cornell comprised the largest volume of seed wheat, with Dawbul next.

Alfalfa seed was also missing, but there is a lot of Red Clover, reflecting the heavy crop of 1952.

Soy beans have not yet attained a broad acreage in Central Ontario. Only five entries were shown.

The cereal and forage grains on exhibition are generally representative of the counties comprising the Central Show area.

Convict Couple Who Left Children In Cabin

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Parents who left eight children alone in a two-room cabin at Searchmont, 14 miles north of here, were convicted Tuesday of abandoning, neglect and desertion. They will be sentenced Friday.

Francis and Christena Reid told the court they left for an outing in the Sault on a Thursday morning. Their car broke down and they did not return until Saturday afternoon.

Their four-month-old ababy may have pneumonia.

Left with little food, firewood or clothing, the children were brought here 24 hours after they were left in the shack, lighted only by kerosene lamps.

Provincial police constable Elvyn Somers testified he found the 14-year-old boy and girls of 12 and 10 trying to cook spaghetti. In the other room, five more children were lying on two beds. All were scantily clothed. The baby wore only a diaper "which looked like it hadn't been changed for two days," and a thin shirt. The wet mattress was frozen to the springs.

There was no wood cut and the only food found was a package of yeast, a loaf of bread and salt.

[illegible] the parents weren't reached until Monday afternoon, when the father was found in a beverage room in the Sault.

The children are temporarily in custody of the shelter.

Says New Bomb Used As Artillery

NEW YORK (AP)—William L. Laurence, New York Times writer, today describes the type of weapon exploded in Nevada Tuesday as "a nuclear device designed to serve as a tactical atomic weapon for use in place of artillery against an enemy entrenched on a wide front."

In a dispatch from Yucca flat, Nev., Laurence says:

"It was a relatively small energy release as atomic weapons go, less than a tenth of some of the atomic weapons in the United States' arsenal, but as artillery it undoubtedly was the most powerful single shot of its kind ever fired in either real or simulated warfare."

There has been no official announcement of the nature of the weapon exploded.

U.K. Bucks Seat For Red China

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden says Britain's Conservative government will oppose United Nations membership for Communist China as long as the Chinese Reds are "in full aggression against the United Nations and shooting down our troops."

His statement in the House of Commons Tuesday night was cheered by members of his party. It replied to a question from Labor member Clement Attlee, the former prime minister and Opposition leader.

Attlee described the Peiping regime as "the real and effective government of China," and asked why it was not on the UN security council instead of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

Eden pointed out that a majority of the UN general assembly still recognizes the Nationalists on Formosa. Britain has given diplomatic recognition to the Peiping regime.

Water-Filled Gully Claims Child's Life

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A water filled ravine, just south of London, claimed the life of a three-year-old boy today when he fell beneath the surface while playing with other children.

Brent Lancaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lancaster, failed to respond to artificial respiration and was pronounced dead in Victoria hospital.

Playmates of the boy summoned his mother. She pulled him from the water and with nearby construction workmen attempted artificial respiration.

Mrs. Lancaster said she found him submerged with just his head showing. She said the water came to her [illegible]

Arrest Boy, 13, In Twin Slaying

HEBRON, Neb (AP)—A 13-year-old boy was held today in the fatal shootings of his aunt and his five-year-old sister.

County attorney W. O. Baldwin quoted the lad as saying he had not meant to shoot the sister, he intended only to shoot the aunt because she would not let him go to a neighbor's house to watch TV.

Held was Lawrence M. Young, 13, who lived on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Virlie Stewart near Alexandria, Neb.

Killed outright in the shootings Tuesday night was Mrs. Stewart, about 40, aunt and foster mother to the boy.

Fatally wounded also was Cathy Young, 5, Lawrence's sister. She died today, about 12 hours after the shooting.

Gunner Who Fired At MiG Sweated At 58 Below Zero

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A 30-year-old U. S. Air Force gunner from Ozark, Ark., who returned the fire of a Soviet MiG-15 over the Bering sea last week, probably was one of the first persons to sweat at 58 degrees below zero.

That was the temperature when Sgt. Jesse L. Prim pulled the trigger that sent six guns into action in the top turret of the B-50 bomber.

COMING FAST

Prim said the Soviet jet was coming in fast and flames from his guns were plainly visible.

Prim said he didn't hesitate when the bomber commander, Lt.-Col. Robert S. Rich, shouted "fire back."

"I fired a burst of 20 rounds from each of the six guns. I don't think I hit him because there was so little time to aim. The minute I began firing, the Soviet jet broke its attack and dove underneath us. It came up on the other side, curved way from us and flew home.

"PLENTY SURPRISED"

"He never expected us to fire back at him and he was plenty surprised when we did. We gave that attacker a hot reception on a cold day."

Prim is a veteran of 10 years of service in the air force. He was a bomber-gunner in European combat in the Second World War.

Tobacco Road Troupe Wins Appeal In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seven persons connected with a recent performance here of "Tobacco Road" won their appeal Tuesday from conviction on charges of staging a "lewd and filthy" production.

County court Judge J. A. McGeer quashed conviction of the seven by police court Judge W. W. B. Innes.

Charles Nelson, manager of the Avon Theatre, where the Erskine Caldwell play was produced, had been fined $50. Director Dorothy Davies and actors Douglas Haskins, Douglas Hellier, Edward Babcock, Louise DeVick and Tamara Dlugo had been fined $20 each.

Final Answer: Winters

Reject U.S. Firm's Bid For Yukon Power, Keep Resources For Canadian Industry

NEW YORK (CP)—Canada's rejection of a proposal by the Aluminum Company of America to develop the immense power potential of the upper Yukon river is final, Resources Minister Robert Winters of Canada said Tuesday in an interview here.

Winters said Canada intends to stand on its "position that Canadian hydro-electric resources must be developed by and reserved primarily for Canadian industry."

ALUMINUM PLANT

Alcoa planned to use water power from the Yukon river, whose headwaters are in the Yukon territory and northern British Columbia, for a $400,000,000 smelter near Skagway, Alaska, to produce 200,000 tons of aluminum a year.

The Alcoa proposal was rejected by the Canadian government last year. However, Alcoa had indicated it hoped Canada would change its decision.

LICENSE TO TRESPASS

Winters described a survey permit recently granted to Frobisher Ltd., Toronto, as "just a sort of licence to trespass on Crown lands for the purpose of making engineering surveys."

Commenting on reports that Frobisher plans to spend $2,000,000,000 in that area for powerhouses and metal smelters, Winters said.

"That money figure sounds a little high to me but I have no doubt the big Canadian exploration concern, through its subsidiary, Quebec Metallurgical Industries, has firm plans for extensive development of the Yukon.

"It is my understanding that QMI is thinking of the future of metals in terms of alloys, particularly the special high-temperature alloys needed in today's jet engines and atomic power projects.

MANY METALS

"The company expects to collect metal raw materials from parent company sources all over the world and bring them to the Yukon site to take advantage of the tremendous power that will be available there for processing. Aluminum would be only one of the many metals involved in such a program."

Winters was here to address the third session in the Town Hall forum on "Canada—Nation on the March."

Chevrier Defends TV Policy, Stops U.S. Control

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier says the government intends to control television to provide Canadians with the full benefit of their own developing culture and to prevent an invasion by "canned" American programs. The minister, resuming a debate on TV in the Commons, said Tuesday that it is "nonsense" to suggest that private enterprise, left to itself, will provide Canadian programs. Private interests would be out to make money and the most money could be derived from imported U.S. programs.

"I believe what the people of Canada want more than anything else is that in the field of television the programs should be of Canadian origination and of Canadian content and should not be canned programs coming in from the United States."

That did not mean there would be no American programs on Canadian TV. There would be some, but they would not monopolize TV broadcasting in this country, as they might without control.

The minister, whose department is partly responsible for granting radio and TV licences, spoke during a debate on a government motion to establish a committee on broadcasting. The committee will review activities of the publicly-owned CBC, the controlling body for broadcasting in Canada.

GETS CCF SUPPORT

Mr. Chevrier received support from M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader but heard E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) describe government policy as one of "monopoly" and actual restriction of Canadian talent.

Mr. Coldwell said the incentive for radio and television "should be service to Canada as a nation and to its people as citizens." To adopt any other policy would "be an act of treachery and treason on the part of this Parliament to those who for the last 86 years have endeavored to make Canada a free, independent and distinct nation."

"Propaganda of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters for the private control of television, whether they realize it or not, and those who associate themselves with that propaganda is in effect, in my opinion, treasonable to this country," he said.

"Those who consciously or unconsciously echo their demand for the private control of television and broadcasting, in my opinion, are encouraging propaganda which eventually will destroy the identity and the independence of this Canadian nation. . .."

"DISTORTION"

Later in an interview T. J. Allard, executive vice-president of the C. A. B., said all members of his organization are prominently identified with the best-known Canadian enterprises and provide distinctive Canadian service to Canadian communities. To describe their activities as "treasonable," he said, "is a complete distortion of the facts."

At the start of the sitting Mr. Howe tabled the annual report of the government-operated Trans-Canada Air Lines for 1952. It showed the airline carried 1,000,000 passengers for the first time in a single year and made a net profit of $807,879.

In the television debate, Mr. Chevrier referred to government policy under which private stations could be permitted in areas not served or to be served by the CBC. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans others in Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Halifax.

PC POLICY POOR

The minister said Progressive Conservative policy to allow private station operation in the larger cities would allow United States television operations to take over the field.

"You are hopelessly wrong," interjected Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton).

Mr. Chevrier said the opposition policy, carried to its final conclusion, could mean the end of French-language programs in Canada. Private stations would import American programs and would not pay the heavy cost of producing French language programs.

Mr. Fulton said Mr. Chevrier's speech had shown disregard for truth, accuracy and fairness. It had been a misrepresentation and distortion of opposition policies.

The Progressive Conservatives wanted an independent regulatory body established with jurisdiction over both government and private stations, a body similar to the board of transport commissioners or the air transport board.

"MONOPOLY"

Government TV policy, said Mr. Fulton, is one of "monopoly"—a monopoly for the CBC in the economically-rich areas and a monopoly for the private stations in the less lucrative ones. That policy would restrict the number of TV outlets and therefore would cut down the opportunity for Canadian talent to get on TV shows.

David Croll (L-Toronto Spadina) agreed with Mr. Coldwell when the latter said Canadian TV should be kept Canadian.

"I disagree with those who believe that we should pattern our television system on that of the United States," said Mr. Croll. "I rebel against the unending and constant exhortations to buy beer, cigarets, detergents, dill pickles and lazy laxatives with or without chlorophyll. . .."

"Believe me, if the Americans had to do it all over again, they would certainly correct their overemphasis on advertising."

He suggested the CBC should spend more money putting Canadian talent on radio and TV.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) fully supported government control of radio and TV. TV represented a new medium that was "cultural dynamite" and the government was right to go slowly.

Pass Steel Bill In UK Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—The house of Commons, by 304 votes to 271, Tuesday night passed a bill to sell the state-owned steel companies back to private ownership—one of the two major measures of the Conservative government's program.

The other, a bill to denationalize road transport, has already been passed by the Commons and is with the House of Lords, where the steel bill now will go. Both bills are expected to become law by early May. The Labor party has stated it will nationalize both industries again if it returns to power.

When the steel industry was nationalized Feb. 15, 1951, the state took control of about 100 of the biggest companies, employing altogether about 300,000 workers.

These firms were all those producing 50,000 tons of iron ore or more a year or 20,000 tons by (1) melting iron ore in blast furnaces, (2) converting pig iron and scrap into steel ingots and (3) shaping steel by hot rolling.

Passenger, Driver Found Guilty

TORONTO (CP) — For what lawyers said was the second time in the history of Canadian courts, the owner of a car, riding as a passenger, and his driver, were both convicted Tuesday of drunk driving.

Magistrate O. M. Martin sentenced Frank Munro and Walter Edward Baker to 10 days each and ordered Munro's car impounded for three months.

Munro said he did not remember leaving a suburban Scarborough hotel where he had been drinking. He also said he did not remember anything about the collision his car was in either because he was "so drunk."

Magistrate Martin said the legal point was whether Munro was so drunk that he did not appreciate the drunken condition of Baker to whom authority had apparently been given to drive the car

Study 22,000 For Possible Communist Links

NEW YORK (AP)—U. S. Attorney-General Herbert Brownell, Jr., says nearly 22,000 foreign-born residents of the United States are under investigation for possible Communist links.

He adds that they will be subject to eventual deportation "where evidence is found that they have violated our immigration and nationality laws."

The widening inquiries are part of a campaign to rid the country of subversives, Brownell told the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at a dinner Tuesday night.

"It's a job worthy of a modern-day St. Patrick to drive these snakes from our shores," the attorney-general declared.

10,000 CITIZENS

Brownell said that among those under investigation are nearly 10,000 naturalized citizens who "are believed to be or to have been engaged in subversive activities or presently to be or to have been members of, or affiliated with, the Communist party."

"These investigations are to determine whether their naturalization can be revoked," Brownell added. "If naturalization is revoked by the courts, these persons will again be aliens and subject to deportation."

Another 12,000 being probed are aliens residing in the U. S., Brownell said.

Wherever these investigations uncover evidence of subversive activities or "membership in or affiliation with the Communist party, . . . deportation proceedings will be instituted against these aliens."

Two Ontario Men Killed In Jets

CHATHAM, N. B. (CP)—Two Ontario jet pilots, PO D. G. Allen, 22, Toronto, and FO. K. Nicholls, 21, Hamilton, were killed Tuesday, when their Sabre fighters crashed into the ice of nearby Miramichi bay.

Names of the victims were released Tuesday night by No. 1 fighter operational training unit at the Chatham RCAF station.

A spokesman said there was nothing to substantiate previous reports that the planes collided in the air. They fell a short distance from each other.

Both bodies were recovered.

He said the planes appeared a few minutes later behind the B-50 and some 5,000 to 6,000 feet higher. The U.S. craft was at an altitude of 25,000 feet.

HEELED INTO DIVE

Rich said the planes, identified as MiG-15s, "kept coming on our tail" and suddenly one heeled over into a "pursuit dive" and made directly for the B-50.

Rich said he immediately ordered his pilot, Lieut. Harry F. Welch, to dive into a layer of clouds at the 10,000-foot level.

As the B-50 screamed toward cover, Rich said, he heard three or four crew members shout over the intercom system:

"They're firing at us."

"I issued the order 'fire back,'" Rich said.

SAW SMOKE

The colonel said members of the crew could plainly see smoke trailing from the MiG's guns as it fired "three or four" bursts from 1,000 yards away.

Sgt. Jesse L. Prim, central flight control gunner, waited until the MiG was within 400 yards and then fired by remote control a burst of 20 shots from each of six .50-calibre machine guns.

All of Prim's shots passed behind the MiG, which dove underneath the bomber, came up on the other side in a high climb and vanished.

The second MiG, which stayed high behind the B-50 during the brief engagement, also vanished.

The whole episode lasted about 14 minutes, Rich said.

Six Firemen Hurt

TORONTO (CP)—Six firemen required inhalator treatment when a fire of unknown origin burned out a Canadian National Railways record room in the sub basement of the Union station here Tuesday night. Damage wasn't given. The police arson squad was called to investigate.

Atomic Bomb Test Teaches Civilians, Soldiers Ways Of Blast Protection

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—On the friendly practice field of the U.S. atomic energy commission civilian and soldier alike may have learned new lessons to wrest victory out of atomic war. These are the pointers indicated by Tuesday's double-barrelled nuclear test: For civilian—1. In a car, "I would stay in it, open the windows and crouch down as far as possible on the seat or the floor," said J. Slayton Jenner of the federal civil defence administration.

2. In a house, try a basement-type bomb shelter, but make sure you have a solid concrete basement.

3. If caught in the open, lie flat on the ground if no good shelter is available.

For soldier—

1. Crouch in a foxhole or lie flat. U. S. Army officers now think the dug-in soldiers could have remained above ground, lying prone, at their two-mile distance from Tuesday's blast tower on Yucca Flat.

WATCH WIND

2. Watch the wind and stay behind it. The breeze after the detonation at 300 feet swept the radioactive column and cloud eastward across the flat, where it hung threateningly for hours. But troops were able to march north through the vicinity of "ground zero"—base of the explosion.

3. The bomb can be a friend if instructions are followed. Like their predecessors in atomic manoeuvres, the 1,000 soldiers and 500 observers found little to fear in foxholes. Most said it wasn't as bad as they expected. Elton Fay, Associated Press military affairs reporter, found himself most impressed by "the unearthly white light" as he crouched face down in a five-foot trench.

4. Earth shock can be as potent a weapon as blast in a low-level explosion, Fay concluded. The prolonged shuddering of the desert, Fay and other observers believe, contributed greatly to the quick collapse of the first civil defence test house, 3,500 feet from the tower.

For the scientist, the first atomic test of 1953 brought reaffirmation that—

REAL WALLOP

Smaller bombs can pack a real wallop. The device, packing the explosive power equal to 15,000 tons of TNT, was only three-quarters the strength of the Nagasaki or normal bomb. But it made itself heard or felt in a number of communities including Las Vegas, 75 miles away, Medford, Ore., about 600 miles distant, and Los Angeles, nearly 300 miles away.

The blast destroyed the first of the two experimental homes built for the test, placed 3,500 feet (about two-thirds of a mile) from ground zero. The second—at 7,500 feet—stood up through the blast, but suffered about 50 per cent structural damage.

Flying glass from shattered windows might have killed or badly injured tenants. Of the make-believe family of mannequins, those upstairs were knocked down or broken, those in basement shelters were virtually unmoved.

Most of the 59 cars on the flat were damaged. Two at distances of 3,800 and 5,000 feet burned; three others at a half mile were twisted into scrap. In many cases where all windows were left closed, the tops of the cars were caved in by the blast pressure.

WASHINGTON (CP)—All remaining price controls in the United States were abolished Tuesday, the office of price stabilization announcing the lifting of price ceilings on steel, alloys, machine tools, and the few chemicals which had remained under controls. The move represented the final step in a rapid series of orders completely freeing the U.S. economy.

'Sick Of People' Bus Driver Quits

DETROIT (AP)—Ernest Hazelton, a bus driver, abandoned his load of work-bound riders Tuesday when he became rankled by women passengers' comments about his driving.

"All right, ladies," he shouted, "you want to drive the thing. Drive it."

Some 30 passengers were astonished as Hazelton, a driver for the Detroit Street Railway System for two months, grabbed his jacket and disappeared. He turned up later at the bus terminal.

"I'm sick of people," he said. "I quit."

U.S. Demands

It has been made clear here that the U. S. Air Force will continue to fly its missions despite Russia's implied challenge to its use of air space over international waters of the North Pacific.

That was the word from top defence department spokesmen after their study of reports on the first confirmed two-day fight between U.S. and Red military planes outside the Korean war zone.

Military officials who may not be named also let it be known that the defence department had talked down a state department suggestion to postpone any public announcement of the incident.

The air force pinpointed the Sunday incident 25 miles from the coast of Russian Kamchatka, and the air force spokesman said the U.S. photo observation craft was operating within standing instructions to stay 25 miles from Russian territory. This is in line with orders to airmen to avoid provoking trouble.

ADVISED CAUTION

The state department had the bare facts of the Kamchatka clash early Monday, it was learned, and advised caution in announcing the event because neither the attacking MiG-15 nor the defending U.S. B-50 suffered human casualties or any apparent damage. The line of reasoning of some diplomats ran like this:

1. Silence by Washington might help to shake out Russian intentions.

2. Publicity could weaken the psychological impact of the strong U.S. and British protests in recent days over the unopposed shooting down of two Allied aircraft over Germany.

BETTER PUBLIC

The defence department won the decision to announce the Kamchatka affair Tuesday after maintaining the military view that it would be better to let out the factual story before Moscow could use a perverted version for propaganda purposes or to exert diplomatic pressure.

The air force also argued that the U.S. B-50 made its first, brief report of the encounter immediately after it occurred in clear English and might have been heard by non-military planes or surface craft.

The air force had previously revealed evidence that Russian planes have scouted Alaska and northern Canada at infrequent intervals in the last few years.

Navigation charts published by the U.S. Navy indicate that American craft have been doing some scouting on their own. The "Bering sea and strait" chart revised and distributed last May clearly indicates at least two new sea depth readings. The revisions are clearly labelled "1952" and both are less than 50 miles from Siberia.

Tot, 2, Stays Afloat

CHICAGO (AP) — A tot who learned to swim when he was 18 months old fell into a water-filled excavation near his home Tuesday and kept afloat until his mother saved him. Larry Maves, 2 now, threshed around in the water while his brother ran home to fetch his mother, Mrs. Jeanne Maves, who pulled him out.

Polio Kills Girl, 3

KITCHENER (CP) — Stricken with polio Dec. 18, Judith Ann Bundscho, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bundscho, Milverton, died in hospital Tuesday.

High Costs Cut Into Surplus Earned By TCA

OTTAWA (CP)—The government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines carried the greatest number of passengers in its history in 1952, but high operating costs halved its operating income and reduced the surplus to a fraction of the 1951 figure.

President G. R. McGregor, in his annual report tabled in the Commons Tuesday, anticipated there will be "some decline" in the company's 1953 financial standing as the result of expenses involved in record peacetime expansion.

The company's 1952 surplus, chopped to $807,879 after payment of $1,200,000 in taxes, was down sharply from $3,890,957 in 1951, but up from $208,000 in 1950. These were the first three consecutive surpluses in TCA's 15-year history.

The number of passengers carried climbed to a high of 1,132,518, up from 973,337 in 1951, while aircargo ton miles rose to 5,643,920 from 4,237,880.

BOOSTED REVENUES

This helped boost operating revenues to a peak of $55,057,708 from $48,010,301. But operating expenses also jumped to a record $52,744,741 from $4,336,120. Operating income was sliced to $2,312,967 from $4,674,181 and gross income pared to $2,007,879 from $3,890,957.

The company's report, tabled by Trade Minister Howe, said expenses were 22 per cent higher than in 1951 because of the direct cost associated with the increased mileage flown, increased traffic carried an increased payroll expenses, "which alone amounted to almost $5,000,000."

There also were expenses involved in partial payment of the 30-month $35,000,000 expansion program under which TCA plans:

1. Bolstering inter-city domestic service with 15 Vicker Viscounts, 48-seat, turbo-propeller powered aircraft, scheduled for delivery from England late next year.

EIGHT CONSTELLATIONS

2. Equipping its international service with eight super Constellations, 63-passenger turbine aircraft expected to be ready in the spring of 1954. The aircraft will reduce the trans-Atlantic flight time by about four hours.

3. Using three Bristol air freighters on the Montreal-Toronto-Winnipeg air route. They will carry loads of six tons each and will be ready next autumn.

Mr. McGregor also announced that TCA plans a daily service between Sault Ste. Marie-Sudbury-North Bay and Ottawa with a connecting Toronto-Sudbury service and a northern extension to Timmins. The company already has applied for authority for this operation.

Twins Born March 17 To Lindsay Couple

LINDSAY (ENS). — One Lindsay family increased by two on Tuesday afternoon.

As a result, Mr. and Mrs. Russel Beaton, of this town, will receive twin electric laundromat and clothes dryer from one of the leading appliance manufacturers.

Mrs. Beaton Tuesday gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl, at the Ross Memorial Hospital. The company had offered the laundry equipment to the parents of any twins born on St. Patrick's Day.

Mrs. Beaton, the former Doris Duggan, of good Irish stock, is doing fine today, reports her husband, a well-known Lindsay chiropractor. The babies have not been named as yet, but the boy weighed 5 pounds 11 ounces at birth, and the girl 5 pounds 5½ ounces.

The Beatons now are the parents of two boys and two girls.

According to a local dealer, George Williamson, there were 12 sets of twins and one set of triplets born in Canada St. Patrick's Day.

the display was over stopped and looked up. Three sharp bangs and a whine signalled that Duke had broken the barrier again.

The Meteors that crashed here each carried only one pilot. As the formation flew past Tito, the pilots from their open cockpits each gave an eyes left to Tito who saluted back.

The Meteors were engaged in exercise "Scramble," designed to demonstrate to Tito how fast the RAF can get jets into the air in an emergency.

Tito showed keen interest in British equipment and flying techniques.

KEEP SCHEDULE VAGUE

Tito's time schedule was kept deliberately vague. This was a further security measure by British police and secret agents, who have gone to great lengths to protect him from possible assassination.

The Yugoslav government chief and his foreign minister, Koca Popovic, had a two-hour conference with Churchill and Eden Tuesday night at the British Prime Minister's heavily guarded residence at 10 Downing street.

The discussion was said to have ranged over the whole field of strategy in the cold war with Russia, especially in light of the recent death of Stalin.

The talks will be resumed Thursday, when the four leaders are expected to get down to cases on future British military and economic aid to Yugoslavia.

U. S. sources in London said Tito next may be invited to conferences with President Eisenhower and his top aides in Washington. The marshal already has made it clear he would welcome such an invitation.

Tito was the guest of honor Tuesday at a lunch with the Royal Family at Buckingham Palace.

Milk Controls Proved Good For Producer, Distributor

EDMONTON (CP) — Milk controls have been good for both the producer and the distributor, H. E. McArthur of Vancouver, said Tuesday.

Mr. McArthur, addressing the annual meeting of the Dairy Council of Canada, said: "Most consumers know, as we all know, that they have had a good bargain," he said.

However, milk control by governments was open to two dangers: political interference, especially at election times and creation of an artificial market.

Provincial governments had been known to appeal to voters with lower milk prices. The artificial market included too many producers who were encouraged to produce too much fluid milk.

W. R. Aird of Montreal said the ice cream industry should not limit itself to one product. Bakers produced various products for different tastes.

Opinion was divided on marketing of "ice milk," a cheap butterfat confection developed by the United States dairy industry to compete with low-cost ice cream substitutes manufactured from vegetable oils.

The product contains only six per cent butter-fat while ice cream must contain at least 10 per cent by Canadian law. Delegates said they believe selling the "ice milk" will leave a wide pathway open to abuse since it could be passed off as ice cream.

Joseph J. Clancy

The funeral service for Joseph J. Clancy, 70, of 99 Rubidge St., who died Saturday following a lengthy illness, was held Monday at the Sacred Heart church at 9 a.m. The Rev. G. F. Sullivan conducted the requiem mass. The Rt. Rev. P. P. Butler was present in the sanctuary.

The pallbearers were his six nephews: William, Edward, Reginald Clancy, all of London, John, Gerald and Eddie Clancy of Hastings. Burial was in the St. Peter's cemetery and the Rev. G. V. Gaughan said the graveside service.

Two Legislatures Discuss Liquor Control

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Administration of the liquor laws in Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan came up for discussion Tuesday in the provincial legislatures.

The opposition in the Nova Scotia house accused government members of the public accounts committee of using "Iron Curtain" tactics. The charge was made after a motion to call evidence on liquor agents and purchase and sale of beer bottles had been defeated.

At Regina, the legislature gave first reading to suggested amendments to the Liquor Act, which call for non-alcoholic drinks or certain foodstuffs being sold in Saskatchewan beer parlors. At present, such sales are not allowed, but the liquor board may require them if the prohibition is removed.

Alberta members want the federal government to implement their 1945 scheme to grant provinces unconditional subsidies fo rhealth services.

They passed a motion stating that provincial governments cannot bear the cost of a comprehensive health insurance program from their own resources.

WOULD BAR PIPE

The British Columbia government will try to stop an oil pipeline being constructed from Suma, B.C. to Ferndale, Wash.

Mines Minister Robert Sommers said in the house his government is preparing a protest to be sent to Ottawa, asking the government to cancel the licence granted for construction of the pipeline.

James Bury (CCF—Vancouver Centre) said nine persons died in Vancouver city jail last year. He claimed that one of them, who died Christmas Eve, would be alive today if it had not been for a scuffle he had with police. Mr. Bury asked if the attorney-general will give special attention to the actions of police officers when arresting persons.

A bill to bring employees of the New Brunswick electric power commission under the provincial Labor Relations Act was introduced in the legislature at Fredericton.

Duff Roblin (PC — Winnipeg South) attacked the Manitoba government for not fighting the loss of the freight rate agreement on assumed mileage between Winnipeg and the Lakehead, abolished by the federal government Dec. 12. He demanded restoration of the agreement.

Shorthorn Sale Called Success

LINDSAY (ENS)—Agricultural Representative LeRoy J. Brown, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria County Shorthorn Association, reported today that the 43rd annual sale held Tuesday in Lindsay, had been most successful. Higher prices were paid for both bulls and heifers than a year ago. Twenty-two animals were offered for sale, by various county breeders. The highest price paid for any bull was $480, paid for Ransom Crown, sold by Roslyn Flett of Oakwood, to Allan Hopkins of Mount Albert.

The second highest priced male also was sold by Mr. Flett, Ransom Baronet, to the Emily Agricultural Society, Omemee. Nine males were sold. In the female sales Milt Jenkins of Little Britain, drew the highest bid, for Clovelly Melbe 11th, bought by John Rickard of Newcastle for $420.

The average price paid for the nine males was $395, about $43 higher than last years sale. Cows and heifers brought an average price of $309, compared to last year's $284.

Two of the heifers sold at the sale were picked up by Toronto agents for the Bell Rock Cattle Company of Ocala, Florida. They will be taken there for probable cross-breeding with Brahmins, which according to Mr. Brown, are being brought into the southern United States cattle lands.

New Landing Ship Sinks, 3 Drown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U. S. Army's newest and largest amphibious cargo vehicle — the BARC — sank Tuesday night and all three crew members were drowned, the army said today.

The craft, completed only last September and still under test, went down about 20 miles south of here while it was being towed by a tug.

The BARC (barge, amphibious, resupply cargo) was the successor to the Second World War DUKW—an amphibian which took supplies directly from offshore to inland depot.

The BARC, many times larger, was designed to carry up to 100 tons in emergency. It was 61 feet long, 27½ feet wide, and 15 feet high. It moved on the largest tires ever built commercially—almost 10 feet high. Each wheel was powered by a 165-horsepower diesel engine.

Afloat, the BARC was driven by two propellers in its stern. Each screw was powered by two of the same engines which supplied power to the wheels.

Expect Rush For Lindsay Final

LINDSAY (ENS)—Another mad rush for tickets is expected tonight when the precious pasteboards go on sale for the opening game of the OHA intermediate regional final series between Lindsay Muskies and Gananoque Gans.

The Gans, who played in the semi-pro Canadian-American League all season, then dropped into intermediate for the playdowns, are the team that knocked the Muskies out of the race last year. They are reported weaker, however, through loss of three of the stars of that team, while the Muskies have improved a great deal over last year and are, since their comeback, in their final series with Port Hope, playing their best hockey of the year.

The first game of the series goes at the Lindsay Kiwanis Arena Thursday night. Second game is in Gananoque Saturday.

Couple Fined For Being Drunk

A Havelock couple were stiffly fined in Magistrate's Court today when they appeared to answer to drunk charges laid Tuesday by city police.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ellis received fines totalling $35 and costs of $5 when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, told Magistrate W. Russell Philp they were found "quite drunk" parked in the city's south end. With them were their two children aged 1½ years and one month.

One child was at the feet of the mother when found, and when instructed to pick the child up off the car's floor, she did so by the infant's heels, the crown attorney said.

The couple were given until next Monday to pay their fines. If they fail Mrs. Ellis faces 15 days in jail and her husband, one month.

Duke Appears As Field Marshal

SOTAU, Germany (AP) — Duke of Edinburgh made his first public appearance in the uniform of a field marshal today.

The Duke, who is visiting the British and Canadian forces in Germany, wore a khaki battle dress and the red hat and cape of a field marshal.

He was recently promoted to this rank by the Queen, his wife. A naval officer, the Duke has not worn an army uniform before. He seemed slightly uncomfortable in the unfamiliar heavy battle dress.

But although his hat was set at a jaunty naval angle the Duke gave the correct army salute, palm outward, showing that he must have had a little training to break him off his long time habit of saluting in the naval style, palm downward.

The Duke today joined tank exercises being put on for his benefit. He trained a 20-pound tank gun on a target 1,000 yards away and demolished it with three clean hits. The major who had given him brief gunnery instructions commented that he was a "very apt pupil."

Peru, Ecuador Bicker Over Ambassadors

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Peru recalled its ambassador from neighboring Ecuador today after the Quito government declared him unwelcome because he wouldn't go to official parties. The Peruvian envoy said the Ecuadoreans cold-shouldered his shindig first.

Warning that Peru will not "permit any affront hurting her national dignity," the government announced it would not send a new envoy to Quito to replace the ousted Gonzalo Aramburu while a "climate of hostility" toward Peruvians continued in Ecuador.

The dispute followed a long, festering quarrel between the two countries over rival claims to border territories.

Driver Admits Two Charges, Fined $53 Total

Pleading guilty to charges of careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident, William Bronson of RR 2, Peterborough, was fined a total of $45 and $8. costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp today.

A third charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident was dismissed when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, offered no evidence.

The charges arose from an accident March 13 at Stewart St. and Park Hill Rd. Investigating Constable William A. Scott told the court he found a truck on the west side of Stewart facing north with its right rear fender severely damaged. Pieces of broken reflector and flakes of green paint were at the scene.

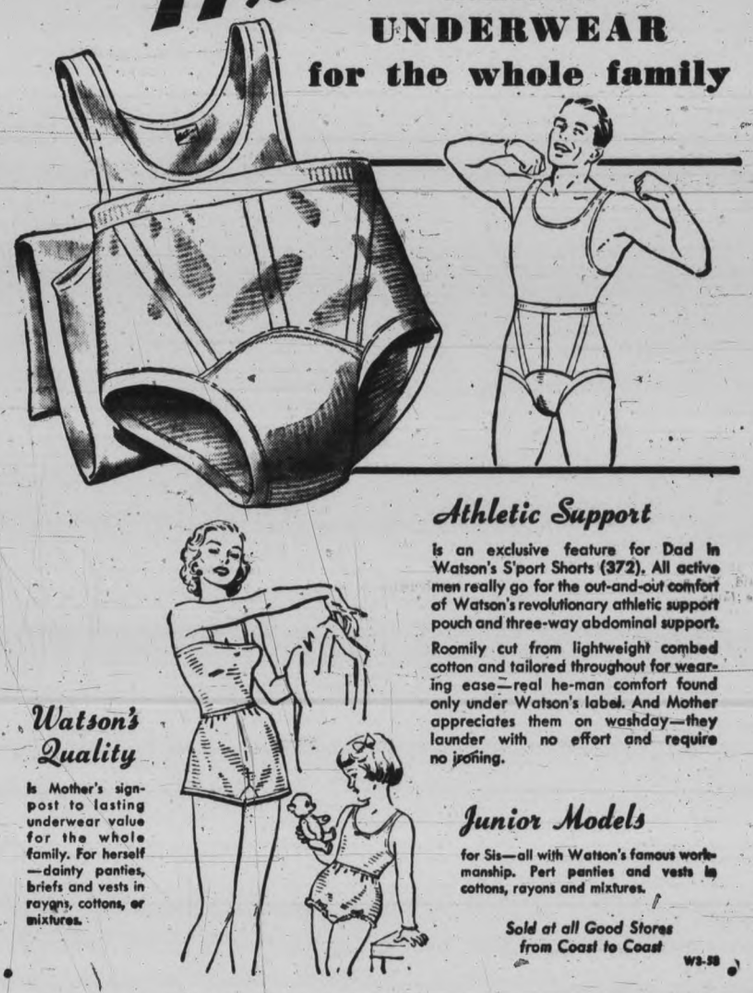
From information received, he proceeded to the home of Bronson and found the paint and glass matched broken glass and scratched paint on Bronson's car. At the time, the accused denied being in an accident but admitted having consumed some beer earlier in the night.

In court, Bronson told the magistrate "I don't think I have anything to say."

He was fined $10 and $5.50 costs on the careless driving count and $35 and $2.50 costs on the charge of leaving the scene of an accident. The latter charge carries an automatic licence suspension by the department upon conviction.

Lakefield Red Cross Campaign Over Top

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—With a couple of canvassers still to be heard from, the Lakefield Red Cross campaign for funds has now reached $1,425. This is $225 over the objective of $1,200.



Campaign chairman Albert G. Buchanan received the following wire on Monday from Stanley H. Young, chairman of the Ontario division, campaign committee: "The complete success of your canvass is encouraging us. Please convey my heartiest congratulations and wishes to everyone who took part in your campaign."

Lakefield's campaign this year was conducted in blitz fashion and required many more canvassers than in previous years as it was completed in three hours. Pre-canvass publicity was carried out by means of press, radio and posters and canvassers were supplied with detailed maps of the territory they were to cover. About 52 canvassers took part.

Some Observations For Book Week

We are in the middle of what used to be called Canadian Book Week, but which is now Book Week in Canada. The change in name is significant. Canadian books used to be the orphans, the waifs of the bookshops and libraries, and the pleas which were made on their behalf sometimes had little to do with the merit of the books themselves. They were Canadian, and therefore they had to be supported and upheld, like some of our feebler industries, in the face of expert and attractive goods from elsewhere. But those days have gone. Canadian books now sell on their merits. If they are good, Canadians buy them, and if they are bad they languish on the shelves.

* * *

There is a lively dispute about the Canadian character, which has been going on since the end of the war, and in which Bruce Hutchison and Professor Lower may be said to lead the two opposed factions. Mr. Hutchison proclaims that Canadians are a wonderful, colourful, magnificent people, to whom all things are possible: Professor Lower says that we are a nation of cautious second-bests. It is unlikely that either point of view will ever meet with any overwhelming, conclusive acceptance. But whichever way the wind blows, Canadian literature will do much of the blowing. A nation's books are powerful elements in forming the nation's opinion of itself. What the English think about themselves is to a surprising degree what English poets and novelists and dramatists have taught them to think. The Englishman can see something of himself in Henry V, or Tom Jones, or even in Mr. Pecksniff. In time the Canadian will be able to do the same; his national literature will have given him a springboard from which he can plunge into his reflections about himself and his fellow-countrymen. If you have any doubt about this, ask a few ex-servicemen what they found in Earl Birney's Turvey; ask any newspaper editor if he has not met Sarah Binks; ask anyone who has lived in an Ontario village if he does not know a dozen people in Leacock's Sunshine Sketches.

* * *

We are not a nation of avid readers, but this is not to say that we shall never be so. Britain, which is now one of the greatest reading nations in the world, was one of the most indifferent a century ago, even though that was a great period of her literature. The tastes of nations change rapidly in this matter, and it is not impossible that by the year 1999 Canadians will be as greedy for books as the Norwegians or the Dutch. We have a flourishing, though still small, group of publishers in this country who annually bring out a considerable number of Canadian books, and their numbers and their output will almost certainly grow, as the population of Canada is growing.

* * *

An attempt is being made at present to increase the degree of censorship which exists in Canada, regarding books and periodicals. We have already made it clear in these columns that we have no sympathy with this movement. We firmly believe that good books drive out bad, and that the remedy for whatever traffic exists now in publications of dubious moral quality lies in the homes and schools of Canada. A people which has been encouraged to develop a taste for what is good in reading will have little appetite for what is bad. The proponents of censorship are not people who are interested in literature; they confess at every turn that they read little; but they are interested in smut, and they want to drive it out of the country. They will never succeed completely, for smut is as much a part of human nature as cruelty or untruthfulness; but they may do much to discourage it by encouraging its opposite. Readers who appreciate fine books will never be content with merely smutty ones.

* * *

National character and national taste —these, rather than a collection of the latest volumes by Canadian writers—are the themes of Book Week in Canada. Our country has embarked upon a great adventure which has already carried us into a position of importance in the free world. Part of that adventure is the development of the thought and imagination which flower in a national literature. The gardens in our country bloom late in the season, but when they do, they are as beautiful as any in the world. May it be so with our Canadian literature.

What Makes Tito Tito?

The state visit of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia is a strange and wonderful event. A child of poverty, an apprentice locksmith, a ruthless revolutionary, a convicted Communist, and the ouster of his country's king, dines at Buckingham Palace with the Queen and her chief Minister of State. What is the world coming to? It is not coming to anything; it is evolving as Tito is evolving. If it is moving at all it is moving away, away from the spectre of world war and world communism, even as Tito takes food at the Palace.

Tito is a Communist, but an unusual one. Only three men have carried out a successful Communist revolution unaided, and they were all unusual,—monolithic, if you admit that abused word. They were Lenin, Mao Tse-Tung and Tito. All the rest depended on Soviet bayonets.

Tito and Mao received almost no help from Stalin, although they both aped and admired him at one time. There was no rupture between Mao and Stalin —Mao's supreme power came to him in Stalin's declining years. Tito reached power, and became a national hero and liberator during the last war. He carried out his revolution despite and against the advice of Stalin. After it he was in no mood to grovel before Russian Communist czars. He deviated on Yugoslav nationalist lines—and behind his own lines of friends and comrades. In 1948 the defiance of Stalin was complete.

Tito triumphed, though Yugoslavia was weak, the U.S.S.R. strong. In all other satellite countries, the Communist bosses held their sway at the pleasure of the Kremlin. Tito held his because he had lead the Yugoslav communists not through a bureaucratic machine oiled by distrust and purged blood, but through trust and comradeship and his own personal force. It has been said that Tito is the only important Communist in the history of the movement who has kept his friends.

In his and Yugoslavia's year of crisis, 1948, Tito was thus able to take his fellow-Communists with him out of the Russian hegemony and to veer towards the West from which he must now get his external support. Today, and seeing a western country for the first time in his sixty-one years, Tito is demonstrating that political wisdom is couched with his bravery. His evolution is a spring-time hope that the final end of the human estate need be neither world atomic war or world communism.

Trade Not Aid

For nearly all its days the United States has been a protectionist country and the Republican party the most consistent raiser of tariff walls to protect American industry. A change of attitude is now evident in the United States and in the Republican party.

The Detroit Chamber of Commerce, the American Chamber of Commerce, various trade associations and Mr. Henry Ford II, have been demanding not only the reform of the American tariff but its eventual abolition. Big business now favours reductions of tariffs. Their firms are so great and productive that they need not fear competition from any quarter of the world. Indeed, they need more outside markets, free markets. They cannot expect to get these if the U.S. continues to put a tariff wall around itself.

Some sections of the Republican party see reason and advantage in this policy of a more liberal tariff structure, President Eisenhower among them. So Mr. Churchill and Mr. Butler are not talking to deaf ears when they ask for trade, not aid. However, smaller businesses and conservative minds are still avaricious for protection and opposed to tariff reforms. Reforms will not come quickly, nor without strong leadership from the White House.

Building A City

A couple of farm houses, some gardens, a lot of scrub, fields and bramble now occupy the two thousand acres. But soon all will be changed. A town—a city—to house 32,000 people will rise on the land. There will be as many as nine industries. There will be apartment blocks, schools, theatres, shops, medical clinics. There will be paved streets. A city is, in fact, to be created out of nothing but empty land.

Is this a new industrial development in Siberia, a new Deep River beside a Chalk River in Canada? Is it a great new military concentration? No. All this is to take place just outside Toronto, and may become part of Toronto. The name of the new town will be Don Mills, and it is not being built by the government or the army or for nuclear physicists, but for ordinary business and domestic life by a private firm. The plans call for a possible total expenditure of two hundred million dollars, in six years or so.

It is indeed a new age. Cities used to grow. Now they can be instant creations. It is urban man's twentieth century Genesis.

NOTE AND COMMENTS

A man of 65 is in the news for breaking a leg while trying to put his big toe in his mouth. Strange: rather late for first childhood, and rather early for second.

Brandy And Ginger Ale

By RAWLE KNOX (in Singapore)

THERE are no places so extensively boring as rubber estates, and few men, in Malaya at any rate, so unpredictable as the planters who manage them.

You may find a planter who takes a bottle of whisky to bed with him every night; and one who stays up all night with a rifle on his knees while he goes over his stamp collection. There are several who will gladly drive a hundred terrorist-ridden miles every Saturday to get a game of Rugby football; and others who, are connoisseurs of Chinese procelain.

I can think of one who, caught without his gun during a terrorist attack, read a Greek testament under fire until the police finally relieved him; and there is of course the now famous planter's family which drove through a full-scale ambush, mother and father returning the enemy fire, while their twelve-year-old son drove the armoured car.

THE ten thousand acres of this particular estate were as lonely as a petrified forest. The tappers had finished their morning's work, and during a drive that showed signs of being endless we saw only four or five of them, carrying great pailfuls of white latex off to the nearest smokehouse. They stared at the jeep in some disdain.

At last, with surprising suddenness, we broke out of the green gloom, upwards into the clearing where stood the dominating white house on the hill.

❖ ❖ ❖

CLEARLY the man who lived there was not burdened by fear. Down in the estate, the coolie lines and the bungalows of the European assistants had been heavily wired in, with floodlights to search out the dangers of the night. Here, loftily above everything, the house of the manager stood unprotected.

He was a tall man who looked as though he could ride and drink hard. Silky fair hair curled down to the base of his neck. He welcomed us in with conventional words of cheer and recommended a brandy and ginger ale.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE army colonel and the police superintendent—both in charge of local forces—and myself had been invited to lunch. It was too soon after one of Malaya's many feast days. The superintendent was looking too white, the colonel too red; I was not disposed to be conversational.

"Wong!" shouted the planter. "Wong!"

A Chinese girl of about five appeared round a crimson screen.

"Two beers", said the planter.

The child said, "Ha!" and disappeared. The planter took off his shoes, to relieve, he said, his feelings.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE airy, ground floor rooms opened out into one another with cool graciousness. The abundant chinoiserie did not overcrowd; it was peaceful and significant. The eighteenth-century English engravings, framed in black and gold lacquer, were perfectly in place.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE planter called for gin, and urged his guests to drink with honest abandon.

"What is the instant of pouring gin in the infinity of time?" he boomed, waving his glass aloft in mock passion. "We drink, we are mortal, we pass away and are of no account to anyone. There is no good and no evil. For God's sake, pour yourself a decent gin."

"I am desolate," he said a little later and in calmer tones. "I must appear in court tomorrow, Sandy"—he addressed the superintendent—"I shall turn up at ten o'clock; it seems a good hour. What is the charge?"

"Causing hurt through negligence, sir," (The superintendent always called the planter, "sir.") "But I think we'll get the charge reduced."

"I knocked a trishaw (Motor-driven three-wheeled rickshaw) rider about five miles," said the planter, aggrieved. "It wasn't my fault at all, and I offered to pay for the trishaw. What car shall I go to court in, the Rolls or the Allard?" He mentioned two of his four cars.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE colonel and the superintendent tried to steer the conversation on to safer ground. The colonel had about two companies of regular troops on the estate, and the superintendent over one hundred police. They had heard very often how little the planter thought of the activities of all these men. They talked about a recent party at which the planter, armed with a pair of shears, had cut out the trousers seat of one of his Indian clerks.

❖ ❖ ❖

IT was some drinks later that the planter put the Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 on the gramophone, fortissimo, to relieve every one of the need for any conversation. When it blared to a finish, he put it on again.

I suggested, with difficulty, that local Communists who heard the bourgeois chords echoing across the hills would take fresh heart at this evidence of foreign decadence. I said it would be easier to finish my gin on a Brandenburg Concerto.

The planter sighed a sigh of misunderstanding. But before he could speak there entered a smartly beautiful Chinese girl in short white shorts.

"Food spoil," she said tartly. "You still drink?"

"Marylou," said the planter, "play some music these people will understand. You know where the Bing Crosby records are. If you are capable . . . "

"Wha' 'bou' yourself", said Marylou

❖ ❖ ❖

WHAT might have been a domestic crisis was avoided by the planter going upstairs to bed—on all fours, and we sat down to lunch with Marylou.

"Sorry if food spoil," she said noncommittally. "I coo' all myself. We go' no coo', no houseboy. All run away. No li' coo' tiffin three o'clock."

We did not see our host again, but said goodbye to Marylou before four o'clock and plunged down from the sunny hilltop into the sleeping twilight of the rubber trees.

We drove once more through the estate which had for nearly five years never been free of vicious terrorist attacks, and which throughout that time had maintained one of the best production records in the country. Until very recently the army and police had never had enough men to spare to protect it even adequately.

In Malaya the pioneers who are remembered were none of them ordinary men; and you can see that there are all sorts there still.

Literary Potpourri

By JULIE BOUDER

NEW books for review today have an international flavour. There is a collection of English essays, a tale of ten years in Africa written by a German, a study of the poetry of language by an Indian scholar, a new translation of some old French poems and a survey of ballet from Denmark to Australia. We shall look at them in that order.

The Vagrant Mood by W. Somerset Maugham.

THIS is the first book of essays by England's best-known living writer, recently published exactly fifty-five years after the publication of his first novel. In the years between, Somerset Maugham has enriched English literature with a steady progression of witty and sometimes brilliant plays, novels of which at least two (Of Human Bondage and The Moon and Sixpence) are among our finest pieces of modern fiction, and an imposing array of unforgettable short stories. All of these he written with superb style; it has not deteriorated with the passage of time.

The six essays of The Vagrant Mood wander from Augustus Hare to Elizabeth and Her German Garden, touching on detective stories, Kant, Edmund Burke and the seventeenth-century painter, Zurbaran, as they go. With the possible exception of the last-named, they are of general interest.

The book begins with a picture of life in an English country home at the end of the nineteenth century. Augustus Hare, well-born but not wealthy Victorian gentleman, indefatigable traveller and writer of voluminous journals and travel books, by careful planning had given to rather less than forty acres the air of a great park; and by judiciously nurturing good connections, to himself the air of an aristocrat. The 'haut monde' was high-minded in those days and Augustus is a trifle tiresome, but in this character sketch of him the author has drawn for us a far from tiresome picture of a particular part of English life. Sitz baths by the bedroom fire, sketching parties, formidable meals; port after dinner and a game of Halma after port; talk of art and travel; inflexible etiquette; piety and religiosity and snobbery that was a reduction to the absurd—all the richness of the era is suggested in this skilfully drawn vignette. The genealogy of the Hares plods like the tortoise; otherwise Augustus is delightful reading.

The essay on Kant bears the title "Reflections On A Certain Book.". The "certain book" is the Critique of the Power of Judgement, and deals with aesthetics. Maugham, making no pretense of being a philosopher, claims only to know from experience "something of the process of creation." So he examines the ide.. of the Beautiful as might any thoughtful person who has not made a profound study of philosophy, but who is concerned with questions of taste and final standards of judgement. It has been our experience that many people, who have no qualms about giving an opinion on artistic productions of any kind, cannot be pinned down to any logical standard. They will not push their thinking past the first problem. They seem to be either lazy or afraid, or both; and they comprise vast numbers of concert-theatre-and-gallery-goers who "don't know much about it, but know what they like." It is the secret hope of this reviewer that, in the belief that Somerset Maugham is always entertaining, they may be led unwittingly into reading his reflections on the intellectual approach to aesthetics. It could be the aperient pill concealed in the spoonful of jam; once swallowed it might relieve complacent minds of some of their sluggishness.

Some Novelists I Have Known is the last part of The Vagrant Mood, and to many readers may be the most enjoyable. The novelists are Henry James, pompous, snobbish Francophile, but amiable and kind, and the antipodal H. G. Wells and Arnold Bennett, neither of whom had any patience with the precious or the pompous; Elizabeth, Lady Russell, whose devastatingly malicious remarks belied her innocent face; and Edith Wharton. The list of the impeccable Mrs. Wharton's virtues dizzied us. We were relieved to read the last line—"She was an admirable creature, but not my cup of tea."

So much space has been given to The Vagrant Mood because we feel that it is a book to give reading pleasure to a great many people. It is full, particularly the first and last essays, of entertaining anecdote; and as anyone knows who has read a book by Somerset Maugham, at relating anecdotes he is unsurpassed. Highly readable, and highly recommended.

African Jungle Doctor by Werner Junge.

THIS is a story of a German doctor's ten years in Liberia, first in Bolahun where he established a mission hospital in the jungle, and later on the coast. It is a tale of hardship, and of endurance and courage against heavy odds. A belief in magic pervades the entire life of the African native, and no amount of European logic or persuasion avails against it; the German doctor learned the hard way to make magic his ally in the battle against disease. For ingenuity in meeting delicate situations he must have few rivals.

To people educated from infancy in hygiene it is a shock to read of operations being performed in fly-filled rooms alive with insects; nevertheless Dr. Junge seems to have been successful in reducing disease and suffering at a remarkable rate. For the treatment of yaws he and his native-boy nurses, only one of whom could read and write (one other could read numbers and so became the temperature expert), set up an assembly line, and often passed over a thousand patients a day through it in addition to other treatments and surgery. (We shall meditate upon this, when next we wait an hour for a blood pressure check.)

As well as the adventure of the fight against disease, there are plenty of exciting incidents, including a blood-curdling encounter with the most feared animal life in the jungle—the ants. "They devour only the living, but without discrimination, and to the bone."

The candid narrative runs along smoothly in a quietly humorous style, a little low in key for such high adventure, but pleasing and easy to read. People who have a special interest in the Dark Continent or those who like travel books in general should enjoy it.

The Poetic Approach To Language by V. K. Gokak.

AFTER taking a first class Honours degree in English Literature at Oxford University, V. K. Gokak returned to his native India, where he is Principal of Rajaran College. This book on language follows the publication of a book of poems, The Song of Life, both written in English. It is for the specialist whose interest in language goes beyond primary studies in semantics and philology, but parts of it can be read with profit by the general reader with a relish for words and their history. The chapters on primitive language, slang, and dialects, as well as those on proper names, coinages and quintessential words are recommended to the latter. It is a book for concentration and study, worthy of both from a reader who wishes to learn.

Les Fleurs Du Mal by Charles Baudelaire. Translated by Roy Campbell.

WHAT a joy to find! This is a first-rate English version of the classic Flowers of Evil. In fact it is one of the finest translations of anything, in either verse or prose, that we have seen, and could stand as an example to translators. But then, translators do not need examples only; they need, as well as their special knowledge, the gift of the gods that is art. Mr. Roy Campbell has it. He has made a literal translation without once sacrificing the feel, the colour, the very odour of the original. He has not overreached himself for rhyme, and has kept to the French form, breaking rhythms and running over-lines where Baudelaire did.

It is interesting to speculate on the reason for the almost predictable appearances of new translations of these one hundred and fifty-one short poems. Whether it is the fascination of the macabre, the violent, the diseased exalted in them, or simply their sensual beauty, or the challenge their interpretation in another language presents, the fact remains that they continue to attract scholars.

If a primrose by a river's brim is your favorite flower, avoid Baudelaire in any language. His Fleurs Du Mal are night-blooming flowers, and they still give off a heady scent.

The Ballet Annual. Edited by Arnold L. Haskell.

THE seventh Year Book of ballet, expanded and enlarged to meet the surge of interest in the art. It contains a symposium of opinion on the state of the ballet by a dozen or more authorities, and check lists of productions by all the great companies. There are reports not only from English, French and American groups, but from the newer ones in Denmark, Australia, and Chile; and Celia Franca contributes a note on the founding of our own National Ballet Company of Canada.

This is a handsome book to hold, presented in beautiful type on fine paper and generously illustrated with pictures by leading photographers of ballet. The color photograph of Beryl Grey which makes the frontispiece is repeated on a scarlet dust jacket. A book for ballet lovers anywhere.

All books reviewed today are available at the Peterborough Public Library.

Imprisoned

AMONG other archaic provisions retained in the revision of Canada's Criminal Code is the jail sentence as alternative to the payment of fines. The penalty of a fine may often be appropriate, but while it is not likely to bother the well-to-do, it is frequently beyond the current means of less fortunate citizens. Many offenders get their first experience of jail because they cannot pay fines, and not infrequently the attitudes and connections they form there lead them into further trouble. This feature of the law may yet be changed, if the House of Commons committee now studying the revised Code adopts a recommendation made by the Canadian Welfare Council.

It may be argued that discrimination against the poor will occur only if the court permits, and that there is wisdom in permitting judicial discretion to impose a jail sentence, levy a fine, or offer a choice. Perhaps with the value of this flexibility in mind, the Canadian Welfare Council suggests simply that provision be made for paying fines by instalment. Britain has found this arrangement very satisfactory.

In the five years before 1913, about 83,000 persons were jailed annually in England and Wales for default in payment of fines. The Criminal Justice Administration Act of 1914 obliged the courts to give time for payment and for investigation of ability to pay. In the five years ending in 1930, the average number of these defaulters jailed was only about 12,500. It reached 16,500 in 1935, during the depression, but fell to 11,600 in 1936, when the Money Payments Act provided that no one could be imprisoned for non-payment of a fine unless ability to pay could be shown.

In Canada, statistics for 1936 record that 9,593 persons were sentenced to jail with the option of a fine; the number was 18,787 in 1946 and 12,600 in 1948. How many actually served sentences is not shown. But the public cost and social damage of this penalty must be great. Before the war, the Archambault Commission recommended against "imprisonment for poverty" and advocated the English policy. It said that "many recidivist criminals often receive their first education in crime upon being committed to prison for non-payment of fines." The time for reform in this matter seems to have arrived.

Character Of People Factor In Canadian Achievement

NEW YORK (CP) — One of the greatest factors in Canada's achievements is the character of her people, James S. Duncan of Toronto, chairman and president of Massey-Harris Company, Limited, said in Town Hall Tuesday.

Duncan spoke of Canadians to the big New York forum of industrial and business executives as "a people who are but one or two generations removed from the virgin soil, and who have preserved something of the wholesomeness of it, and who have inherited from their pioneering ancestors a great capacity for hard work and dedication."

Duncan was one of four leaders in Canadian government and industry who spoke at Town Hall on a panel on Canada's resources and economic development. It was the third session of the six-week forum devoted to "Canada—Nation on the March."

OTHER RESOURCES

Other speakers were Resources Minister Robert H. Winters, whose topic was the Dominion's general resources; Ralph P. Bell of Halifax, president of National Sea Products Ltd., who spoke on the fisheries; and John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Lake Centre, who spoke on agriculture.

Paris-born Duncan, who described himself as a Canadian by deliberate choice, said the underlying reasons for Canada's sustained surge of growth are the physical environment and political climate of Canada itself, and the character of her people.

Winters, who outlined Canada's resources, told of one innovation "that may have far-reaching effects on industry in North America, and possibly the world over."

He said the Canadian Pulp and Paper Research Institute has come up with "a revolutionary development—striking improvements in the processes of making chemical pulps."

Such changes might be used to reduce wood consumption in some cases up to 50 per cent and "we now will be able to use more completely several tree species which are in abundant supply and which have hitherto been largely wasted."

The minister did not go into details.

Need Continuity In Developing Nation: Lowes

TORONTO (CP)—A sense of continuity is essential in the development of nationhood, historian Arthur R. M. Lower said Tuesday.

"If you haven't any hindsight you may not have much foresight," he told a group of 600 writers and others at a luncheon held as a feature of Book Week in Canada.

Prof. Lower, who heads the history department at Queen's University, is best known for "Colony to Nation," an economic and social history of Canada, and "Canada: Nation and Neighbor."

He said it has been difficult for the average Canadian to form any conception of his country's past because Canada is a nation of diversity and movement. But in the last 30 years a body of sound historical writing had developed and was still developing. He urged his hearers to remember that in the Canadian tradition there is a side other than the English side—that the French tradition is deep and rich. He was proud that in some degree he had "managed to labor in both sides of the house."

COSTAIN SPEAKS

Other speakers were Thomas B. Costain, formerly of Brantford, author of the current best-seller "The Silver Chalice," and Mrs. Grace Campbell, Montreal novelist.

Mr. Costain, who has written many popular historical novels, told how the idea for "The Silver Chalice" came to him 30-odd years ago when he was a magazine editor. In 1910 a chalice had been discovered under the ruins of Antioch which roused speculation as to whether it was in fact the Holy Grail. In reading proof on an article about the find he felt a book-length story should be woven around it. Many years later he himself turned to fiction writing. But he had produced nine books before he felt ready to write the story of the chalice.

Nothing could give a writer a warmer feeling than a sense of recognition in his own land, Mr. Costain said. Writers were normal people with normal ambitions and normal needs.

Mrs. Campbell said people are so avid for life they can't get enough of it in the normal way. Fiction supplies an added slice of life, cut differently.

Ontario Asks BC Return Maxville Murder Suspect

TORONTO (CP)—The province of Ontario has applied to British Columbia for the return of 35-year-old Henry Seguin to face trial in connection with the robbery-slaying last August of a Maxville, Ont., taxi driver.

Deputy attorney-general C. R. Magone said Tuesday Ontario filed its application with the B.C. attorney-general's department "some days ago."

Seguin was convicted in December at Williams Lake, B.C., on a charge of wounding bank manager Leonard Hillier during an attempted holdup. A five-year prison sentence was increased to 20 years by the B.C. Appeal Court Monday.

Ontario provincial police say an army discharge certificate bearing Seguin's name was found in an automobile containing the bullet-riddled body of Leonard Hurd, Maxville garage and taxi operator. Hurd had been shot five times in the head and chest.

Inspector Wilfred Frank of the Ontario provincial police said the province will have to apply to the federal government to have Seguin brought here.

"Once he enters prison he will be out of the hands of the B.C. authorities," he said. "The reason we were not able to get him brought here before was because the B.C. provincial authorities were appealing his sentence."

He also said it is understood that "when the B.C. authorities are through with him we will be able to have him brought here."

Jury Clears Conductor In Streetcar Death

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury Tuesday night said the death of Manly Kirk, 33, of Wiarton in a Toronto street car accident Jan. 28 was accidental. The jury attached no blame to the street car driver, Sydney Mathers.

Kirk was struck by a street car as he attempted to cross Bay street at Dundas street. He was reported to have run behind a southbound car into the path of the car Mathers was driving north. He died two days after the accident of a fractured skull, cuts and concussion.

Fired At 'Ghosts' Watchman Freed

COOKSVILLE (CP)—The case of the sheetless ghost threw magistrate's court into an uproar Tuesday and ended in dismissal of a charge of assault, causing bodily harm, against Henry Perelte, 70-year-old watchman.

Perelte was charged following the wounding of Jack Perdue Feb. 19 when Perdue and two companions, Jack Adams and Tobias Hubbard appeared outside Perelte's trailer dressed as ghosts.

Adams testified he had supplied the sheets, adding that the haunting expedition was intended as a joke to test the watchman's superstitious beliefs.

Warned by a frozen piece of earth tossed at his trailer, Perelte confronted the ghosts armed with a shotgun. When the trio started whooping it up in ghostly fashion, the watchman pulled the trigger.

In the excitement Perdue lost his sheet and stopped some of the shotgun pellets. He was in hospital for two weeks.

Asked by Crown Attorney A. G. Davis why he didn't let Perelte know who he was, Perdue replied: "Gnosts aren't supposed to talk."

Child Drowns In River

GUELPH (CP)—Bonnie Johnston, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnston, RR5, Guelph, was drowned Tuesday in the Speed river, 200 feet from her home. Mr. Johnston said Bonnie and her sister, Mary Lou, 5, wandered toward the river while playing. He said he heard the screams of the elder daughter and ran to the scene. However, the little girl was carried about 150 yards downstream before her father could drag her out. Artificial respiration failed to revive Bonnie.

Study Flammable Fabrics To Stop Danger Of Fires

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Flammable fabrics and what should be done about them will be considered shortly at a meeting between representatives of the Canadian Retail Federation and the Canadian Association of Consumers.

The current bulletin of the federation says the consumers' association is asking co-operation of retailers in minimizing the danger—particularly to women and children—of "flash fires resulting from garments and other materials which are readily flammable."

The federation asks member companies to send in their "comments and experience."

Another item in the federation's bulletin says:

"Considerable concern is felt among retailers selling appliances regarding the budget provision to allot revenue from excise taxes on radios and television sets as Canadian Broadcasting Corporation revenue.

"Retail thinking, as reflected in federation policy, has always been to oppose the maintenance of special excise taxes except in times of serious emergency. Possibility that excise taxes on radios and television sets may become permanent, as a result of the budget action, is discouraging from the retail standpoint. The subject will be considered when the federations' board of directors meets in Toronto April 8."

Two scheduled conventions of retailers are:

Canadian Restaurant Association in Toronto March 23-25, which will include 265 exhibits ranging through food, equipment and restaurant services; and Canadian Association of Radio and Appliance Dealers in Toronto April 12-15.

John Labatt, Ltd., announcing establishment of a $1,000 scholarship in the business administration post-graduate course at the University of Western Ontario, says:

"The phenomenal growth of Canada will put a premium on Canadian-trained executives a few years hence. The scholarship is an investment in the availability of men equipped to provide the kind of industrial and community leadership we need."

New industries item: Dominion Magnesium, Ltd., formed 12 years ago reports that it now employs 750 people in three plants at Haley, Ont., and that another plant will open at Beauharnois, Que., this month. Magnesium is one of the "light metals" which promises to make a big place for itself in this age of jet speed.

Wall Street Journal says aluminum stockpiling will be stepped up by the United States government despite opposition from American aluminum producers. The Journal adds:

"Though stockpiling figures are secret, it was learned that top mobilization officials want 'progressive acceleration' in the rate of aluminum deliveries to the government's strategic board."

Nixon Urges Franchise, Liquor For Indians

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial government was urged Tuesday to give Indians a vote in provincial elections and permission to drink in beverage rooms.

Harry Nixon, Liberal member from Brant, said the Six Nations tribe near Brantford has petitioned for the right to enter beverage rooms.

Indians can vote only if they are veterans, although they are entitled to cast ballots in federal elections if they apply for enfranchisement.

Oshawa Central Wins 50-30 Take 20-Point Lead For Title

Oshawa Central Collegiate bantams quickly took advantage of a tired Kenner Collegiate quintet Tuesday night in the fourth quarter to take a 20-point lead in the first of a two-game series for the lakeshore championship. The Kenner Rams, after staying within four points throughout the game faltered in the fourth, losing 50-30. The return game will be Friday at Kenner at 6:30 p.m.

In an exhibition game the Kenner midgets like the bantams lost to Oshawa Central juniors 49-39 in a fourth quarter barrage.

The Kenner Rams, who carry the school's hopes for its first championship, were down 9-8 in the first quarter and 23-20 at half time. Oshawa still had a slim margin at three-quarters, 32-28.

But the fourth proved fatal for the Rams. The large Oshawa floor, coupled with the long layoff and lengthy road trip, began to tire the Rams. Central quickly took advantage to run up the 20-point lead.

Koloozie for Oshawa topped the scorers with 18 points, followed up by Olynik with 12. Drury was the Rams' best with eight.

In the exhibition game the lead changed back and forth throughout the first three-quarters. Kenner took a 7-6 score in the first quarter but faded at the half 13-10. But they regained the lead in the third 28-27, only to have Central walk away in the fourth with a 22-point spree.

Victor and Chasczewski shared the top scoring honors with 11 points each while Malby and Floyd were Kenner's best with eight each.

Lineups:

Bantam, Central (50)—Vaughan 2, Thomas, Kaloozie 16, Payne, Olynik 12, Goodall 4, Voege 10, Radkowski 6, Horton.

Kenner (30—Scharf 4, Drury 8, Montgomery 2, Hollingworth 5, Chesney 6, Ballantyne 5, Faulkner, Reid, Stevens, Hotston, Parnell, Corner.

Exhibition, Central (49) — Brady, Williams 4, Wrudel 5, Kocho, Victor 11, Cheski 6, Chasczewski 11, Worsley, Murray, Planeta 6, Gatchell 6, Turner.

Kenner (39) — Pearl 2, McKinney 5, Linsey 3, Frise 1, Ball, Ward 4, Malby 8, Floyd 8, DeGroot 2, Allen 6, Dixon, Hancock, Burns.

Perini Hopeful Of Approval To Shift Braves

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The Boston-to-Milwaukee franchise shift hung in the balance today as the National League and American Association scheduled meetings to vote on the transfer.

Owner Lou Perini was confident he would get approval to move his Braves into the minor league territory where he already operates a farm club.

"Somebody has to tell me why it isn't a good move," he said. "If they can show me it would be detrimental to baseball, I'll go along. But I won't be put off by any talk about this being too late to move.

"I'm apologetic about the timing. I'm sorry about it. But this is an entirely different proposition than Bill Veeck moving from St. Louis to Baltimore. I own both franchises. There is no chance of legal entanglements.

INEVITABLE

"I'm sick of pounding my head against a stone wall. This is no sudden thing. I've known for two years it was inevitable, Boston simply is not a two-club city."

Perini said he got in touch with all National League owners, except Phil Wrigley of Chicago and John Galbreath of Pittsburgh. He said he found no opposition.

However, Veeck thought he had seven clubs on his side in his attempt to move the Browns to Baltimore. When he was defeated Monday, 5-2, he had only the votes of Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox.

In the National League, a unanimous vote is necessary to approve transfer of a franchise.

Bruce Dudley, American Association president, said it would require a 61 vote, with Milwaukee abstaining, to approve any transfer.

If the American Association should refuse, the National League could "draft" the territory, paying damages to the league.

CARTIER DISQUALIFIED

LONDON (AP)—England's Randy Turpin, former world's middleweight champion, Tuesday night won on a second-round disqualification over Walter Cartier when the referee ruled out the New Yorker for repeated holding.

The scheduled 10-rounder ended with 16 screaming men in the ring and the 18,000 fans in packed Earls Court booing at the top of their lungs.

Only three solid punches—all by Turpin—were struck in the short bout. Referee Tommy Little had warned the 28-year-old Cartier four times for holding in the first round and three times in the second. Cartier clamped Turpin's arms tightly to his side repeatedly while the rugged Briton tried to jerk himself free.

Midway in the second round, the referee pushed Cartier away and raised Turpin's hand, signifying Cartier's disqualification.

This touched off a mad melee. Cartier charged like a wild man into the ropes just above the press row screaming, cursing and kicking. Seconds and others poured into the ring and milled around

This was Randy's first appearance in Earls Court since the memorable July 10, 1951, when the young Negro from Leamington Spa upset Sugar Ray Robinson and won the world's middleweight crown. He lost the title to Robinson in New York two months later.

Turpin weighed 160¾ to Cartier's 159½.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The late Irvin S. Cobb once wrote a book entitled "Thunder of Silence". Strictly fiction at the time, though one character's counterpart came along later to really worry Americans as he drove toward a dictatorship. That was Huey Long, governor of Louisiana. The "Kingfish" had his own handpicked guards and was stepping on a lot of toes till a college chap assassinated him, to the relief of many. Long's goons immediately gunned down the assassin. However, this book dealt with a Yank politician who seemed destined to make the States a dictatorship in time, and thinking people were seriously worried over the situation.

* * * * * *

According to Cobb, a newspaperman got the idea of freezing him completely out of publicity. It took some organizing but papers, news services and radio stations on a country-wide basis agreed as of the following week to make no mention whatsoever of this politician. The strict censorship started slowly but gradually gained momentum and finally snowballed the guy into obscurity. The public at first wondered and made a little fuss, but eventually forgot the whole thing—and the once-powerful politician could find no way to get even a mention of a coming lecture other than possibly a few handbills tacked to posts. He was snubbed absolutely by press and radio. Some time later his body was found floating in a lake and the papers relented a trifle to mention his demise.

* * * * * *

Such A Terrible Thought!

We have heard it said that if organized sports received no publicity at all, (newspaper, radio or TV), athletes in a few years time would be playing in the back lots before a few non-paying spectators. All those sports which depend on paid attendance of fans—and in goodly numbers—to survive would drop out of existence, one by one. They need publicity and fortunately obtain plenty, as athletics are popular with a great many people. Newspapers give and also (to some extent) to help promote healthful recereation. good publicity and coverage to sports because of readers' interest This paper has always been generous with space for games, international, national, city and district.

* * * * * *

It is true that most clubs pay for advertising space in papers but that doesn't entitle them to free publicity. Theatres advertise daily but get no extra writeups. We mention these facts not as a warning to athletic clubs but simply as a reminder that they should advertise when they have sufficient money to do so (some kids' teams just haven't the funds) and also they should co-operate with sportswriters in every way. We're glad to get the sports copy, but we can do without it better than the clubs can. After all, there's enough national copy coming in daily to fill several sports pages. Any alert sports official will well appreciate that the "Thunder of Silence" could sound "taps" for athletics as surely as Gabriel's trumpet will blow "lights out" for all.

Leafs Just On The Verge

This week may mean "lights out" for Toronto Maple Leafs in their desperate scramble for a Stanley Cup playoff berth. It would not seem right to have Leafs left out of this big money series, but Detroit and Canadiens are definitely in, and Boston and Chicago have almost clinched spots. Rangers, of course, are well out of it, and it looks like Leafs need a puck miracle or two to hurdle the Hawks and Bruins. Tonight's tilts may tell the tale. The 24-year-old Gordie Howe of Wings continues to lead the scoring race by a big margin, with 93 points to teammate Ted Lindsay's 70. Richard is third with 60. In just 28 NHL games, Red Sullivan has 11 points which is good for a rookie. For instance, Johnny McCormack of Canadiens in 56 games has but 10 points.

* * * * * *

Not a stir so far on local senior ball prospects. We notice where Belleville had a recent meeting and they're checking into a possible berth in a proposed Border League which would include Kingston, Smiths Falls, Brockville, Watertown, Ogdensburg and Clayton. A Can.-Am. loop, but these teams might hesitate o'er long trips to Belleville. Peterborough is too far away from that setup. Anyway, the Quinte club will affiliate with the OBA and isn't interested in the intermediate Lakeshore League. Indications are that the Petes won't operate in senior ball this year, but a good junior club will represent this city in the Lakeshore Loop. Some of our last year's seniors are retiring this season, anyway.

Smiths Falls Win First Game From St. John

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—Smiths Falls Rideaus won the opening game in the Eastern Canada senior hockey semi-finals Tuesday by defeating Saint John Beavers 4-1. The second game of the best-of-seven Allan Cup series will be played here Thursday night.

The Saint John club, which arrived by train only a few hours before game time, showed the effects of its travels in the first period when it didn't get a single shot on the Smiths Falls net. Rideaus commanded the play through most of the cleanly-played game.

Alf Webster, Stu Smith, Archie Richardson and Red Gravelle scored for the winners while Charlie Knox tallied the lone Saint John goal. Smith, scoring champion in the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League, also got an assist.

The Beavers fought an uphill battle all the way and coach Lew Kiley played 60 minutes on the blue line. Goalie Ron Diguer stopped 44 Rideau scoring attempts while the Smiths Falls goalie, Plumber Craig, handled only 17.

The series between the two teams originally scheduled as a best-of-five-game playoff, was extended to a seven-game series by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association following suspension of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

Veeck Sets Price On Browns' Club

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Bill Veeck, restless president of St. Louis Browns, put a $2,400,000 price tag on his ball club before he started for home "with my right foot forward, my chin out and all set to face the music."

The American League Monday refused to give Veeck permission to move his franchise from St. Louis, where the Browns never have been too popular, to Baltimore.

Now he must return to St. Louis with hopes of placating the St. Louis fans, who have purchased only 1,500 season's tickets for the coming season. This is 15 per cent less than the number bought at this date a year ago and Veeck says his club lost $400,000 in 1952.

Veeck placed the price tag on his club as he packed to return to St. Louis. He admitted he hadn't received a firm offer and added that baseball's bigwigs hadn't asked him to sell. "But," he added, "I know none of them would be unhappy if I did sell."

May Stretch Set To Best-Of-Nine

TORONTO (CP)—The best-of-seven semi-finals between Barrie Flyers and Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series may be lengthened to a best-of-nine series, it was reported Tuesday.

OHA secretary Bill Hanley said that although an extension is possible it can't be settled definitely until it is determined whether the OHA representative will be ready on time for the Northern Ontario-Maritime winner in the Memorial Cup playdowns.

George S. Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the CAHA has no objection to prolonging the series as long as the OHA representative is ready by April 8.

Marlboros and Barrie, tied 2-2 in the present series, both are agreed on an extension.

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champion Porcupine-Timmins Combines now are playing Eastview St. Charles, Ottawa district junior champions, in a best-of-seven series, the winner to meet North Sydney, also in a best-of-seven.

Hawks Near Play-Off Spot With Freshman Coach Abel

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Sid Abel took on his coaching job last fall, they shook their heads sadly and said it couldn't happen to a nicer fellow. Today he has just about led his Chicago Black Hawks out of the National Hockey League wilderness to a playoff berth after eight lean years. The only freshman coach in the NHL needs just one more victory to win his spurs. If he knocks over the Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight, he's in.

Sid followed a long and honorable line of Black Hawks coaches when he ended a 13-year career as a player with Detroit Red Wings to take on the Chicago assignment.

From Ebbie Goodfellow, who served an average term of a year, he inherited a last-place team composed largely of castoffs from other clubs. His ace goalie, Harry Lumley, was traded to Toronto during the summer for the younger Al Rollins and three other players, one of whom never made the Hawks.

BROKE FAST

Mos observers figured his club would be lucky to finish fifth. But Sid's boys broke fast from the barrier, led the league for a couple of months, faded a little in the back stretch and came on handsomely to hold their present third-place tie.

Barring a series of unspeakable calamities this week, the Hawks should retain enough of their six-point margin over the fifth-place Leafs to coast home. And the experts belatedly are recalling that Sid never missed a Stanley Cup series in all his years as a player.

A loss for the Leafs could be fatal. If Boston Bruins whip New York's last-place Rangers tonight, it would leave both Boston and Chicago out of reach. Even if the Rangers down the Bruins, as they have done in seven of their last nine meetings, the best the Leafs could do would be a fourth-place tie.

And if the Leafs defeat the Hawks tonight, they still need help from other clubs, plus a perfect record in their remaining three games, to make the grade.

Barons Nip Bears Pittsburgh Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears are pretty sure of making the American Hockey League playoffs but their entry into the charmed circle has been delayed.

The delaying tactics were provided Tuesday night by Cleveland Barons, the regular season champions, who downed the Bears 5-2.

Hershey still has to fight off a last-minute challenge of St. Louis Flyers who dropped a 7-3 decision to Pittsburgh Hornets.

At Cleveland, the Barons got three goals in the first five minutes, but a Hershey rally cut the Cleveland Margin to a single goal in the second period. Two more Baron goals clinched the game.

Eddie Olson, Frank Kubasek, Ike Hildebrand, Ray Ceresino and Jack Gordon were the Cleveland goal-getters. For the losers, it was Joe Schertzl and Norm Corcoran.

At Pittsburgh, the Hornets, already sure of second place, wrapped up the game by tallying five times in the first period.

Chuck Blair, Willie Marshall and Frank Sullivan got a pair of markers apiece with Bill Ezinicki notching the other. Motto McLean, Steve Hrymnak and Ed Jankowski scored for St. Louis.

Actress Has Breakdown

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Vivien Leigh's studio announced Tuesday that because of an acute nervous breakdown she will not continue with her starring role in the picture "Elephant Walk" now under production. Miss Leigh returned by air from Ceylon, where she had been on location, three weeks ago and was forced to go to bed last Wednesday.

Marmora Loses North TVL Title To Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — Campbellford won the TVL Northern Division championship when they defeated Marmora 5-2 before over 1,800 fans in Belleville Arena Tuesday night.

In the fast first period Blake opened the scoring for Campbellford when he beat Killian at 3:10 on a pass from Herrington. Dorran tied it up at 16:19, and the first period ended a one-all tie.

Wilson picked up the only goal of the second period to give Campbellford a 2-1 lead. Marmora threatened many times in this period, but Ozzie Nelson in the Campbellford goal fended off their attacks time after time.

The third period showed the fastest action of the game, with Craig, Payne and Simpson each tallying for Campbellford, while Loveless got Marmora's only goal of that period.

Campbellford will now meet the winner of the Wellington-Frankford series of the Southern Division to decide the winner of the Thomas Bata Trophy. Frankford and Wellington will play the deciding game of this series on Belleville ice on Wednesday night.

Turk Broda, long-time goalie for Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL, won the Vezina Trophy for the best goal-tender 12 years ago tonight. Complaint On Queen's Toast Irritates Winnipeg Irish WINNIPEG (CP) — Sure and it's enough to set a man downright flamin' on St. Patrick's Day.

That was the retort of doughty Sean MacCourt of the Sons of Ireland Tuesday when a newspaper reporter showed him a copy of the U.S. Congressional Record.

Representative Thomas Lane had read into the report a newspaper account of comments by Thomas Feeney of Lynn, Mass., about how the Winnipeg Irish celebrated St. Patrick's last year.

Feeney was quoted as saying the toast to the Queen was "nauseating."

"What kind of Irish are there up in Canada?" he was quoted as saying. "They seem to be like the conquered country they live in—conquered."

Exploded Mr. MacCourt:

"I'd show the son-of-a-gun if I could get me fist to him. I'd pound him to a frazzle.

"In the first place we are not shoneen (somebody who licks the boots of the English). We are decent Irishmen. We've forgotten the old feuds. We're Canadians—and good Canadians — besides being Irish.

"And what's more we'll go on toasting the Queen."

The Movie Column

Shirley Booth, Gary Cooper Called For Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If Academy awards can be doped like horse races, Shirley Booth and Gary Cooper should be crowned the best actress and actor at Thursday night's Oscar sweepstakes.

On the basis of past performances in other races this year, Cooper and Miss Booth are the heavy favorites. The pair has won more honors in the pre-Academy awards circuit than any other duo in recent years. Usually the awards are scattered among a number of contenders.

So far, the Broadway actress has been honored six times for her performance as the housewife in "Come Back, Little Seba." No other film actress has received more than one award this year.

Cooper, the resolute law enforcer of "High Noon" walked off with five citations.

Closest contender is Ralph Richardson ("Breaking the Sound Barrier"). He won three awards but he isn't nominated for an Oscar this year.

MOST ELABORATE

Thursday night's event will be the most elaborate in the 25-year history of the Motion Picture Academy. Three studios withdrew financial support, and the academy sent out an S O S for a TV-radio sponsor.

RCA-Victor answered the call, plunking down $100,000 for the rights.

This year the academy was faced with an alarming fact—few of the top contenders would be on hand for the awards presentations at the Pantages Theatre.

Among the top actress nominees, Miss Booth is in a New York play. Bette Davis ("The Star") has undergone surgery following the closing of her Broadway show. Julie Harris ("Member of the Wedding") has been touring with a play, but is expected to be in New York. Susan Hayward ("With a Song In My Heart") took off for a European vacation.

Only Joan Crawford ("Sudden Fear") is expected to attend the Hollywood-and-Vine festivities.

Of the male contenders, Cooper is making a film in Mexico, and Kirk Douglas ("The Bad and the Beautiful") is filming in France. Alec Guinness ("The Lavender Hill Mob") is in his native England, and Jose Ferrer ("Moulin Rouge") has been overseeing his theatrical ventures in New York.

Marlon Brando ("Viva Zapata!") is the sole male star nominee making a picture in Hollywood. He hates formal events and says he won't attend.

Tito May Visit U.S.

LONDON (AP)—Informed U.S. sources said Tuesday President Tito of Yugoslavia may be invited to visit the United States as an outgrowth of his current talks with British government leaders. Tito has already indicated he would welcome an invitation to visit the U.S.

Girl, Father Awarded $2,356 For Damages

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Shirley Ann Reybroek, 16, and her father, John Reybroek, were awarded a total of $2,356 in damages Tuesday in a civil action against Lucien Matte.

Miss Reybroek was injured a year ago when a car in which she was a passenger collided with a vehicle driven by Matte near Chatham. Matte did not enter defence against the claim.

The girl was awarded general damages of $2,000 to be paid into court until she is 21 and her father was given $356 for out-of-pocket expenses.

Law Would Exempt Civic Salaries

TORONTO (CP)—City councillors in Ontario will be able to deduct one-third of their civic salaries from taxable income under a bill introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

The bill, an amendment to the Municipal Act, also would extend the powers of municipalities to several fields where they lack jurisdiction at present, including:

1. Right to grant permission for erection of poles and underground conduits for radio and television lines and alarm systems. This means the cities can grant licences for "piped" television broadcasts from a central station.

2. Ability to require insurance for cab operators, truckers and livery stable operators.

3. Right to charge fees for plumbing inspection in homes.

4. Right of veterans under the Veterans' Land Act to run for civic office. Previously, they were considered ineligible because they resided on property technically owned by the government.

Bands, Fireworks Enliven Daily Life In Quaint Taxco

TAXCO. — A noted silver centre, Taxco might be called the town of your dreams. Anything can and does happen here. There are bands and parades at odd hours of the day; fireworks at night for special occasions or no occasion; you hear young men serenading their sweethearts in the early hours of the morning or on a birthday (as happened at 5:30 the other morning) a whole orchestra performs at length. It is always unexpected and full of charm.

* * * *

Hemmed in by rings of the Sierra Madre mountains, the town is built on the mountainsides. There is no organized plan, it just sprawls higgeldy-piggeldy up and down. There are few flat roads here. They not only go up and down, they go straight up and down. Most of them are not even made of regular cobblestone, but of pieces of stone stuck in a type of cement which holds them in place. With those sharp grades, you need those stones to grip with your heels and toes.

* * * *

The streets are very narrow and only on the widest can two cars pass. When my limousine drove up to the hotel it was against one wall. I was beside the door and there was barely room for two donkeys to pass behind me single file.

* * * *

Although it seems impossible, trucks, cars and taxis do get around. However, much of the delivering here is done by donkey. You will see one with a load on his back standing beside his master at the door or gate of a house. They wander all over the place. It keeps you busy dodging motor traffic, donkey traffic quite apart from other scrambling pedestrians.

* * * *

STREET OF SILVERSMITHS

I am just around the corner and two steep hills from the main plaza of the town. Here there is a bandstand with nice benches under some trees, a very pleasant place to laze away a few hours. The biggest church is at one corner of the square and the first street down is the street of the Plateros or Street of the Silversmiths. Here you find shop after shop with silver articles, jewelry and other things. You find both expensive and cheaper articles, but all are only a fraction of what you pay at home, and all are handmade. I got two lovely silver bracelets, one 1½ inches wide and one 3 inches wide for $5 and $7 respectively. I got a dinner ring with a Puebla onyx for 75 cents and a pin for $2.50. Shoppers just go wild when they hit this street. They keep popping from one shop into the next.

* * * *

One of the most delightful things about Taxco is that it is a national monument. All the buildings have been kept in the pattern of colonial times. They are mostly white adobe, with an occasional pale blue or rose one intruding and all have red tile roofs. A group called "The Friends of Taxco" petitioned the federal government some years ago to restrict building styles. An honorary commission was set up, made up of one member of the federal Board of Education, one member of the local government and one private man. Lately they have not been so active but any new buildings must meet the regulations and have to be approved. The result is a setting that resembles colonial times. The sky in Taxco is unusually blue and with the mountain backdrop it is something out of a fairy tale.

* * * *

Saturday and Sunday are the big market days here, so this morning early I climbed half a dozen hills to investigate. The lanes into which the market flows are so narrow that four people abreast take up all the space. Like the other markets, they had a big food section.

THIS IS A TYPICAL street scene in Taxco. Built on the side of a mountain the streets go up and down in any direction, as do the buildings. The narrow cobblestone streets such as this may be hard on the feet but are worth the picturesque effect. Taxco has been declared a national town and all buildings must conform to the old architecture. —(Cia Mexicana de Aviacion Photo)

FORESTRY EXHIBIT

The exhibit of the Department of Lands and Forests should prove attractive to the public attending the Show at Morrow Park. It is located on the south side of the drill hall, and has educational aspects about trees and their recognition, also their seeds.

TAX RATE REDUCED

The tax rate for St. Catharines during 1953 will be 69 mills —a reduction of half a mill in the 1952 rate. The reduction was made possible by a .2 mill reduction in the Board of Education's budget and a .3 mill reduction in the city budget, which provides for a small increase in salaries of municipal employees.

CONCERT AND DISPLAYS

The Spring Show concert Thursday night at Morrow Park is being presented in the building used for the display of flowers at Peterborough Exhibition. The machinery building and the seed show and commercial exhibits are in the old drill hall. There is no charge to the public in these two buildings, but tickets have to be purchased for the concert.

HOSPITAL PROJECTS APPROVED

In a record turnout of more than 70 per cent of the eligible voters Monday, Brantford taxpayers approved by 5,834 to 2,954 the issuing of debentures for $1,800,000 towards the cost of extending and modernizing the Brantford General Hospital. They also approved a one million dollar grant to assist the Sisters of St. Joseph to erect a hospital in the city by 4,625 votes to 4,395.

PIGEON RACERS MEET

Veteran racing pigeon breeder Ted Hunt, of Port Hope, was guest speaker at a meeting on Tuesday evening of the Peterborough Racing Pigeon Club. He told district members about racing young birds throughout the summer season and exhibited a collection of equipment necessary to successful racing practices. The meeting was held at the home of president Ivan Ellicott and many of the members were present.

NEGOTIATE SOME MORE

Union and management at the Western Clock Co. will meet again on Tuesday to try and iron out some kinks in their contract negotiations. They had previously failed to come to an agreement and a three-man conciliation board under the chairmanship of Eric G. Taylor of Toronto told the parties to get together and do some down-to-earth negotiating. The conciliation board recessed Friday after a two-day hearing and will meet again if there is some progress reported between union and management. Local 570, IUE-CIO, are asking, among other things, for a 14-cent-an-hour wage increase, reduction of the work week from 42½ to 40 hours with no loss of take-home pay, an eight-hour day, and a health and welfare plan.

William C. Grant Resigns As CCF President

Telling members of the Peterborough CCF Association they must gain the people's support if they are to carry on; President W. C. Grant resigned from the chair Tuesday night.

"There has to be a party standing for the rights of the people . . . but without active evidence of the people's support, there can be no enthusiasm," he pointed out. Mr. Grant had been president of the organization five years, three in succession, prior to his retirement.

His replacement as head of the association will be M. E. Ketcheson, elected president by acclamation. Other officers for the coming year will be Lorne Bebee, vice-president; Don Rosenburgh, Alfred Barber and George Fullbrook, directors; and William Beggs, provincial CCF association representative.

In his parting address to the group, Mr. Grant claimed the Peterborough organization's general attitude had been "spiritless" for the past six or seven years, and told members they must gain active participants in the association if it is to become successful.

Also speaking during the meeting was provincial organizer Fred Young of Toronto.

A CHALLENGE

He termed Mr. Grant's comments "a challenge," but warned members to take "a long term point of view" in carrying out the party's work.

"Nothing is done quickly and social change comes slowly," the speaker said. "It may even be that we must face a period of insecurity before the people come together for a movement of reform."

Elections, the provincial representative said, are swinging back to social-democratic governments. "The working people are on the march again, he stated, again reminding the association's members "change never comes rapidly."

Mr. Young called Canadian society "one in which the weak and helpless have no place; only the strong."

Concluding, he urged members to "dedicate your lives to build a better future."

No federal election candidate was nominated for the forthcoming election during the meeting. Since, as Mr. Young pointed out, the election probably will not take place until the late summer, naming of a candidate will take place at a general meeting later in the year.

Over 20 members of the association were present at the meeting, held in the new Peterborough Labor Centre at the corner of Water and Hunter Sts.

Union Appoints Ed Hind Representative

Ed. Hind is the new international representative in Peterborough of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL). His job is servicing the TWUA unions in the Trent Valley area from headquarters here.

Mr. Hind succeeds Albert Johnston who is back on the TWUA Toronto staff.

Under a new setup the old Trent Valley Area Joint Board (made up of locals in this area) has been merged with the Toronto Joint Board. TWUA officials hope for better efficiency through this centralization move. However, the servicing of the individual unions, looking after grievances, and negotiating of contracts will continue from the Peterborough headquarters with Mr. Hind in charge.

The Trent Valley area includes Trenton, Cobourg, Port Hope, Campbellford, Peterborough, and Lindsay.

Mr. Hind is no stranger to the city. He helped organize the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. here several years ago and he has been on the TWUA staff for six years.

The other two TWUA locals in Peterborough are at Fanning Launderers and Dry Cleaners and Campbell's Dairy.

SCHOOL RENOVATIONS

Repairs and renovations to the roof of South Central School cost $1,088 and this expenditure was approved Tuesday by the Board of Education's property committee. The work on the roof of the Rubidge St. school is now finished. Several other items of work to be done at South Central were also approved. Fluorescent lights will replace incandescent lights in the auto - mechanics department. Contracts have been made for the painting of the ceiling and installation of lights in the machine shop. A special type of basin will also be installed. Tenders will be called for redecorating the PCVS auditorium.

Demolition Starts To Clear Site For Woolworth Store

Demolition of the building at the corner of Charlotte and George St., which is the site of the new Woolworth building, started Tuesday. All glass has been removed from windows and workmen have started tearing down walls at the rear. According to G. M. Milne, Woolworth's Real Estate Superintendent, the tearing down of the old buildings will take from six to eight weeks and construction of the new one will start soon afterward. It is expected that the new store will open some time in October.

The new building will be a handsome brick and stone trim two-storey structure with a frontage of 77 feet along George St. and an inch short of 115 feet along Charlotte St.

It will be built right out to the street line. The city at first asked that the store be set back a few feet, but it was finally decided the store would come out to the edge of the now existing sidewalk.

Both the ground and the basement will be sales floors with two escalators connecting them to save customers climbing up and down.

The top floor known as a stock service floor will contain a kitchen and a bakery, a girls' rest room and stock.

The sales floors will be brightly lighted with fluorescent lighting and will have terazzo flooring. The counters will be of a new design. The salesgirls will not stand behind the counter. They will serve the customers from the aisles and there will be booths handy for wrapping parcels.

Three new departments will be incorporated; a bake good department, a dress and shoe department. There will also be a lunch counter with 35 stools. In all there will be 1,708 feet of counter space, about three times as much as the old store.

Women Division Exceeds Target, Fund $75,369

The second division of the Red Cross and Community Fund has gone over the top, to help bring today's total up to $75,369.

Mrs. J. E. Watters, chairman of the Women's Division of the fund, said today that $6,073 had been turned in by noon. This is $573 more than the division's $5,500 objective and it is expected that the returns will be even higher by the time of the campaign's closing dinner tonight.

The first division to go over the top was the Penny-A-Day Division which held its drive a week before the official campaign.

These are two bright spots in the campaign picture, but the remainder is still a bit disheartening to Fund officials.

The Industrial Division has almost completed its canvassing and the total to date is $36,868—$4,932 down from the $41,800 objective.

RETAIL LAGGING

Woodrow Roberts of the Retail Division reports that less than 50 per cent of the canvassing cards have been turned in at the Fund office. The returns so far are $9,611. He has said that it will take at least a week before this division's work is completed. If retail canvassers can bring in as much money for the remaining cards as has been collected from the cards already turned in, this division will make its objective of $19,250.

Samuel Whitehouse, chairman of the Special Names Division isn't quite so optimistic. His statement today was, "We are going to come pretty close."

At present $22,120 of this division's objective of $27,850 has been collected.

A better picture of what's going to be the final outcome of the 1953 campaign will be presented at the closing dinner tonight. But this event is a closing dinner only in name. As in other years, the campaign will continue for several days until canvassers get their cards in.

Radio Men Ask Certification At Board Hearing

A hearing on applications for union certification among employees of Radio Stations CHEX in Peterborough and CKWS in Kingston will be held Thursday in Ottawa by the Canada Labor Relations Board.

They are believed to be the first two groups of employees on private radio stations in Canada to apply for collective bargaining rights. Employees at a third station, Verdun, have signed union cards and also ready to apply, a union spokesman said today.

The CLRB have just finished hearing a similar application and granted certification to CBC employees. They are now negotiating on their first contract.

All four groups of employees are members of NABET (National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians, a CIO and CCL affiliate).

SAME COMPANY

Both CHEX and CKWS are owned by the Brookland Co. Ltd. CHEX made application on January 26 through their counsel, E. B. Jolliffe and CKWS followed in a few days. About 30 employees, 15 on both stations, are affected. On CHEX they include announcers, technicians, a continuity writer and librarian.

Mr. Jolliffe will present the case for the two station Thursday, assisted by the Canadian NABET representative.

Because radio comes under federal jurisdiction in Canada the application must be heard by the Canada Labor Relations Board (CLRB). Ordinarily applications are heard by the provincial labor relations boards.

66 Young Farmers Compete In Seed Judging In Spring Show Event

Nine Counties of District Represented Winners To Enter Competition For Challenge Trophy

Sixty-six farm boys from nine district counties this afternoon entered the final stage of the junior farmers' seed judging competition in conjunction with the Central Ontario Spring Show. This morning the young men, ranging in age from 13 to 22, examined samples of 10 crop seeds and 20 weeds displayed on tables in the market hall. They wrote their decisions on special forms which they handed in to officials and this afternoon they explained their decisions to the judges in charge.

Entrants in the competition are all farm boys who have not previously represented their counties on an inter-county grain team and have not registered at an agricultural school or college.

CHALLENGE TROPHY

Teams consisting of the three high boys from each county will compete for the annual challenge trophy, donated by Agricultural Chemicals, Ltd., Port Hope.

The winning team members and high contestants in each class will receive two bushels of registered or certified grain. Cash prizes are: First, $5, second $4, third $3, fourth $2, and 16 prizes of $1 each.

In charge of the competition is junior section manager of the show, J. A. Dawson, district supervisor for Northern and Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec of the plant products division of the Federal Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Judges in charge of the various classes are: Ken Fallis, of the crops, weeds and seeds branch, Toronto; D. L. Parks, Kemptville Agricultural School; N. D. McKenzie, district supervisor for Western Ontario, Toronto; Arthur Martin, director of the crops, weeds and seeds branch, Toronto; Arthur Dumais, plant products division, Ottawa, and William Tossel of the Ontario Agricultural School, Guelph.

Man's Mutiliated Body Found On Highway

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — The mutilated body of an Otto township farmer, 52-year-old John Metsala was found on No. 11 highway, between Kenogami and the South Y Tuesday night.

Corporal G. E. White in charge of the Kirkland Lake detachment of the Ontario provincial police said that Metsala had apparently been run over by a car.

He said the name of the driver involved was being withheld pending a complete investigation. An inquest will be held.

Irish Minister Appointed To City Charge

Minister of the Magheragall Presbyterian Church in Lisburn, Ireland, for the past 10 years, Rev. Gilbert D. Smith, BA. has been appointed to the new Presbyterian extension charge here, currently meeting in Confederation School.

The appointment, until the congregation is ready to call a minister, was made by the Presbyterian Church Board of Missions and Mr Smith will take charge on Easter Sunday.

Mr. Smith has taken a lively interest in youth work and has founded companies of the Boys' Brigade, Girls' Brigade and a Guild of Youth in Lisburn.

Before going to Magheragall Church in 1943, he served in Agnes Street Church, Belfast, and Trinity Church, Bango. Actively connected with youth movements there, he was adjutant for many years of the Irish Crusader camps and an officer of varsity and public school boys' camps.

Educated at Foyle College, Trinity College, Dublin, and the University of Edinburgh, Mr. Smith is also well known in sport in Ireland. He played hockey for Lisnagarvey for several years and represented Ulster on many occasions. Although he never played for Ireland, he was sub on 1938-39 championship teams.

At Lisburn he also played cricket and was captain of its 1946 championship team.

CNR Shows First Surplus In Seven Years, $142,327

OTTAWA—(CP)— The recapitalized Canadian National Railways, with the help of a bookkeeping shuffle, came up in 1952 with a tiny surplus, its first in seven years and its first peacetime one since 1928.

The surplus of $142,327 for the $2,500,000,000 system was described as neither adequate nor satisfactory" by President Donald Gordon in a letter accompanying the CNR annual report tabled today in the Commons by Transport Minister Chevrier.

The 1952 accounts showed record operating revenues and expenditures respectively $675,219,415 and $634,852,915. Expenditures climbed faster than income.

The report explained the surplus was made possible because $3,100,000 was shifted from the balance sheet and credited against operating expenses. It represented the amortization of CNR defense projects in the United States and had been carried in the balance sheet for several years until the book-keeping transfer last year.

With the CNR accounts, Mr. Chevrier tabled the 1952 report of Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, showing an operating profit of $326,276 but an income deficit of $3,909.

Revenue were $7,499,274 against operating expenses of $7,122,971, compared with 1951 revenues and operating expenses of $6,808,478 and $6,840,054. In 1951, the company had an operating deficit of $31,576 and an overall deficit of $466,992.

The Commons referred both reports to its sessional committee on government-owned railways, dut to start hearings in the next few days.

The CNR's 1952 surplus compared with a deficit of $15,031,000 in 1951, the last year before parliament lifted a heavy debt burden off its back by transforming fixed-interest securities held by the government into preferred stock on which the company pays dividends as the money is available.

The CNR still pays interest on securities held by the public, and its surplus was attained after providing $24,163,000 for this. But the reorganization relieved the 1952 accounts of more than $23,000,000 in interest to the federal treasury.

Besides this and the $3,100,000 amortization "credit", a further factor in avoiding a deficit for last year was that retroactive wage settlements recently negotiated with trainmen and firemen came too late to be included in 1952 accounts, though the $4,500,000 in back pay extends to April, 1952.

Apart from record overall revenues last year, the company reported peak freight business —the mainstay of its income —on its more than 24,000 miles of line.

Freight volume and revenue both topped all records.

Tonnage hauled was 90,100,000 —up less than 1 per cent from the 1951 record — while revenue tonmiles were 38,400,000,000, up 5½ per cent above the 1951 peak.

Freight revenue was $536,723,241, compared with $489,800,344 the previous record in 1951.

The total operating revenue of $675,219,415 was up 8.1 per cent rfom the $624,834,120 of 1951—the previous record.

The 1952 operating expenses of $634,852,915 were up by 9.4 per cent from the previous record $580,150,221 of 1951.

Net operating revenue for 1952 was $40,366,500, compared with $44,683,899 the previous year. After further deductions including those for certain taxes and equipment rentals, the amount available for interest and dividends last year was $24,305,488 down from $31,783,119 in 1951.

During 1952, the company carried 18,832,815 passengers, an increase of 8.7 per cent, and passenger revenue rose by 2 per cent to $48,466,128.

Express revenue was up almost 17 per cent at $35,820,500. Communications brought in $13,870,000, a new record.

Gross revenues of the railways hit a peak of $9,291,444, but net hotel income dropped to $533,509 from $588,485.

During the year, the company reported, its property investment account rose by more than $124,000,000, representing expenditures on property less the value of that retired or transferred. The CNR retired 81 miles of branch line.

In commenting on the CNR's expenses, the report said increased wage rates were the biggest factor. Other contributing factors were higher prices for materials, increased pension costs and other expenses related to additional traffic volume.

Compared with 1951, additional payroll costs from higher wage rates amounted to $22,300,000. Of this amount, $8,400,000 was attributed to a full year's operation of the 40-hour work week that went into effect in mid-1951, and an other $9,700,000 to the retroactive feature of a settlement reached in December with non-operating employees. The annual cost increase of this settlement was estimated at $29,000,000.

Increases in materials costs, the report estimated, added $11,900,000 to the operating bill in 1952.

Discussing the CNR's complex corporate structure, the report said that during the year a plan was devised for the "rationalization" of the set-up, now consisting of 79 individual companies.

No details were given, but the report said the ultimate objective was the consolidation of as many as possible of these companies into perhaps 10 major corporate entities.

3 Major Changes Outlined For Coronation

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Changes in the Order of Service for the Coronation in Westminster Abbey June 2 were outlined Tuesday by the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

The text of the service will not be published until late in April. In a preview of the proposed changes, made public at a press conference, Dr. Fisher said the most "substantial" alterations include:

1. A change in the wording of the first part of the Queen's Coronation oath. Under this change, the Commonwealth countries, except the republic of India, will be mentioned by name for the first time. Thus the altered section now reads:

ALTERED OATH

"Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the peoples of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, Pakistan and Ceylon, and of your possessions and the other territories to any of them belonging or pertaining, according to their respective laws and customs?"

(At previous coronations, Commonwealth countries were referred to as overseas Dominions. The Queen's promise to govern these countries "according to their respective laws and customs" is also new.)

2. The order of the Coronation service will be changed so that the Bible will be presented after the Queen has signed the oath and before the beginning of the communion service. Previously the Bible was presented after the act of crowning.

3. For the first time, the Church of Scotland will be associated with the presentation of the Bible. The Queen will receive it from the moderator of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland, Rt. Rev. A. Prentice.

CBC Chief Recalls Work In Canada On Paper, Farm

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Sir Basil Edward Nicolls, now approaching the end of a long career in British radio, wasn't kidding when he bet a group of CBC officials last year that he could beat them shucking corn.

It's an art he learned the hard way as a 19-year-old hired man on a small Ontario farm in the Chatham district, before the First World War.

Lacking money to go to Oxford, British-born Sir Basil arrived in Canada in 1912 to make his fortune; did farm work for two years and turned to reporting with the old Chatham Planet for eight months. Then he left Canada for good in 1914 to join the British Army.

IMPORTANT TASK

Now chief of the BBC's Coronation planning, he had sufficient army gratuities in 1919 to take the special Oxford war course. His BBC career, started in 1924, took the tell, courteous and friendly knight, now 59, up the ladder to acting director-general.

But his memory easily spans the 40 years to his brief Canadian stay, recalling muscle-building farm toil, fat 200-pound pigs and the proper corn-shucking technique of a 120-acre Ontario farm, as well as his reporting experience on the old daily and weekly editions of the Planet.

Sir Basil was lugging 100-pound sacks of wheat around a farm, midway between Dresden and Thamesville, a week after landing at Quebec, Sept. 3, 1912.

"There was a popular British assumption in those days that you dug a little gold out of a Canadian street when you wanted money there," says Sir Basil.

QUITS FARMING

Two years as hired man disproved the theory as far as he was concerned. He abandoned the wheat, corn and hogs for an offer from the Planet—daily circulation 3,500 and weekly 5,000-6,000.

There, as a reporter, he joined R. J. Rankin and Douglas R. Oliver, sometimes taking over from the fourth editorial employee who collected advertising. Rankin now is managing editor of the Halifax Chronicle-Herald and Oliver is managing director of the Canadian Tourist Association.

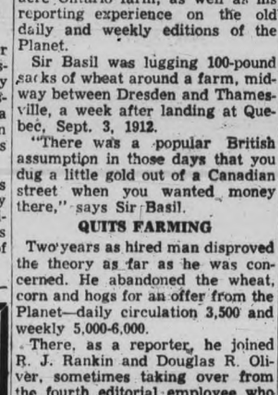
"There was a tapering pork-pie hat popular just then—prescribed garb for young journalists," Sir Basil recalls.

"As special events reporter, with no shorthand and two-finger typing, I'd cover inquests, church sermons and anything else that popped up in a small town.

"When news was dull we could always go to Detroit and see what was going on."

NEWSPAPER RIVALRY

Rivalry with the Chatham News, with which the Planet merged in 1923, was pretty tough. He doesn't remember what he got paid but it wasn't much.



He's never been back to Canada, although he feels that he likely still would be there if the war hadn't broken out.

Sir Basil became Manchester station director in 1924 in the pioneer days of the BBC and rose steadily until, in August last year, he was appointed acting director-general pending the permanent appointment to the post of Sir Ian Jacob at the end of 1952.

Made a knight commander of the Order of the British Empire in the Queen's New Year's honors list, Sir Basil stayed with the BBC to help out in Coronation services but will retire in September to his Sussex home.

A garden there is his only link with agriculture these days.

Since 1938 he has combined with his other duties the unofficial job of liaison officer between the BBC and the sovereign. In this capacity he recently greeted the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh who attended a special, non-broadcast variety command performance, put on by BBC artists including the Canadian couple, Bernard Braden and Barbara Kelly of Vancouver.

BBC DIRECTOR—Sir Basil Edward Nicolls, who worked for a time on a Chatham newspaper in his early days, is chief of the BBC's Coronation planning. Born in England, Sir Basil came to Canada before the First World War and worked on the former Chatham Planet. He returned to Britain in 1914 to join the British army and started with the BBC in 1924. Last August he was appointed acting director-general pending the permanent appointment of Sir Ian Jacob at the end of 1952. He will retire next September to his home in Sussex.

New Law Framed Curb Promotion Of Cemeteries

Complaints about high pressure salesmanship of cemetery lots by commercial salesmen have led provincial health department officials to frame a new law to ensure protection of the public.

Health Minister Mackinnon Phillips, who said he hoped the new law would be completed in time to go before the legislature this month, said that while a thorough investigation had shown "nothing fraudulent" in the methods of the company in question, he felt the government should take action to protect the public and ensure proper care of the cemeteries.

Apprehension that salesmen vending cemetery lots might soon be knocking on doors of Peterborough residents was felt when it was announced that the Floral Haven Memorial Park Cemetery Co. had obtained an option on a 25-acre site, known as the Lillico property, three miles west of the city and south of Highway 28.

APPLIED TO TOWNSHIP

A company representative appeared before North Monaghan township council in January and made application to begin work on the site, including landscaping the grounds at a cost of $40,000. He explained that a certain percentage of the purchase price of each lot would be set aside, according to provincial regulations, in a fund for perpetual upkeep of the plots.

The council is understood to have deferred action on the application, however.

In the legislature last week T. L. Pryde (PC—Huron) termed commercial cemeteries "a racket" and said they could make "fabulous profits" of up to $70,000 an acre. Morticians and other cemetery operators have made similar protests.

Dr. Phillips said the new legislation would be permissive, allowing the Health Department to make regulations governing such things as the sale of plots and cemetery maintenance.

The government plans to bring commercial cemeteries under the same jurisdiction as the Blue Cross and similar organizations, requiring them to submit audited statements annually.

HIGHER PERCENTAGE

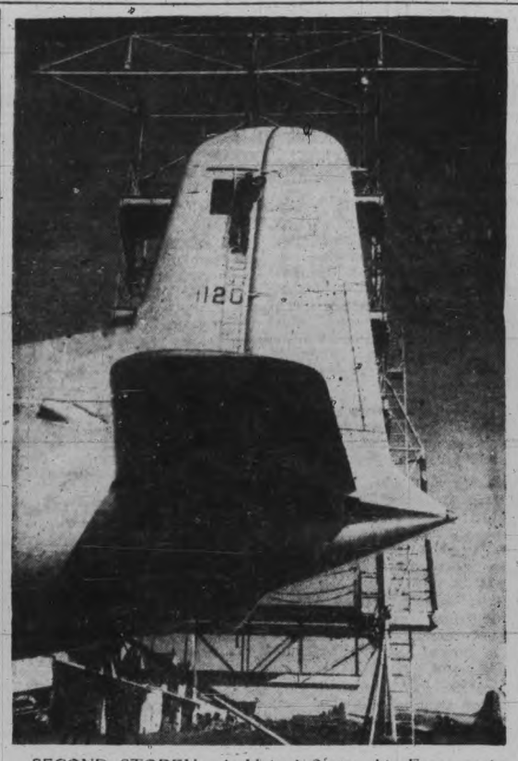
It also plans to make sure commercial cemeteries use at least 35 per cent of their proceeds for perpetual care of plots. Dr. Phillips said there had been complaints that they now used a much lower percentage and, in some cases, kept only those plots that were in use or had been sold and let the rest of the cemetery grow up in weeds.

Most cemeteries in the province are operated on a non-profit basis by church, community or municipal groups. Only in recent years have commercial cemeteries — long prevalent in the U.S.—made their appearance here.

Dr. Phillips said the major objection to commercial cemeteries was the high pressure door-to-door selling of lots. The department's investigation showed that plots are sold on the instalment plan. Some salesmen concentrate on young couples.

There are indications now that commercial cemeteries may be made liable to municipal taxation from which they are now exempt.

The success of commercial cemeteries didn't indicate a shortage of space in long-established cemeteries, Dr. Phillips said. Older cemeteries had plots available but didn't make a high-pressure business of selling them.



The representative of the Floral Haven Memorial Park Cemetery Co. who appeared before North Monaghan township council in January is reported to have told the council "if we can not sell $100,000 worth of lots the first year, the proposition is no good," as this amount was required for the perpetual care fund.

GUARANTEED AMOUNT

Council insisted on a guaranteed amount to be placed in the fund at the beginning and deposited with the township.

It is also understood that another much bigger organization has been interested in development of a cemetery on the same site and is hoping to outmanoeuvre Floral Gardens in its application to the township council.

The bigger firm is known as the Memorial Gardens Association and is affiliated with the Memorial Gardens Association, Incorporated, in the United States.

Death Toll Reaches 5 In Prince Rupert Fire

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C. (CP)—Final death toll from a fire that destroyed the King George Hotel here Sunday appears to be five, police officials said Tuesday.

Hotel records were burned and incomplete counts led police to believe 14 persons might have died. Five bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the four-storey building.

Hotel owner Theodore Prystai compiled a list of occupants from memory Tuesday. Only four on his list, three men and a woman, were missing. Another body found was believed to be that of a visitor in one of the rooms.

TORONTO (CP)—Wearing green ties and shamrocks, Francis Patrick Gavin, Sr., and his son, Francis Patrick Gavin, Jr., and Frank Timleck appeared in court Tuesday charged with assault. The bondsman, Bernie Ireland, also wore a green tie and shamrock. He put up bail of $1,000 each for the accused men who were remanded a week for trial. Robert Valecquette, the complainant, said he suffered a fractured skull, an injured nose and a black eye in a fight.

Films Ready For TV Ads Sales, Ad Told

Popular Irish melodies filled the air Tuesday evening when nearly 200 members of the Advertising and Sales Club met in the dining room of the Empress Hotel which was gaily decorated with shamrocks in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

Guest speaker was Graeme Fraser, vice-president in charge of sales and advertising of Crawley Films of Ottawa. He spoke on "Advertising and Sales go to the Movies in Canada"

He said there were 60 film companies in Canada producing an immense variety of films and in the United States at least 2,000 firms were using films regularly for various purposes while another 3,000 firms used them periodically. One film, produced by a United States firm had been shown to audiences totalling 30 million people, four million more than "Gone With the Wind".

SUPPLY TV

As for television, the speaker said, films are to TV as recordings are to radio. In the United States, 30 per cent of all network programs were films and the proportion would be much higher in Canada when television became firmly established here, because of geographical conditions and the lack of advertising capital.

Television has grown in the United States faster than any other industry in history, the speaker claimed. In January 1949 there were one million sets in that country and today there are 21 million. In Cleveland alone, 95 of every 100 homes have television sets.

"When television really hits Canada producers will have the know-how of audio-visual aids as well as a backlog of good films," Mr. Fraser prophesied.

The speaker was introduced by Doug Scanlon and thanked by Art Cauley. Master of ceremonies for the sing-song which followed was Orville Wainman with members of Bobby Kinsman's band supplying the accompaniment. Dr. E. M. Crough was chairman of the entertainment committee for the meeting assisted by Cliff Vincent, director in charge, and Earle O'Toole.

Mr. Drew said the Ontario attorney-general had said the question of compensation to Power was one for the federal government.

The medal is awarded in recognition of outstanding services rendered to the development of Canada, to engineering science and to the profession.

Fix Levels When Seaway Built –McNaughton

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian chairman of the international joint commission, said Tuesday the water height in Lake Ontario will be brought to a "proper" level after the St. Lawrence seaway is built, though it will probably take 10 years.

The lake level has been destructively high in recent years, and Gen. McNaughton was questioned about it by members of the Commons external affairs committee when he appeared to explain operations of the commission that regulates Canada-United States boundary waters.

Full solution of the Lake Ontario problem, he said, depends on both the seaway and the complete development of water power from Niagara Falls, which now is proceeding. The seaway project is awaiting U.S. action.

FAVORABLE

However, Gen. McNaughton added concerning the seaway that "we regard the position (in the U.S.) as developing favorably."

Once Canada and the U.S. are drawing the maximum power from both Niagara and the seaway, he said, there would be little conflict between the power and shore interests. Either the flow through Niagara into Lake Ontario or that through the river could be regulated without loss of overall power production.

"It will take the international joint commission probably a decade to arrive with finality at what the proper levels will be," he said. "But I have no doubt that we will be able to arrive at levels satisfactory to all people concerned."

Without the seaway, he said, there is no way the commission can affect the lake level materially.

Gen. McNaughton said the commission is not yet fully decided on the method for regulating the flow of water downstream from Lake Ontario.

SETS OUT METHOD

In its order authorizing the seaway last fall it had prescribed a method worked out by the special projects branch of the transport department, but it was using it only as a "starter." It reserved authority to modify the plan.

However, he said the discharge capacity of a proposed control dam below Lake Ontario in connection with the power end of the seaway was designed to take care of any amount of discharge needed.

A point of concern with the commission, he said, is the interests of communities downstream from the power project in the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence. The water must be moved so it did not flood the lower reaches around Montreal.

Shilly-Shallying May Cost Australia Games

CANBERRA (AP) — Ministerial sources said today the Australian cabinet has rejected pleas for use of the Albert Park barracks as Melbourne's 1956 Olympic village, making it extremely doubtful the games will be held in the Australian city.

There was no official announcement.

Tuesday night Arthur Coles, chairman of the Melbourne organizing committee, said Albert Park was the only practical housing site at this late stage.

Sources here agreed in view of Coles' statement that it now appeared certain political shilly-shallying would cost Melbourne the games.

The international Olympic committee will meet April 15 in Mexico City to make an official decision.

Asks Resolution To Co-Ordinate Level Of Lakes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A resolution to co-ordinate the regulation of Great Lakes water levels was offered today by Representative Harold Ostertag (Rep. N. Y.).

It proposes eventual establishment through the international joint commission, a United States-Canadian body, of an international Great Lakes board of control with authority to maintain the water levels equitably.

The measure also envisions the setting up of a Lake Michigan board of control through the United States section of the IJC.

Ostertag said in an accompanying statement that the joint commission has from time to time established boards of control but that there is no over-all plan to co-ordinate their work.

SEPARATE BOARDS

He said one board controls levels on Lake Superior, another operates at Massena, N. Y., and a third is proposed for the St. Lawrence river in connection with the projected power development in the rapids.

"On the other hand, it (the IJC) maintains no control over the water level of Lake Michigan because that lake is wholly . . . within the United States," Ostertag said.

"What I am proposing therefore is the establishment of an international joint board of control which will co-ordinate the regulatory activities of the several boards already operating, and any which may be established in the future, and in addition, a Lake Michigan board of control which will co-ordinate its regulatory activities with the international board."

Question 2 Men In Que. Slaying

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Two men were arrested here Tuesday night for questioning in connection with what police said was a recent slaying in Quebec province.

Early today the men, identified by police as Real LeBlanc, 29, and Jack Tremble, 40, were placed in a police car for Montreal.

LeBlanc and Tremble were taken into custody after a downtown restaurant, of which LeBlanc is one of the owners, had been closed by police.

At Montreal, one police informant at first said he had no knowledge of the two men, or the slaying. It was later learned, however, that two Quebec provincial police officers had come to Tillsonburg to investigate the two.

Ontario provincial police said the men were wanted in connection with the death some weeks ago of Jeanne Irene D'Armour. There were no further details.

Tillsonburg is 15 miles southwest of Woodstock.

100 Families Given Help Children's Aid

During month of February one hundred families received assistance from the Children's Aid Society, reported Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid at their monthly meeting Tuesday in the City Hall.

During the winter there has been a far greater number of families requesting financial assistance from the Children's Aid, in the form of food and rent. These families were not eligible for relief, Miss Young's report said.

One child was taken into the care of the Society, and was placed in a boarding home for adoption. Two children were made permanent wards of the city, until paternity could be decided. All the children that were taken into the care of the Children's Aid, were born out of wedlock.

There were 14 children placed in boarding homes, under the age of 12 months. Five of the children are temporary wards, as the parents wish an opportunity to plan for them in the future. The paternity of seven of the children cannot be established, so that the children cannot be given out for adoption if there development warrants it. Two other children cannot be placed at the present time for medical reasons.

COUPLES SEEK AID

Three unmarried couples came to seek the aid of the Children's Aid during February. They were referred to the Society by the clergy, doctors and some personal applications.

There is a tendency of the part of some of the girls needing assistance to come to the Children's Aid a week or two before their confinement and it is exceedingly hard on the part of the Society to help them.

Four foster home studies were completed during the month and there was a child placed in each home.

The board had received from the Provincial Government a grant of $2,186.32, 25 per cent. of all private donations that were given to the Peterborough Children's Aid Society.

The Lion's Ladies donated a pair of rubbers for each child and the Peterborough Lock Works donated an aluminum kettle. The Welfare League also contributed $25 for aluminum ware in the kitchen and eight pots and pans were purchased by the League.

Young People Urged To Decide Role In Life

SPRINGVILLE (ENS)—"In our time everyone can be put into one of three classes: Consecrated Christians, Convinced Communists, or Nonentities (which means those who are nothing) and it is important that we young people know to which group we belong and why," said Miss Doreen Bowles in opening the Young People's Union meeting on Sunday evening at the home of Hazel McIntosh.

Miss Bowles, convener of the Faith and Evangelism group, developed her topic through the question and answer method.

Three Sisters Together After 35 Years Apart

Meeting for the first time in 35 years, sisters of Mrs. Mary Logan, 482 Cameron St., are now recalling fond memories of their youth in Scotland.

They are Mrs. Isabella Lee of Motherwell, Scotland, and Mrs. Monroe Marshburn of Los Angeles, California. Mrs. Marshburn is a former resident of Peterborough, having lived here up until 32 years ago. Her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Murray, is a resident of Gilchrist St.

While Mrs. Marshburn is in Peterborough visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lees is concluding a nine-month visit here which started in September, 1952. She will return to Scotland June 11.

Mrs. Less is 68, Mrs. Logan, 74 and Mrs. Marshburn, 78. Both Mrs. Lees and Mrs. Marshburn were war widows of the First World War, when their husbands were killed overseas.

Mrs. Marshburn arrived in Peterborough Thursday and expects to stay another week, but during that time, she will be visiting her two sisters often. The three ladies are part of a family which consisted of eight girls.

Although the American and Scot sisters haven't seen each other for 35 years, Mrs. Logan had previously seen them both within the past six years.

When Mrs. Lees came to the city back in September, the Los Angeles sister was encouraged to come here to see her sister and have a family reunion.

Mrs. Logan's daughter, Mrs. A. W. Miliard, commented that since the three sisters had gotten together last week, "all they've done is talk about the old days. You think they'd run out of things to say but they keep on talking."

For Mrs. Lees, it's her first trip to Canada and for Mrs. Marshburn, the first time here in 32 years.

Rev. G. S. Maxwell Extends Challenge To Trinity WMS

A challenge to Trinity WMS members to remember the lesson of Gethsemane was extended by the Rev Gordon S. Maxwell at the meeting Tuesday afternoon. He showed how the invention of printing and development of electronic tube brought with the shrinking of world boundaries ensuing problems.

"Therefore, is it now more urgent than before that Christians practice the example of love and neighborliness to solve these problems" stated Mr. Maxwell. "Materialism involving expediency, rather than morality, idolatry and brutality, are still rampant and must be attacked as Christ's disciples set out to attack them after Gethsemane, with a higher morality and integrity in everyday life. Part of the harvest from the perseverance of these qualities came in ultimate ascension of a Christian emperor at Rome, and centuries later, liberation of slaves."

Mr. Maxwell said that parallel with the perseverance of Beethoven in his creation of music was the consistent warlike ambition of Napoleon. Yet, as beauty created by the one man achieved immortality over the war mongering of the other, so can people now achieve peace and thus immortality, by consistent practice of the principles of love set for them at Gethsemane.

Mrs. C. H. Spearin's group conducted the devotional period. Mrs. T. Crosbie took the scripture and Mrs. W. Davern offered prayer. Mrs. H Kearns sang a hymn with Mrs. W T. Fanjoy accompanying at the piano. Mrs. H. T. Rehill reviewed briefly the new books on the library shelves.

President Mrs. P. McFadden presided. Tea was served by the social committee.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX:

Parents Should Provide Meeting Place For Children

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 14. We live in a quiet community where there are not many kids. There is a store not far from here where the girls and boys go in the evening for a soda, and to listen to the jukebox. When we leave, the boys walk us home along the main road to make sure we arrive home safely. The problem is: my mother will not allow me to go there. I feel very left out because everyone else goes.—E.H.

ANSWER: The problem of the local soda store is present in almost every community. Stores that are habitually patronized by a teen-age group often acquire the reputation, sometimes right, sometimes wrong, of being "not a proper place to be seen." Each case must be judged by itself, and parents should make inquiries to ascertain whether a store, or soda parlor, draws the right crowd.

In most cases, there's nothing wrong with these places. The youngsters gather for a soda or sandwich and to hear the latest tunes. It is certainly in the proprietor's interest that he maintain his establishment properly, for he has his local reputation to uphold. If the youngsters get out of hand, they are usually told to go home if they can't behave, and are not welcomed back. Mom or Dad should check with the store in your town, and find out from the owner how he reacts to the teen-age situation. If he shows a co-operative attitude with the parents, and if parents make frequent check-ups on the place and its patrons, the store would be worthy of approval.

A GATHERING PLACE FOR TEEN-AGERS

Group activity is the primary need of adolescence, and it is certainly the best way to keep teen-agers entertained. The group has to have some place to meet, and if one isn't provided by parents, the children will find it for themselves. If the older folks don't like the local store idea, they should take steps to provide a substitute. The basement of a home could be turned over to the kids for gatherings. All the equipment needed is a phonograph or jukebox, some comfortable chairs, and an assortment of "snacking food."

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a divorcee of 34, and am going with a man 29. He says he loves me, but will never marry. We've gone together for two years, and have many interests in common. Should I continue to go with him, hoping he'll change his mind?—E.T.

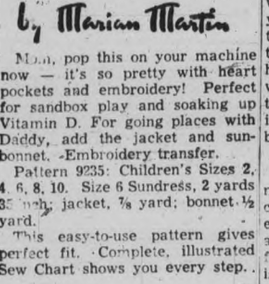
✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you are interested in a second marriage, stop going with this man. He has admitted his reluctance to marry, and seldom do men of such intention change their minds—at least, they don't marry the girls to whom they make the statements!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow with one son of school age. A year ago I met a very nice man ten years my senior. He wants me to meet his family, and his sister has sent me an invitation. I always refuse to accept these invitations since I feel the difference in our ages is too great for us to become serious about each other.

✧ ✧ ✧



ANSWER: There is absolutely no reason why you shouldn't accept the invitation so graciously extended to you. You are being actually rude in continuing to refuse them. The difference in age is no great barrier to matrimony and, if in all other respects the man is acceptable, don't let foolish doubts stand between you.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Special Purpose Menus With Questions

Have you had your iron today?

Do you believe that whole wheat is so packed with minerals and vitamins that you buy nothing but whole wheat bread to serve to your precious families?

Do you fear illness or poor health during these last winter months?

Do you leave your parsley garnish on your plate to go back to the kitchen and the garbage pail?

Do you scrape out the inside of your baked potato and throw away the skin?

Do you pare an apple before you eat it?

Do you call salads rabbit food?

Do you serve liver once per week?

Are fresh fruits a daily must in your home?

If you are determined to feel wonderful all the time instead of sluggish or sick, the answers to those questions should be 1—yes, 2—yes, 3—no, 4—no, 5—no, 6—no, 7—no, 8—yes, 9—yes.

My friends, from my soap-box I'm telling you that you can feel full of pep and energy. The ingredients for abundant health are all within your grasp. Why don't you grab them?

Without taking any of the joy out of eating here is a menu that will fulfil normal health requirements, without costing any more than the average meal served in Canadian homes today:

Barbecued Shoulder Chops
(eat the fat)
Baked Potatoes (eat the skin)
Spinach (see notes)
Tossed Salad
Grapefruit Halves
Bran Muffins Cafe au Lait

DIRECTIONS BARBECUED SHOULDER CHOPS

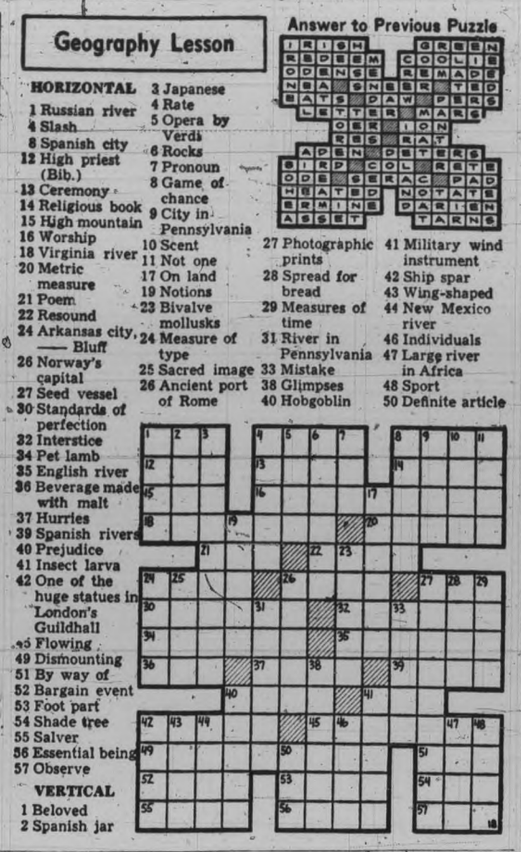
Provide one 1-inch thick shoulder chop for each serving and place in one layer in large baking dish. Cover with a layer of sliced onions—using at least 3 medium-sized onions. Spread over them Barbecue Sauce: 1 cup tomatoes, ½ cup catsup, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce, ⅛ teaspoon chili powder, ½ teaspoon prepared mustard and 1 or 2 tablespoons molasses. Cover. Bake 1½ hours at 325 deg. Fahr.

To get all of the precious best from spinach wash it well and let it drain to shed as much of the water as possible. Cook it without adding any water, turning it over after first 2 minutes. Cook about 7 minutes in all, then chop it with sharp knife. Make a mixture of 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 tablespoon flour and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Stir this into the hot chopped spinach until it thickens a little. Add salt and pepper to taste. Thus you save all of the minerals in the spinach and in the spinach water, one of which is that valuable and hard-to-get iron.

Toss the Salad the very last thing before you ring the bell for dinner. This way you conserve the maximum amount of vitamins. Include in the salad all of the green things you can buy now: outer celery stalks shredded finely, inner and outer lettuce leaves, sliced radishes, shredded green pepper, 1 tablespoon sprouted onion tops, and as much as ¼ or ½ cup finely chopped parsley. Quickly coat the cut vegetables with Fresh Dressing to trap the vitamins. You see exposure to air is a sure way to lose vitamins.

EMEM'S BRAN MUFFINS

Mix ⅓ cup shortening (part butter) with ½ cup brown sugar, then after creaming them well, beat in 1 egg. Sift together 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, then add to them 2½ cups bran and ½ cup fresh wheat germ. Stir this dry mixture into shortening mixture alternately with 1 cup buttermilk. Fill greased muffin tins 2-3 full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes. One-half cup raisins added makes them even better.



Cafe au Lait is half 'n' half hot milk and strong coffee.

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soon on the job again."

Don't suffer from Rheumatic or Arthritic pain. Take Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine to bring quick relief from such pain. Only 65c, $1.35 at druggists. T-848

Church Holds St. Patrick's Tea, Bake Sale

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—The Missionary and Service Club of the United Church held a successful St. Patrick's tea and sale of baking in the Sunday School rooms.

Traditional decorations were used in the room and on the tables. The many guests were received by the president, Mrs. W. H. Fife and vice-president, Mrs. Clarence Coons. Mrs. Douglas Davis acted as hostess.

The tea table, covered with a lace cloth and centred with daffodils in a silver bowl, flanked by tall green candles, was in charge of Mrs. W. W. Leonard. Assisting in serving tea were Mrs. A. W. Newson, Mrs. Robert McCracken, Mrs. George Graham, Mrs. J. O. Hudart, Mrs. George Carey, Mrs. S. E. Richardson, Miss Margaret Tanner, Mrs. J. R. Hull and Mrs. George Tanner. In attendance at a special table for children were Mrs. Theo. Down and Mrs. Lloyd Bailey. Replenishing plates were Mrs. Carmen Payne, Mrs. Wilbert Frankish, Mrs. S. Henderson and Mrs. Irene Darling.

Tea was poured by Mrs. H. Kaye of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mrs. George Downing of Lakefield Baptist Church, Mrs. L. J. Delaney of the Church of St. John the Baptist, Mrs. W. H. Tonge and Mrs. W. W. Leonard of the United Church.

A home baking table was in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Hunter assisted by Mrs. Clare Chittick and Mrs. Edison Foster.

The guests were entertained with music by Mrs. M. Kennedy and Miss Edith Whetung at the piano, Miss Louise Anderson on the piano-accordian and vocal solos by Mrs. J. R. Hull.

Proceeds amounted to about $50.

Mission Club Hears About Angola Christians

MARMORA (ENS) — St. Andrew's Mission Club met at the home of Mrs. Leighton McGinnis.

The vice-president led in the worship service which followed the theme, "Enlistment."

The hymn, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today" was sung and St. Mark's story of the Resurrection read. Following a second hymn, Barbara Meiklejohn played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

The president, Dorothy Airhart, taking charge of the business period, read an interesting story of the unique observance of Easter in Angola, Africa. She mentioned how the natives take their food and belongings on the long trek to spend the weekend in rejoicing at the mission church.

Mrs. James Heath followed, telling about the tractor donated by an Alberta church to Angola natives to increase the cultivation of soya beans needed to make milk for the children.

Mrs. Barker closed the meeting with the benediction.

Two contests, "Women of the Bible" and "The Human Body" were then put on by the president. The hostess served lunch.

Mrs. J. Jones Honored On 83rd Birthday

HAVELOCK —(ENS)—A pleasant surprise was provided for Mrs. Joseph Jones, when members of her family held a dinner party at her home in honor of her 83rd birthday.

A large birthday cake made and decorated by her daughter Mrs. Percy Newell and topped with 83 candles accupied the centre of the table.

Mrs. Jones is very active for her years. Her recipe for long life is hard work and trust in the Lord.

Mrs. J. Jones

The portion of psalm 23, "Yea though I walk through the Valley of the Shadow of death I will fear no evil for Thou art with me" has brought her comfort all though the years.

FILMS SHOWN

During the evening, one of the guests, Jack Marden of Midland, Mich., showed moving pictures he had taken at the summer resort of Mrs. Jones' daughter Mrs. Frank Anderson, Hastings and the farm of another daughter Mrs. G. Wallbridge at Norwood together with scenes from California.

Mrs. Jones was born at Healey Falls, and was formerly Susanne Hubble a daughter of the late Henry Hubble and Amanda Fields. She was twice married. Nursing Registry Annual Report

Annual meeting of the Community Nursing Registry was held Monday evening at Civic Hospital nurses' residence. President Mrs. Eva Brackenridge presided. Her report stated:

"In its fifth year of organization, the work of the registry has gone forward with marked expansion, far beyond the original vision. It has met successive issues and taken advantage of every opportunity to meet expanding needs as they took on new forms and aspects. Today the registry plays an important part in the provision of nursing care, both professional and non-professional, in the community.

"Secondly" said Mrs. Brackenridge, "it has established a central point for the prompt and efficient attention to emergencies of every nature coming from the community. Thirdly, it has removed a heavy load from hospital administration.

Registrar and treasurer Mrs. Maurice Pringle expressed appreciation of the registry members for the confidence and goodwill of the community as evidenced by their continued use of the registry service. "The registry carried on the work of the VON as a related service" she added.

Registry executive was re-elected. Mrs. Brackenridge is assisted by Miss Sadie Brown and Mrs. R. D. Taylor as first and second vice-presidents, Sister Loretta as secretary and Mrs. Pringle as treasurer and registrar.

New Board members elected are: Ford M. Warren, D. A. McGillis, Dr C. F. Cahill, Dr. H. F. Dunham and Mrs. J. Ryan.

The board members who retired at this meeting are: W. M. Gemmell, Dr. Robert Bell, Dr. R. J. Young, Dr. G. R. Scott and Miss Wilma Armstrong. Appreciation of their services was expressed by the president.

MARKETS ARE GROCETERIAS

The markets in Mexico largely serve as grocery stores. This morning women and children crowded through the lanes with big baskets filled with meat and vegetables. Children had little pottery jugs filled with milk which they were taking home. Some of the produce was set on the ground, others on tables. There were souvenirs, clothes, dress materials, pottery, serapes, some jewelry and basket work.

* * * *

I was early enough to miss all the tourists and met only the Mexican families doing their weekly and daily shopping. In addition to pushing your way through the jammed quarters, you have the problem that the market goes up and down with the streets, too. Nothing is on a level. You need the agility of a mountain goat to scramble around.

* * * *

At various points in the town there are public wells and you will usually see a group of men and boys filling big cans and loading them on donkeys to take home or carrying them on either end of a pole suspended across their shoulders. There are public wash tubs too. They are of adobe or a kind of cement with three or four deep tubs and covered with a tile roof. Here the women bring their clothes and scrub busily.

* * * *

QUAINT FOUNTAIN

The old fountain at the end of the street of the Silversmiths, is like something from a setting by MGM. Usually there are a few men and boys perched around the rim and the youngsters love to pose for a picture for a few centavos.

* * * *

Every day at noon I saw a band march up the street and an hour later march back down. I found they went to the Santa Prisca Church by the plaza, part of the Lenten ceremonies. At night there are beautiful fireworks set off all over town. One night at 1:30 a.m. I heard a serenade. Someone was giving a concert about two blocks over. The guitar music was fine, but the singer had a voice like a crow. I am sure his sweetheart would not appreciate his efforts that night.

Labor Income Reaches Peak $10,868,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Impelled by increased weekly earnings and growing employment, labor income soared to a record $10,868,000,000 during 1952, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The 12-per-cent rise from $9,732,000,000 in 1951 was due mostly to the advance in average weekly earnings. Wage rates were up and working hours down.

Income by labor groups with 1951 figure in brackets was: Agriculture, forestry, fishing, trapping and mining, $902,000,000 ($839,000,000); manufacturing $3,574,000,000 ($3,221,000,000); construction, $909,000,000 ($739,000,000); utilities, transportation, communication, storage and trade, $2,730,000,000 ($2,480,000,000); finance, services, including government, supplementary labor income, $360,000,000 ($328,000,000).

Recreation Com. Apportions Annual Grant

The Recreation Commission sought Tuesday evening at their monthly meeting in the City Hall to adjust their budget to meet the $17,500 the city had allocated them. The original figure they had asked for was $10,476.

The commission alloted $3,160 to the administration, $10,500 to the leadership committee, $4,825 to the program committee, $1,900 to the property committee and $400 to miscellaneous expenses. The amount to be given to the Nursery School account still has to be decided. The commission is waiting to hear from the city property committee, to see if it will pay for the repairing of the Nursery School.

The treasurer reported that so far this year they had spent $2,208 of their budget. Mrs. Charles Pilon reported for the Arts and Craft Committee, saying that they had engaged the Travelling Leather Craft Show to appear in Peterborough on April 1, for a one night showing.

ASK FOR GRANT

There was a request from the CGE Works Pipe Band for a grant. The Pipe Band had filled in on three occasions last summer in Nicholls Oval. The commission felt since they had made no provision in their budget for them, they could not meet their request.

The question of senior ball was brought up, and it was thought that the senior team was considering not to play this summer. Most of the players on the team want to retire, and this year they wouldn't have a league to play in. It was suggested that the junior team be brought along, and in a couple of years could take over the senior position. The matter was turned over the G. B. Goulding, who is in charge of the Policy Committee.

Artist Charges Reds Chose Art

TORONTO (CP)—William Newcombe, Toronto artist and former president of the Canadian Society of Graphic Arts, charged today that Communists have "influenced" the selection of paintings for the society's annual exhibition.

He said pictures for the show, to open here April 2 and then continue at other Canadian centres, were judged "on a political basis, not one of merit."

Henry Orenstein, present president, termed Mr. Newcombe's charge "ridiculous and fantastic."

"There is no question of politics in our organization," said Mr. Orenstein. "It's sole purpose is to further the development of graphic arts in Canada."

Quebec Police Hold 3 In Death

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said today three men are being held in connection with the death of Jeanne Irene D'Amore, 26-year-old Ontario woman, whose decomposed body was found in a gravel pit at Shawinigan Falls Dec. 29 last.

A police spokesman said a relative of Miss D'Amore's has been under questioning since Monday.

Tuesday night two other men were arrested in Tillsonburg, Ont., and brought here for questioning.

Provincial police did not identify the relative under questioning.

The two men arrested have been identified as Real LeBlanc, 29, and Jack Tremble, 40. They were taken into custody after a downtown restaurant in Tillsonburg, of which LeBlanc is an owner, was closed by police.

Body of the woman was discovered by truckers loading gravel. Only the extremity of the woman's right hand was intact. Identification was made by the RCMP at Ottawa who traced a conviction for vagrancy.

Police established that the woman travelled frequently between Northern Ontario and Shawinigan Falls. No other address than "Ontario" was available.

There was no further action taken in the case until provincial police detained a relative of the woman Monday.

ICE BREAKER AT WORK

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —The United States Coast Guard ice breaker Mackinaw left harbor at Cheboygan, Mich., Tuesday but was not due to enter the mouth of St. Mary's river until today. Coast Guard officials said the Mackinaw will break ice bridges as far upriver as the south end of Neebish Island, but will come no farther. She is due back in the Mackinac Straits by Friday morning. Ice in the lower river will be allowed to disperse before any attempt is made to clear the river to the Sault canal.

MLA Criticizes Law Society As "Closed Shop", "Cult"

TORONTO (CP)—Sharp criticism of the Law Society of Upper Canada was voiced in the Ontario legislature Tuesday night.

The society, which governs the legal profession in the province, was described as a 'closed shop" and a "priestly cult" during discussion of education budget estimates for the year.

Peter Manley (L—Stormont) called on the administration to give the University of Toronto equal status with Osgoode Hall, until recently the only law school in the province.

Under the present system, students at the university must take the last two years of the Osgoode course after completing their three-year university course.

University students, therefore, attend law school for five years, one more than students who go straight to Osgoode after obtaining their bachelor of arts degree.

CAN DO NOTHING

Education Minister Dunlop said the government can do nothing about the situation.

Premier Frost's budget was attacked by Harry Nixon, veteran Liberal member from Brant riding. Mr. Nixon, leading financial critic for the opposition who has been in the house for 34 years, charged that the premier's claim of a pay as you go budget is absurd.

He also said that Ontario's gross debt jumped $90,000,000 last year to a total of $917,000,000. After warning that provinces can go bankrupt, he said: "I suggest that the premier in the last three years has pulled out the plug."

Premier Frost's anger was provoked when Joseph Salsberg, Labor Progressive member for Toronto St Andrew, read a newspaper report quoting a Children's Aid Society official as saying juvenile delinquency was rampant in Lindsay, the premier's home town.

Mr. Salsberg used the article to illustrate his argument that the government was wrong in refusing grants for construction of auditoriums and gymnasia in schools. An order to this effect was passed last month.

"That's pure nonsense," Mr. Frost said. "I entirely disagree with that assessment of our youth."

W. L. Houck (L—Niagara Falls) said the report was a slur against the young people of the province. He urged that it be struck from Hansard.

Mr. Nixon said the government hasn't lived up to its 1943 promise to pay half the cost of education in the province.

Mr. Nixon attacked the hydro electric power commission. He said conversion of Southern Ontario power from 25 to 60 cycles was to cost $191,000,000, but he didn't think it would be finished for anything less than twice that much.

"Premier Drew then said it wouldn't cost the people anything and that rates would go down," he said. "But where is this manna coming from if the people don't pay? And the rates have gone up.

"I'm looking forward to the day when the Tory party decides it can't carry Mr. Drew any longer in Ottawa and will come here for our prime minister. But the same thing will happen to him."

DEFER AMENDMENT

The House deferred the date of second reading of a controversial amendment to the Mining Act giving the government power to grant prospecting licences covering areas up to 64,000 acres in size.

The bill has been protested by independent prospectors, who told a House committee that it would allow "Wall street to blanket the north."

Other highlights in the legislature:

Mr. Dunlop introduced a bill to remove the $3,000-a-year-ceiling on teachers' pensions.

Few teachers now on pension would benefit from the change, since pensions are calculated on the average salary in the last 15 years of service. But increased salary schedules in the last five years would mean a substantial increase for long-service teachers retiring in future, Mr. Dunlop said.

Mr. Nixon asked the government to give Indians the vote in provincial elections and permission to drink in beverage rooms.

Introduction of a bill which would allow municipalities to charge property owners for the cost of snow clearance.

A bill to give Planning Minister Warrender the power to withdraw his approval of a redevelopment plan involving provincial aid if the municipality hasn't made satisfactory progress.

Greater Benefits Asked By Widows

OTTAWA (CP)—The Dominion council of the non-pensioned veterans' widows Tuesday urged increased benefits in a series of resolutions presented to Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe at the opening of a three-day conference.

Heading the list of resolutions was a request that the widows' allowance be raised to $60 a month from $50 and that veterans' widows receiving 'widows' allowance get free medical care.

The delegation, representing associations from coast to coast, urged that all non-pensioned veterans' widows whose husbands served in England with Canadian forces during the First World War be brought under the Veterans Allowance Act. Widows in this classification now do not qualify.

They also requested that widows of veterans who have resided in Canada 20 years be granted the widows' allowance; and that needy veterans 70 years and over be entitled to receive both the old age pension and war veterans allowance.

Farm Work Focuses On Spring Seeding

TORONTO (CP)—Farmers in many parts of Ontario are organizing for spring work with attention focused on new seedings, the department of agriculture said Tuesday in its weekly crop report.

Several fields of fall wheat are reported to be in fair condition in Victoria, Bruce and Northumberland counties. Farmers in Wellington, Ontario and Hastings counties are interested in the breeding of purebred swine.

Maple syrup has appeared on markets in Waterloo county at around $3.50 a gallon.

Ice Plant At Arena

DELHI, Ont. (CP)—Close to 1,000 persons jammed the community arena here Tuesday night for the official opening of an artificial ice plant. J. N. Allan, MLA for Haldimand-Norfolk, cut the red ribbon and declared the renovated centre open.

Silly To Refuse Export Of Gas To U.S.: Socred

OTTAWA (CP)—Solon Low, Social Credit leader, suggested Tuesday it is "silly" to refuse permission to export surplus natural gas to the United States while waiting to see if a trans-Canada pipeline is economically feasible to feed the Eastern Canadian gas market.

Mr. Low, from Alberta's oil-rich Peace River constituency, said the Social Credit government in his province has a "Canada first" policy along with the federal government. But it was determined that Alberta producers would get a fair return for an exported gas which would encourage further development of the province's oil resources.

He is not convinced, he told the Commons, that an all-Canadian line is economically feasible because of the distance, high cost of construction and of maintenance. Cheaper gas might be supplied the big Ontario market from Alberta through a pipeline going part of its distance through the United States.

The pipeline discussion occurred during consideration of a private bill to incorporate Mid-Continent Pipelines, Ltd. The company plans a pipeline from Alberta to Winnipeg and "then to Eastern Canada" over an undisclosed route. Critics of the proposal have suggested the company plans to pipe gas into the United States.

The bill made no progress during the hour devoted to consideration of private legislation.

L. E. Cardiff (PC—Huron-North) said he favors an all-Canadian pipeline to feed the east with western gas. He also favored the government's Canada first policy but said it should have been made long ago.

SPCA Gases 20,000 Chicks In Strike-Bound Hatchery

STRATFORD (CP) — Twenty-thousand baby chicks were gassed at the strike-bound Swift Canadian Company's hatchery here Tuesday by officials of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The move followed refusal by pickets of the striking local 307, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL,) to allow company officials inside the hatchery to feed the starving birds.

The SPCA had offered to feed the chicks or remove them under bond. However, a five-hour conference among company, union and SPCA officials failed to bring about any agreement.

While pickets continued their vigil outside the building, SPCA officers dumped the chicks from their cardboard cartons into large oil drums and poured lethal gas crystals over them.

Most of the chicks were hatched Sunday night and the rest Monday. SPCA officers removed other eggs from incubators before they hatched.

Meanwhile settlement appeared no nearer than when the walkout began March 6.

The 61 plant employees walked out in a bid for higher wages. They turned down an offer of a six-cent-an-hour increase last week.

Present wages range from 58½ to 66 cents an hour for women and from 78 to 97 cents an hour for men.

Death Toll 1,000 As Earthquake Rocks West Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—A violent earthquake shook western Turkey Wednesday night and unofficial reports today said 500 to 1,000 persons perished. President Celal Bayar left Ankara with government officials for the stricken region. Zahmi Argon, Red Crescent Red Cross information officer, said telegraphed reports from the scene estimated the dead at 500. He said these reports were unconfirmed. Two Istanbul newspapers estimated the death toll at 1,000.

The quake apparently centred around Balikesir, across the Sea of Marmora from Istanbul, and near the First World War battlefield of Gallipoli.

The Balikesir police said they had unconfirmed reports that 500 were dead in Yenice and Cihan, towns of about 2,000 each. Their confirmed reports included 35 dead at Gonen, 100 miles southwest of Istanbul, and three at nearby Manyas. They said more than half the homes in the latter two towns had been destroyed or damaged.

The Istanbul observatory said the quake was felt over an area of more than 10,000 square miles.

SLEEP IN OPEN

Through the affected area, people fled their homes, spending the night in the open.

The quake, which Western seismologists listed as severe, hit the Istanbul area about 10:10 p.m. (2:10 p.m. EST). Houses and buildings shook through the city, but there were no reports of casualties in the big port.

A report from Gonen said half the town was wrecked in the tremor which also struck nearby villages. Rescue squads pulled 60 living victims from debris as fires broke out.

In New York, Dr. Frank Press, seismologist at Columbia University, classified the quake as a "severe, class A earthquake, capable of doing severe damage." Press said his instruments continued to react to the shock for several hours after the tremor.

Earthquake observators in England and Italy also reported recording the tremor. The observatory of San Dominico di Prato in Florence, Italy, described it as the most violent earthquake recorded there in years.

Balikesir province is in the northwest corner of Asiatic Turkey. It is bounded on the west by the Aegean sea and on the north by the Sea of Marmora. Covering an area of 5,982 square miles, it has a population of more than 550,000.

Threat Of War Increases, Adenauer Warns

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today that West Germany must hurry and rearm because the death of Stalin has increased the danger of war.

"We Germans and the rest of the world are in great danger, and Stalin's death has increased, rather than diminished, this danger," he said in appealing to the lower House of Parliament for approval of twin treaties which would make Germany an armed ally of the West.

As he spoke, hundreds of police surrounded the Parliament Building to keep off crowds of Communist-led demonstrators seeking to march on Parliament and block the vote. One band of nearly 1,000 screaming, chanting demonstrators was beaten off by police using firehoses. There also was an outburst of fist-fighting, and several demonstrators were arrested.

DELAY NO LONGER

Adenauer declared that if the German people realized the full extent of their danger they would delay no longer in joining with the European Defence Community, backed by Britain and the United States. Germany is slated to provide 500,000 men for this six-country force.

He said Russia had 140 divisions in East Germany and the East European satellite states—and that nobody knew what Stalin's successors would do with them.

Adenauer said the world's danger was emphasized by last week's attacks upon U. S. and British planes here by Communist MiG fighters. He said these attacks were "actually air fights—over German soil and in the German skies—which demonstrated how helpless we are if we remain unarmed and without allies."

Fighting off repeated heckling from his leftist opposition, the 77-year-old chancellor pleaded with German people to "face the facts."

THREAT OF WAR

U.S. Limits Flying Near Red Border

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — The U. S. Air Force announced today it has banned its planes from flying within 30 miles of Communist East Germany and Czechoslovakia, except on border defence missions or authorized flights in Soviet-recognized air corridors.

An air force statement asserted "these regulations have been in effect well over a year" but were "reaffirmed today."

The statement was issued nine days after two Czech MiG-15s attacked two American Thunderjets and shot one down 15 miles inside U.S.-occupied Bavaria. The pilot escaped with only slight injuries.

Until today, U. S. Air Force spokesmen in Wiesbaden had insisted to newspaper men that there was no formal order prohibiting American planes from approaching the Communist air frontiers. They said non-patrol aircraft, instead, were "told" not to get closer than 10 miles.

The RAF last week ordered its planes to keep 10 miles from the Soviet zone frontier. This action followed the shooting down of a British four-engine bomber last Thursday by two Russian MiG-15s. Seven British airmen died in the attack, which took place over the East-West German frontier

All-Canadian Seaway Might Cause US Regret

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States might have cause for regret if Canada went ahead with the St. Lawrence Seaway on its own. He also said his administration has made some decisions about the matter but he did not say what they are.

As for the hydro-electric power phases of the project, Eisenhower said he regards that as a matter for negotiation between New York state and Ontario.

He said if the project is economically advantageous for the U. S. it is going to be built regardless of what he or anyone else thinks about it.

Canada, U.S. Plan West Coast Exercise

OTTAWA (CP)—A three-day command post exercise on the continent's west coast to train army, navy and air force staffs was announced today by the Canadian and United States defence headquarters in Ottawa and Washington.

The statement said civil defence organizations of both countries will be invited to take part in the exercise, to be held in Alaska and the western sections of Canada and the United States from March 21-23.

The main purpose will be to work out command methods and communications facilities, but actual forces will take part in some areas.

Bombers Crash, Fear 33 Dead

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Two United States military planes crashed in Newfoundland Wednesday and the death toll may reach 33. It was announced today a second U.S. plane, a B-29 medium bomber, plunged into St. George's Bay with 10 men aboard while on a routine flight. Fate of the occupants was not known. Meanwhile, searchers looked for survivors of a giant U.S. bomber which crashed on the east coast of Newfoundland with 23 persons aboard. Ten bodies have been found. There was no immediate trace of the other 13 persons. Details of the B-29 crash were not available. Wreckage was found in the bay, on the province's west coast, but there was no sign of life.

On the other side of the island, search parties hunted for the remaining 13 persons aboard the 10-engine RB-36 which went down north of here.

The plane's occupants included Brig.-Geb. Richard Ellsworth of Erie, Pa., commanding officer of the aircraft's home base at Rapid City, S. D.

Heavy snow slowed progress of the land parties into the isolated crash scene. The bomber went down while en route from the Azores to its base in Rapid City.

Sketchy reports from rescuers gave no details.

They said the giant plane had crashed into a hilltop but did not say if it had burned. The plane had a gasoline capacity of 20,000 gallons.

WEATHER HALTS FLIGHTS

Bad weather prevented flights over the area until just before darkness, when an RCAF para-rescue team was dropped. Two ground parties, one from Gander airport and the other from Pepperrell air force base, left for the scene about 45 air miles northeast of here.

Weather in the area continued unfavorable today.

The bomber came down in the vicinity of the tiny lumbering village of Burgoyne's Cove on the north shore of Smith Sound.

To reach Burgoyne's Cove, ground parties must take a dirt road, generally considered impassable in winter, to Gin Cove and then travel 10 miles down the sound in an open motorboat.

The first message to Clarenville identified the plane as an RCAF aircraft, but U. S. northeast command headquarters said the crash

Post Office Cats Too Capricious To Rate Cost Of Living Bonus From UK Government

LONDON (CP)—Britain's post office cats aren't going to get a cost-of-living increase.

The House of Commons decided Wednesday to let cat wages stand at the July, 1918, level, when "incidental expenses" to keep the cats in catnip and milk were frozen.

Cats were taken on at the post offices to kill mice and rats who nibbled in musty dead-letter files and back storerooms.

Most cats now receive a 21-cent-a-week maintenance allowance from the post office, but the cat fanciers thought this should be raised.

Not so Prime Minister Churchill's government. In an exchange right out of Gilbert and Sullivan, the government took the view the cats never had it so good. Some of the cats also could show more energy in catching mice.

Capt. Lawrence Orr, a Conservative, raised the issue. Playing it straight, Leonard D. Gammans, assistant postmaster-general, doubled the House up with laughter when he said in dignified tones:

"There is I am afraid a certain amount of industrial chaos in the post office cat world. Allowances vary in different places, possibly according to the alleged efficiency of the animals and other factors.

"It has proved quite impossible to organize any scheme for payment by results or output bonus. These servants of the state are frequently unreliable capricious in their duty and liable to prolonged absenteeism."

MPP Blasts 'Greedy' Lawyers For "Gouging" Legal Fees

TORONTO (CP)—Greedy lawyers have made a "Santa Claus" out of the unsatisfied judgment fund, the Ontario Legislature was told Wednesday.

W. M. Nickle, Progressive-Conservative member for Kingston and himself a lawyer, said unscrupulous solicitors are gouging exorbitant legal fees from the fund to the mutual disadvantage of their clients and the government.

He said the benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada, who govern the legal profession in the province, are aware of the situation but have done nothing.

Mr. Nickle, son of William F. Nickle, attorney-general of Ontario from 1923 to 1926, said there are many instances in which the lawyer collects more than the client is awarded by the court.

"CONTEMPT"

"Nothing brings a great profession into quicker contempt than when its members encroach upon ethical practices," he said.

He urged the law society to disbar lawyers involved in these practices, and asked the government to set up a board to decide how much lawyers should be paid for work on cases in which the claim is paid from the unsatisfied judgment fund.

"If it was a farmer who said this, he'd be told to mind his own business, but I'm a lawyer and I know what I'm talking about," he said.

LAWYERS GET FOURTH

Mr. Nickle said one plaintiff in Kingston was awarded $56 by the court but the legal fees totalled $993. In another case the award was $300 and the legal fees $875. Mr. Nickle said 25 per cent of all money paid out of the fund went to lawyers.

"Let's make sure that every dollar paid is a dollar earned," he said.

The unsatisfied judgment fund also came under discussion by T.D. Thomas, CCF member for Ontario riding. He said the fund is inadequate and should be replaced by compulsory auto insurance.

He said rates in Saskatchewan are only one-third or one-half of Ontario insurance rates, because they are administered by the government.

Durham Team Wins Judging At Spring Show

Three Durham boys retained for their county possession of the Agrico trophy in the inter-county junior farmer seed judging competition at the Central Ontario Spring Show here Wednesday.

They were: Harvey Graham, Nestleton, individual score, 811 points; Ken Buttery, Bowmanville, 795; and Cliff Bristow, Campbellcroft, 789; with a total of 2,395 points.

Hastings county was second with 2,349 points, Prince Edward third, 2,307; Ontario county fourth, 2,294; and the order of the others was: Lennox-Addington, Victoria, Frontenac, Northumberland and Peterborough.

Coach of the Durham youngsters was Ed. A. Summers, Bowmanville, agricultural representative, who has a reputation of long standing for turning out championship title and trophy winners in junior farmer company of the district and also of the province.

PLACE HIGH

Of the 10 boys entered in the competition from that county, four placed in the top five.

Individual scores of the first 20 of the 67 boys in the seed judging competition were: Harvey Graham, 811; Ken Buttery, 795; Ross Foster, Bloomfield, Prince Edward, 790; Clifford Bristow, 789; Don Green, Nestleton, 789.

Charles Keary, Trenton, RR 5, 785; Robert Bush, Glen Miller, Hastings, 784; David Kenny, Brewers Mills, Frontenac, 780.5; John McLaren, Grafton, Northumberland, 780; Lavergne Moore, Springbrook, Hastings, 780; James Jones, Belleville, RR 5, 780.

Bill Eliminates 92-Year-Old Peterborough Trust

By DAVE WHITE

TORONTO (Special)—In a split vote at Queen's Park at noon today, the Private Bills committee approved the order of the Municipal Board permitting Peterborough to annex the 1,200 acres of Smith township. But, like Waterloo, it was "a near thing." After a hearing that lasted an hour, the members voted 12 to 10 to uphold the order of the Municipal Board. The alternative was to throw it out and hold up the prospects of early housing development in the city.

A motion by Hollis Beckett of York East and Arthur Childs of Hamilton was to turn down the order with the understanding there would be a referendum among the affected ratepayers in Smith.

"Let the people vote," was the rallying cry of Mr. Childs, formerly a Senior OHA goalkeeper. His motion was defeated and an amendment by S. L. Hall of Halton county and Robert Elliott, of Hamilton, confirming the order, carried by a majority of two votes.

For a time the issue was in doubt as the MLA's forming the private bills committee debated the Peterborough bill. At times the municipalities of Peterborough, Smith and the affected ratepayers were forgotten and overtones of the bitter controversy between Toronto and its suburbs—also over annexation—crept in.

Chairman William Nickle of Kingston repeatedly had to pound the gavel for order.

The private bill also eliminates the city trust which has been a watchdog of the municipality's financial affairs since 1861.

There was no opposition to this section of the bill.

HANGS IN BALANCE

The issue hung in the balance after City Clerk Outram and Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald both spoke briefly.

Mr. Outram said the land was "urgently needed for housing developments". The situation was so bad that the city had already gone out and developed 28 acres of that land (the Queen Elizabeth subdivision).

Committee Passes Two SS Bills

TORONTO (Staff)— Two bills affecting Separate School supporters in Peterborough were passed by the private bills committee of the Legislation today.

From now on election for the members of the Separate School board will be by a general vote rather than by the present system: electing trustees by wards.

There was no opposition and the bill passed without discussion.

The rights of the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation of the Diocese of Peterborough were clarified in the second bill. It dealt with borrowing power. There will be no change in the borrowing power of the Bishop. The new bill only clarifies it.

Churchill Meets Tito On Ways To Avert Attack

LONDON (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia discussed with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and other top-ranking British leaders today, ways the anti-Soviet Communist state could ward off possible Russian aggression.

Nub of the talks in Britain's Whitehall government centre was thought to be Yugoslav air defence against Russia's near-sonic MiG-15 jet fighter.

Not only Russia but most of the satellites surrounding Yugoslavia now are armed with the swift Red jet. Tito's air forces still are powered chiefly by outmoded British piston-engine planes.

AIR WEAKNESS

That weakness almost certainly was the big worry in Tito's mind as he whirled up to Westminster in a bullet-proof car with 14 police outriders to meet Churchill, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Defence Minister Earl Alexander.

This morning's sessions began in the foreign office with Tito, foreign minister Oca Popovic and Gen. Milos Shumonja heading the Yugoslav delegation.

Shumonja is the man who played a key part in building up the

Britain Grants Asylum To Pilot

LONDON (Reuters)—Franciszek Jarewski, Polish pilot who escaped to Denmark in a latest-type Russian MiG-15 jet fighter two weeks ago, has been granted asylum in Britain as a political refugee.

The foreign office, announcing this today, refused to comment on Jarewski's movements but reliable sources said he has already arrived in Britain.

The Danish ministry of justice announced Wednesday night the Pole had left for a destination which was being kept secret at his own request.

"Obviously the United States," snorted Polish Ambassador Stanislaw Kelles-Krauz. "He was bribed by American money to desert the fatherland."

The ambassador to Denmark announced that the plane, carefully inspected by North Atlantic Treaty officers after the Polish Air Force pilot landed it on Bornholm Island in the Baltic March 5, will be shipped back to Poland this week.

Czechs Muster All Pomp For Funeral Of Gottwald

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia mustered Red pomp and ceremony today for the funeral in Prague of the country's late dictator, President Klement Gottwald.

The body of the 56-year-old chief of state, who died last Saturday after an attack of pneumonia and pleurisy, was to be borne in a state funeral procession at 1 p.m. from Hradcany Castle to a burial place in the First World War national monument on the capital's Vitkov hill.

Thousands of Czechs filed past his bier after it was put on public view Monday in the Gothic Spanish hall of the presidential castle. A period of national mourning was declared.

On a lesser scale, observances for Gottwald were similar to those in Moscow for his close comrade in communism, Joseph Stalin. Gottwald attended the Soviet chief's funeral in Moscow's Red Square March 9, and there, in near-zero temperature, caught the cold that led to his fatal illness.

The official radio and press in Prague has been silent on who will replace Gottwald at the helm of the government—or whether any one man will. Although the constitution provides for Parliament to elect a new president within 14 days after death of the chief executive, there is talk that the post will be abolished.

In that case, Gottwald's dictatorial power might be divided among his former deputies.

The head of the Kremlin's delegation to Gottwald's funeral, the new Soviet war minister Nikolai A. Bulganin, arrived in Prague Tuesday, arousing speculation that he was carrying on military talks on the side with satellite representatives.

Laborites Move To Lift Sale Ban

LONDON (AP)—Left-winger Aneurin Bevan and former home secretary James Chuter Ede moved today to throw out Britain's stringent new laws against the sale of strategic goods to Red China

The two Socialists put down a prayer in the House of Commons seeking to annul a statutory order tabled last Monday which required all ships going to Red China to obtain a licence certifying there was nothing in the cargo that could help the Reds wage war.

The statutory order followed the recent promise in Washington of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles that Britain would plug loopholes in her ban on strategic trade with Red China.

Four other Labor members signed the Bevan-Ede prayer—a parliamentary device which means a number of members want a debate on an order which otherwise automatically becomes law.

Ambrose Small's Sister Dies At 77 In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The 77-year-old sister of Ambrose Small, a Toronto millionaire whose disappearance 35 years ago touched off one of North America's greatest searches, died today. She was Miss Florence Small.

Surviving are a half-brother, Percy Small of Toronto, and a half sister, Mrs. Madeline Ryan of New York.

Ambrose Small, Toronto theatre magnate, disappeared in 1917, after selling his theatre interests and depositing a cheque for $1,000,000. The mystery was never solved.

Pay Half School Cost For Retarded Children

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government will pay up to 50 per cent of the cost of schools for retarded children, Education Minister Dunlop told the legislature's education committee Wednesday.

He said the department will not set up schools for teaching these children but will give considerable financial assistance to parent groups who have schools now or will set them up in the future.

U.S. Would Meet Russians Halfway Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the new Russian regime will never be met less than half way by his administration in any effort toward world peace.

But he said the Soviet Union so far has made no formal peace overture.

The President also told his press conference that he sees in the recent series of Communist aircraft attacks on U. S. planes no change in the intentions of the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower also:

1. Reiterated that tax reduction must be deferred until a balanced budget is in sight.

NO POINT

2. Declared he sees no point in questioning the loyalty of the country's churches. This was in reply to a question as to whether he favored an investigation of possible communist influences in the churches.

There has been a row in Congress over a suggestion by Chairman Harold Velde (Rep. Ill.) that the House of Representatives un-American Activities Committee might look into Communist influences in the churches. Velde has since backed away from this idea.

3. Said his nomination of Charles Bonlen to be ambassador to Russia seems to him to be a good appointment. The President made that remark in reply to a request to comment on a statement by Senator McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) that it was a serious mistake for the administration to press for Senate approval of the nomination.

High boys in the judging of the particular varieties were: Oats, Don Green, Nestleton; barley, Ross Foster, Bloomfield; Red Clover, David Kenny, Brewers Mills; Alfalfa, Gordon Murray, Woodville, Victoria county; and Fall Wheat, Ken Kennington, Picton, RR 9.

PEFECT SCORE

Wally Jackson of Springbrook, Hastings, turned in a perfect score in the weed seed recognition, and was awarded a prize of two bushels of registered seed.

The results of this competition which took place in the uptown market hall was announced at the conclusion of the afternoon program at the Spring Show by John A. Dawson, Ottawa, chairman of the judging competition committee.

"It was the largest and generally speaking the strongest class of boys that I have seen at this Show from the days when it was known as the Quinte District Seed Fair," Mr. Dawson said. He is district supervisor of the plant products division of the federal Department of Agriculture.

"I was delighted to see the increase in the number of boys taking part, and in having them here from all the nine counties of the Spring Show territory. They didn't make it easy for us. I thought we would have finished an hour or more sooner than we did.

"I congratulate all the boys for their interest, and of course the Durham county group and Mr. Summers. On the results today I think I should suggest to them that, although they kept possession of the trophy which was won for the first time last year by a Durham team, they should look for some opposition next year. I am warning them about those Hastings boys especially, on their showing today."

The attractive Agrico trophy was presented to the Durham top trio and Mr. Summers by M. J. Daigault of Port Hope, manager of the Agricultural Chemicals.

"Just a year ago I had the honor of presenting our Agrico trophy for the first time to the winning team from Durham county," Mr. Daigault said. "I don't think I'll ever forget those three boys: Roy McColm of Port Hope, RR 1, Merrill Brown of Newcastle and Keith Van Camp of Nestleton.

"I congratulate today's winners. It should be a delight to them and their parents and also Mr. Summers that they have succeeded in winning the trophy again for Durham. Mr. Summers has been doing an outstanding job in the coaching and training of junior farmers for a long time, and I am glad to see that his enthusiasm in their work and success has not diminished."

The visiting boys were luncheon guests of the Show directors at the Empress Hotel at which Clifford D. Graham, Ontario Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was the speaker.

Board Rescinds Offer Made Town

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Victoria county area high school board Wednesday night rescinded its compromise offer made to the town of Lindsay regarding the one mill paid by the town toward the maintenance of the area since its formation, and refused by the town council this year.

After Lindsay decided to discontinue payment of the mill, as it had done since 1950, when the area was formed, members of the high school board went to the council and offered a compromise proposal. The extra mill, they proposed, would always be levied on the 1950 assessment, and the town would pay it for all time. The board claimed that this had been the condition of entry of several municipalities to the area, and that Lindsay had done the selling job on this point.

The council rejected the compromise, and the next week, struck the town rate without including the mill.

Allan Currins, a member of the board who visited town council, moved that the town be billed on the 1953 assessment, withdrawing the compromise, and action proceeded from there.

J. Stanley Dix, secretary of the board, told the members that the proper plan for any municipality dissatisfied with its high school levy was to ask for arbitration, and, if is rejected the findings of an arbitration board, to take the matter to the Ontario Municipal Board.

This was the way for Lindsay to protest the addition of the extra mill this year. The town, he said, had not done this. A letter from the chairman of the board, H. H. McFadden, was read, re-stating this belief and interpretation of the High School Act.

RISK DRIVING

"These high rates encourage people to risk driving without insurance," he said. "It results in many damage claims which have to be paid from the unsatisfied judgment fund."

Mr. Thomas also called for more provincial housing aid. He said 51 per cent of the wage earners make less than $2,500 a year and are unable to take advantage of existing housing schemes because down payments are too high.

"Housing is not a political issue, it is a national need," he said. "I hope the government will give vigorous leadership in overcoming this dire problem."

He said municipalities are getting insufficient relief from the burdens of school construction costs and couldn't stand the pressure much longer.

"If we used the money given to corporations in tax cuts it would more than pay for the additional assistance required," he said.

Free 2 Drivers Police Court

Two charges of careless driving were dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp today.

The first, against Robert Jack Byrd, 24, 139½ Hunter Street, arose out of an accident on George Street, between Sherbrooke and Rink Streets, at about 10 a.m. on February 19. The other vehicle involved was a taxi driven by Mrs. B. K. Smith, 40, 440 Cameron Street.

Mrs. Smith's evidence was that she was driving south on George Street and stopped for the traffic light at Sherbrooke Street when Byrd pulled up on her right. When the light changed, Byrd pulled ahead of her and scratched her right fender in pulling over to avoid two parked cars.

She said she followed Byrd, and when he stopped at Rink Street she applied her brakes but went into a skid on the icy surface, struck a hydro pole and a street sign, jumped the curb, and knocked down a fence. Byrd pulled to a stop on the north side of Rink Street.

"When I told him it was his fault he got a little excited and said he had nothing to do with it," Mrs. Smith said.

Defence counsel W. B. Gordon interrupted in his cross-examination of Mrs. Smith by Crown Attorney J. A. Bradshaw, who said, "I don't think there can possibly be a conviction in this matter."

SECOND CHARGE

The other charge, against Hugh D. Rose, 21, RR 11, Peterborough, arose out of an accident on Albert Street, opposite the CGE gate, about 4:30 p.m. February 17, involving a pick-up truck driven by Rose and a 10-ton tractor-trailer driven by Ken J. Kane, 48, 70 Park Street South. A pedestrian William Vass, 71, 625 Bruce Street, was injured and appeared in court on crutches with his left foot in a cast.

Damage to the right side of the pick-up and the left rear fender totalled $200. Damage to a parked car belonging to Joseph Sale, RR 1, Indian River, was $175, and one owned by W. A. Danahy, 5 Bruce Street, $25.

Kane said that he had stopped his tractor-trailer to turn in at the gate and looked to his rear. When he looked ahead he saw the pick-up truck right in front of him and applied his brakes with his left front wheel over the centre line.

Vass said that he was crossing the street and he arrived beside one of the parked cars when he saw the pick-up about 20 feet away driving at a "fair speed." He didn't see it hit the tractor-trailer but it struck the parked cars after it hit him.

Defence counsel T. J. Carley, QC, argued that there was "no case of anything that calls for an answer whatsoever."

"I don't think there's any case," the magistrate said.

"Perhaps not on the evidence, but I hope it's a warning to the accused to drive slower in the future," said Mr. Bradshaw.

"Did you go ahead before the Municipal Board's order?" asked Chairman Nickle.

"We had to," replied Mr. Outram.

"Oh well, if the city went ahead before the order, that's their responsibility."

ELECTION ISSUE

Several of the MLAs asked if the annexation were an issue at the last township election.

Mr. Outram said it was and those in the council in favor of the annexation had been returned.

"Let's hear from the reeve," suggested one of the committee members.

Reeve Fitzgerald: "We've talked about the annexation with Peterborough a good many times and we're in favor. We can't accommodate the children in the schools and we thought annexation would be a good thing."

He was asked specifically if annexation had been an issue at the election as Mr. Outram had indicated, and he said it wasn't.

This caused some confusion and there was murmuring among the MLAs.

At this point Smith township clerk Alex Edmison got up and said it was an issue.

Ralph Standish presented the case for the 34 per cent of the dissenting Smith ratepayers whose names were on a petition.

RATEPAYERS' CASE

Mr. Standish said there was no evidence at the Municipal Board hearing that land was needed either for housing or industry, and he repeated his claim that there was already sufficient land in the city.

"If this bill is thrown out no harm will ensue," said Mr. Standish. "We feel this is not necessary at this time and won't be needed for 30 or 40 years. The citizens of both Peterborough and Smith are opposed."

"It was taken for granted by the township council that once the land assembly had bought the lands they had to go along with it," said Mr. Standish.

"What do you really want?" asked Mr. Nickle.

"To have the matter referred to the electorate," replied Mr. Standish. "This committee can't order a referendum but, quite frankly, we would like to see them throw it out."

Wilfred Huycke, QC, presented the city's case.

Attending the hearings were Mayor Hugh Waddell and Alderman William Beggs of the City Council, City Engineer Chalmers, Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald and the Smith Council, and the Hon. Harold R. Scott.

TITO'S VISIT—The Duke of Edinburgh, left, accompanied Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia as he reviews a naval guard of honor on his arrival in London to begin an historic five-day visit. The Queen's husband is wearing the uniform of Admiral of the Fleet for the first time since his promotion last Jan. 5.

Egypt Refuses U.S. Mediation

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters)—Egypt rejected Wednesday night the United States' offer to help Britain and Egypt mediate their long-standing dispute over the Suez canal zone.

Fuad Galal, minister of national guidance, told reporters that Egypt will not permit the U.S. to act as "a third party" in forthcoming Anglo-Egyptian talks on the evacuation of the vital canal zone. But he added that Egypt will always welcome "the good offices of the U.S. . . a friendly country."

The American offer to help iron out the touchy Suez problem was issued earlier in the day by U.S. ambassador Jefferson Caffery. It came just a day after Russia warned that Egypt's participation in any Middle East defence project sponsored by the West would be regarded as "an unfriendly, if not hostile, act."

Threat Of War

"The full consequences of Stalin's death on future world affairs and the fate of Germany and Europe are not yet clearly discernable," he said.

DANGER GREAT

"But one thing can already be said—Stalin's death has certainly not lessened the danger for us Germans and for the world. It has now been confirmed that Stalin had been ill for some time. But while he was in full command he was careful not to endanger his imperialistic successes by a hot war.

"But now Stalin's death has increased world instability and the danger in which we all live."

Police said that Communist and neutralist opponents of the rearmament treaties had imported hundreds of demonstrators from all sections of West Germany, especially the industrial Ruhr.

CLOSE OFF AREA

Police closed off an area of nearly 10 square blocks around the Parliament with the barbed-wire barricades. All around the building they stretched fire hoses. Water guns were mounted on the roof.

The demonstrators shouted anti-rearmament and peace slogans. Several were injured.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will launch the treaties on their third and final reading in the Bundestag (lower house) with a government declaration. This will be followed by a debate lasting probably eight hours.

The 77-year-old government chief wants this step completed before he goes to the United States for a state visit April 6.

The treaties are the Allied-Bonn peace contract, giving West Germany near-sovereignty, and the six-country European Defence Community pact, setting up a unified West European army. Germany would contribute 500,000 men to the one-uniform force.

ASKS MAJORITY

As the two agreements came up in the Bundestag, the confident Adenauer called for a big majority "to show the way" to the rest of free Europe. The final vote was expected tonight.

The statement said "unconfirmed information" indicated there were 23 persons aboard the plane, which was powered by six piston engines and four jets.

At Rapid City, Deputy Wing Commander Col. Howard W. Moore said the plane was piloted by Capt. Jacob Pruett of Charleston, W. Va., a member of the 718th strategic reconnaissance squadron.

No further names of those aboard had been released early today.

NO "ACCIDENTS"

"There is no such thing as a traffic accident," is a quotation from one of the series of films shown at the Central Ontario Spring Show this week. All these so-called accidents are preventible. The film was an arresting summary of the excessive loss of life in streets and highways, with permanent injuries and maimings, heavy property loss, all attributed to the carelessness of people unaware of the power of the engines of which they assume control.

Know Grasses Graham Urges

Clifford D. Graham, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario today urged farmers to learn as much about grass seed as they know about cereals

Mr. Graham declared the Central Ontario Spring Show officially open in the absence of the minister of agriculture, the Hon. F. S. Thomas who is in hospital. The deputy minister said that Mr. Thomas had been particularly anxious to attend the show and a similar one in Western Ontario and sent his regrets at not being on hand.

IMPORTANT FEATURE

"We consider the seed fair to be an important feature of our soil and crop improvement organization," Mr. Graham said. "You serve agriculture as it can best be carried out in your community."

"We should be learning grasses and clover by their varieties and names as well as we know cereals. Just because you have good looking grass does not mean it is high in mineral and nutrient content.

"You should know grasses which grow best individually and those which should be mixed."

recently formed Yugoslav-Greek-Turkish defence bloc.

Uniformed police cordoned the foreign office building more than an hour before Tito was due.

It was generally believed that Britain and the anti-Moscow Red dictator were working out assurances—short of a formal treaty—of mutual support in the cold war with the Soviet Union.

CLUES FEW

The foreign office has given few clues to the scope of the talks, but it is known that the problem of Trieste looms large in the attempt to develop closer ties between Tito's Balkan state and the Western allies.

Conflicting Yugoslav-Italian claims to sovereignty in the divided "free" territory at the head of the Adriatic sea thus far have imposed a major roadblock to such efforts.

Before Tito's arrival in London Monday, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said Britain hoped "for improved relations between Yugoslavia and Italy—then the West will be truly united."

The first session of the conference was held Tuesday. As it resumed, Tito was expected to raise the question of economic aid and perhaps the placing of Yugoslav orders here for modern arms, including jet fighter planes.

Tito saw some of Britain's newest jets in action Wednesday at an RAF demonstration, marred by the death of two pilots in a collision aloft.

JOIN TALKS

Defence Minister Earl Alexander and R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, were called in to join Churchill and Eden in discussions with Tito and his foreign minister Koca Popovic.

Tito had a date tonight to dine with members of Parliament at the House of Commons. Popovic was to address another group of MPs in one of the Commons committee rooms, with Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd as chairman of the meeting.

Tito, Popovic and a party of 14 were guests at a dinner party given by Churchill Wednesday night at 10 Downing street, the prime minister's official residence. The 30 British guests included Eden, Butler, Alexander, Labor leader Clement R. Attlee and Liberal chief Clement Davies.

Toronto Won't Sue Over Maples

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control, acting on city solicitor Wallace Angus' advice, decided Wednesday it won't take legal action over University avenue's maple trees—or lack of them.

A controversy was stirred up last year when alderman Roy Belyea said the city had not received the right species. He contended Holland Bulb Company had given it Norway maples instead of the sugar maple variety, which changes the color of its leaves in the fall to a brilliant red.

West Germany Pays $822,000,000 For Persecution

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany's agreement to pay $822,000,000 in reparations to Israel for Nazi persecution of the Jews was ratified Wednesday night by the federal Parliament. The Socialist opposition came to the aid of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to put it over in the Bundestag (Lower House).

The final Bundestag vote was 238 to 39, with 86 members abstaining.

Most of the votes in favor came from Dr. Adenauer's Christian Democrats and the Socialists. Two parties in Adenauer's three-party coalition government — the Free Democrats and the German party —divided on the issue and did not vote solidly in favor.

The Bundesrat (Upper House) approved the pact Feb. 20, but it still must go back there Friday for the final stamp before the federal president signs it into law.

Under the agreement the Germans promise to pay Israel and the Jewish material claims conference $822,000,000, mostly in manufactured goods, during the next 12 to 14 years.

Senior golds held firm but juniors weakened in spite of a firm advance in Con. Discovery.

Higher-priced base metals were mixed but good gains in Eastern Metals and Dominion Asbestos buoyed the list. Sherritt Gordon slipped.

Western oils weakened on a small majority of losses led by Del Rio, Redwater, Pacific and Bailey Selburn. Wilrich, Britalta and Fargo gained.

DISCUSSING SEED—Gordon Hancock of Peterborough will wind up the Spring Show Friday afternoon with the auction of all the grain shown here this week. The Central Ontario Spring Show is also a grain mart, although its principal purpose is to sound forth the advantages, particularly in income, of sowing only clean, sound grain. It may seem silly to the layman that any farmer remains in Ontario today who is careless about his cereal crop practice. But, ask the others about it, and you find one of the main aims of this and other Shows like it. Produce better grain crops, keep the weed seeds out, don't waste your money seeding cheap grain on valuable and well prepared land. The grain bags in this picture will be dispersed Friday for seeding here and there in the nine counties of Central Ontario. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Hotel's Guests Object To Cobourg Bell

COBOURG — (ENS) —A town tradition, the six a.m. bell, which is rung continually for more than a minute every morning at that hour, is to be discontinued, for a time at least, at was decided at the town council meeting.

Guests in the British Hotel across the street object to their slumbers being disturbed so early. It will be silenced for two weeks to see what oppostion arises. Working men in town have been used to the six o'clock clanging of the town clock bell for generations.

A by-law was passed to authorize the collection of taxes starting with the first instalment on May 15, second on July 15, Sept. 15 and November 16. Rev. E. C. Kelloway was appointed a member of the recreational committee. A letter from the public school board advised council that township pupils would be charged in accordance with the School Act and that it was not necessary to meet the town council to discuss the matter. Some time ago, the town council indicated that township pupils were not paying a proportionate share of educational costs, due to the fact that their parents lived outside the corporation.

Mrs. John Ling, Park St. complained that the culvert on her street would not handle spring floods. The Board of Works will investigate.

Following a proposal that street cleaning be placed on the general rate, and that includes oil and calcium, council decided to refer it to the attention of netx year's council in view of the fact that it was too late now to change the estimates.

"THE BUSINESS OF FARMING" was the panel discussion topic in the convention hall of the Ontario Spring Show on Wednesday afternoon. Speakers are, left to right, Dr. H. L. Patterson, Department of Agriculture, Toronto; Prof. D. R. Campbell, O.A.C.; George McLaughlin, Oshawa; R. H. Graham, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; A. M. Crowds Cheer Pius At First Audience

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Rousing cheers rang through Vatican palace today for the Pope as he granted his first public audience since he became ill two months ago.

The pontiff was borne on his portable throne into the ducal and royal chambers of the Vatican palace, and then into its Hall of Benedictions.

As he appeared, shouts of "Viva il Papa" burst from some 8,000 persons—half of them Italian students and school children—gathered in the three chambers.

Ice-Breaker Opening Harbor At Duluth

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — The U. S. Coast Guard cutter Woodruth has started ice-breaking operations in Duluth-Superior harbor.

On her initial venture Wednesday, the vessel tried to determine the amount of operations necessary to open the harbor for ore ships.

The coast guard said ice in the Duluth-Superior basin is fro.. 12-20 inches thick, less than normal for this time of year. Windrowed ice extends 10 miles into Lake Superior, with broken ice fields as far as the eye can see.

In Cleveland, the weather bureau reported it would resume its service to Great Lakes ships March 25.

Westinghouse Says Profits Drop

HAMILTON (CP) — Canadian Westinghouse Co., Ltd. had net profit in 1952 of $2,964,984, or $5.17 a share, compared with $3,479,883, or $6.07 a share, in 1951.

Income taxes were $2,780,000 compared with $3,676,000; dividends were unchanged at $1,147,000; working capital was $34,803,367 compared with $18,732,656. During the year the company secured $20,000,000 through sale of 4½ per cent 17-year sinking fund debentures.

H. H. Rogge, president, said 1952 had been a critical year, but in many respects it reflected favorable marketing conditions. "Nevertheless, corporation taxes, increases in labor costs and other obligations could not be fully absorbed in price tags."

Although the government's anti-inflationary fiscal measures which hit sales in 1951, were repealed in April, 1952, sales volume didn't recover until the fall of 1952. "This was accompanied by a heavy demand for television receivers, and the growing popularity of television is expected to maintain the appliance market at a high level for some time to come."

New High School Proposed For Brighton School Area

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — At a meeting of the East Northumberland High School Area Board, the chief item of business was the question of selling the equity in the Brighton school building by the High School Area Board, to the village of Brighton.

A motion which had been previously passed to pay Brighton $97,000 for village's equity in the building was rescinded.

Wesley Down of Brighton township traced negotiations with the Brighton Public School Board from the beginning. He claimed that a new high school at Brighton, to accommodate 300 pupils, would cost area taxpayers 2.54 mills for 20 years and a 400-pupil school 2.87 mills, whereas if Brighton village built a public school it would require 4.8 mills, based on a 50 per cent provincial grant. He also said that if Brighton purchased the equity the High School Area Board held in the school it would only cost about 1.54 mills.

D. H. Meyers of the Campbellford Public School Board, said it would not be in keeping with the Department of Education's policy to close a school. He questioned the figures on the purchase and remodelling of the Brighton school for high school purposes, and said the figure would be about .9 mills and that a new public school in Brighton would cost about $200,000 or about 5 mills to the village.

After a recess a motion by Fred Spence (Colborne) and R. J. Ross (Brighton) that the board locate a site for a new high school to take care of students from Brighton and surrounding school sections and offer the board's share in the Brighton school to the village for $40,000 was withdrawn.

It was moved by Wesley Down and seconded by N. N. Haggerty (township of Murray) that a new high school be built in Brighton to accommodate all, or as many pupils as the Department of Education will allow, from the school sections now sending pupils to Colborne, Wooler and Brighton high schools, and that the board offer their equity in the present Brighton high school building to the village for $40,000. The motion carried.

SOME OPPOSITION

Fred Spence of Colborne, the three Campbellford representatives, and the Seymour township representative opposed the motion.

The East Northumberland High School Area Board comprises representatives from the town of Campbellford, the villages of Brighton, Wooler and Warkworth and the townships of Seymour, Cramache, Brighton, Murray and Percy.

Hospital Board To Spend $10,000

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The directors of Campbellford Memorial hospital recently authorized the purchase of furnishings for private and semi-private rooms of the new hospital, to the extent of $10,000.

The sum of $3,000 has also been authorized for the purchase of sterilizing equipment.

The Rotary Club is working to raise $1,000 to equip a waiting room and the Ladies Auxiliary of the hospital already have a sufficient supply of linens on hand and are busy making curtains. The board hopes to find an organization willing to raise funds for furnishing the admitting office and superintendent's office.

Eight children's beds have been allotted for pediatrics and 300 square feet have been allotted for the laboratory.

Patient Diplomacy May Win The Day

Among the excited voices crying despair, foreboding war, urging the Red menace and tense and loud at international councils, the unexcited, unemphatic voice of the British Foreign Secretary seems lost. Yet Mr. Eden's very calm, his detached poise and his reasonable assessments are being heard, as a still, small voice may penetrate through a clamour and quiet a bedlam.

* * *

Last week during the Korea debate at the United Nations when many delegates were angry and despairing, Mr. Eden spoke neither with hope nor without hope about what had been achieved. Aggression in Korea had been met and defeated. A third world war had been avoided; perhaps history may tell that it had been averted. There has been no armistice, but China and North Korea are bound in time to recognize that they are gaining only misery and economic strains from the war. Russia may come to realize that a policy which unites the whole western world against her does not pay. As for UN itself, now widely considered as only an instrument in the Cold War leading to a third world war, Mr. Eden said this: "The fact is that the third world war has not broken out. For my part, I am convinced that, with the growing strength and authority of the West and with common prudence on the part of both the free and the Communist worlds, there is no reason why it should ever break out."

* * *

Common prudence. Yes, that is the attitude to have, and the way to make common prudence helpful is through patient, orthodox diplomacy, the kind of diplomacy the British Foreign Office is pursuing. Britain has continued to recognize Red China, despite outraged opinion in the U.S. Mr. Eden's diplomacy has lead to Tito's visit to London —on Mr. Eden's invitation given personally by him last fall in Belgrade. For Mr. Eden does not believe that the Communist world is a monolithic, a single block of stone.

* * *

This sort of dealing, this patient diplomacy may be slow and pessimistic compared with the tough, dramatic speeches and positive policies of others. But it can be effective, as the British diplomacy in Yugoslavia is showing. Life itself is a slow process and so is the life of nations. Time passes, moods change, men die—even Communist leaders—and opportunities ebb and flow.

* * *

A distrait and angry despair seems to have taken hold of civilized races with the decline in belief in a beneficent power. Mr. Eden believes that good is the final goal and that the free way of life is superior and vital and can make its way in time. He shook hands with the new Russian delegate to UN. Mr. Lodge, the American delegate, blatantly refused to do so. Will it be only Mr. Eden, not Mr. Lodge, who hears thoughtfully the new Russian Prime Minister, Malenkov, who a few days ago told the Supreme Soviet that there are no controversial issues with the U.S. or any other nations which cannot be settled peacefully?

Peterborough People's Income

One looks at the income tax returns of one's fellow-citizens with a hollow curiosity. The peep one has, through published general taxation statistics, is impersonal and late (no names are given and the figures are always about two years out of date), but even that view is interesting. We learn, for instance, that in 1950 there were 80 people in the city of Peterborough who declared incomes over $15,000. The same table of taxation statistics shows that there were only 20 taxpaying citizens of Peterborough with taxable incomes less than $1,000.

Here is the whole table for the city of Peterborough:

Declared Taxable Income	Persons
Under $1,000	20
$1,000- 1,500	1,370
1,500- 2,000	1,750
2,000- 2,500	2,540
2,500- 3,000	2,670
3,500- 3,500	1,620
3,500- 4,000	730
4,000- 4,500	240
4,500- 5,000	130
5,000- 6,000	130
6,000- 7,000	40
7,000- 8,000	90
8,000- 9,000	40
9,000-10,000	30
10,000-15,000	120
Over 15,000	80

All told in 1950 there were 11,600 city of Peterborough residents who paid income tax. They paid it on a total declared income for the year of $32,812,000. And the total personal income tax they paid ran to the high figure of $2,348,000.

It is informative to compare the city figures with the rest of Peterborough County, keeping in mind that the city's population was about 38,000, the rest of the county's population about 22,500. Only 2,210 people in the County paid any income tax—compared with 11,600 in the city. The county people declared that they had a total income for the year of only $5,815,000, compared with the city people's income of $32,812,000. Included in these county figures would be numerous people who work in the city, have offices there or direct its industry, but whose place of residence is in the suburbs. The total tax paid by all the people living in Peterborough County was $324,000—compared with the $2,348,000 paid by city residents.

While we are taking this public peek at fellow-citizens' incomes and the income tax they pay, we might as well specify that $27,452,000 of the total of $32,812,000 of income declared was derived from wages and salaries. "Unearned income" —that is, income from stocks and bonds, annuities, estates and the like, amounted to only $1,189,000. Business income of city income taxpayers totalled $2,848,000, and "professional income" (doctors, lawyers, architects and the like; we are unable to say whether the figure includes teachers) amounted to $897,000.

It may be of interest that, according to declared income, and tax paid thereon, the average income of Peterborough taxpayers was considerably lower than the average income in most other Canadian cities. In fact, Peterborough is 34th down a list of 46 communities having more than 5,000 people. Peterborough taxpayers' average income in 1950, as declared by them, was $2,829. By comparison, the St. Thomas average was $3,144—the third highest in Canada. Top was Lethbridge ($3,312), and second place Montreal ($3,158). Kingston was in lower place than Peterborough, with an average of $2,789. These comparisons have no certain significance. They might mean that most people in St. Thomas earned so little as not to be liable for income tax payment, and so the people who did pay, out of their high salaries, made the average high. Or they might indicate the presence of several really rich people, with pockets drooling tens of thousands right into the tax-collector's dish.

We shall close our peep-hole view on income taxpayers with these facts: Peterborough taxpayers paid .47 of the total income tax collected in Canada, St. Thomas taxpayers paid .25 of the total, Kingston, .44. What was the total? $574,900,000.

The CNR's Year

The annual report of the CNR should be of interest to its shareholders, and these shareholders are many, for they are all the taxpayers of Canada, every Canadian. Last year the CNR carried more traffic than ever before. Its operating revenues were $675 million, its operating expenses $635 million. After taxes, interest charges and the like, the total surplus on the year's operations was $142,327. This is a small surplus for so great an operation, nevertheless it was a surplus, the first since 1928, apart from the war years. This was possible because the capital structure of the company was altered by Act of Parliament to take from its back the burden of debt inherited from the bankrupt railway companies from which the CNR was formed.

President Donald Gordon says in his foreword to the Report that "the nominal surplus from the year's operations cannot be regarded as adequate or satisfactory." In the body of the Report he explains why:

"In order to obtain a perspective of the 1952 results, it is useful to make a comparison with 1928, the last year (apart from the war years 1941-45 inclusive) in which Canadian National reported an income surplus. Broadly speaking the cost of railway materials and labor has moved forward in step with the general level of prices and wages during the intervening period, but railway freight rates have not. Over the past 25 years the average hourly earnings of Canadian railway employees have more than doubled, while the general price level as represented by the index of wholesale prices has shown an increase of over 80 per cent. In strong contrast to this pattern, the price of Canadian National freight services, as measured by the average revenue per ton mile has risen by only 38 per cent. Freight revenues, it may be observed, generally account for at least three-quarters of gross System revenues."

Since the taxpayers of Canada have to make good any deficits, and will gain from any surpluses, they have a personal interest in the CNR management's attempts to avoid a deficit and to create an adequate and satisfactory surplus. The railways have asked for and been granted a seven per cent. increase in freight rates. This grant is being appealed by eight of the provinces. Yet freight revenues account for three-quarters of the CNR revenues, and freight revenue has risen only 38 per cent. in the last twenty-five years.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The mayor of a South African town is reported to have a pet lion that roars at daybreak. If it can make any more noise than the average farmyard cock it ought to be put on show.

PARIS LETTER

Demons and Crocodiles

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

AFTER long winter months of boredom and brutality, Parisians have shed their lowering looks with the coming of the sun. Even the local wine merchant, forever complaining he is ruined when snow is in the air, has ordered himself an indescribably expensive motorcycle from England which only a Paris wine-merchant could possibly afford.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE mood has changed with the news, and the news with the weather. Tiresome talk of irritating European Army negotiations is petering out. The nauseating arguments about the Struthof concentration camp trial, the Oradour massacre, and the Casablanca riots are almost ended. In a jauntier mood, Frenchmen now study a conversational menu which offers an acrobatic ghost who is gibbering outside top-floor windows on the Left Bank, the rapid arrest of an abominable young man who butchered his parents with hatchet and cosh on the Quai Bourbon last week, the spectacle of Russians trying their hand at something at which the French are acknowledged past-masters (changing their Government) and the great annual "Salon des Arts Menagers"—Paris's Ideal Homes Exhibition.

❖ ❖ ❖

THERE have been queer goings-on beneath this sunlit city in the past few days. In the basement of the Grand Palais, that pretentious mound of concrete and glass which serves Paris as an exhibition hall, strange clatterings and sweet voices could be heard last week, while nostrils on the nearby Avenue des Champs-Elysees were twitching at the many tempting odours that emerged. Terrifying to the superstitious, this manifestation had nevertheless a banal explanation: one hundred and twenty would-be fairies were competing for an electric washing machine (with ironer).

❖ ❖ ❖

THE "Arts Menagers" exhibition (which seizes newspapers by the front page no matter how many patriarchal Georgians die) is coupled with a nation-wide competition, open to young girls and newly-weds, for the title of "Household Fairy 1953", and a prize of domestic paraphernalia to the value of three hundred thousand francs. Provincial elimination rounds over, this year's finalists assembled in the vault of the Grand Palais to cook, sew, iron, mend and answer queries on hygiene and child-raising to a fortunate band of judges who watched, sipped, tasted and asked impertinent questions.

❖ ❖ ❖

ON Saturday, seventeen-year-old Michele Hartmann, of Bescancon, was proclaimed the star of France's one hundred thousand students of housekeeping, and was last seen gaping happily at her reward, a mountain of enamelled and chromium-plated ironmongery which Caliban (grotesque creature in Shakespeare's "The Tempest") would have recognized at once as the "thousand twangling instruments" of which he dreamed.

❖ ❖ ❖

ABOVE, in the main hall of the exhibition, the President of the Republic, M. Vincent Auriol, and several thousand head of population have already wandered through the aisles of kitchen equipment and garden furniture, fully furnished drawing rooms and cleaning appliances. They have laughed good-humouredly at the screen-star, who, surrounded by electric fires about which she was making an advertising film, nevertheless had to wrap her freezing feet in a blanket. They have laughed much less good-humouredly at the astronomical prices of everything displayed. It is reported that the President himself, having cast one nervous glance at the row of noughts that marred the elegant price-ticket of a gleaming kitchen range, indicated that, after the Republic, he would be content to preside over a kitchen in which a bundle of kindling and an iron pot would be the chief mechanical aids.

❖ ❖ ❖

DEPRESSED by this vision of inanimate objects, so evidently superior and inaccessible to the envious eyes, that regarded them, I crossed the Place de la Concorde, where in more robust days the National Razor had made short work of their human equivalents, and made for the Hotel Drouot —the guillotine-ing ground of over-weening bric-a-brac. It is here, in the famous Paris auction rooms, that humanity takes its revenge and mink-clad crowds eye disdainfully the products of the "Arts Menagers" exhibitions of yesteryear, now at the mercy of the ivory hammer.

❖ ❖ ❖

TO wander through this labyrinth of dingy chambers crammed with junk is to marvel at what can be bought and sold. Yesterday I sat in a goatskin chair surmounted by a satyr's head and fitted with four genuine and hairy cloven hoofs for feet, the whole very filthy and marked Lot 5647. Evidently, if there are fairies in the Grand Palais, this is where the wizards come to do business. Item: a small round table top held aloft by a grinning hardwood demon dressed as a Louis Fifteenth courtier, horns sticking through the dusted wig like a horse's ears in a hot country; a porcelain rhinoceros of hideous aspect, three-feet long and ridden by a grinning picaninny chewing a watermelon; a bassett table fully equipped for a card game that no one has been rich enough to play since Croesus was caught for income tax arrears; not to mention the broken chairs and rotted screens, the mouldering horse-hair sofas and everything else in France too well loved of beetle and woodworm.

YET there is stiff bidding, under the incomprehensible French auctioneering rules, for exquisite old jewellery, venerable first editions, and the world's greatest paintings, guarded here by policemen so bored and dusty that one half expects them to be auctioned off suddenly to the President of some unruly South American republic; and the brilliant eyes and shark-like features of well-dressed professional art dealers are to be seen on every hand.

I watched a Picasso "papier-colle" sell for one million eight hundred thousand francs, and it is said that Henri D'Allemagne, the great collector, will sell here his incomparable bronzes very shortly. There is some speculation as to whether he will auction off at the same time the disagreeable family of five crocodiles that he keeps in an outsize aquarium on the second floor of his home in the Rue des Mathurins. The hotel Drouot has seen worse and sold better, and anyway someone might buy them by mistake.

For it is dangerous to bid. The lots are often combined and if, to buy one item, you are forced to purchase three others at the same time, you must remove them within twenty-four hours. Yesterday one unfortunate old gentleman outbid all rivals for a desk, only to find to his horror that he was also landed with six kidney dishes and the more embarrassing furniture of a gynaecologist's consulting room. It was on this occasion that I first learned the idiomatic French for that oft-repeated heart-cry of Anglo-Saxon womanhood: "Don't you dare to bring that thing into the house."

CAN SPRING BE FAR BEHIND?

Gottwald As I Knew Him

By DR. JAROSLAV STRANSKY

Ed. Note: Dr. Stransky is a former Premier of Czechoslovakia. He resigned in 1948, with 11 other Ministers, in protest against Communist methods in the Government.

I HAVE closely followed Gottwald's political career since his entry into the Prague Parliament in 1929. He was then already General Secretary, that is the formal leader, of the Communist Party. Shortly before he took over, the Party had been through a crisis that resulted in the defeat of the original leadership, which had become too opportunist for Moscow's taste.

Gottwald, then aged thirty-three, was one of those who achieve success in politics through their whole personality rather than through their oratory alone. He was not a born speaker, and yet his appearances at the rostrum were most effective, because he always said only what he fanatically believed.

If impressive speech can be born out of long silence, Gottwald was certainly not over-talkative, and always retained mastery over his words. Unfortunately his education —and his political education—was negligible and inadequate. From a village school, after a few years' practice as a cabinet-maker, he went straight into the struggling existence of a Party agitator and pamphleteer, never experiencing a wider sphere.

By nature Gottwald was never a radical and had much more taste for compromise than his Comrade and later victim, Slansky.

When, after the resignation of President Masaryk in 1935, the Communist Parliamentary Club voted for Dr. Benes—to the great annoyance of their masters in Moscow—it was not because of Slansky's influence (as was maintained at the recent trial) but because of Gottwald's most intimate collaborator, Jan Sverma, as I know from Sverma himself. Gottwald was at that time absent from Prague, but there is no doubt that he would have taken the same attitude as Sverma.

❖ ❖ ❖

DURING the Munich crisis the Communists had prepared handbills appealing to soldiers to leave their barracks and go into the streets to demonstrate against capitulation. After a talk with President Benes, which I attended, Gottwald cancelled this action because he fully realized its futility as opposed to the Franco-British agreement with Hitler and Mussolini.

Gottwald's attempt to secure Czechoslovakia's participation in the Marshall Plan, shouted down by Stalin himself, also belongs to the chapter of Gottwald's life which was ruled by compromise.

After the Second World War, Gottwald sought sincerely—again against Slansky's radicalism—to safeguard peaceful development in cooperation with the democratic parties. He believed in a specifically Czechoslovak path towards Socialism. In March, 1945, he still intended to keep to that path.

It was only after the foundation of the Cominform, which shortened the rein given to the satellite states, that Gottwald realized that at home he must embrace a policy of neck or nothing. He had to get the non-Communist parties under the Communist heel, if he did not want to get into conflict with Moscow, like Tito. I was on friendly terms with Gottwald, but from the autumn of 1947 he ceased to look into my eyes when talking to me.

IN those days he deliberately embarked on a path of treachery and lying. He was resolved to break the promise that—in cooperation with the democratic parties, which had voted for the nationalization of key industries—he would respect the freedom of the citizen. He was no longer a revolutionary content with the bloodless revolution in the head and heart recommended to their nation by Karel Havlicek and Thomas Garrigue Masaryk. He was already a sly and successful putschist.

There is no one in the Czechoslovak Communist Party to inherit Gottwald's authority. Should his successor in the Presidency be a political nonentity on the Soviet pattern, it will probably be Professor Zdenek Nejedly. Should the State once again be headed by the leader of the Party, it can hardly be anyone other than the present Prime Minister and old trade union leader, Antonin Zapotocky. The evil spirit of Gottwald and of the Party is Gottwald's son-in-law, Dr. Alexej Cepicka. Today Cepicka is virtually the most powerful man in the Party and in the State, but he is so unpopular among the entire population that now Gottwald is dead it will not be so easy for him to safeguard his powerful position—that is, his command of the armed forces and his seat in the Government Presidium.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua in Gilgal: and Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite said unto him, Thou knowest the thing that the Lord said unto Moses the man of God concerning me and thee in Kadesh-barnea. Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of the Lord sent me from Kadesh-barnea to espy out the land; and I brought him word again as it was in mine heart. Nevertheless my brethren that went up with me made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly followed the Lord my God.

And Moses sware on that day, saying, Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever, because thou hast wholly followed the Lord my God . . . And Joshua blessed him and gave unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh Hebron for an inheritance. Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this day, because that he wholly followed the Lord God of Israel. (Josh. 14: 6-9, 13, 14).

If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat of the good of the land. (Isa. 1: 19.)

Pioneer In Algebra

In the days when scientists throughout Europe helped one another to solve mathematical problems, none could surpass Francois Viete, who with Cardan and Napier was one of the pioneers of modern algebra. His contemporaries marvelled at his solutions for the most obscure problems, and when he deciphered the secret code of the Spanish Government for his master, King Henry IV of France, the Spaniards accused him of sorcery. His capacity for work was amazing: it was said that he sometimes worked three whole days at his desk, with hardly any food or sleep. This simple and modest man died, three hundred and fifty years ago, in February, 1603, after printing his numerous papers at his own expense and sending them to scholars in almost every European country. —(UNESCO)

COMING EVENT

Improved Braves Talk Of Pennant Chances Good

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Braves of Milwaukee and Boston should be a vastly improved club this year.

The impression one gets after watching manager Charlie Grimm send his charges through a few weeks of spring drills is that the Braves may not rate with the big boys in the National League, but they will have more than a little to say about the pennant race.

There is plenty of optimism in the camp of the downtrodden Braves, who finished seventh last year and played before fewer than 300,000 people at Boston. That cost owner Lou Perini about $800,000.

There is no doubt they are a better team this year and look good enough to climb a couple of notches.

"We definitely are strengthened" said Grimm, who relieved Tommy Holmes as skipper in the middle of last season.

"We have plugged the two spots where we were weakest last year by purchasing Andy Pafko from Brooklyn to play right field and obtaining Joe Adcock from Cincinnati to play first base."

St. Kitts Bowler Sets 5-Pin Mark

TORONTO (CP)—Dominic Senese St. Catharines regional champions, Wednesday night set a record for Ontario five pin bowling championship tournament play with a score of 1,390. The previous record was 1,379 set by John Turcsanyi of Hamilton.

Two more teams were dropped Wednesday night from the competition being held at the Sportsman's show. They were Jackie Wilson of Toronto with 1,236 and Turcsanyi with 1,114.

Senese meets Tommy Mallon of Toronto with 1,285 tonight. Murph Chamberlain of Ottawa, with a score of 1,283, meets Joe Dunphy of Kingston, who bowled 1,261.

The two top men from tonight's competition will play off Saturday in two shifts of five games each for the championship.

AHL GAME POSTPONED

BUFFALO (AP)—The American Hockey League game scheduled for Wednesday night between Buffalo and Syracuse was postponed to tonight so crews could put the ice in shape. The Ice Follies of 1953 closed out its run here Tuesday night and workmen were unable to prepare Memorial Auditorium's rink in time for the scheduled AHL game.

Boston Braves Shift Club To Milwaukee

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Boston Braves, a charter member of the National League, shifted to Milwaukee Wednesday in the first change in the major league baseball line-up in 50 years.

The transfer, requested by owner Louis Perini after several losing seasons in Boston, was approved unanimously by owners of the seven other National League clubs.

The American Association, whose territory was invaded by the major league, also gave its assent. The Milwaukee franchise, owned by the Braves and operated by them for the last several years as a farm club, was transferred to Toledo, now "open" territory.

The changes will become effective with the opening of the two league seasons next month.

The Milwaukee club, to be known as the Milwaukee Braves, will become one of the western clubs of the National League, taking over the schedule previously drawn up for Pittsburgh Pirates. Pittsburgh will move into the eastern division, assuming Boston's schedule.

The 1953 all-star game, previously scheduled to be played at Braves field July 14, was awarded to Cincinnati.

The National League's action was opposite to that of the American League, which refused Monday to permit Bill Veeck to shift St. Louis Browns to Baltimore.

The circumstances were different, however. Perini already owned the Milwaukee franchise and presented plans by which the move could be made with little difficulty.

Veeck's proposal was to move into a city where he had no established connections and where he would have to start from scratch less than a month before the opening of the season.

Toronto Adam Beck Defeats PCVS Juveniles 75-68 To Open Ontario Playoffs

Zoltan Temesy's PCVS OABA juveniles were given a pleasant surprise Wednesday night in their opening Ontario playoff game with Adam Beck playground. They fully expected to lose by 20 points to the cream of Toronto's juvenile cagers, but the Garnet and Grey fought from the opening whistle and lost by seven, 75-68. That slim margin was the surprise.

A year ago, the playgrounds handed the Garnet and Grey a severe setback in Toronto to open the playoffs. The collegians never recovered.

But Wednesday night, the Garnet and Grey cagers, under coach Temesy, came through with their best game this year, matching Adam Beck throughout. They were happy with the seven-point margin, confident that they will squeeze out a win at the PCVS gym Saturday at 8 p.m. to win two-game round.

The closeness of the game came as another surprise to the Collegians. In fact, they were leading 18-17 at the first quarter and 32-31 at the half. Then the playground sharp-shooters grabbed the lead and went ahead by 12 points in the third. The Garnet and Grey whittled that lead to 52-47 at three quarters and stayed that close until the end.

Adam Beck's long shots amazed the collegians. Particularly in the third quarter the Toronto team just couldn't miss the hoop. They worked their shots from well out.

The play was rough as the referees chalked up 19 fouls against PCVS and 23 against the playgrounders. Coach Temesy claimed "there were too many deliberate fouls against us."

Both teams suffered from the five-personal foul calls. PCVS' stars, Doug Ash and Terry Roberts played the entire second half with four and didn't pick up the fatal fifth. Toronto's Thompson, Logan and Dunn played most of the third and fourth with four fouls, but didn't foul out until the final minutes.

Thompson, a dead-eye shooter well-known to PCVS fans from last year's game, was more deadly than ever. Shooting from various places, particularly the corner, he dropped in 17 field baskets, then three foul shots, for a total of 37 points. His teammate, Pharoah, helped the cause with 17.

PCVS relied upon Doug Ash and Dan Griffin to provide the points. Ash made 10 of 13 foul chances and added 16 more on field baskets for a total of 26 points in an outstanding display. He was neatly matched by the Griffin who worked in close for 21 points.

After the game, Temesy said that if Toronto's top three, Thompson, Pharoah and Logan are controlled fairly well Saturday, the collegians should win He believes his bench strength will help carry him through.

Lineups:

PCVS: (68) Ash 26, Ryan, Roberts 8, Davis 3, Corbett 5, Griffin 21, Galvin 1, J. Boorman 1, B. Boorman 1.

Adam Beck: (75) Thompson 37, Logan 9, Dunn 6, Gates 4, Barr 2, Pharoah 17, Square, Clarke.

Badminton Aces Playing Here In Big Tourney

The Central Ontario Badminton Association finalists will meet the finalists from the St. Lawrence Valley district this Saturday night in the Market Hall here. It is the third year for this event, St. Lawrence winning the first, and Central Ontario winning last year. Play commences at eight p.m.

With exception of Ruth Thompson of Bowmanville, all COBA players will be ready, while St. Lawrence will send its full quota. Besides the latter, there will be players on hand from Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Peterborough. The Valley group includes Cornwall, Kingston, Massena, Brockville and Gananoque.

Local representatives are Maurice Charlton and Verna Rose, runners-up in ladies' doubles; Ralph Charlton and Willard Elmsley, winners of senior men's doubles; with Ed Johnston and Bob Baker next. Mrs. Charlton will fill in for Ruth Thompson in ladies' singles.

A match worth seeing will be the men's singles between Ernie Neilson and Johnny Johnston. Neilson took Johnston two years ago on his own court in Bowmanville in three hard-fought games. Johnston plays a hard-hitting brand and might take it on a neutral court. Spectators are welcome.

Montreal Eliminates Windsor Hoopsters

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Hi-Aces Wednesday night eliminated Windsor, Ont., AKO from the Canadian basketball playdowns although losing the second game of their two-game total-point Eastern Canada junior quarter-final series 59-55.

The Montrealers edged out last year's Canadian junior finalists 114-113 to take the round.

Coach Doug Potvin and his Hi-Aces will play in Saint John, N.B., Friday and Saturday and the winner of that series will travel to Halifax to play for the eastern crown.

Normals Clipped By Penguins

Paced by Neil Thompson, the Penguins took a 43-35 win from the Normal School Wednesday night in YMCA House League basketball.

Gregorick, McDonald, Edwards and Whitney gave the Normal School a good start in the first quarter when they took a convincing 13-7 score; at first it looked as though they would win easily.

But in the second quarter Gandy and Dawes took command for the Penguins scoring, leading a rally which netted no less than 15 points that tied the game 22-all at the half.

Then Thompson went on his scoring spree, beginning in the third quarter. He combined his points with others by Dawes and Wyatt to give the Penguins a 34-31 three-quarter score. Edwards, Whitney and McDonald kept the Normals close.

But in the fourth Thompson continued on his merry way to the hoop to give the Penguins more than enough to win.

Thompson led the scoring with 15 points, followed closely by Normals' McDonald with 13 and Penguins' Dawes with 10.

Lineups:

Normal (35)—English 3, Whitney 5, Edwards 8, Rowan, Eveleigh, Gregorick 5, Nicholls 1, McDonald 13.

Penguins (43)—Thompson 15, O'Connor, Dawes 10, Wyatt 6, Outram 2, Fowler, Hurrie 2, Gandy 8.

Havelock Juveniles Open Playoffs Here

Wallaceburg and Havelock open Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile "B" finals at Civic Arena this Friday night at 8:30, Al Watkins of the OMHA executive announces. It is Havelock's "home" game but the natural ice is gone in the district, and the game has been transferred to the artificial sheet in Peterborough.

This is a home-and-home series, with goals to count, for the provincial "B" juvenile championship. The return game in Wallaceburg may be staged a week from Saturday, according to present information. The OMHA appoints neutral referees for all semi-final and final playoff contests.

ONTARIO JUVENILE LACROSSE championship trophy, for "B" class teams, has just arrived for Doug Miller Jr.-coached juvenile team. Miller's boys copped the Milton J. Beatty memorial trophy last fall. This year some of the star juveniles will be promoted into the junior ranks in an effort to bring the junior championsihp for Ontario and then the Minto Cup, symbolic of Canadian junior lacrosse supremacy, to Peterborough. Players Bob Allin (left) and Bob Curtis (right), admire the trophy with Coach Miller.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

C's Rubbed Out In OMHA By Collingwood

Collingwood Cops ousted Campbellford from further competition in OMHA midget "B" playoffs Wednesday night, at Civic Arena, when they handed Howard Wilson's squad a 14-4 defeat, in the second game of their home-and-home, semi-final, goals-to-count series. The victory, coupled with a 15-9 verdict in the opening game enabled "Nip" Spooner's classy crew to aggregate a 29-13 margin on the round.

It was a hard-fought game throughout, despite the one-sided score; clean, though rugged, and the visitors showed good teamwork and finish to earn the victory on their merits against plucky rivals. Inability to capitalize on what opportunities came their way, nullified many of the homesters' better efforts, while Cops were on the button in the pinches.

OPENED SCORING

Collingwood opened the scoring early in the first frame on a fast solo thrust by Alan Grier, then Bill Scott and Bruce Potts combined to equalize. Tom Scrammage gave the visitors the lead again on a solo raid at the quarter mark; but Johnny Garvey, who tallied thrice to lead a losing cause, came through with his first counter, on a neat play with Bill Wilson, to again put his team even up, seconds later.

Thereafter Campbellford's attack slumped noticeably as Cops gained the ascendency near the three-quarter mark and save for Garvey's tally early in the mid-frame, held command offensively for the remaining minutes of play. Two markers by Grier and Frank Butters, who led all sharpshooters with six goals and one assist, gave Collingwood an eight-goal round margin after the first stanza to virtually sew up the set then and there.

KEPT AHEAD

Led by Frank and Hugh Butters, Doug Robinson and Ron Taylor, teh visitors outscored the local midgets 4-2, though in fairness to the Wilson squad it might be said: the play was less one-sided than final score indicated, particularly in the first two periods. Campbellford put up a stiff battle and threatened many times to score as led by such as Garvey and Wilson, who rushed well; Bruce Potts, Dave Ellis Dave Girard, Bill Scott et al, the homesters gave Leonard many anxious calls; but the latter proved a great bulwark against all rival attacks ably supported by his front line corps.

The finally belonged strictly to the Coppers however, as the men of Wilson fought gamely but vainly to stem the avalanche of rubber that sped past goalie Ingram. Six scorching markers told the story of an all-out offensive; and thus the boys from "up there" go on to meet Simcoe for the midget "B" title.

Collingwood Cops: Goal, Leonard; defence, R. Taylor, G. Taylor; centre, Ring; wings, Smith and Davenport; alts., F. Butters, H. Butters, Fryer, Robinson, Cromwell, Logo, Grier, Serannage, Davidson (spare goalie).

Campbellford: Goal, Ingram; defence, Peake, Hagerman; centre, Garvey; wings, Wilson and Elliott; alts., Girard, Ellis, Jones, Scott, Potts, Holmes, Ferguson, Darrington.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

It is the season of April showers, dainty crocus popping through the grass, fluffy white clouds drifting across blue skies, the chirping birds. Spring will be officially here Saturday.

Anyone can see those signs but the sportsmen, young and old, can see and hear much more.

There's the cheerful voices of children playing marbles and skipping, the healthy crack as a softball or baseball bat meets the ball, the call of "Fore" across the fairways and the swish of a lacrosse stick whipping the ball at the net.

The warm sunshine and the cool breezes tempt a few, especially the golfers, to jump the gun. Ocasionally through the winter golfers have been seen working out on the fairways. This winter, for some, has been like a whirl through the southern winter circuit.

But winter or no, there's still a problem for most golfers before the season officially opens of working into condition before wacking the ball into the rough.

I'm no exception. The round of winter dinners has left its mark, in fact a 242-pound mark.

A Little Club Swinging Suggested

Friend, Lex Robson, Kawartha professional, suggested a little club swinging to develop back, arm and shoulder muscles before playing the first 18.

I started swinging, the result was two broken chandeliers and one rolling pin, I was forced to retire.

Lex also suggested several days on the practice grounds, first swinging for a while and then hitting a few balls. A few lessons from Lex would also help.

During the thirties Lex was a threat in tournaments, especially the Canadian Open, Ontario Open, and the Miller trophy which he has won six times. He's had many thrills on the links.

A Tour of the Winter Circuit

Shortly after they were married, the Robsons took in the winter circuit in California and there he had several of his best golfing experiences. They're worth mentioning.

His first came at the Presidio golf club in San Francisco while playing with Walter Hagen, well-known pro. They were playing in the club's tournament which was being held at the same time as a U. S. army sham battle.

Lex recalls the battle was raging when he teed off. At the same time the army teed off with some tear gas bombs. The wind

Mr. and Mrs. Lex Robson Recall Past Tournaments shifted blowing the tear gas across the fairways and the happy golfers had tears streaming down their cheeks for the next two holes.

Rocking Flag Killed Hole-In-One

In that same tournament Lex came his closest to joining the hole-in-one club.

The gallery watching the game had moved over to the green, about 160 yards from the tee, just before Lex teed off. A strong wind whipped the flag back and forth in the cup.

Lex's ball bounced on the green and into the cup. The women screamed with delight but in that same second the ball was flipped back out by the rocking flag. The ball came to rest just at the edge of the cup, touching the now steady flagpole.

Lex heard the happy cries and then the moan. When he reached the green, spectators were trying to urge the ball in. Rules allowed Lex to move the flag pole, but the ball still clung to the cup lip.

The winter circuit also provided thrills for Mrs. Robson. For a while at the Hillcrest Country club she was introduced to Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Harold Lloyd.

Mrs. Robson was introduced to Bing Crosby at the Glendale Club. She recalls her disappointment when she saw the singer, he had long hair, nearly to his shoulders, for a special movie he was making. He's changed, hasn't he ! ! !.

Not everyone has the thrills of a winter circuit, but they do have their thrills in every round and those rounds will be soon.

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—There are those who think heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano is training too hard for his title bout with Jersey Joe Walcott April 10 in Chicago.

These critics think Rocky is "too fine," despite the fact the champion went through a brisk workout Wednesday.

They say he started training too early—light work started Jan. 6 in New York—and he may be stale by the time April 10 rolls around.

But the two men whose business it is to see that such a thing doesn't happen—manager Al Weill and trainer Charlie Goldman—only laugh.

"How can you be too far ahead?" asks Goldman sarcastically, and then answers his own question:

DIFFERENT

"Sure, if you're forcing a boy by taking off a lot of weight, and then trying to keep him there maybe you can be too fine. But with Rocky, it's different. Ye can put on weight and take it off in a hurry."

Weill nodded agreement and cn:

"Of course Rocky has his bad days, but so what, everybody has 'em, don't they? There are no decisions here. The point is, he's out there working and getting ready. That's what counts."

"About that long training business," interrupted Goldman, "Rocky depends on condition to back up that wallop of his. He likes to train."

Man Mountain Stands Firm Despite Bobo Brazil's Blows To Win Two Of Three Falls

Bobo Brazil attempted to make mole hills out of a mountain, namely Man Mountain Dean Jr., Wednesday night, but he tried to use his head instead of strength; that's where he made his mistake. The mountain of human flesh proved too much and Dean swept the main bout of the weekly wrestling card in two of three falls.

Brazil, armed with one coconut (his head), should have realized after the first fall went to Dean that he'd have to use more than his famous coconut konk. It just didn't fuzz on the 350-pound bewhiskered gent from Atlanta, Georgia. But he persisted and met his downfall.

Of course it has to be admitted it did look for a minute as if the coconut crashing would whittle the mountain down to the mole hills. For eight minutes before the final fall, Brazil kept rapping Dean's head with the coconut and the big fellow was dazed.

Sensing that that was the moment for the kill, Brazil attempted a drop kic' off the ropes. Dean staggered away in time and Brazil hit the canvas. Within a second the Mountain fell, pinning Brazil flatter than a pancake for the final fall.

Using the coconut konk during the second fall, Brazil had the Mountain wandering about the ring. Then suddenly through the fog, Dean had an idea. Why not use the konk on Brazil? He tried, but it backfired. This time Brazil's flying drop kick didn't miss and he won the fall.

Brazil took a series of dirty raps from Dean in the first 17 minutes of the fight, but still using his head he fought back. The coconut kept bouncing off the Mountain's head and still Dean stood.

Brazil then resorted to body slams off the ropes. Twice he bounded off into Dean, dazing him twice. But the third time Dean applied the knee and down went Brazil for the count.

The Buffalo flash, Don Beitleman, and popular Sammy Berg, known as Mr. Canada of 1952, produced the best wrestling of the season, mixing well arm and leg holds. But as the bout progressed Beitleman had Berg's left arm limper than four-day-old lettuce.

Urged on by his fans, Berg tried hard to stage a comeback, despite his handicap. But Beitleman kept twisting and turning the arm.

Finally both wrestlers looked to the ropes for a win. They raced back and forth across the ring, bouncing off the ropes, only to meet in the centre knocking each other out.

After referee Bert Maxwell dealt the 10-count, the semi-conscious Berg staggered to his feet and fell on Beitleman, claiming a win. He didn't realize that the bout had ended.

The crowd gave both wrestlers a hand when they congratulated each other. It was a popular ending.

Ovila Asselin and Steve Stanlee made the girls' hearts flutter as they opened the evening's card. The night's beauty boys soon mussed up each other. Stanlee roughed the crowd's delight, Asselin, for 17 minutes, before Ovila turned the tables on S[illegible]n a reversed half nelson for the fall.

Backs To Wall, Maple Leafs Down Chihawks 4-3 After Trailing By 2 Goals

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

At the first intermission, the spectators could have been forgiven if they concluded that Toronto Maple Leafs had decided to go quietly to the National Hockey League sidelines. Needing a victory to preserve their last chance for a playoff spot, the Leafs were trailing Chicago Black Hawks 2-0 and had fired only seven shots at the visiting goalkeeper. But between periods someone must have convinced the Leafs that they had a chance. Outshooting their opponents 25-10 over the last two periods, they worked their way to a 3-2 lead, watched the Hawks tie it up once, then rallied again to take a 4-3 decision.

Having lived to fight another day, the Leafs travel to Montreal tonight to try their luck against the Canadiens. A victory could haul them up within two points of the fourth-place Hawks, with both clubs having two games to play.

Meanwhile Boston Bruins virtually nailed down their playoff spot by defeating the Rangers 2-1 at New York. Even if they drop their remaining three games, their worst possible finish would be a fourth-place tie.

SMITH HERO

Sid Smith was the hero of the Leaf comeback, firing two important goals. The first, in the second period, tied the score and the second, with less than five minutes left in the game, gave his club the victory. Rookies Gord Hannigan and Ron Stewart were the other Toronto marksmen.

George Gee and Jim Peters gave the Hawks their early lead and Gerry Couture counted in the third period.

The Bruins sewed up their decision against the Rangers when Milt Schmidt and Johnny Peirson tallied in the opening frame. The best the tail-enders could do in reply was a goal by defenceman Leo Reise in the game's dying minutes.

The Bruins can make sure of their playoff berth by defeating the front-running Red Wings at Detroit tonight. The Wings and Canadiens are assured of finishing one-two in the final standings.

Flyers Win 1-0 Over Marlies To Lead Series

BARRIE (CP)—Barrie Flyers scored the only goal of the game in the third period to edge Toronto Marlboros 1-0 here Wednesday night and take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-nine game Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final playoff.

Doug Mohns broke the scoreless deadlock at the 10:47 mark of the final frame and that goal stood up to send Barrie ahead once again in the series, originally a best-of-seven set.

The next game will be played at Toronto Saturday.

PRETTY GOAL

Mohns' goal came after he took the puck up the ice, passed over to Don McKenney in front of goalie John Henderson of Marlboros and then took it back again to slap in one of the prettiest goals of the season.

With Ingram in the penalty box on an elbowing charge, Marlies pulled Henderson out of the nets with one minute to go, but they couldn't tie the count.

It was the second shutout the Flyers have handed the Marlboros in the series.

The Marlboros took the offensive from the faceoff in the first period and were pushing hard all through the frame. At one time they were two men short but the Flyers still couldn't break through the Toronto defence. Bill Harrington was a standout in the nets for Barrie, stopping 12 shots in the first period, most of them sizzlers.

In the second period Barrie had a slight edge and again had the advantage in penalties, but the Toronto defence coupled with Henderson's netminding proved too tough.

Hershey Clinches Playoff Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears clinched a place in the playoffs of the American Hockey League by blanking St. Louis Flyers 1-0 Wednesday night.

The victory assured the Bears of at least fourth place in the league race. At the same time the loss took away from the Flyers their last chance to gain a place in the play-offs.

Obie O'Brien scored the lone goal for the Bears mid-way in the first period.

Late in the final period Jake Forbes, the Flyers coach, was banished first for a tripping penalty and then voiced his objections to referee Jerry Olinski in such strong words that he was sent to the showers.

Reds Gathering To Assault Western Front

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. marine raiders, striking in pre-dawn fog and rain with flamethrowers and bayonets, smashed a Chinese company today as the Reds grouped for an assault on Allied western front positions.

A marine division spokesman said that of the 175 Communists surprised at the Chinese outpost northeast of Bunker hill, an estimated 90 were killed and 65 were wounded.

The action—some five miles northeast of Panmunjom, the truce conference site—was the heaviest reported today along the 155-mile Korean front. The drizzling rain hampered aerial strikes.

However, B-26 night bombers blasted Communist supply arteries leading south from Pyongyang, the Korean Red capital, before the weather closed in. The 5th air force reported 85 trucks destroyed and several road bridges hit.

Fourteen Japan-based B-29s dumped 140 tons of bombs on Ansim, Red supply centre 12 miles south of Huichon in north-central Korea. The air force said it was the first raid on Ansim.

The marines, wearing armored vests, began their raid behind heavy artillery and tank fire. Then the men carrying the flamethrowers moved out.

Behind the flamethrowers came raiders with fixed bayonets. They leaped into the smoking trenches and bunkers and battled the Chinese for more than an hour.

Amendments Give Accused Better Breaks

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the Commons criminal law committee Wednesday recommended some changes in Canada's proposed new Criminal Code designed to give accused persons a better break.

They rewrote one section of the code with this in view and held up two other sections for redrafting for the same purpose.

The 290-page measure revising and consolidating the code has been passed by the Senate and has been referred to the committee by the Commons. So far, the committee has dealt with about 560 of 744 sections.

Wednesday it rewrote a section that would have precluded grand juries from rehearing an indictment after it had been amended following a true bill. Amended indictments now must go back to the jury.

Several members argued that the trial judge should have power to send back the amendment, and the committee reworded the clause this way with the consent of Justice Minister Garson.

Another change will empower a judge to discharge a jury and send over a case to another court term when the wording of the indictment would prejudice the prisoner's defence.

Law Would Let Albertans Serve Liquor To Guests

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Albertans may soon be able to serve liquor legally to guests in their homes.

A "nuisance" law prohibiting this will be abolished if a new liquor bill passes the legislature. It was introduced in the Alberta house Wednesday by Attorney - General Lucien Maynard and if members approve, it will go into effect July 1.

One of its main provisions is an extension of beer-drinking hours from 10 to 11 p. m. It will also allow a person to give beer or liquor as a gift and a bona fide traveller to take liquor from one residence to another.

Limited agricultural education in Nova Scotia is recommended by the legislature's education committee. The committee's report was tabled and it said such a program should be applied in the schools as necessary and desirable.

Charges that a convicted housebreaker suffering from tuberculosis is being ill-treated in a Winnipeg detention home were made in the Manitoba house by CCF house leader Lloyd Stinson.

He said the man, Mike Negrey, has been confined in a small basement cell for the last 43 months. The home lacked proper lighting, fresh air and was often damp. Negrey was jailed for seven years and his sentence ends in 1956.

Attorney - General Ivan Schultz denied the charges and said Negrey is getting proper medical care.

James D. Higgins (PC—St. John's East) opened the throne speech debate in the Newfoundland house and accused the government of starting its factory-building plan without adequate knowledge of the industries it was helping. He claimed that evidence has yet to be produced that any of the 12 factories brought into being by the economic development program is making a profit.

A. C. Taylor, Opposition leader in New Brunswick, criticized the government for proposing to contribute $290,000 this year to the public service superannuation fund. It is unnecessary, he said, because the fund already has $750,000.

Barons Challenge NHL Champions

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Barons, shunned in their bid for National Hockey League membership, today challenged the NHL playoff winners to a best-of-five series for the Stanley Cup—if the Barons win the American League's Calder Cup.

James C. Henry, the Barons' managing director, said he has written Clarence Campbell of Montreal, NHL president, that the Barons want to play the NHL champion for the Stanley Cup in the event Cleveland takes the AHL cup.

The Stanley Cup has been in exclusive competition among National League clubs since the 1925-26 season when the Western Hockey League (formerly Pacific Coast) folded.

The Barons fully expected at the start of this season to be accepted into the NHL, but were turned down.

Langlois Wins Decision Over Bobby Dykes

DALLAS (AP)—Pierre Langlois won a unanimous 10-round decision over Bobby Dykes of San Antonio Wednesday night.

The bushy-haired Frenchman won the decision with his eternal boring-in tactics and his general aggressiveness. The squatty young man from Pont-Audemer, France, thus remained undefeated as a middleweight. It was his fourth decision in this class.

Langlois is ranked No. 4 in the U.S. while Dykes holds the No. 9 rating.

Langlois weighed 161½ pounds, Dykes 154¼.

A crowd of more than 3,300 paid more than $12,000 to see the fight. Each fighter received 25 per cent of the gate and also about $3,600 each for television on the nationally-televised bout.

CASE STIRS TROUBLE—The playing eligibility of Ron Attwell, 18, has stirred up a hornet's nest between the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association. George S. Dudley, secretary-manager of the CAHA, said the QAHA defied the parent organization by granting Attwell a playing certificate with Montreal Junior Canadiens, after the CAHA had refused to transfer Attwell from the Ontario Hockey Association to the QAHA. The QAHA later was suspended by the national body.

Spear Fishermen Out-Fishing Rivals

By LIONEL HUDSON

SYDNEY, Australia, (Reuters)—Spear fishermen who operate below the surface off the New South Wales coast are triumphant. They have out-fished their rivals, the conventional anglers.

For years the rod-and-reel men have frowned upon the new-fangled idea of stalking fish on the sea bed with spearguns instead of depending on the baited hook.

Some even argued that it was spoiling "civilized" fishing along the coast.

Feeling between the two camps was running high when one group of philosophical anglers challenged the spear fishermen to a contest. Their aim was to prove by results that they were still masters of the fishing grounds.

So begoggled and beflippered underwater men and their more prosaic looking opponents gathered at Towoon Bay, north of Sydney, recently to fight it out.

There were 43 men on each side and the atmosphere was tense.

NO FOOLING

A forest of rods and lethal spearguns reached into the clear sky as the starting time approached.

The rod-and-reel men had procured wriggler worms, rushed from Botany 60 miles away, to tempt whiting in the lake. There were live prawns for the bream and flathead and pink nippers and mackerel for beach fishing.

Australia's No. 1 spearman, Wally Gibbins, had "knocked over" a 50-lb. blue groper just before the contest while making a reconnaissance of the adjacent seabed. Whiting and jewfish were reported biting voraciously.

OPEN CONTEST

When the contest was declared open, there was a wild scramble for vehicles, boats and bicycles in which the contestans raced to various fishing points inside the 50-mile of coastline and lakeside designated as the contest area.

A southerly gale had whipped up the sea a few days previously and the rough murky water suited neither the anglers nor the spearmen.

At first, the sun shone, but it was not long before the rain came.

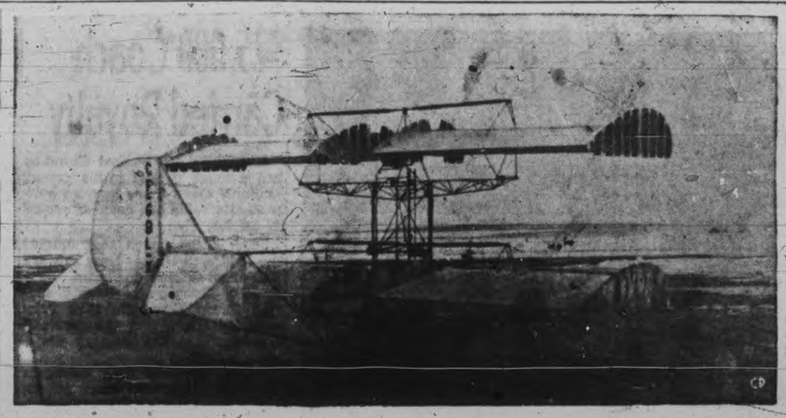
Soon the anglers were as wet as the underwater men. But 86 men fished on doggedly.

Fair catches were landed. One point was awarded for each fish and another point for each pound in weight.

Some fishermen who are accustomed to fishing without a break for hours when the sun is shining were forced by the cold to come ashore more frequently. Seas became rougher, and when the underwater men gave up at nightfall they considered that their chance of winning was dim.

The anglers fished through the night. Udeterred by driving rain they stood their ground piling up points.

ANGLERS AHEAD



By morning, when the spearmen joined the fray again, the anglers were well ahead.

On the second and last day of the contest, the spearmen triumphed over the tough conditions and brought in sufficient fish to win the contest by 216 points to 155½. The biggest fish, a 30-pounds blue groper, was speared by an underwater man.

Meanwhile, anglers and underwatermen appear to be on the points of agreeing that there is more than one interesting way of catching a fish.

LIKE A BIRD?—This is an ornithopter, claimed by its inventors, Hartley D. Shannon, J. E. Caldwell and William Francis of Medicine Hat, Alta., to be capable of the closest approximation to bird flight ever designed by man. They say that if successful it may reduce the cost of air transport to the bicycle class. Main features of the machine are the four wings or flaps, each eight feet long and five feet from head to tail edge. The pilot sits in front with two wings on each side of him. When it crashed on its trial run recently the inventors claimed the machine was being towed too speedily.

Barber vs. Barber

KITCHENER (CP)—A barber was fined $5 and costs Wednesday for working on a Wednesday following the evidence of another barber. Harry McKelvie testified he drove past Harry Jones' shop Jan. 21 and noticed a customer enter the shop. He rounded up other witnesses to observe Jones working. It is illegal under the Barber's Act for barbers in this area to practise their trade on Wednesday.

FARMHOUSE BURNS

TILLSONBURG (CP)—The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fistrevici, four mile ssoutheast of here, was destroyed by fire Wednesday, with all the kitchen furniture. Loss was estimated at close to $9,000. Neighbors saved most of the furniture in the other part of the home.

Far North Wheat Yields As High 50 Bushels To Acre

EDMONTON (CP)—J. A. Gilbey, officer in charge of the federal agriculture department's experimental sub-station at Fort Simpson, Northwest Territories, says far north wheat yields of from 45 to 50 bushels an acre have been obtained on observation tests.

Fort Simpson is about 825 miles north of Edmonton.

Mr. Gilbey said horticultural crops hold a primary interest in work at the Fort Simpson station. The part played by vegetables in raising the standard of living in northern communities is realized, along with the need of building up scientific data.

Mr. Gilbey said experiments also have been made with forage crops and cereals. The station has a poultry flock and has made a start on hog raising.

The grain observation trials were made with wheat, oats and barley. The station comprises 85 acres, 50 of which are under cultivation.

Mr. Gilbey and his wife are sold on the possibilities of the northland. Mrs. Gilbey was amazed when she first saw the lush wild strawberries and beautiful wild roses the land produces during its average of 86 frost-free days.

There is a pressing need for garden vegetables and potatoes, a need which the Gilbeys say will be stronger when mineral discoveries bring development of the area and a bigger population.

Northern housekeeping has its advantages and disadvantages Mrs. Gilbey said. Her sun porch makes a first-class home freezer in the winter and the house boasts the conveniences of indoor plumbing electricity and a telephone.

However a year's shopping has to be done at one time, while the boats are running, and her bread is a homemade since the kind that is for sale, baked by an old sour dough who stayed after gold-rush days, costs $1 for three loaves.

Grain Scientist Wins Medal As Civil Servant

OTTAWA (CP)—They've named a lake after Dr. C. H. Goulden and now they've given him a gold medal.

Dr. Goulden, distinguished Canadian grain scientist, today was recognized as Canada's top civil servant of the year, receiving the 1953 gold medal award of the Professional Institute of Civil Servants.

For years the 55-year-old chief of the federal agriculture department's cereal division labored to fight grain disease and develop new wheat and oats varieties which helped boost Canada's grain production by millions of bushels.

This work, a three-member panel of Canadian university professors announced today, was "outstanding." It had been "tested and appreciated" by other scientists and had proven of "great material value to Canada as a whole."

The work of Dr. Goulden, raised on a Saskatchewan farm, was recognized by the Saskatchewan government four years ago. They named one of the province's northern lakes after him—Lake Goulden.

FAMED VARIETIES

Under his supervision, Canada produced such new wheat varieties as Renown, Regent and Redman and such new oats strains as Vanguard, Exeter, Ajax and Garry.

Forty per cent of Manitoba's acreage is covered with Redman wheat. The province has expanded its Redman wheat acreage by some 44,000,000 bushels in the 1940-50 decade. Dr. Goulden's oats varieties also have been widely used in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan where acreages have expanded over the years.

"The professional institute is indeed proud to have one of its members recognized for his contribution in this field," the institute said in a statement.

Dr. Goulden was born in Wales and was brought to Canada at the age of three by his parents who started a farm at Yorkton, Sask.

He was graduated from the University of Saskatchewan and later specialized in plant breeding and genetics at the University of Minnesota.

For 23 years he was in charge of the federal cereal breeding laboratory at Winnipeg. That's when he began experimenting with new grain varieties.

SEES GREAT FUTURE

Dr. Goulden sees a great future ahead for Canada in grains—if the country can control plant disease and pestilence. The current worry is race 15-B, a disease which has knocked out growth in parts of the southern United States and for a time threatened to damage some of the Prairie wheat crop.

The danger is still not over. But for the moment race 15-B appears to have been arrested. Meanwhile the scientists are working on new varieties which can resist this plant destroyer.

Dr. Goulden since 1948 has headed the federal cereal division at the central experimental farms here, where scientists not only are working on wheat problems, but also those affecting flax, barley, rye, peas and oats.

He still finds time to do a little tinkering at home—delving among such things as photography and electronics, especially high fidelity modulation.

Dr. Goulden is married to a talented violinist, Flora Goulden. They have two daughters: Marilyn, attending Queen's University; and Cynthia, at Fisher High School in Ottawa.

GRAIN SCIENTIST—Dr. H. C. Goulden, 55, distinguished grain scientist and chief of the cereal division, federal agriculture department, has been awarded the 1953 gold medal award of the professional institute of civil servants as Canada's top civil servant of the year. Four years ago the Saskatchewan government named one of the province's northern lakes after him.

$25,000 Coach Carried Royalty

CALGARY (CP)—Earl Gammon has a coach parked in his garage at Banff that's more than an heirloom. Its value has been estimated at $25,000.

This is the coach that carried the Prince of Wales—later Edward VII—from Pictou to Truro, N.S., in 1860. Many years later it carried Queen Elizabeth, then Princess Elizabeth, and the Duke of Edinburgh at the Calgary Stampede grounds.

At the time of King Edward's visit the coach had been put on the Pictou-Truro run by an American named Hiram Hyde. Earl Gammon's father, William, bought it from Hyde for his stage-coach line from Pictou to Amherst.

When the railway put the stage-coach line out of business in 1890 the elder Gammon arranged to have the old coach preserved. It was placed in a museum before it was shipped out west.

Gammon has always shown the coach in public at Banff with two horses, but it was designed for a team of four. Gammon says he has to get along with two because he can't find anyone who can properly drive a four-horse team.

Results Of History Test Shock University Masters

LEEDS, England (CP)—Results of a history test at Leeds University Institute of Education shocked the masters.

Of 1,000 students, only 75 per cent knew that Neville Chamberlain was prime minister at the time of Munich. More than 200 named Winston Churchill, who was not in the government at the time, Ramsay MacDonald, who died in 1947, and David Lloyd George, prime minister from 1916 to 1922.

"Many answers shocked me so much I could not believe them," said Rev. J. W. Packer, a lecturer.

The pupils, aged 15 to 20, muffed other questions. Out of every 100, 33 believed England lost Calais through the French Revolution of 1789, instead of by war in 1558.

Many did not know that Good Friday is the anniversary of Christ's death or that Christmas is the birthday of Christ.

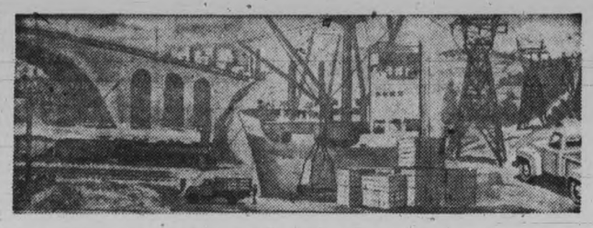
Adjudicator Praises Only Canadian Play

TORONTO (CP)—The only Canadian play of the week-long central Ontario drama festival, "Shadow of the Tree" by Joseph Schull of Montreal, was presented Wednesday night by the North Toronto Theatre Guild.

Adjudicator John Allen, British actor and playwright, said it is a dramatic, sensitive play and Schull is a good dramatist in the making.

He was intensely held by the performance, he said, although many parts were inaudible. The technical approach was wrong, but he noted that one of the best features of the acting was sincerity.



Frightened Of Dentist Lad Dies In Chair

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight-year-old Raymond Sung, like most small boys, was afraid of dentists.

He had to be carried to the dentist's office in his father's arms. He was kicking and struggling so hard that he was given a general anaesthetic so the dentist could fix his teeth.

Without warning, Raymond's heart stopped beating. The dentist and a doctor worked feverishly to revive the boy. But it was no use. Raymond was dead.

A coroner's jury Tuesday night absolved dentist and anaesthetist of blame.

Atom Age Gives Canada Fresh Advantage

TORONTO (CP)—Canada has the raw materials to take advantage of the new age of jet aircraft, electronics and the peacetime use of atomic energy, J. Gerald Godsoe said Wednesday night.

Mr. Godsoe, national vice-president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of British American Oil, Co., Ltd., addressed the National Office Management Association, and urged that Canadians manufacture as much as possible of their raw products into finished goods.

This didn't mean that "we should attempt to fabricate everything in this country," but the newer developments of the modern age offered "an excellent opportunity to develop new and specialized lines."

COULD LOSE MORE

On the trade front, Mr. Godsoe said Canada stands "to lose more than any other country with the stifling of international trade, and there are many and ingenious ways in which it can be stifled."

Canada should, therefore, "take the lead in entering into international negotiations to reduce barriers to trade and to keep our own markets open so that other countries can export to us and be in a position, in turn, to import from us."

Since the economies of Canada and Britain complement each other more than do those of Canada and the United States, "everything we can do to help Britain put herself in a position to exchange more trade with us is very much in our interest."

Ask Parliament For $1,000,000 For Flood Relief

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Wednesday the government will ask Parliament to appropriate $1,000,000 as a contribution toward the Canadian national fund for European flood relief.

The prime minister said the flood relief committee, set up to bring aid to flood-stricken areas of Britain, Belgium and Holland, was anxious that an announcement be made as to the amount of the federal contribution. He felt it appropriate that he should make the announcement to the Commons.

The national committee handling the fund is composed of the premiers of Canada's 10 provinces and officials of the Canadian Red Cross Society which will oversee delivery of the material aid for the flood areas.

The committee was set up following devastating floods in Britain, Belgium and Holland last month. At that time Mr. St. Laurent said the kind of assistance to be rendered by Canada would be decided when it was determined what was most needed in the flood areas.

The senate approved incorporation of the Canadian disaster relief fund which will use $1,500,000 contributed for flood relief in the Winnipeg, Manitoba flood for disaster relief anywhere in Canada.

The money remained in the hands of the Winnipeg flood relief committee after payment of $7,500,000 to flood sufferers. The Manitoba legislature has approved turning over the money to the new corporation.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Thomas Crerar (Liberal, Manitoba) was sent to the Commons for consideration.

Two Ships Collide In English Channel

ROTTERDAM (AP) — The big Belgian ferry Prince Charles collided with the 6,140-ton British motorship Llantrisant in the English channel today but was reported returning to Ostend, Belgium under her own power. There was no word of any casualties.

First reports had said the Ostend-to-Dover, England, ferry was sinking slowly but later word indicated that the 2,958-ton vessel was remaining afloat.

Dirkzwager shipping agency here reported that a lifeboat already was en route from Ostend to the Prince Charles. The agency said its report placed the collision about 12 miles north of the coast of France.

Colored Oleo Bill To Come Before House

TORONTO (CP)—A bill to allow the sale in Ontario of colored margarine will likely be debated in the legislature shortly.

Albert Wren (Lib.-Lab.—Kenora) served official notice Wednesday he will introduce a bill to lift the ban, imposed in 1918.

Under customary procedure, Mr. Wren's bill will be given first reading Friday.

Stalemate Could Block 46-Land Wheat Deal

OTTAWA (CP)—A conference in Washington to renew a 46-country international wheat agreement may end in stalemate.

There were indications Wednesday that unless there is an 11th-hour change of heart by importers and exporters negotiations for a new agreement will collapse within a matter of days.

Officials in Ottawa for days have been sitting on tenterhooks waiting for some last-minute development to pull negotiations "out of the fire." They still held hope amid reports that the Canadian delegation was about ready to leave Washington.

However, hope ebbed after a Sydney, Australia, dispatch quoted Sir John Teasdale, chairman of the Australian wheat board, as saying he does not believe there will be a new agreement.

NOT WORRIED

Sir John said Australian farmers are not worried. He believed prices would remain at their current level, higher than the wheat agreement ceiling.

Trade Minister Howe, responsible to cabinet for wheat-handling, declined to comment on the Sydney dispatch. But his aides said Washington negotiations have reached a "critical" stage.

Even before the Washington talks began, Mr. Howe was prepared for the possibility that there would be no new agreement.

In a Toronto speech last October, he said:

"We can, of course, get along without such an agreement and its renewal can by no means be taken for granted. But I think that if would be good for Canada, and good for the world generally, if a satisfactory extension could be arranged."

PRICES BIG GAP

Price proved to be the big gap in the Washington discussions. Officials here believed that all of the 46 countries, including Britain, the biggest wheat buyer, and the U.S., the biggest supplier, had agreed that a new agreement would be beneficial. But the suppliers wanted a higher price. Importers wanted to keep down prices.

The U.S., which maintains a price-support program for its wheat farmers, asked that the ceiling under a new pact be raised to $2.50 a bushel from $1.80. Canada, the second biggest supplier, offered a modified $2.25-a-bushel ceiling.

Britain and the other 41 importing countries, presenting a strongly united front, asked that the ceiling be left unchanged, but gradually moved up to a $1.95-a-bushel ceiling.

Want Filipinos Out Of Korea

MANILA (AP)—Some Liberal party members Wednesday night urged withdrawal of Filipino troops from Korea. Leading newspapers said the move grew out of resentment over the U. S. switch in support from the Philippines' Carlos P. Romulo to Canada's L. B. Pearson for UN secretary-general.

Liberal party leaders declined to comment.

Representative Jose J. Roy, one of four Liberals who introduced a resolution seeking withdrawal in the Philippines House of Representatives, said the move would save $15,000,000 annually.

The Philippines has 1,200 officers and men in Korea.

The U. S. nominated Romula last week to succeed Trygve Lie as secretary-general. Romulo got little backing from other countries and the U. S. in a later vote was reported to have supported Pearson.

'Copter Lands Duke For Visit With Canadians In Germany

HANNOVER, Germany (Reuters)—A helicopter carrying the Duke of Edinburgh made a flare-lit landing on a Canadian parade ground here Wednesday after fog delayed the flight for an hour.

The Queen's husband, clad in the combat uniform of a field marshal, hopped out of the helicopter and immediately inspected a 100-man honor guard of the Canadian 27th infantry brigade.

Since nobody knew exactly when the Duke would arrive, the guard had remained in ranks while other soldiers cleaned dust off their shined shoes several times.

The dust kicked up by the four helicopters carrying the Duke's party from Soltau, Germany, was so thick that press photographers could not get a clear picture of the inspection ceremony.

When the dust settled, some 1,000 other Canadian troops, nearly all with cameras, followed Prince Philip around the station, snapping pictures at every move.

The Duke was welcomed at Hannover by Brig. J. E. C. Pangman of Toronto, the brigade's commanding officer.

The 100-man honor guard waiting for him was commanded by Maj. A. M. Mills of Calgary

The Duke got his big laugh of the day from Lt.-Col. H. H. A. Parker of Toronto.

Col. Parker, who broke a leg recently, proudly displayed his plaster cast painted in the gay colors of the Cameron tartan, as worn by the band of the 1st Canadian Highland Battalion.

After his visit the Duke returned by helicopter to Costedt, near Bad Oeynhausen.

Talks His Way From Kidnapper

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Joe, the talking myna bird at the Philadelphia zoo, really had something to discuss today—his abduction by a 16-year-old boy who finally grew tired of the feathered orator's chit-chat and surrendered his captive.

Joe is best known in these parts for the way he greets visitors to the zoo. For the women, he gives out with a reasonable facsimile of a wolf whistle. For the men and boys, he has a cheery "Hello, Joe."

Joe disappeared Thursday. Bird curator John A. Griswold said he suspected foul play and announced he was willing to take Joe back, no questions asked.

Several hours later, a 16-year-old boy telephoned Griswold and said he was holding Joe a captive at his home.

Britain Presses Investment In Canada Boom

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government is quietly pressing a campaign to promote investment of British-held dollars in Canada's booming development program.

Treasury officials decided some months ago to give investors who place their dollars in Canada priority over investors in other non-sterling countries. The decision is only now becoming widely known.

Officials said British dollar investments in Canada stand comparison with the current rate of U.S. investment in Canada but the pace may become too hot soon for Britain's limited dollar resources.

They said they had not rejected any serious application made to them for investment of dollars in Canadian industries. The treasury must sanction all British investments outside the sterling area.

Treasury chief R. A. Butler said Tuesday that so far this year $49,000,000 of investments in Canada have been approved compared with only $19,600,000 of investments in all other countries outside the sterling area.

Critics of the present British campaign claim the new investments are "too little and too late."

"Five years ago when I went to the country I could get about only with the help of two canes," writes Mrs. J. A. Mowry, 219 Newman St., Saint John, N.B. "I suffered greatly from the pain of arthritis and rheumatism. This miserable pain bothered me for many years—until I heard about T-R-C's. T-R-C's gave me the great relief I had longed for. THIEF CAUGHT—Suet that Mr. and Mrs. Clement K. Kohler, of Minneapolis, Minn., have been putting out for the birds this winter at their home, has been disappearing much faster than the birds could nibble it up. The culprit was discovered recently when this raccoon was caught guiltily peering from a bird rest above the basket of suet and a jar of seed—perhaps too overfed to make a getaway.

Search For Safety Ends In Drowning Of Boy, 7

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Nogue decided to move from his home on a busy Montreal street so their seven-year-old son, Michel, could play in safety.

They found a place at Ile Des Roches on the Mille Ile river, 15 miles from Montreal.

They moved Tuesday. While they were putting the furniture in the house, the youngster wandered out on the ice near the shore. The ice gave way and Michel was drowned.

Nobody Wants A Cold because even a 'sniffle' can be very annoying. But here's a tip to make your 'cold' days a lot less uncomfortable: Use the most absorbent tissue handkerchiefs you can buy, because too-frequent blowing irritates the nose. . . . And remember there's nothing like 3-ply FACE-ELLE for super absorbency. In fact it's the only 3-ply tissue! Its gentle softness, too, is always kind to the nose . . . a pure-cellulose softness with no harsh impurities. So don't let habit-buying keep you from enjoying these unique Face-Elle advantages. Say "Face-Elle, please" and be sure of more comfort for your money. In addition to regular 2-ply Face-Elle in the green box, there's a choice of 3-ply white in the pink box, the big foot-square man-size and Face-Elle En Pastels. They're all good!

"I'm Sitting On Top Of The World" when I see my cakes coming out of the oven so beautifully light, so tender and delicious-looking. And though I may seem smug, it's plain to see that anyone can have cakes just wonderful. Just use SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR. You see, Swans Down is made for just that purpose . . . to give you better baking results, to assure you of beautiful, moist, melt-in-your-mouth cakes . . . every time. Bake with confidence, the way I do. Bake with Swans Down Cake Flour—the flour that is sifted again and again until it is 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. Remember men love Swans Down Cakes . . . and the girls who bake them!

It's A "Back For More" dish, if ever I've tasted one. Yes, be sure, some blustery March evening soon, to give your family this heart-warming taste-treat — HEINZ COOKED MACARONI. It's enriched with the smoothest cream sauce you've ever enjoyed. Or serve HEINZ COOKED SPAGHETTI, drenched in spicy tomato sauce. Delicious—and so easy to prepare. In fact, Heinz Cooked Spaghetti and Macaroni (two kinds of each) are my favourite "wife-savers". After a busy day of shopping or housecleaning, it's a pleasure to be able to prepare a meal with so little fuss and bother. A meal, what's more, that will bring you plenty of compliments. Because these dishes are "husband-pleasers", too. Try them and see!

Gesundheit! I wish you the very best of health . . . and to help that wish come true, I'll give you my favourite cure for a cold. Drink the juice of one lemon in a glass of water with a half teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda . . . added very slowly. Drink as the foaming quiets. Do this every three or four hours at the first signs of a cold and see how quickly it alkalinizes your system and you feel better. Yes, it's a cold-chasing remedy that I like to keep handy during these sniffly March days. And I'm sure that once you've tried it, you'll agree that it works wonders. So take my tip—take my cure. But do be sure to use SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS. They're the finest, juiciest grown.

Take Your "Cue" from Mrs. John Drainie—"Claire Murray" of radio fame, and wife of the well-known actor. Compare BLUE BONNET MARGARINE with any spread at any price, and like Mrs. Drainie, I'm sure you'll find that Blue Bonnet is best. You'll like its fresh, country-sweet flavour — its year-'round nutritional value (no other spread is richer in Vitamin A) . . . and you'll be delighted with the dollars it saves you. So buy Blue Bonnet and get all three . . . flavour, nutrition and economy. Use Blue Bonnet in cooking, on vegetables and as a spread for bread. It's now foil-wrapped for extra protection—so it stays good. And I know you'll agree that it's as delicious melting hot as served fresh from the refrigerator.

Isn't It Funny how things you learned at school suddenly come back to you? My washing used to have a yellow tinge—then I remembered my chemistry teacher telling me that seven colours combine to make white, and one of them is blue. That's why there's no true white without blue. So of course the answer to the problem of yellow-looking washings is Blue. You know you must rinse your wash to get the clothes clean, then simply put a dash of Blue in the water—to get them really white. Your sheets, shirts and table linens will fairly sparkle! What's more, Blue is kind to fine fabrics—won't harm them in the least. Costs just a few cents a month, too!

Yes, for the whitest wash, use RECKITT'S BLUE.

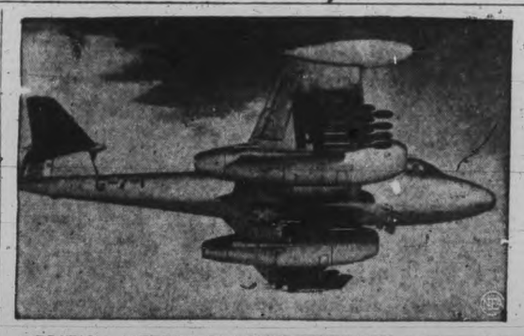
93-Year-Old Said Last Of Troupe



CRANBERRY PORTAGE, Man. (CP)—Caribou Smith, who claims to be perhaps the only living original member of the famous Buffalo Bill wild west show of frontier days, recently celebrated his 93rd birthday at his home here.

The secret of long life, he says, is in the words of a toast—"a long life and a happy one." Caribou says that if you live a happy life you may be sure of a long one.

Born in Yakima, Wash., in 1860, he ran away from home at the tender age of 12. He crossed the Columbia river in a borrowed canoe, swimming his pony behind, and spent his first night away from home in a friendly Indian camp. From there he started a long ride east.

Seeking shelter among friendly Indian tribes, he reached the Dakotas. From there he journeyed into Montana and Wyoming, where he says he met Calamity Jane, famous marksman in Buffalo Bill's shows. Caribou says she became a sort of mother to him and he still speaks of her as his mother.

It was through Calamity Jane, he said, that he met Col. William Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, and went to work with him. Caribou says he became one of the riders in the Buffalo Bill wild west show, with which he toured the major cities of the world and played at several command performances before royalty.

Commons Turns To Budget, Stop Debate On TV

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today studies Finance Minister Abbott's 1953-54 budgetary tax changes, setting aside temporarily a debate on government radio and television policies.

The debate on radio-TV occupied members for the second straight day Wednesday and took on some aspects of a marathon as George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, spoke for more than an hour criticizing an earlier speech by Transport Minister Chevrier.

At the end of Mr. Drew's speech —in which he stated his party's broadcasting policies — Revenue Minister McCann indicated he also wanted to speak on the subject. Mr. McCann reports to Parliament for the CBC, controlling body for radio and TV in Canada.

Works Minister Fournier, government House leader, then indicated the broadcasting debate will be postponed and attention turned to budget resolutions preceding bills which give effect to tax changes in the budget.

"DISTORTION"

Mr. Drew charged Transport Minister Chevrier with an "utterly shameless distortion of the facts" in a speech Monday on television. The minister, Mr. Drew said, had made a "shameless appeal to prejudice" by saying Progressive Conservative policy on television would d i s c o u r a g e establishment of French-language stations.

Mr. Drew said his party believes there should be an effective partnership between the publicly-owned CBC and privately-owned stations in both radio and television. All stations should be under "impartial control," not under the regulation of the CBC which itself was a competitor.

The Progressive Conservative leader spoke on a government motion to establish a committee to review activities of the CBC.

Criticism of government broadcasting policies also came from CCF and Social Credit speakers.

Labor Minister Gregg told the House that disputants in Vancouver's five-week strike of grain-elevator workers have declined to accept settlement terms proposed by a labor department conciliator. A new settlement attempt would be made.

FALSE IMPRESSION

Mr. Drew said Mr. Chevrier had tried to give the impression an attempt was being made to place TV broadcasting in the hands of private interests. No one in his party had suggested that.

The Progressive Conservative party did not believe control of television would be safe if left entirely to private hands. But it did believe competitive advantages for both private and public stations should be assured under an impartial and independent body similar to those which regulated the airways and railways.

Under government policy only one station will be allowed in any area until most parts of Canada are covered. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans others in Halifax, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Vancouver. Private stations will not be allowed in these large centres.

Dealing with French-language stations, Mr. Drew said it was the "policy of this government" which withheld opportunities to have French as well as English-language TV in many parts of Canada.

Mr. Chevrier had said the Opposition wanted to hand TV monopolies to its political friends. Yet the list of people applying for TV licences showed people who had openly declared their support for the government.

INEFFICIENCY

Ross Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) said Canada's record in television has been "inefficient, disappointing and maddeningly slow." Canada lagged years behind other countries in the development of TV because of the "indecision, vacillation and hesitancy of the government."

Mr. Thatcher said he believed the CBC could do the most effective job of developing TV in Canada. But the CBC was "hobbled" by government p o l i c y. "Canadians want television, but they want it in their lifetime."

John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) said the CBC has an important place in Canadian radio, but should not be the regulatory body while it competed with private stations. His party wanted an independent regulatory body and would like to see a standing select committee of the Commons set up to scrutinize radio policy.

LACKS RELIGION

Mr. Blackmore said the Bible taught truth, understanding and fear of the Lord. The CBC should teach these things. Yet he had never heard a CBC program with a theme of fear of the Lord. In fact he had heard programs which taught the opposite.

He defended the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, describing it as an organization of private radio interests that knew what the people wanted. He criticized M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, for stating previously that C. A. B. "propaganda" was "treasonable" to the country.

Walter Dinsdale (PC-Brandon) thought use of TV as an educational medium might be highly over-rated. He suggested an advisory council to keep the CBC in touch with the kind of programs the people wanted.

Angus MacLean (PC-Queens) said he believes both the CBC and the private stations have done excellently in their own fields. Canadians wanted entertaining programs without obnoxious advertising.

J. W. Noseworthy (CCF-York South) said he has great confidence in the CBC to provide good programs. He believed that the moment control ever passed from the CBC to private stations there no longer would be freedom of expression on the airways. Private groups would keep off the air opinions with which they disagreed.

Koreans Have Fierce Desire To Learn, Red Cross Told

TORONTO (CP)—The Korean people have a fierce desire to learn, Col. Ben C. Limb, permanent South Korean delegate to the United Nations, said Wednesday at the 3rd annual meeting of the Ontario division of the Red Cross.

He said thinly-clothed children trudge great distances across fields to sit all day on the floors of unheated classrooms or in fields for lessons.

"There are 135,000 school children in Seoul who have no noon meal of any kind and only the skimpiest of food for breakfast or dinner," he told delegates.

Ontario school children did outstanding work during last year, C. B. Routley, chairman of the Junior Red Cross committee, said. The group supplied 277 handicapped and crippled children with necessary appliances and equipment. He added that more than 1,000,000 young students across Canada are active in the JRC.

Five of the 60 disasters reported last year were major ones, A. Bruce Matthews, chairman of the disaster services committee, said. These were the floods at Hamilton, Port Credit and Windsor, fires at the Weston Sanitorium, Sudbury, and Lambert Lodge, Toronto, and the explosion at the Port Arthur grain elevator. Some 1,200 persons were helped with $2,700 worth of food, shelter and clothing.

Three dental coaches are serving communities in Northern Ontario, Dr. S. A. MacGregor, dental committee chairman, said.

Find Children Of Eskimos Carefree Lot

REGINA (CP)—That old proverb "spare the rod and spoil the child" doesn't mean a thing to Eskimo parents.

Mrs. A. G. MacKinnon, who spent two years in the Arctic, told the annual meeting of the League of Women Voters that Eskimos believe that when a child is born it takes on the spirit of an ancestor.

Mrs. MacKinnon, who lived for two years in Pangnirtung, Baffin Island, with her husband, a doctor, said that Eskimo children are a "carefree lot."

Eskimos have their faults "the same as we have faults," she said, but they are a very understanding people.

PROTECT THE WHITES

"Their idea about white people is that they feel they must protect them," she continued.

As an example, Mrs. MacKinnon told of the death of an Eskimo baby in a hospital. The Eskimo survivors shook hands with the nurse and said how sorry they were. They believed the nurse should have the sympathy because she had been with the child at the time of death.

It took Mrs. MacKinnon a while to understand the Eskimos but after two years on Baffin Island she left with tears in her eyes for "love of the country and the natives in it."

ANG Decertified As Agent For Press Service

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada labor relations board Wednesday revoked the certification of the American Newspaper Guild (CCL) as collective bargaining agency for a unit of editorial workers in the agency.

The decertification followed a vote of CP employees last week in which a majority balloted against continued representation by the guild, certified as bargaining agent for the group in April, 1950.

The labor department held up announcement of the board's move pending notification to the parties going out Thursday, but an informant said the action was unanimous.

It was based on an employee vote of 58 for and 22 against decertifying the guild. Out of 86 eligible to vote, 82 cast ballots, and there were two spoiled ballots.

The board's action came on the fourth application for decertification made by a majority of employees in the unit during the past 25 months. The first two were rejected, and the board advised the applying group to withdraw the third on the ground it was premature.

Available records indicated it was the third time in the 4½-year history of the CLRB that a union has been decertified under similar circumstances—that is, on application of a non-union group and with no other union stepping in.

In the last decertification application, 50 employees signed a petition for revocation of the guild's certification for the group, which took in certain categories of editorial men and messengers employed by CP in its Canadian offices.

In the representation vote leading to certification in 1950, the guild obtained 54 votes out of a bargaining unit of 89 persons.

Despite long negotiations, the union and the company never signed a contract. The guild brought five charges against CP under the federal labor code, but all were dismissed in magistrate's court in Toronto. Later, the union withdrew four and lost an appeal on the fifth.

The guild did not oppose the final application for decertification.

Must Know English

WELLAND (CP) — Approval of three applicants for Canadian citizenship was deferred Wednesday by Judge Harold E. Fuller because the applicants were unable to speak English. They will have to have at least a working knowledge of English before they can be approved, he said. He granted nine other applications and administered the oath of allegiance to 14 others.

Farm Forum Members Honored By Colleagues

Plainville (ENS) —Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs Maclean Herriott.

After the broadcast and discussion, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McKinlay were pleasantly surprised when they were presented with a beautiful table lamp. While Fred Bowman read an address, Gordon Buttars made the presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinlay, who made appropriate replies, are leaving their farm home near Plainville soon to take up residence in Coldsprings. Their sister, Miss Ada McKinlay, who is to make her home with her sister, Mrs. G. Pearce at Welcome, is to receive a brooch as a patring gift. Miss McKinlay was not present.

The final forum next Monday evening is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mr. Grant Carruthers.

Tiny Floral Pictures Moulded From Clay

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—George F. Byrne of Lethbridge uses only a toothpick and a match to produce delicate floral pictures from clay.

His pictures, ranging in size from 3 to 4 inches to 18 by 24, can be found as far away as Salt Lake City, Utah. He says some day he would like to turn what now is a hobby into a small business.

Mr. Byrne started dabbling with ceramics back in 1947 when he made ear-rings and brooches. He decided to switch to pictures which he mounts on velvet backgrounds.

One large picture in his living room is almost a full-size bouquet of flowers painted in natural colors. He uses a special clay imported from the United States.

Using his toothpick and match, he moulds the clay into intricate designs but never uses a pattern. He makes up his own designs as he works.

Pound Keeper Required To Milk Cows

EDMONTON (CP)—In a city heated almost entirely by natural gas, there still exists an Edmonton firewood by-law regulating loads and sales and providing for prosecution of firewood salesmen short-weighting customers.

While many such regulations rarely are used, they remain on the books, either because there is no hurry to repeal them or because of the possibility they may become useful in future.

One city legal official suggested that most of these horse-and-buggy by-laws are allowed to lie idle because it would require too many policemen to enforce them.

One antiquated by-law requires the pound-keeper to know how to milk a cow. Under a law never repealed he is required to milk impounded cows twice daily, getting use of the milk as compensation.

NO PIGEON LET LOOSE

Besides being an offence to permit a horse, mule, bull, steer, cow, goat, sheep, swine or poultry to run at large in the city, it is illegal to let pigeons loose.

Exercising the pitching arm with snowball throwing is as much against the law as throwing stones and ice, or using bows and arrows or sling shots.

One by-law which seems to contradict even civic practice says that salt is not to be used on sidewalks or roads for dissolving snow and ice. Also, there is a much-abused law which states that it is an offence to wash your car on the street.

Large Table Spoon Cause Of Death Of Zoo Ostrich

EDMONTON (CP)—This is the obituary of Jumbo, a 250-pound ostrich that came to the Edmonton zoo in August, 1949, and started to eat his way surely and steadily to death in the traditional manner of zoo ostriches.

Zoologists and veterinarians, aware of the eating habits of ostriches, weren't surprised at what the post-mortem examination of Jumbo revealed.

One by one the contents of the feathered glutton's gizzard were lined up. The final count: 65 pennies, one dime, five keys, several odd-shaped pieces of wood, numerous bits of scrap metal and a large table-spoon.

The spoon was responsible for the internal haemorrhage that delivered the death blow. That was the verdict of Dr. C. H. Bigland of the provincial poultry diseases division, who presided over the post-mortem, and Dr. William Rowan, head of the University of Alberta's zoology department, who has sat in on ostrich autopsies before.

Could indigestion have been a contributing cause of death?

"No," said Dr. Rowan, "those other things wouldn't bother his constitution at all."

Dr. Rowan recalled that at the London zoo he once saw four half crowns—about the size of a 50-cent piece—some keys, pebbles, nails and a prayer book taken from an ostrich's gizzard.

If the Edmonton zoo buys another ostrich the bird may be put in a glass cage with a sign reading:

Scientist Sees UK Weather Worsening For 200 Years

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Long-suffering, stoical Britons, read this and weep: Your climate's going to get worse before it gets better.

But don't take it too hard. If you're still around a couple of hundred years from now, the daily forecast may be brighter.

Bearer of these sad tidings is Dr. J. D. H. Wiseman of the British Museum of Natural History, who foresees a "century or two" of deteriorating weather before there is any real improvement in Britain's clammy, capricious climate.

How does Dr. Wiseman know this? Because of mud. His prediction is based on an analysis of mud samples dredged from the ocean bed, containing a mute but revealing record of cyclical changes in the earth's temperature through thousands of years.

BRITAIN TILTS

As if Dr. Wiseman's forecast wasn't depressing enough, a professor wrote a book to prove that Britain is "tilting." Prof. J. A. Steers, president of St. Catherine's College, Cambridge, said southeast England is getting lower and Scotland getting higher.

(Southeast England bore the brunt of the February floods, which cost 307 lives, forced 32,000 persons from their homes and put more than 150,000 acres under water).

In his book, "The Sea Coast," the professor writes that the tilt is probably caused by the continued retreat of the ice cap. This is accompanied, not only by a lift of lands to the north and a lowering to the south, but by a gradual rise in sea levels owing to the melting of glaciers.

The tilt is a slow process, averaging about two millimetres a year.

WINTER NASTY

The professor and the man from the museum couldn't have issued their warnings at a worse time. Their words followed a particularly vicious February instalment of the horrible British winter, whose cantankerous course included fogs and floods, hail and sleet, rain and snow.

One newspaper columnist said the winter reminded him of the dogs in cartoons by James Thurber, "miserable and shapeless." Visiting Canadians said the most charitable thing would be to tow the British Isles far out to sea, stopping somewhere near Bermuda.

So that's the weather picture; but black as it seems it's a safe bet that John Bull, vintage 2053, will be button-holing visitors from the land of the Maple Leaf with the bright remark: "Canadian, eh? how do you stand the cold over there?"

FAMOUS FOR TIDES

Chignecto Bay in the Bay of Fundy, between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, is famous for its tides which rise as high as 50 feet.

To Ease Transfer Of Trade Marks

OTTAWA (CP)—Transfer of trade marks from the owner to other persons will be made easier under legislation now before Parliament, the Senate banking and commerce committee was told Wednesday.

Christopher Robinson, Ottawa lawyer who served on a committee which drew up the legislation for the government, said that under present trade marks laws there are a number of artificial restrictions on the transfer of trade marks.

The Senate committee began a detailed study of the bill, introduced at the last session of parliament. A revision based on representations of business organizations was sent to the committee last month by the senate.

Mr. Robinson said the proposed bill, revising present trade marks legislation, will make possible free transfer of trade marks as long as no danger exists on confusion between two nearly-alike trade marks.

910,000 Vehicles Crossed International Bridge In '52

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—The Blue Water international bridge linking Sarnia and Port Huron, Mich., had the busiest year on record in 1952. During the 12 months some 910,000 vehicles crossed its 1¼-mile cantilever span.

Last year's two-way traffic, a 14-per-cent increase over 1951, brought to 6,669,254 the number of cars and trucks to cross the $3,614,000 bridge since it was opened in the fall of 1938.

A paltry 1,091 vehicles used the bridge, which spans the St. Clair river, in its first year of operation.

Officials said the bridge's increased popularity followed recognition by motorists of its value as an alternative to the Detroit-Windsor crossing.

AVOID CONGESTION

Many United States motorists, they said, used the Blue Water bridge to avoid the congestion at Detroit. Also, they said, most of Ontario's vacationland is more easily accessible through Sarnia and motorists from the midwestern states and the Canadian Prairies find the Sarnia entry more convenient.

The Blue Water, a toll bridge, is operated by the state bridge commission of Michigan. When present indebtedness is cleared, however, the bridge will be the joint property of Michigan and Ontario.

The original $2,30,000 indebtedness was reduced to $606,000 in 1952 and a block of $65,000 bonds was retired last December.

Justice Rejects Bid To Set Aside Election

CORNWALL (CP)—Mr. Justice J. M. King Wednesday dismissed a motion asking that last December's mayoralty election be set aside.

The motion was brought by Robert Revie, defeated by Mayor Aaron Horovitz by more than 1,500 votes. Mr. Revie claimed there were several irregularities.

Mr. Justice King absolved Mayor Horovitz of any of the alleged irregularities and said: "It appears to me city officials acted fairly and honestly in carrying out reasonable instructions from the mayor and members of city council."

HOTTEST EVER

The highest temperature ever recorded under standard conditions was taken on Sept. 13, 1922 n north-western Libya at 136.4 degrees.

Inquest Delayed To Identify Victim's Body

A coroner's inquest into the death of Austin Stevenson, 26, of R.R. 1, Norwood, was adjourned Wednesday for two weeks because none of the witnesses called could identify the deceased's body to the satisfaction of Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC.

Stevenson died March 1 as the result of injuries incurred February 27 when he was run over by a truck at the American Nepheline Mines quarry in Methuen township.

In order to have the body identified satisfactorily, a relative or the widow of the deceased will have to be called to testify before the inquest jury.

Coroner Dr. H. C. Carleton will preside over the inquest, to be held April 1 in the Peterborough County council chambers.

QUEEN MARY—Queen Mary, 86 in May, has been ill for the last three weeks, confined to bed at her Marlborough House residence by a gastric ailment. Queen Mary, widow of King George V, has been confined to her room on several occasions in recent years. In the spring of 1950 she had a severe attack of sciatica. Because of her age she does not plan to attend the Coronation ceremony at Westminster Abbey in June.

Transfusions Vain

WELLAND (CP)—Blood transfusions failed Wednesday to save the life of a four-hour-old baby born in Welland County Hospital. The child had RH negative type blood. Doctors began transfusions following birth while the father Joseph Burke, drove to the Red Cross blood depot in Hamilton for additional supplies. He returned with a provincial police escort but the baby had died before the hospital supply was exhausted

Waste Cedar Wood And Sawdust Go Into Making Of Hardboard

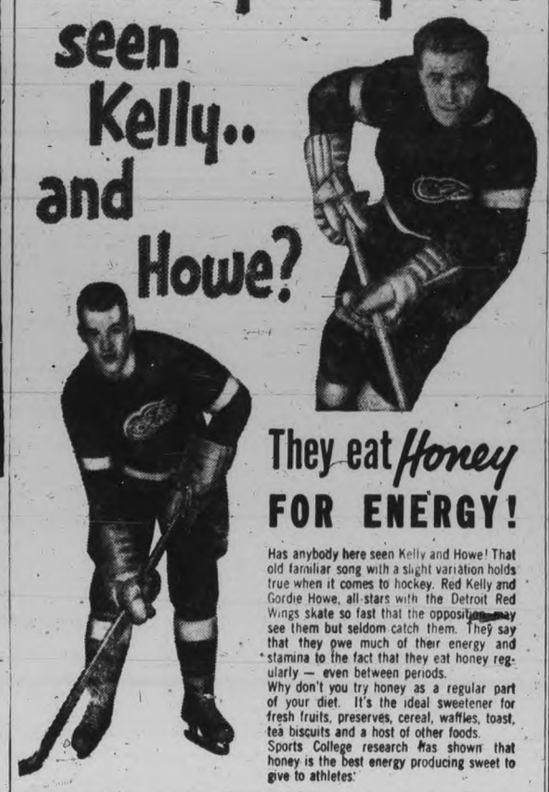
VICTORIA (CP)—Science in overalls at the British Columbia research council laboratories at Vancouver is paying big dividends.

The council is near completion of a process for making a hardboard from waste cedar wood and sawdust. If the process is successful costs will be more than recovered from production licences.

Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd revealed the progress in the legislature, referring to other local industries helped by the council.

He cited the case of a manufacturer of aluminum precision pistons.

"Starting from scratch and with the council's help, this man now has a plant in B.C. valued at $150,000 and employing 20 men," he said.



WORLD MARKET

"His pistons are marketed all over the world, and just a few weeks ago this firm opened a branch plant in Toronto, quite the reversal of the usual process."

Mr. Chetwynd said the council is also studying ways to keep teredos or ship worms from log rafts. He said it was not unusual for a single raft to suffer $10,000 damage on a trip from Queen Charlotte Islands to Vancouver from the boring worms.

In another instance, scientists saved 18 miles of pipeline in an Okanagan irrigation project when the pipe began to corrode after only a year's service. They found a way to treat the pipe at a cost of $30,000. To replace it would have cost $300,000.

has anybody here seen Kelly.. and Howe?

They eat Honey FOR ENERGY!

Has anybody here seen Kelly and Howe! That old familiar song with a slight variation holds true when it comes to hockey. Red Kelly and Gordie Howe, all-stars with the Detroit Red Wings skate so fast that the opposition may see them but seldom catch them. They say that they owe much of their energy and stamina to the fact that they eat honey regularly — even between periods.

Why don't you try honey as a regular part of your diet. It's the ideal sweetener for fresh fruits, preserves, cereal, waffles, toast, tea biscuits and a host of other foods.

Sports College research has shown that honey is the best energy producing sweet to give to athletes.

Always Wanted To Sing Gisele MacKenzie Starring

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Gisele MacKenzie, Winnipeg-born singing star, loves to sing. "I've always wanted to sing. The trouble used to be to get people to listen," she says.

Although well-known at the time as a radio personality in Canada, the French-Canadian singer's big chance came about 2½ years ago. She was invited to sing with Percy Faith—another Canadian—and his orchestra on a big United States network show originating in New York.

Gisele says "Canadians sort of expect entertainers to move" to the United States or abroad "if they have the opportunity. They would be disappointed, I think, if you didn't when you got the chance."

ATTRACTED ATTENTION

Oddly enough Percy Faith's offer came partly because she was born in Canada. Leading entertainers from many countries were chosen to appear on the program. Gisele, one of the top names in radio and supper clubs in this country, was invited to represent Canada.

Other offers came in during the same year and she appeared with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy and Morton Downey.

Then, back in Canada, came a "bolt from the blue," an offer to go to Hollywood to appear on the network radio show Club 15 with Bob Crosby, brother of Bing. The sponsor took her without an audition after hearing hundreds of American vocalists.

Now established in Beverly Hills, Calif., Gisele has been making a personal appearance tour since last January. She played in several U.S. cities and in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto. From here she goes to New York to the Cotillion Room of the Hotel Pierre, considered one of the top supper club dates on the continent.

After that she is to go on tour with Jack Benny starting in San Francisco.

Radio and popular records have made the one-time concert violinist one of the best-known voices in the entertainment field. A recent recording of "Don't Let the Stars Get in Your Eyes," is in the hit class.

YOUNG VIOLINIST

She was trained as a child to be a classical violinist and showed considerable promise.

Born in Winnipeg in 1927, one of five children of Dr. and Mrs. Georges Lafleche, she came to Toronto in 1941 as a scholarship violin student to the Royal Conservatory of Music. She played with the conservatory's symphony orchestra and, at 14, made a network performance with a Montreal symphony.

But singing always was her first choice. That and playing the piano, although she never has taken a lesson in either.

One night in 1945 she was spotted singing at a club date. Her discoverer, Bob Shuttleworth, later hired her for his orchestra and now is her personal manager. She has signed a contract with Music Corporation of America, one of the biggest agencies in the world.

For four years she was the star of a CBC program called "Meet Gisele." She made film shorts in Canada and appeared in supper clubs and at fashion shows and in some stage productions.

FRENCH SONGS

Completely bilingual, she is noted for her singing of French folk songs. One of these, "Le Fiacre," in which she imitates the sound of the clop-clop of the horse's hooves, has become another of her hit records. She sings it at almost all her stage performances and it has become a trademark.

Her ambition is to visit France and England but she is waiting until she has a "big" record.

"There's no point to going over there until you have that big one," she said backstage at a Toronto theatre.

At the request of her Club 15 sponsor, she changed her professional name to MacKenzie, one of her family names.

"There's nothing continental or arty or posey about me," she says. "My personality is frank and open, a typical Canadian or American girl and that's how I like it to be. Some people have suggested I become continental, but it's not my nature."

SINGING STAR—Gisele MacKenzie, Winnipeg-born star of stage, radio and records, says she loves to sing. The trouble "used to be to get people to listen," she said. One of the top names in Canadian radio and stage she went to the United States 2½ years ago and has become a popular star there.

Apsley WI Sponsors St. Patrick's Tea

APSLEY (ENS). — The members of Apsley branch of the Women's Institute sponsored a very successful St. Patrick's afternoon tea and home baking sale in the Public Library on St. Patrick's Day. The building was decorated with green streamers. Tables covered with white were trimmed with green and centred with potted plants, shamrock predominating. A table of home cooking wass upervised by Mrs. Ray Harvey with various members assisting.

A lucky ticket on a quilt was drawn and Mrs. Charles Smith was the winner. Mrs. Smith is one of the three charter members of the branch left.

CONDUCTS FOR CHARITY—Giannella De Marco, 8, Italian child prodigy, who has conducted at more than 100 concerts in Europe and South America, rehearses, above, with the London Philharmonic Orchestra, at London's Royal Albert Hall. A Home Office ban on Giannella's conducting was lifted when she offered to donate her fee of £300 to a children's charity.

Charge CCFers Usurp Institution

TORONTO (CP)— The former trustees of Woodsworth House charged Wednesday night that the principal tenants, the Ontario CCF party, have usurped the original intent of the institution by converting it from a study centre into a dispensary of partisan political propaganda.

Control of the building, named for the late founder of the CCF party, changed hands last February when the tenants also became the landlords. At the annual meeting of the Ontario Woodsworth Memorial Foundation most of the original trustees declined to stand for re-election.

A statement signed by 15 of the former trustees charged their successors with employing Communist tactics in bringing about the change.

David Lewis, now vice-president of the foundation, commented:

"Sour grapes." He branded the former trustees' accusation and interpretations as untrue and without foundation.

Canadians Ask Separate Trials

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Counsel for one of two Canadians accused of the holdup-slaying of a Buffalo jeweller served notice on the district attorney Wednesday that a separate trial would be requested.

The formal motion for a separate trial for Maurice O'Dell, 28, will be made Friday before State Supreme Court Justice William H. Munson. District attorney John F. Dwyer said he would ask that the motion be denied.

O'Dell and Walter Griffen, 26, both from Hamilton, Ont., are scheduled to go on trial April 13.

They have pleaded innocent to an indictment charging first-degree murder in the shooting of Donald F. Hurd in Hurd's downtown jewelry store last Dec. 9. They were extradited from Canada to face the charge.

Windsor Backs Move Of Solicitor In Appeal

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Board of Control Wednesday approved action of city solicitor James Watson in appealing a decision of the court of revision which recently ordered the city to refund $5,833 in taxes to Ford of Canada.

Ford was awarded the refund after officials claimed the plant was "cut of business" for eight days due to a strike in 1952.

Mr. Watson termed the court's action a "very dangerous precedent."

The court of revision recently ordered the city to refund eight days' business tax to the company. The plant was closed May 23-30 during a strike of office workers.

Oil Wells Provide Uses For Mud

CALGARY (CP)—The woman who does the laundry and mops up floors won't agree, but science has found a use for mud.

Add a few chemicals to mud, doctor it up a bit, and it turns into an important factor in the drilling of oil wells.

As used in the oil-drilling business, mud has many functions. It helps overcome gas, oil and water flows and keeps the drill hole free of cuttings. It prevents walls from caving in and serves as a protection for producing formations during the drilling process besides gathering a little information.

The technology of drilling mud has developed into a science since its full use was first suspected back in 1901. There are mud engineers to make it perform. Most are trained by private companies since few universities offer courses in mud engineering.

The mud engineer can tell by samples and delicate instruments just what is going on at the bottom of the bore hole. Some have set up small laboratories in their cars and have been known to stay on the site for days working on a well.

Taxco Priest Brings Progress To Community

By JEAN E. STENTON

TAXCO. — One of the most beloved citizens of Taxco and a man who lives solely for others is Father Ramos y Aranda of the Santuario de la Veracruz (church).

* * * *

Ever since I arrived I had been hearing about this little priest and he will remain one of my brightest memories of Taxco. Everyone loves him and he is happiest when he can do something for others.

* * * *

Father Ramos' first job when he came to Taxco 11 years ago was to rebuild his church. The building was practically falling down and today though it is not quite finished, it is one of the loveliest in Taxco. It is also one of the oldest.

* * * *

As soon as the church work was well started, the priest sought an opportunity to further education among the children in this area. So with his own money he built a school. Today there are four teachers whose salary he pays and 150 pupils in grades 1 to 6. Anyone is welcome in the classes regardless of position. He uses the money he receives for special services and masses to further his pet projects.

* * * *

Unfortunately this year he found his expenses in this work have risen so much he couldn't continue to carry on. So he plans to ask four nuns to come and take over the teaching and he will keep two of the private teachers. He will have to build a home for the nuns, but other than that there will only be their expenses to pay. He himself gives religious instruction.

* * * *

Along with his love of humanity, Father Ramos has a lively sense of humor. He likes people and I enjoyed talking to him in his simple office overlooking a patio. As soon as he finds a spare moment, he hopes to plant trees and make a beautiful garden at the front of his church.

* * * *

REFORESTATION PROJECT

There are seven villages in his parish outside Taxco. And he considers religion only one of his important duties with them. He has helped teach many of the adults to read and write and he regularly gives lectures in the school room on social and rural life, i.e., the means of improving their conditions and surroundings.

* * * *

One of his favorite jobs is reforestation. The Rotary Club here supplies him with trees and the day I was with him he asked for more eucalyptus trees which he found did very well. In most of the villages he gives them only fruit trees. The Indians realize that they represent a means of livelihood where with the others they are soon cut down for lumber.

* * * *

Father Ramos is very much interested in agriculture. He gives his people seeds and teaches them how to plant their crops. He says he has been very successful in that work. Last year he did very well with soya beans. The results were so good he is getting additional seed this year.

* * * *

"I experimented with hybrid corn but it wasn't very good. I think that it got mixed with the native corn and the pollination did not work out," Father Ramos said.

* * * *

PERSONAL EFFORT

This priest comes from an agricultural village, but he augmented his knowledge while studying in Mexico and the University of Puebla. In all his work he has had very little outside help. It has been more the personal effort. Anyone who has a civic plan for the good of the town can be certain of enthusiastic support from this man.

* * * *

One of his villages, Juliantla (Land of the Julians) is something of an oddity. The name originally was Judlianta (Land of the Jews) and the original village was founded by Spanish Jews who were miners. As time passed they were absorbed by the country and became Roman Catholics. So after a while they voluntarily changed the name by altering "d" to "l". In the village of San Juan de Dios are many German descendants. In the earlier days German miners worked here. They too were gradually absorbed by the natives. And though they are Mexican today, you find many German names such as "Fitz" among the inhabitants.

* * * *

"I have the highest regard for Canada and Canadians," Father Ramos said to me. "I remember when Cardinal Villeneuve was attending a special event at Guadalupe. He received a wonderful reception and was so popular with we Mexicans. That has made us more interested in Canada."

* * * *

Father Ramos speaks Spanish and reads English and French. I speak English and a little French and read Spanish. So we compromised and carried on our conversation via the good offices of a Taxco Rotarian, Sr. Fernando Reyes, who acted as our interpreter.

Recommend To Inspect Rest Homes

No Blame Attached At Coroner's Inquest In Nursing Home Fire

LINDSAY — (ENS) — A recommendation that the Ontario government enact a law whereby nursing homes of five beds or more undergo regular inspection was recommended by a coroner's jury meeting in Little Britain on Wednesday.

The jury at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Emma Stevenson attached no blame in its verdict. The inquest was the result of the death of Mrs. Stevenson in a fire in a nursing home operated by Mr. and Mrs. George Starr on March 10.

Coroner Dr. G. C. R. Hall of Little Britain presided and Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan conducted the inquiry.

Although the definite cause of the fire was not determined, previous idea that the defective wiring in the attic of the building might have started the flames was discounted, when Mr. and Mrs. George Starr, operators of the home, and Mrs. Wilma McKee, a nurse gave their testimony.

SMOKE, NO FLAMES

Mrs. McKee told of the clearing of the lower floor of patients, and then going to the second floor to help with some of the bedridden cases, While there she found Mr. Starr at a trap-door to the attic, inspecting the place with a flash light. He told her, she said, that there was smoke but no flames.

A thorough search of the second floor rooms was begun by the three, and when they entered the room of a Mrs. Morrison, 86, they found her waiting to be taken out, not particularly excited. When Mr. Starr opened the closet of the room, a sheet of flame faced him, driving him back into the room.

This was the only flame seen prior to the outbreak of the fire through the rest of the building Mrs. McKee told the jury that Mrs. Morrison had been dissatisfied with the home, and had previously complained about the food. She wanted to leave, she said.

Dr. Hall, the coroner, interjected that Mr. Starr, in his experience had not been anxious to keep Mrs. Morrison either. No conclusion was drawn, however, from this evidence.

Evidence was given that the complete wiring of the building had been inspected and approved three years ago. It was also noted that there was a fire escape from the second floor but only one patient had used it.

Mrs. McKee also told the court she had been helping another patient, a Miss Kidd, from the Stevenson room, and had told Mrs. Stevenson about the fire. When she last saw the elderly patient she had been getting out of bed.

Would Tax Spinsters

St. Thomas council agrees with Stratford that unmarried women between 21 and 60 should be required to pay the poll tax. Peterborough council turned down that idea. In the dismissive comment of Ald. Harold Rehill, "I move we adjourn," council refused to give its support to that idea of mulcting the "unmarried females."

Historian To Speak

Dr. J. J. Talman, Librarian of the University of Western Ontario, in London, will be guest speaker Friday night at a meeting of the newly-formed Peterborough Historical Society in the Public Library. Dr. Talman is an authority on Ontario history.

CURRENT SHOWING OF THE PETERBOROUGH Men's Sketch Club at the Public Library comprises 105 pieces and one that is causing considerable comment is Jack Hamer's "Night Impression of Confederation Square." He (above) has ten other district oils in the show and has exhibited a picture each year for the past two to the Royal Academy in Toronto and Montreal. Also district scenes, they were sold to private collectors. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Experts Urge Farmers To Increase Efficiency In Show's Panel Discussion

The Spring Show is also a farm forum. Originally it was a seed fair. Then it acquired another function as an exhibition of farm implements. Directors decided to put on a panel here last year for the discussion of grass silage. That afternoon session was so provocative, especially to farmers who were unconverted to the departure from the traditional corn that it recommended an enlargement of the experiment. So, two panels were drawn up for this week.

Wednesday afternoon the subject was "The Business of Farming" which was proposed as a discussion of what farmers are to do to ensure profits in the market squeeze that set in last year.

"Many of us have described farming as 'a way of life,' as indeed it is; but it is also a business, and if the business side — the dollar and cents side — is not successful you can be sure that the way of life will not be very satisfactory either." So said Prof. D. R. Campbell, O. A. C., in a preceding talk.

Dr. H. L. Patterson, economist of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was chairman and with him were: John Dryden of Brooklin; Prof. Campbell, R. H. Graham of the Ontario Department, A. M. Barr, Principal of Kemptville Agricultural School and George McLaughlin of Oshawa.

BARNS UNCHANGED

One of the observations was that farmers have invested substantial part of their capital in field equipment and efficient operation, but they accept the long established inconveniences and time-wasting circumstances around the barn.

George McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farms, north of Oshawa, said he had come to the stage where something had to be done about the "set up" which was evidently good enough in the horse and buggy days.

"We have to compete with the highest paid labor in Ontario," Mr. McLaughlin said, with refer-

Takes To Ditch To Avoid Crash Driver Injured

ROSENEATH (ENS) — Taking to the ditch to avoid an accident, Arthur Covert, 44, Roseneath, was knocked unconscious and injured about the head when his half-ton pick-up truck jumped the ditch and rolled over on its top on Highway 45 at the Alderville cenotaph about six p.m. Wednesday.

Covert was trapped in the crushed cab of the truck and rescued by four Indians who heard the crash while eating supper a quarter of a mile away.

Covert, mail carrier for RR 3, Cobourg, had been driving northeast from Cobourg home after attending a sale. At the Alderville cenotaph he saw a car driven by Dr. George H. Field, 80, entering the highway from the Harwood county road.

The truck driver swung across the highway to the north ditch to avoid a collision. The truck cleared the ditch and rolled over on the bank on the far side.

WENT FOR HELP

Dr. Field, whose car was not hit, saw that he could not free the unconscious man alone. He drove quickly into Roseneath to get a tow truck to help get the man out.

In the meantime, four men who heard the crash a quarter of a mile away, rushed in their car to the scene. When they pulled him clear, Covert was still unconscious and they drove him to his home in Roseneath.

The four men were Lorne and Dan Simpson and Elmer and Ted Beaver.

Dr. Field treated Covert, who had facial cuts. Today Covert was up and around.

Lewis Heads Retail Section

Donald Lewis was elected chairman of the Retail Section of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of retail representatives today.

Harold Cherney was elected vice-chairman.

This meeting was the climax of a series of retail section organizational meetings held during the past few weeks. A meeting was held for each classification of retailers to a board of directors of this section. The board will discuss and determine retail policy on the city.

The board also decided to hold a dinner meeting April 19 at the Kawartha Club. The guest speaker a this meeting will be Samuel Fletcher, sales promotion and public relations expert from London, Ont.

The issue of a three night sales training course in Peterborough will also be discussed at this meeting.

Fund Short $15,752 "Not Over Yet"

"It's not over yet, not by a long shot."

These words by Alex Elliott, chairman of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund, and more like them were directed to approximately 165 fund workers and canvassers at a dinner in the Empress hotel Wednesday night.

They followed the announcement that the total collected to date was $79,248—$15,752 down from the fund's $95,000 objective.

The tone of the dinner and its program was geared to emphasize to both the fund workers and citizens of Peterborough that the 1953 campaign is not completed and won't be completed until the $95,000 objective is reached.

"We've got to keep up the work until every last card and every cent is in," Mr. Elliott said.

A PROGRAM EXTRA

An impromptu duet by Henry Batten and George Parry, MPP, West Elgin, was a hit of the Spring Show luncheon Wednesday at the Empress Mr. Parry accompanied Hon. H. R. Scott, and Deputy Minister of Agriculture C. D. Graham from Toronto for the opening of the show.

Fire Fund Paid Out $4,100 In '52

Money Given To Families Of Fire Victims

The Mayor's Fire Fund, collected in 1951 to assist the families of three firemen and one volunteer killed while fighting the Zacks' building fire, paid out $4,100 during 1952 to the wives and children.

Shortly after the May 19 fire the mayor, Max Swanston, set up the fund and within a few weeks reported a total of $60,588.46. Later bank interest increased the fund by $318.72.

At the same time the expenses for the first eight months amounted to only $134.57 and included items such as postage, advertising, collection tins and the other things used during the promotion of the fund.

Since payments to the families started in August, 1951, with amounts provided for the wives and each child, according to age, only $1,980 in regular payments and another $100 for extra Christmas money was paid out that year. This left a bank balance of $58,692.61 on December 31, 1951.

In April 1952 the trustees of the fund purchased $55,600.77 in city of Peterborough bonds at $100½, increasing the total payment to $55,878.77 plus accrued interest from April 30 to June 2 of $213.64.

These bonds are the serial type (some maturing each year) and bear interest at the rate of four-and-a-half per cent. The final year of maturity is 1966.

Actually the only expenditures during 1952 were: safety deposit box rental which was $2.50; postage and excise, $3.00.

During the year the fund paid to the four families a total of $4,000 according to the specifications laid down when the fund was established. In addition there was another $100 as a special Christmas payment divided among the families.

The matured bonds ($3,750.77), the interest from the bank $436.69) and from the bonds ($1,575.32) plus the bank balance of 1951 made the total $64,455.39. This gave the fund a bank balance of $4,257.48 for 1952.

Keene Lions Entertain Juvenile Hockey Team

KEENE (ENS). — On Tuesday evening the Keene Lions Club entertained 17 members of the juvenile hocky teeam and their coach, Wallace Houle, at a turkey banquet in the club room.

Mrs. Evelyn Anderson catered, assisted by several of the Lions' wives. Forty in all sat down at the tables.

Following the dinner, President Dave McNevin spoke a few words of welcome and chairman Thomas Weir introduced the head table.

A sing-song of Irish numbers was led by Jack Bolan, with Vic Foley at the piano,

Chairman Weir gave a few remarks, stressing the value of fun as we go through life. Jim McCarthy introduced the hockey players and Coach Wallace Houle presented each with an OMHA crest.

The guest speaker for the evening, Dit Clapper, was introduced by Fred Whalen. Mr. Clapper assured the boys that players from small towns have as much chance as anyone to make the big leagues. He encouraged questions, and remarked that many hockey games are lost by bad penalties—a good penalty is sometimes necessary to prevent a goal.

Jim McCarthy thanked Mr. Clapper.

The remainder of the evening took the form of a St. Patrick's Day dance, sponsored by the Lions Club in the hall, and open to the public.

RCAF Officer Works On NATO Infra-Structure

FONTAINEBLEAU (CP) — To some, "infra-structure" may just be a stumbling block in a cross-word puzzle. To Group Capt. E. C. (Ted) Luke of Montreal and Vancouver it's a day-to-day worry.

Luke is on the staff of Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander - in-chief Allied air forces Central Europe, and infra-structure is his special responsibility. He is stationed at this French base.

In Canada, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton has called "infra-structure" an ugly word. How does Luke define it?

"The best way is by a process of simple subtraction," he says. "If you take away the personnel, the planes, movable equipment and supplies of an air force, what is left is infra-structure."

This means airfield construction and facilities, plus such national additions as may be required by forces using above the bare minimum North Atlantic Treaty Organization standards.

That makes Luke something of a figure in European real-estate circles. The bulk of the 126 airfields being built in the NATO program lie within the scope of AAFCE: 41 in France, 30 in Western Germany, 14 in Belgium, 13 in The Netherlands and one in Luxembourg.

"Consider that each site represents 1,100 acres of ground," said the Canadian officer, "and you get an idea of the spread of our supervision."

Luke was deputy director of works and building for the RCAF during the Second World War, with special responsibility for the British Commonwealth Air Training plan.

Describing the difficulties of his present job, he says:

"It's something like six families, each with lots of ideas and tight rein on the money, all trying to build one fine house in which they are all going to live together in comfort and security. That would take some doing, wouldn't it?"

Rates British Press Finest In World

LONDON (CP) — Miss Pat Hornsby-Smith, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of health, has undertaken to lead a crusade, if necessary, in defence of the British press which she rates the finest in the world.

Guest speaker at a special function staged by the all-male London Press Club, Miss Hornsby-Smith told her listeners she stood ready to fight ferociously if anyone attempted to put through legislation curtailing the liberties of the press.

"All I ask in return," she said, "is that you recognize the power you wield and that you couple the responsibility you have with the realization of the contribution you make to the national life of the country."

CHOLERA IN 1832

Cholera made its first appearance in Canada in 1832 on board immigrant vessels from England and Ireland.

FLYING SHARK—Part bird, part fish, the "Flying Shark" a new type of boat, is thrilling visitors to Lake Maggiore, Italy. Forty-five feet long, with a capacity of 32 passengers, it is capable of speeds up to 50 miles an hour. At top speed long fin-like outriggers suddenly appear, lifting the boat above the water and giving passengers the sensation of actually flying.

Remembers Boys And Girls Of Bengal Street, Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—Milton Stark, Toronto electronic instrument manufacturer, hasn't forgotten Liverpool's working - class Bengal street which he left for Canada as a child.

He's footing the $1,000 bill involved in sending 45 Bengal street children to the seaside for a week in mid-July.

Stark returned to visit his childhood haunts last April. His first words were with young Norma Hurst whose parents live close to Stark's old home.

And when he asked her what she thought her playmates would appreciate most, she told him that "we don't get out of the city very often."

Norma clutched £5 when Stark left.

Plans for the seaside trip to Rhyl, Wales, followed Stark's correspondence with the Liverpool education committee, which conducted a quiet survey of Bengal street children under 16 years of age.

The trip for the 45 youngsters will be his Coronation gift.

Gift for Queen

VANCOUVER (CP)—A painting of the construction of the historic road from New Westminster to Vancouver has been completed by V. R. Timms here as a gift for the Queen. It is expected Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace will take the painting when he goes to London for the Coronation.

INDIAN WORD

Cascumpeque Bay in Prince county, Prince Edward Island, was named from an Indian word meaning "bold, sandy shore."

Shot Oil Executive, Sentenced To Hang

EDMONTON (CP)—A six-man jury Wednesday convicted Lorang Sorum of murder in the parking-lot shooting of an Edmonton oil company executive. Mr. Justice James Cairns sentenced the 26-year-old former University of Alberta student to be hanged on June 16.

The jury decided that Sorum, a native of Prince Albert, Sask., was sane when he emptied a revolver at Obert D. Haugen, 38, in downtown Edmonton Jan. 30.

Sorum shook his head and answered "no" when Judge Cairns asked if he had anything to say before sentence.

Australia's Famous Light Horse To Ride In Coronation Parade

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Australia's famous Light Horse, leading regiment of the Desert Mounted Corps in the Middle East during the First World War, will ride again as part of Queen Elizabeth's bodyguard at the Coronation.

The Light Horse is now part of history, but the uniforms, with emu plumes waving on felt hats, will be revived for the bodyguard. The Australians will wear the leather bandoliers slung on their left shoulders and carry their rifles slung. No Light Horseman ever used a leather rifle bucket like other cavalry.

The last Light Horse unit was mechanized in 1940 and now, unlike 40 years ago, it would be hard to form a mounted unit. Station hands don't use horses for mustering now.

The most famous battle of the Light Horse was in General Allenby's first campaign in 1917 when a brigade made what has been described as one of the finest charges in the history of British arms. The leading squadrons deployed on the open plains before Beersheba on the southern border of Palestine and, with rifles slung and their bayonets in hand, they overran the Turkish trenches and took the town and thousands of prisoners.

ZSA ZSA'S WELL-HEELED—Shapely film star Zsa Zsa Gabor looks mighty happy holding part of the 6,000 silver dollars which she earned for a week's work in a Las Vegas, Nev., hotel's supper club. Helping her with the "haul" is Deputy Lloyd Hurst.

Said Mummy Of Princess Now Thought That Of Man

TORONTO (CP)—That's no lady in the ancient mummy case at the Royal Ontario Museum, labelled as a princess for many years.

The sign has been changed from "The Lady Hatasis — Egyptian Princess" to "Mummy and Coffin of a Man Named An-Tjau."

The truth about the figure with its fine feminine features and bright red hair was discovered by some detective work on the part of Winnifred Needler, curator of egyptology.

She was browsing through the hieroglyphics on the side of the sarcophagi, encasing the linen-wrapped body, when she spotted an inscription which she deciphered as meaning "Mummy and Coffin of a Man Named An-Tjau, son of Ankhor."

More investigations followed and authorities finally gave permission for reclassification on the basis of the bone and teeth structure of the mummy.

Miss Needler speculates that the mistaken identity probably resulted through the enthusiasm of a Cairo merchant who sold the mummy to Dr. Lockland Taylor in the 1880s. Dr. Taylor turned his prize over to the museum after joining the staff of Victoria College, University of Toronto.

Now the Lady Hatasis is just plain An-Tjau.

Produce Quality Forage For Livestock Farmers Urged

Because of high feed costs and declining prices for livestock and livestock products it is more than ever essential for Ontario farmers to produce high quality forage.

This was the warning given in an address Wednesday afternoon at the Central Ontario Spring Show by Prof. D. R. Campbell, head of the Economics Department, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

"Before the war, we in Eastern Canada imported less than 10 per cent of the feed grain we fed," Prof. Campbell said. "Now about 35 to 40 per cent comes from Western Canada. We have become dependent on western farmers and more vulnerable to world demand for coarse grains.

"Whatever the cause, the fact remains that Ontario feeders are to a very considerable extent dependent on western grain, yet they do not have much control over the price because they are still a relatively small part of the market for western grain.

"If Ontario farmers find that the price of grain remains high while the prices of livestock and livestock products decline, what are they to do?" he asked.

SUBSTITUTES

"For one thing, they can grow better forage and substitute hay and silage for grain. This is especially important in many areas of Eastern and Central Ontario, where the land is sometimes better suited to hay and pasture production than grain or even corn production."

Prof. Campbell said that the faculty of OAC was very anxious to carry out feeding tests similar to one recently completed by agricultural economists in Michigan, if they could find farmers in Ontario willing to co-operate.

Practical pointers on improving the quality of forage crops were given by Prof. Campbell's colleague, Dr. W. E. Tossell of the OAC Field Husbandry Department.

Germination and seed weight are the two most important factors in obtaining forage seed, Dr. Tossell said in an illustrated lecture entitled "Seed Quality Pays Dividends."

Although farmers seeded 25 to 30 per cent of their acreage in forage each year, they were often disappointed with the results because they have paid more attention to seed quality in grain crops than in forage, he suggested.

STRIKING DIFFERENCES

OAC had received a number of samples of orchard grass produced from foundation seed last fall, and there was a striking difference in quality, he reported.

In the samples received there were tremendous differences in germination and even where there was high germination there was a tremendous difference in the vigor of the seedlings.

"You cannot afford to seed any seed not subjected to germination tests," he warned his audience, whom he also advised to become familiar with the different types of grasses and legumes.

Christian Work In Many Lands Theme Of Talks

MILLBROOK — (ENS) —The Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church met at the home of Mrs. Homer Ouellette.

The opening devotional period and the closing worship, which had as their theme, "The Community of Grace," were taken by Miss Marjorie Skitch. Portions of the scripture were read by Miss Edith Clarke and Mrs. Henry Gray.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president, told of conversations with the Begum of Pakistan when the latter visited Peterborough. The Begun's marriage had been an arranged one. This system she said did have some advantages as well as disadvantages. She is the mother of a boy and three girls and hoped to be able to direct her girls in their choice of husbands but not to arrange marriages for them.

She said her husband did not listen to her make speeches, partly because she speaks so frequently he might find it boring and also because he does not altogether agree with her point of view.

Mrs. Hobbs told also of Dr. Ida Scudder, now 82 years of age, who went to India as a medical missionary 58 years ago. Dr. Scudder, the daughter of missionaries, had no intention of spending her life in India until once when visiting her parents there she was called to the aid of child wives in labor. Their need was so great she decided that was her place in life. She was responsible for the founding of the Vellore Medical College.

Mrs. Aubrey Fallis gave the temperance report.

It was decided that since the book, "Labrador Nurse" was in such demand from the public library the circle should buy its own copy to pass around. The author, Miss Bessie Banfill, has addressed the circle a number of times.

Final arrangements were made for the joint April meeting with the CGIT and WMS for the film, "An End to Darkness," dealing with life in Africa. A refreshment committee was appointed.

Miss Jean Burnham conducted the study period which dealt with the Church in Angola where there is now a theological school, Emanuel Seminary, for teaching native pastors in Angola. The first class of four graduated in 1949 and since then there have been eight more graduates. She told also of training schools for deaconnesses and a four weeks' training course given pastors' wives.

Mrs. David Lunn offered prayer. Supper hostesses assisting Mrs. Homer Ouellette were Mrs. Alex Gilbert, Mrs. Bruce Ingham and Mrs. Russell Northey. The May meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Eric Fallis.

APPROACH TO DEATH—Civil Defense observers and newsmen (foreground) watch the latest atomic bomb cloud drift across the skies at Yucca Flat in Nevada's Test Site. Observers and 1,600 troops waited only two miles away from the explosion. This was closest that humans have been to an A-blast since the 1945 bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. In this blast, however, no one was injured.

Reds, West Germans Split Fallen Fir Tree

GOSLAR, Germany (AP)—A fir tree, rooted in West Germany, fell across the Soviet zone border recently.

It resulted in East-West negotiations on the question: Who owns the tree?

It was settled today in this manner: eight West German frontier guards and eight Communist policemen, all armed with carbines, lined up at the fallen tree. One Communist and one West German took the handles of a saw. They sawed the tree exactly along the border.

The Communists lugged off the top half, the West Germans took away the bottom.

Abbey Seats Still Open For Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday he understands that a number of Coronation seats still are available to Canadians, both in Westminster Abbey and along the procession route.

He told John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) that was the situation a few days ago and promised up-to-date information shortly.

Defence Minister Claxton told Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC—Nanaimo) that the chiefs of staff of the three armed forces will not be included in the military contingent for the Coronation.

Trout Season Earlier

QUEBEC (CP)—The fishing season, for brown, speckled, grey and red trout will open one day earlier in Quebec province this year, the Quebec department of game and fisheries announced Wednesday in its summary of fishing laws and regulations for 1953. The fishing dates for these species will be April 15-Sept. 30 instead of April 16-Sept. 30.

Policy Lack Bars Flood Controls

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Dr. J. Cameron Wilson Wednesday said the work of upper Thames valley conservation authority was "delayed" and "frustrated" by lack of government policy on cost sharing. He called for a provincial policy at an early date.

His address at the annual meeting was presented by Gordon W. Pittock of Ingersoll, vice-chairman. Dr. Wilson was ill and unable to attend.

Dr. Wilson proposed the authority ask the province to share cost on projects over $750,000 on a basis of 37½ per cent province, 37½ per cent federal and 25 per cent UTVA. This breakdown has been followed for Fanshawe dam.

For projects under $750,000 he proposed the province pay 75 per cent, the authority 25 per cent.

394 Visits To Homes Made By VON Nurses

Members of the Victorian Order of Nurses staff made 394 visits during February.

Miss Harriet McGeary, nurse-in-charge, explained in her report at the meeting of the Board of Directors, Wednesday, that this total is an increase of 68 visits as compared to the February, 1952, total.

Of this total, 307 were for nursing care and 87 for health instruction.

During the month, 59 new patients were admited— an increase of nine more than in February 1952.

Movie-TV Rites Celebrated At Oscar Dinner

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movies and television get married tonight, with the rites taking place at the 25th annual academy awards

For the first time, a television audience estimated by NBC at 40,000,000 persons will watch the movie industry's biggest show. It will mark the TV debut for scores of the biggest names in moviedom.

Studios have given blanket clearance for their stars to be seen on television—almost a naughty word in movie circles not too long ago.

Fourteen TV cameras will greet the ermined and minked movie queens.

Six cameras will be in New York to catch Shirley Booth, a favorite, or any other winners. Frederic March, a two-time winner himself, will present the New York Oscars. Jose Ferrer nominated for "Moulin Rouge," will be in the New York show.

Bette Davis, recuperating from jaw surgery in a New York hospital, will give a 30-second radio acceptance speech if she gets the nod for her performance in "The Star" which would make her the only three-time winner.

Of the top 10 actresses and actors up for the big plums, only Joan Crawford—"Sudden Fear"—will be at the Hollywood ceremony.

STARTS 10.30

The NBC telecast goes on the air at 7:30 p. m. (10:30 p. m. EST) and stays on until finished, approximately two hours. RCA-Victor, picking up the $250,000 sponsor's tab, also will sponsor a radio broadcast.

That bit of irony became possible when three of the major movie studios refused financial support for the academy show.

Who's going to win?

Most experts pick Miss Booth, Gary Cooper and "High Noon" to win the three top Oscars.

I pick Joan Crawford, while fully admitting the greatness of Miss Booth's performance. For 25 years La Crawford has been working 24 hours a day at being a movie star. Her personal popularity among the voters will be hard for a screen newcomer to overcome.

I think Cooper is a shoo-in but I like "The Quiet Man" for the best picture.

Canada's Miracle More Noticed Outside Than In

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canadians who have occasion to look around at what is happening in Canada sometimes wonder whether the significance of what is happening is generally appreciated.

After all, Canadians have been told since before the start of the century that Canada would be a great country some day; but, while there has been much to arouse pride, the expected day of greatness has seemed to recede.

But this time, if we can believe our eyes and all we are told, it is different. This time, we are not only a storehouse of materials as we have always thought, but we are finding the materials, and other people want them. This time we are still a few people, but we are many more than we were, and we have undergone a forced schooling in the last dozen years.

Some thoughts on the complex Canadian subject were expressed by J. Gerald Godsoe, national vice - president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, in an address Wednesday night to the National Office Management Association in Toronto.

"I sometimes feel, when away, that an awareness of the miracle that we are witnessing today in Canada is more manifest outside our borders than within. . ." he said.

GREAT SURGE

"There seems no doubt that we are on the threshold of one of those great surges of development which through the years has brought one nation after another to a position of greatness.

"You can listen at any moment and hear Canada growing. At this moment, almost any Canadian in any settlement can hear the magic sound of expansion, great and small. The superstructure of a strong and vital nation is going up.

"Canada is offering opportunities to capital, to industry and to individuals unequalled since the opening of the Great West in the United States.

"We are living in great times. There will be problems, but none that cannot be surmounted. There will be setbacks, but none of a size that will disturb in any real way our march forward."

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS J. TAYLOR of Otonabee township celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday night at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Harry Stewart, near Keene. Married at the home of Mrs. Taylor's sister in North Monaghan township by the late Rev. Potter of Peterborough, they have five children and five grandchildren. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Taylor Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Taylor of Otonabee township, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday evening at the home of their daughter Mrs. Harry Stewart, two miles south west of Keene, where they received relatives and friends.

Mrs. Taylor, the former Isabella West Elmhirst was raised and educated in Keene, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Elmhirst. Following their marriage by the late Rev. Potter of Peterborough in 1903 at the home of Mrs. Taylor's sister in North Monaghan township, they returned to the homestead of Mr. Taylor's parents which has been farmed by members of the Taylor family for over 100 years.

Mrs. Leona Moncrief and Miss Clara Dobbin, both of Peterborough who were the flower girls at the Taylor wedding were present at the celebration, and wore the identical bracelets that were presented to them at the time.

Mr. Taylor's brother, Gordon and his wife who were present were also celebrating their wedding anniversary on the same day. It was their 39th anniversary.

Neighbors presented the golden anniversary couple with a table and a floor lamp. Many other gifts were also received.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor farmed the homestead up until last year, when they retired to Keene to live. They are both members of the Keene United Church. Mrs. Taylor was active in the Women's Missionary Society and belonged to the Ladies' Auxiliary and Mr. Taylor is a life member of the Foresters.

During most of the time Mr. Taylor was farming he spent in raising dairy stock and is a great lover of horses.

They have two daughters; Mrs. Harry Stewart (Eva) of Keene, Mrs. Keith Esson (Laura) of Indian River and three sons; George of Peterborough, who is with the Peterborough Utilities Commission and William and Harold who are now farming the homestead, and five grandchildren, all girls.

English Find Servants Not Possible

LONDON (CP)—The old saying about the Englishman's home being his castle may still hold good, but the lord and master often has to take his turn at the kitchen sink these days.

Gone are the times when incomes as low as £150 a year provided for a "living-in" domestic.

In an examination of the domestic situation, the Yorkshire Post concluded that resident domestic servants are "almost extinct" and added:

"Could there be any better illustration of the decline in upper-and-middle-class living standards which has occurred in the last 20 years—and, of course, more particularly since the war?"

Census figures show that although there were nearly 707,000 resident domestics in 1931, there were only 178,000 in 1951 and that 58,000 of these looked after one person.

The survivors of once-numerous domestic servant agencies feel their day is done.

They blame hard times, but more particularly the modern girl's preference for a regular office job.

Present-day domestics are choosy about employers and demand social amenities ranging from television to private sitting rooms.

For instance, clergymen's homes are said to be shunned because of the clergy's lower income. Doctor's homes involve too much door answering, old persons are "crotchety" and children are a bother. One agency official said he "quite frankly" felt sorry for persons hiring a maid these days.

Many of the wealthier families have gone to the continent for girls but the resultant problems of language and custom are aggravated by the tendency of the immigrants to acquire English husbands or other jobs.

Brand Names Indicate Quality Of Bacon

In Ottawa recently, as passers-by walked down a certain street, they would suddenly stop, sniff the air, and a hungry look would appear on their faces. These people were passing by the test kitchens of the consumer section, Canada Department of Agriculture. The home economists were busy doing a series of tests on cooking bacon, and the tantalizing aroma kept wafting out through the windows.

The bacon samples which the home economists used were bought at random in local grocery stores and the brand names represented various Canadian meat packing companies. The samples included top grade bacon as well as that of other qualities. Bacon is judged for quality on the basis of the proportion of fat to lean meat, the cure the pork has been given, and the uniformity of the slices. The home economists gave each sample a code number so that no one knew which brand was which. Ten judges were invited to come to the kitchens to taste the cooked bacon samples. The judges included both home economists and homemakers. Before the bacon samples were cooked, the judges were shown the packages just as they were sold, and were asked for their comments. Some commented on the manner in which the bacon was displayed in the packages, mentioning how rows of lean were so placed that the whole package seemed to appear lean, with the fat part of the slices hidden beneath the one next to it. These same judges added that they usually had their butcher open the cellophane wrapped packages so that they could see the amount of lean in the bacon slices. They also commented that some of the samples displayed in the test kitchen were quite fat. They preferred a higher proportion of lean to fat in bacon.

Of the cooked samples which were tasted, some were judged as good and some, naturally, as only fair. The first grade bacon took precedence over the second and third grade bacon. Since bacon is not sold to consumer according to grade, it is wise to know which brands are first grade and which are second and third grade. The home economists have found that consumers are not familiar with the various brand names of the packing houses and as a result do not recognize the qualities which the various brand names represent. That is, does a certain brand name denote first quality bacon or does it denote second or third quality? If you do not know which quality the bacon is that you are buying, ask your butcher. As a matter of fact, ask him about many of the brands which he sells, then you will know which brands represent the quality you want to buy.

BACON COOKING METHODS

Bacon can be bought sliced with the rind on or off or by the piece unsliced. One word of caution—do not let bacon stand open on the kitchen table, for it soon loses its flavor and becomes rancid. It should be stored in the refrigerator.

Crisp, slightly curled, evenly-cooked bacon is what most people prefer. Too often bacon is either overcooked and burnt, or soggy and greasy. The home economists of the Canada Department of Agriculture have been testing bacon cooking methods so that they can tell consumers the best ways to cook bacon. In their tests, they tried three methods—pan frying, pan broiling and broiling. In pan frying, the bacon is turned only once during the total cooking time. With pan broiling, the bacon is turned several times during the cooking and the fat is poured off as it cooks. It was found that pan broiling is the most thrifty of the three methods tried, that is there is less shrinkage with this method of cooking, but some people showed a preference for the flavor of the pan-fried bacon, that is the bacon which was only turned once. With either method, it is best to start the cooking in a cold pan and from then on cook as you prefer, either turning the bacon many times and pouring off the fat as it cooks, or just turning once and allowing the bacon to cook in the fat.

DOROTHY DIX:

Father Of Two Children Falls For Married Flirt

DEAR MISS DIX: Two months ago, one of the most perfect marriages I ever heard of began to collapse. Jim and I had been childhood pals, and were married when he came home from World War II. We set up a business which prospered, had two lovely children, a pleasant home, money in the bank, and fine friends. Then Jim began going out alone at night, and finally admitted he's been dating a woman in the neighbourhood. I am sick over it. Can't eat or sleep, have lost ten pounds in a week. He said he would give her up, but I know he hasn't. Should I leave him? Tell her husband? Give him another chance, or what?

HEARTBROKEN

VICTIM OF A FLIRT

ANSWER: Don't rush headlong into a separation! Situations like this are never solved in panic, but through planning and reasoning. Jim is not a chronic philanderer, just a weakling who temporarily fell for the wiles of a woman who had nothing to do at the moment but enter into a flirtation. He'll recover from this infatuation, and will probably never fall from grace again. Desertion by you will not help matters.

The hardest role a woman can play is that of the "innocent bystander" in a case like yours. It is the wisest course, however, for the sake of all concerned. Leaving Jim would create problems of the children, business and home. Since he continues to be a good husband and father in all other respects, it's best to make every effort to forgive his defection.

If the girl tries to contact him through your telephone, tell her you'll advise her husband of the affair unless she stops calling. That is one threat that has put an end to many illicit affairs. A woman is more level-headed than the man in these cases and has no intention of risking her security for back-street love.

Don't let your husband get bored, be attentive to him, and don't let him feel that your love for him has lessened.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently I met a very nice boy at a party, and we have had two dates since. I won two tickets to a show in town and wonder if it would be all right to ask this boy to go with me.

S. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It would be a very nice gesture to ask the boy. Since he has shown that he likes you, there's no doubt but that he'll accept the invitation.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are a boy and a girl of 18 and 14. We've been going steady for two months and have seen each other every night since we've been going together. We say we love each other very much but we have small quarrels over nothing. Can this be a sign of true love?

✧ ✧ ✧

LOU AND BOB

ANSWER: It's more probably a sign that you've been seeing too much of each other and are beginning to wear on each other's nerves. Try spending a few evenings a week apart.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Five years ago my cousin married a man who, at the time, seemed very pleasant. He has changed completely and, when we go over to visit them, he is extremely rude to us, especially to my mother. My father feels we should discontinue the visits, but my mother doesn't like to as she is very fond of their children.

S. R.

ANSWER: In view of the grave discourtesy shown by your cousin's husband, I agree with Dad that the visits should be discontinued. Couldn't your mother see the children during the day when the man of the house isn't at home?

Head table guests included the Rev. A. A. Mathews, the Rev. and Mrs. E W. Rowland, Mrs. Ross Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen. Both ministers spoke of the church's appreciation of the young folks' singing and Mr. Allen's work. Mr. Allen spoke to the choirs briefly, commending their faithful attendance. Miss Pamela Jarvis of the juniors and Raymore Turnbull of the intermediate choir moved a vote of thanks to the senior choir. Mrs. C. E. Potts, who was general convener, accepted their thanks on behalf of her committee and gave the young singers some friendly encouragement in their work. After some informal singing, the choirs returned to the church for the balance of rehearsal.

Tea At Golf Club Honors Mrs. H. Steggles

A tea in honor of Mrs. Horace Steggles was held Wednesday afternoon at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. About 80 of her fellow club members and some close friends attended this delightful event, which precedes her departure from the city to live in England.

Club President Mrs. S. J. Williamson and captain of the nine-hole players, Mrs. C. L. Upper, received with Mrs. Steggles. Mrs. Harold Inman and Mrs. Mark Crough acted as hostesses in the lounge.

Presentation of a train case and a personal gift was made following the tea hour by Mrs. Williamson.

Tea was served from the verandah where the table was laid with a green lace cloth and decorated with daffodil colored candles in crystal candalabra and centrepiece of daffodils and snapdragon, and crystal swans were filled with purple stocks.

Mrs. C. B. Westbrook and Mrs. M. G. Howson presided and assistants were Miss Marjorie Hatton, Mrs. O. M. Steer, Mrs. F. J. Hall, Mrs. H. K. Bletcher, Miss Maude Rush, Mrs. Len Lawrence, Mrs. S. R. Pearson, Mrs. Ken Graham, Mrs. John Wocker, Mrs. C. Selkirk and Miss Lahring Parsons.

All the arrangements were made by Mrs. C. G. Graham.

Charming Table Keynotes Silver Cross Tea

A charming and tasteful tea table arrangement keynoted the tea held in the YWCA green room Wednesday by the ladies of the Silver Cross Chapter of Peterborough. Pink snapdragons were selected to match the tall pink tapers and pink cups and saucers and sandwich and cake plates showing pink were used.

The large room was quickly filled with the guests, who numbered more than 150 during the afternoon. Many more people showed their interest by purchasing tickets though they were unable to attend.

Welcome was first extended by the chapter president, Mrs. A. S. Williams, who represented the mothers and wives of men who lost their lives in army service. Also receiving were Mrs. Alex. Martin, representing the navy, and Mrs. M. Fee, representing the air force.

Acting as hostesses in the tea room were Mrs. F. C. Paterson and Mrs. S. Gibbs.

Serving were daughters of chapter members, Mrs. George Astell, Mrs. Chris Dominic, Mrs. J. Morley and Mrs. Paul Evans, with Mrs. L. Cowling and Mrs. E. Pruner in charge.

Two chapter members, Mrs. Basil D. Hall and Mrs. B. W. Harvey, poured tea at the opening, and guests who presided following were Mrs. Harold R. Scott and Mrs. H. T. Rehill.

Throughout the tea hours there was a background of soft piano music played by Mrs. J. C. Ellis.

Refreshment convener was Mrs. T. G. Nice and she was assisted by Mrs. J. Young, Mrs. A. Williams and Mrs. J. G. Forsythe in arranging the plates and making tea.

The home baking table in the bazaar section was possibly the busiest of all, with Mrs. A. M. Fitzgerald and Mrs. J. H. Coones attending to the customers. A large hamper of groceries was offered as a draw prize, with tickets being sold by Mrs. W. Morrow. Winner of this very useful prize was Mrs. J. Dougherty of 584 Waterford St. A box of chocolates was raffled and won by Mrs. J. H. Coones.

Some very fine knitted goods and fancy work was for sale, with Mrs. W. J. Davies, Mrs. F. Burnham and Mrs. L. Freure in charge.

The candy table was another busy place, with Mrs. A. Gynane and Mrs. E. Brady looking after sales.

Mrs. John Allen, treasurer of the chapter, was at the door to take care of cash, and Mrs. Albert Mason was taking tickets. Proceeds will be used toward a gift for use of veterans in the Kingston Military Hospital.

ST. ALPHONSUS SCHOOL

Special speaker at the meeting of St. Alphonsus Parent Teacher Association Wednesday was the Rev. G. Gaughan, Catholic Social Welfare Worker for the Diocese of Peterborough. In outlining an ideal parent and child relationship, Father Gaughan stressed the importance of love, security, environment and example, reasonable authority and consistency on the part of parents in their all-important responsibility of shaping the character of their children. A discussion period followed.

Attendance prize was won by Miss Lynch's room. At a short executive meeting, plans were made to have Father Gaughan again as speaker and to hold an open night at the school.

St. Patrick's Day Dinner Held By Roseneath WA

ROSENEATH (ENS) — Upwards of 90 ladies attended the St. Patrick's Day banquet on Tuesday evening, sponsored by Group 3 of the WA of Roseneath United Church, held at Maple Lodge, the tourist home of Mrs. Leslie Sherwin. Mrs. Mervin Smith is leader of the group with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe as secretary.

The long dining table covered with an Irish linen cloth was centred with yellow daffodils on a large green shamrock centerpiece, emphasized by tall green tapers in gleaming silver triple candelabra. The place cards were shamrock with matching serviettes. Numerous potted shamrocks were in evidence about the rooms, adding the final touch to a typical Irish setting.

Mrs. J. R. Wheeler was mistress of ceremonies. The program opened with an Irish sing-song with Mrs. Douglas Coyle as song leader and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe as pianist; Mrs. Silas Sherwin read "Mrs. Gillhooly's Bungalow"; Mrs. Donald George contributed two vocal solos, "An Irish Lullaby" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" with Mrs. Frank Down as piano accompanist. Mrs. Douglas Coyle read, "Spring Comes to Baltimore"; Mrs. Delbert Bushin gave two humorous readings, "Mum's Apron" and "Popping Corn".

The group leader, Mrs. Mervin spoke briefly. Mrs. Ray McCracken, president of St. James' Anglican WA, on behalf of the ladies present, voiced her appreciation to the group and to the hostess for their hospitality. The singing of the National Anthem concluded the program.

A crowd of about 125 ladies made the May's Home and School Association St. Patrick's Tea a pleasant event of Wednesday afternoon.

The kindergarten was used as the tea room and it was a colorful background with the children's work on the walls, the ladies having added the touch of green in big shamrock cutouts and streamers.

Tea table bouquet was of daffodils, mauve tulips, and spring flowers arranged in a silver basket and tall tapers at each corner were green. Serving tables were decorated with bowls of daffodils and pussywillows and each guest used a pretty St. Patrick's tea napkin.

Mrs. I. G. Pollock and Mrs. G. Ball were pouring tea and Mrs. J. Vogelsang, Mrs. O. Wells, Mrs. R. J. Pirie, Mrs. G. Brockley, Mrs. R. Armour and Mrs. Q. Dantzer were serving.

Conveners of the tea room were Mrs. S. Craig and Mrs. J. Cooper, and the decorations were by Mrs. E. Spencely, Mrs. O. Weise, Mrs. W. Bugg and Mrs. R. Bell looked after making tea and arranging plates.

A sewing table was convened by Mrs. G. Messervey and offered some very useful aprons and other items. Mrs. G. Curtain and Mrs. R. Nattress were assisting with sales.

Greeting cards for every special day of the year were on sale, in charge of Mrs. D. MacDonald. Another table offered a grab-bag collection of "white elephants" and was in charge of Mrs. V. White and Mrs. W. Watt.

Mrs. R. Waldie convened a very well stocked table of home baking and she was assisted in serving customers by Mrs. G. Renwick and Miss J. Grills. The candy tabel was convened by Mrs. G. English, assisted by Mrs. B. Young.

Association president Mrs. A. Downer offered a sincere welcome to each guest at the door, as did Mrs. R. Williams, vice president. The tickets were taken by Mrs. Frank Spencely.

Gilmour Circle Notes Current Baptist Events

Mrs. Wm. Leaton welcomed 24 members of the Eunice Blewett Mission Circle at the parsonage of Gilmour Memorial Church for the meeting Tuesday evening. "Quality of Mercy" was the theme of the inspirational message given by Mrs. Jack Miller who said: "It is mercy that gladdens the darkest corners of the globe and the saddest corners of human existence." In the presentation of current events from mission fields Mrs. Max Archer mentioned the arrival of Miss Mary Haddow in Bolivia and her nursing responsibilites. Reference was made to the ordination of the Rev. Wm. Sheffield and his call to minister in the Burk's Falls' Church, the first time that a negro has served in a Baptist church.

Effective use of pictures was made by Mrs. Ralph Scott in discussiing Bolivia, its historiacl background and its present economic condition. She challenged the members to remember in prayer the health and work of the Baptist missionaries there.

Business items included, the appointment of Mrs. Harvey Sanderson, Mrs. Wm. Leaton, and Mrs. Ralph Scott as members of the nominating committee, and the completion of supper arrangements for the Mission Circle Rally to be held in Murray Street Church when Mrs. Greenslade, president of the Baptist Home Mission Board, will address the meeting.

A delicious lunch was served by the members of the social committee: Mrs. C. Touchburn, Mrs. E. Telford and Mrs. M. Telford.

6 Local Red Cross Attend Annual Of Ontario Div.

Six members of Peterborough branch of the Red Cross Society were in Toronto Wednesday attending the 33rd annual meeting of Ontario division. They are president Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell, Mrs. C. J Ray, Mrs. F. E. Hooper, Mrs. R. H. Turner, Miss Helen Gerrard and Mr. G. H. Thompson. Miss Gerrard also attended a women's work meeting held on Tuesday as convener for the local society.

Mrs. Blackwell was elected to the executive of the Ontario division. Mrs Ray was made an honorary vice-president and Mr. Thompson was made vice-president and both were head table guests at the luncheon held in the Royal York hotel yesterday.

The meeting was generally considered the most interesting in 15 years. Each convener brought some tangible evidence of the work done to emphasize details in the report. Children of several nationalities appeared dressed in clothing made by Red Cross sewers. Swimmers, handicapped children, older people and others who have felt the benefit of Red Cross work were also presented.

Afterwards, the delegates enjoyed a tour of the new Red Cross building at corner of Wellesley and Jarvis streets where Toronto branch and national committees are now housed. It was emphasized that no campaign funds were used to renovate this building, the money having been raised by sale of property and from bequests. Tea was served at conclusion of the tour

Hand-Painted Buttons Give Teen-Togs Glamor

Sewing box cast-offs that can stage a fashionable comeback are a boon to the mother of a clothes-hep sub-deb. You can show your style-conscious daughter how the imaginative use of buttons and scraps of ribbon can expand the limits of her clothing allowance by giving simple togs a fresh appeal.

Hand-decorated buttons, for example, can perk up a plain dress or sweater, or circle a wrist as a personal history "charm" bracelet. Short lengths of ribbon can be bow-tied substitutes for links on French cuffs or serve as collar bows. Pin two or three gaily decorated buttons to a strip of grosgrain and a girl has the makings of a belt fob or pocket pick-me-up.

To get a stylish sub-deb started, cull your collection of old buttons for the shank-back type (if you must buy a few to fill in, get the inexpensive plastic pearl buttons) plus any scraps of ribbon you can spare.

Buttons can be decorated, by painting, or by decals, depending on the age and the skill of the artist. Hand-painted buttons permit more personal and imaginative designs. But small motifs snipped out of decal borders and applied to button surfaces look fresh and pretty, too.

For painting buttons, she'll need one of two small water-color brushes. Go to an artist's supply store and ask for a No. 1 or No. 2 brush. She'll also need a small tube or two of oil paint, paper or cardboard, and a few toothpicks.

Before the artist applies paint to the button, encourage her to experiment with the design on a paper outline first. Designs that appeal to our young friends are those that record pet interests or hobbies (tennis racket, open book, boat, and so on) initials, fruit or flowers, stars or stripes. Another favorite is the loves-me-loves-me not theme with

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Frozen Desserts Without Cream

You girls always amaze me with your bounce and your energy and your zest for living and cooking.

Now dozens of you are at me all at once for frozen desserts—using not cream, but skim milk powder and evaporated milk "because my husband loves them" or "because I enjoy using my new frig. for frozen desserts" or "because the children get more milk that way" or just plain "because I love cooking".

Some of you coyly add such comments as "Mary they are not so fattening as desserts with cream are they?—I'm reducing you know, but I give myself a small serving of ice cream." Don't fool yourselves, my sweets. With all of the milk and sugar and eggs, etc. these recipes contain they are chockful of calories whether they come from cream or not.

CHOCOLATE MARLOW

Chill 1 cup (8 oz.) evaporated milk until it is icy cold (this is for whipping later on). Into top of double boiler shave 1½ squares bitter chocolate (1 ½oz.) and add 1 cup evaporated milk and 16 Marshmallows. (This recipe uses 1 1-lb. can evaporated milk in all.)

Cook over boiling water until blended. (This is very attractive if chocolate is not completely melted, but chocolate can be completely blended by beating the mixture.) Remove from heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla and chill. In ice cold bowl whip the 1 cup of chilled evaporated milk until stiff, then fold into the chilled chocolate mixture. Pour at once into ice cold freezing trays and freeze.

LEMON MILK SHERBET

One and one-half teaspoons gelatin, 2 tablespoons water, 1½ cups water, ¾ cup skim milk powder, 12 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 egg white, stiffly beaten. Soak the gelatin in the 2 tablespoons cold water for 5 minutes. Sprinkle the skim milk powder over the 1⅞ cup water in a mixing bowl; let stand for 5 minutes, then beat with rotary beater until mil kpowder is dissolved in the water—about 1 minute. Pour into top of double boiler, add sugar, and heat over boiling water about 3 minutes. Remove from heat, add soaked gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Chill. Gradually stir in lemon juice and lemon rind. Pour into freezing tray and cover with wax paper. Freeze until it is a mush. Turn into cold bowl and beat with chilled rotary beater until fluffy but not melted. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Return to freezing tray at once, cover with wax paper and freeze firm.

ORANGE AMBROSIA

(moulded and chilled but not frozen)

One packaged orange jelly powder (or use another flavor and different fruit than I suggest here), 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup cold water, 1½ cups whipped milk topping (see below), 2 oranges peeled then chopped. Dissolve the jelly powder in the boiling water, then stir in the cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Then beat jelly with rotary beater until foamy and add chopped oranges and whipped milk topping. Pour into large mould to chill until firm. This is good served with additional Topping.

WHIPPED SKIM MILK POWDER TOPPING

(1½ cups)

Into a bowl put ¼ cup cold water and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Chill thoroughly. Sprinkle ¼ cup skim milk powder over water and beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff. (Takes about 10 minutes.) Beat in 1 tablespoon sugar and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. (This may be used in many recipes for frozen desserts where whipped cream is called for—if you want to reduce the cost and the calories.)

PLAINVILLE —(ENS) —The Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Clarke McKinlay with 18 present.

The president, Mrs. C. Manley opened the meeting and conducted the business. It was decided that the society would serve lunches at the sale at Mr. Herb. McKinlay's farm on March 24.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Edgar Buttars. She was assisted by Mrs. John Linton. Mrs. Jack Buttars read a chapter from the study book, "Along African Trails".

Women to Outnumber Men In Coronation

TORONTO (CP)—Women will outnumber men in Canada's contingent of Coronation visitors to Britain.

In a good many cases, mothers and daughters are going while their menfolk will be left at home to follow the Coronation activities through newspapers, radio and perhaps television.

Wives of some prominent Canadians will accompany their husbands to Britain. A survey here shows most of the other women will likely be bound for overseas without their men.

Some observers here say women travellers in the Canadian group will outnumber the men by as much as 70 to 75 per cent.

Toronto was chosen to investigate this matter of sex, travel and the Coronation because Sir Alexander Maxwell, chairman of the British Travel Association, said here recently:

"Toronto made more bookings and inquiries than any other city in Canada."

Office manager of BOAC here, C. A. Windsor, said:

"We find many of the women going are school teachers and office workers."

He added that his office received a flood of bookings when King George VI died. However, many of these early birds have had to cancel, so this airline still has some space for Coronation passengers.

One travel agent said: "Men can't travel, they have to earn the money and women spend it." He said his agency caters to many older women who retire and want to travel, but few older men.

Young women in their late 'teens and early 20s are going in large numbers but few young men.

Fund Short

The chairman's remarks were seconded by all but one of the fund's division chairmen. They pointed out that this dinner was far from being the end of the campaign, but rather should serve as a spurt for more and harder work.

TOPPED OBJECTIVE

The one division chairman who could consider Wednesday night's dinner a closing event was Mrs. J. E. Watters, chairman of the Women's Division. She reported that workers in her division had turned in $7,303—$1,803 more than the $5,500 objective.

"We're still in business," Woodrow Roberts, chairman of the Retail Division told his canvassers. "We're a little better than half way there with $11,986 of our $19,250 objective collected. If we work hard enough the retail division should go over the top in the next 10 days."

Russell Baer, chairman of the Industrial Division was unable to be present and sent his message to canvassers by letter. The letter was read by Mr. Elliott.

"Briefly the report from the Industrail Division is rather disappointing," Mr. Baer wrote. "With an objective of $41,800, to date our total is $36,868."

Mr. Baer went on to make a last minute appeal to city industries to push the campaign over the top.

ONE LAST EFFORT

"I would like to urge those plants who are still below their objective to make one last effort.

"Talk again to those who are hesitant about giving," Mr. Baer wrote his canvassers. "Make it easy for them to give. Encourage them to reconsider on the basis of good citizenship."

The Special Names Division reported $22,395 collected—$5,455 below their objective.

Samuel Whitehouse, chairman of this division had the following to say about the outcome:

"I think if we get even a 50-50 break we are going to come awfully close to our objective when all returns are in."

Mr. Whitehouse also reported that a special section of the division—the medical profession—had as yet to be heard from.

Wednesday night's dinner was sponsored by the Quaker Oats Co.

Australia Plans To Form Own AEC

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The government today introduced a bill to create an Australian atomic energy commission with special security provisions to safeguard the country's uranium fields—among the world's major suppliers of the atomic ore.

Supply Minister Howard Beale said the bill was necessary because of the government's determination that uranium deposits should be vigorously and promptly exploited for the defence of Australia and her allies and also ultimately for industrial purposes.

The bill provides for 20-year prison terms for the communication, acquisition or removal of restricted information to the prejudice of defence.

Britain and the United States are sharing development costs of Australia's uranium fields in return for supplies of the vital ore.

Girl Suffocates, Eight Flee Fire

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Pauline Lacroix, 4, was suffocated today when fire swept her family's one-storey home. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aurele Lacroix, and their six other children escaped.

The blaze is believed to have been started about 6 a. m. by one of the older children playing with matches.

The father suffered burns about the neck and arms while carrying his two youngest children to safety. Firemen said workmen on their way to their jobs broke doors and windows to rescue the children but, in doing so, created drafts which enabled the flames to gain headway.

The eldest of the Lacroix children is six years old, the youngest six months.

Find $6,000 In Furs After Montreal Chase

MONTREAL (CP)—A 28-year-old man was held by police today after a car-chase through downtown Montreal, a scuffle in which a police constable was injured, and discovery in the man's car of $6,000 worth of fur coats.

Police said the man was arrested after constables Jean Marie Gill and Bruno St. Pierre had chased a suspicious-looking car to the waterfront. The man tried to escape on foot, then stopped when St. Pierre fired shots above him. He pretended to surrender, then lashed out at St. Pierre injuring him in the body and head before being overpowered.

In the car were 22 fur coats, later traced to a fur company which had been robbed during the night.

Police said they expected to make further arrests.

Four Flee As Fire Razes Kingston Home

KINGSTON (CP)—Four persons fled early today from a fire that spread through the one - storey frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Wagar.

Norma Wagar, 15, first noticed the fire when she became trapped in her room by the flames. Her and a brother, Gerald, Norma was rescued from the flaming house through a window in her room.

The fire, believed to have started in a chesterfield chair, caused extensive damage.

When painting a button, slide it on a round toothpick to hold it steady then poke the toothpick into an orange while paint dries. After the paint is dried or the decal mounted, a clear plastic finish sprayed on protects the art work.

Hand - decorated buttons will survive hand washing. But it's wiser to take them off before you launder a garment. Because of the shank back, the button could be inconspicuously pinned on if you want to skip the sewing.

To make a button bracelet, thread the buttons on a pipe cleaner and pull both ends through the shank of the last button to make the circle or slide them onto a narrow black velvet ribbon and close by tying.

Russia Renews Old Proposal To Bar A-Bomb

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union dusted its seven-year-old proposal for "unconditional prohibition of the atom bomb" in a radio appeal addressed today to the "American people."

The proposal, first put forth by Russia in 1946, has been rejected by the Western bloc in the United Nations on grounds that it would not provide for international inspection of Soviet atomic installations necessary to enforce such a ban.

The West also objects that the ban would give the Soviet bloc's vast military manpower an advantage in any subsequent East-West struggle.

IN PEACE PLAN

The bomb ban is included in an anti-war plan put before the current session of the UN general assembly by Communist Poland.

The new talk of the ban was considered interesting because of the recent assurances by Stalin's successor, Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov, of his government's peaceful intentions. The major Western powers have adopted the attitude that Malenkov, to be believed, must follow up with concrete peace action.

The renewed call for the bomb prohibition was voiced by an English-speaking commentator on Moscow radio.

Experts Urge

ence to the employment attractions of Oshawa.

"At the same time we have a good demand and market for our product. So, it became a question of economy, and we are finding a new efficiency in our buildings.

"The old cluster of three or four buildings got a new-look treatment. They were reduced to one, eliminating the waste of walking and other effort from one to the next and back again. Work has been centralized. We had found that one man spent 36 per cent of his time on foot work around the place."

So Elmcroft was remodelled. Five men are now doing "nicely" the work of the eight that used to be carried on the payroll.

Work is all close at hand. The milking herd is finally funnelled to the milking parlor, and on the day's way a lot of waste motion has been trimmed from the Elmcroft operations.

CONCENTRATE ACTIVITIES

John Dryden's contribution to the forum branched off to the reduction of costs by concentrating on fewer practical activities. Two are poultry and beef cattle. One man this year has been looking after 100 calves rough wintered, and 3,000 or more chickens that will be hens for the summer. There are 4,000 baby chicks every two months.

Mr. Dryden helps two men. One looks after the chickens and calves, and the other takes care of 135 head of cattle.

Pasture improvement is a top concern at the McLaughlin establishment. "We used to think that grain was the most important. We'd grow it and thresh it and store for the winter. We are all so slow to change our ways of thinking. It is really difficult to educate ourselves, but we now know that forage is No. 1."

Mr. McLaughlin told of grazing 50 head of cattle on 45 acres, and not taking them off for three years. "I think we can pasture close to one cow to the acre. We haven't reached the ultimate yet. I think we are still quite a way from it."

MAINTAIN FERTILITY

Maintenance of fertility of the soil was highly important, Mr. McLaughlin said.

R. H. Graham, Toronto, spoke about the five demonstration farms, one of them is Ray Weldon's in Victoria, on which the department is engaged in a beef production cost experiment. He expressed confidence that farmers would find a satisfactory market for their livestock this season. Discussion switched with Mr. Barr to the drainage operations in eastern Ontario to increase control of land and also of its productivity and returns.

Butler Pushes U.K. Industry To Produce More

LONDON (Reuters) — Treasury chief Richard Butler, gently pushing industry to produce more, warned today that Britain's "old trade rivals" Germany and Japan are just around the corner.

If Britain does not want living standards to fall, he told business men and labor chiefs, she must adopt the only alternative—higher productivity.

He told industry to "take full account" of the two countries, whose mass of people were "content with standards of life which we should call austere, if not worse."

RE-CREATE CAPITAL

Butler said they were "re-creating their industrial capital and reforming their productive plans at a very high rate."

Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, was speaking at the opening of the British Productivity Councilu.

He had good news about Britain's gold and dollar reserves, announcing they now stand at more than $2,000,000,000.

Butler, who is due to present a new budget in a month, declared: "Sterling now finances half the world's trade. We do not just represent some small island in the North Sea overburdened with our problems."

Trappers' Group Want Standard In Fur Production

KEMPTVILLE (CP)—Formation of a Rideau District Association to standardize fur production in a large area of eastern Ontario was undertaken Wednesday night by delegates from local trappers councils from nine counties.

The association will standardize stretching and preparation of pelts and market much of their fur jointly through the Ontario Trappers Association in future.

The delegates, representing more than 1,200 trappers who operate in the area east of a line between Gananoque and Arnprior and bounded by the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers, elected George Polley of Easton's Corners as president. Bill Whelan of Kars was elected vice-president and Archie Riddell of Galetta secretary-treasurer of the new association.

Delegates heard expert advice on fur preparation from Taylor Carmichael of Sudbury, fur manager of the Ontario Trappers Association and Con Ducharme, Toronto trapline expert. Norma Gilbert of Sudbury, secretary of the Ontario association, also attended the meeting.

Mr. Carmichael told the group that muskrats taken in the Rideau area are equal to the best trapped anywhere, and suggested production might be improved by planting wild rice or wild celery in various Rideau areas to provide food. He said one third of the fur taken in Canada is taken in Ontario.

Toplis said he had two television sets in the car at the time, one of which he took to the home of his sister, Mrs. J. E. Howard, 144 London St.

Shortly after he arrived in Peterborough, Toplis said, the car disappeared and was discovered several hours later a block from his sister's home. The motor was ruined and the other television set, a reconditioned one valued at $150, a wristwatch and a pair of shoes were missing.

Molotov Is Feared Third Man In Reds' Post-Stalin Regime

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

In the post-Stalin regime in the Kremlin, Vyacheslav M. Molotov seems to be in the position of the unwanted but slightly feared "third man."

As the affairs of the regime of Georgi M. Malenkov progress, Molotov may find the atmosphere warmer and warmer. Without any particularly powerful allies, he would seem virtually defenceless against whatever plans Malenkov and his secret police chief, Lavrenti P. Beria might have in store for him.

As matters stand at the moment, there seems little doubt that the power is held by Malenkov, the new prime minister, with the tolerance and support of Beria. Molotov and Malenkov frequently have not seen eye to eye.

It may be Molotov's 35 years of devoted service to Stalin that will keep him in the upper registers of the regime for the time being. His very connection with the name of Stalin may give him enough power to make him feared at the top.

In following the fortunes of foreign Minister Molotov, it may be in order to watch what happens to his former deputy, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, prosecutor for the blood purge of the 1930s. For Vishinsky, no longer foreign minister, there may be cause for worry in the current violent campaign in the Soviet press against "spies and wreckers" inside the U.S.S.R.

Vishinsky was a Menshevik—that is a member of the minority in the old social revolutionary party, under Trotsky, when the Bolsheviks (majority) took over the power.

Vishinsky has spent much time in the United States. Some Westerners even profess to admire his wit. For Vishinsky, that is not good. He may survive it, but if he doesn't, things will look bad for his mentor, Molotov.

Another thing which may make Molotov uncomfortable is the anti-Jewish campaign now raging in the Soviet Union. Molotov's wife, Poline Zhemchuzina, is Jewish and has been said to have had Western leanings.

It was Malenkov who was responsible for firing Mrs. Molotov as commissar of fisheries 12 years ago, and Molotov didn't like it.

But for all his apparent demotion in the shake-up which followed Stalin's death, Molotov cannot yet be counted out. Lenin once pictured Molotov as the best filing clerk in Russia, but Western statesmen did not underrate him.

To Winston Churchill Molotov was "a man of outstanding ability and cold - blooded ruthlessness" whose "verbal adroitness and imperturbable demeanor, were appropriate manifestations of his quality and skill (and)combined to make him the perfect agency of Soviet policy in a deadly world."

POWERFUL MAN

Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, former ambassador to the Soviet Union, reckoned Molotov as a man of latent power who could not be ruled out in a struggle for supremacy in the Kremlin.

Molotov learned of Western power first hand and some say this would make him more cautious than the others in his dealings with the West.

But Malenkov is no hothead He is fully as cautious as Molotov if not more so. And it must also be remembered that Molotov was supposed to have been instrumental in removing Marshal Georgi Zhukov from the Moscow scene because of the latter's caution in evaluating Western military strength, Zhukov has come back strong now as deputy armed forces minister. Where that leaves Molotov is anybody's guess.

Got Relief From Weak, Nervous, Upset Stomach

"Am Surprised How Quickly Syntona Helped Me," Says This Woman. Now Also Relieved of Headaches, and Dizzy Spells, "Backache Gone, Sleep Well, More Energy."

"A few weeks ago when I was feeling very miserable a friend advised me to try Syntona and I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am with the way it helped me," said Mrs. Mary Beal, 4 Oak Street, St. Thomas, Ontario, in a recent interview.

Stomach Very Bad

"I was troubled so much with stomach disorders that day after day I didn't care whether I ate or not. In fact after taking even the lightest foods it would sour in my stomach, give me a distressed, full, heavy feeling, shortness of breath and heartburn. I would get awful dizzy spells and sick headaches. Spots danced before my eyes, my tongue was coated and my nerves were so on edge that I couldn't sleep at night. I even had backache and aches and pains in my limbs, joints and muscles.

Syntona Acted Quickly

"After I started using Syntona it wasn't very long until I noticed an improvement and as I kept on taking it, all the upset condition of my stomach gradually cleared up. Now I enjoy my meals, have practically no distress afterwards and I am rid of that terrible headachy, dizzy feeling.

"My nerves are calmed down, too, and the aches and pains have let up, so you can imagine how pleased I am to feel so well again. I have already told several people about Syntona and will recommend it to any one."

May Help You, Too

Syntona has helped so many people in this way that any one suffering from similar troubles would make a mistake not to try it. It is pleasant to take, contains no harmful drugs and many people are completely surprised with the results it gives.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough by Elliott's Drug Store. Advt.

Singer Loses Suit Against Airline

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Jane Froman and actress Gypsy Markoff, injured survivors of a 1943 plane crash, Wednesday lost their multi-million-dollar damage suit against Pan American World Airways.

A state Supreme Court jury, by an 11-to-1 decision, cleared the airline of blame. A verdict need not be unanimous in a civil suit.

Although the jury turned down the entertainers' claims for a total of $3,500,000 damages, Judge Aron Steuer awarded them limited damages—$9,050 to Miss Froman and $9,580 to Miss Markoff.

Limited damages to $8,300, plus an amount covering loss of belongings—a liability the airline had not denied—are provided under an international flight pact on crashes in which an airline is not at fault.

Both had been injured in the plane crash 10 years ago in the Tagus river near Lisbon, Portugal. Twenty-four died in the crash.

Appeal Exempting Irishman From National Service

LONDON (CP) — Judgment brought down in Bristol, exempting an Irishman living in the United Kingdom from national service, will be appealed. The case is expected to be heard in Queen's Bench Divisional Court.

The case on which the test will be made directly involves the dismissal of a summons against Patrick Brosnan, 21, for failing to attend a medical examination under the National Service Act. The magistrates ruled he was not a British subject.

A ministry of national service investigating officer quoted Brosnan as saying:

"If I registered for service in the British Army my life would not be worth living when I returned to Eire. My father was a former member of the Irish Republican Army and warned me of the consequences of joining the British forces."

Mossadegh Rejects UK Offer To Settle Wrangle Over Oil

Reds Offer Parley To Avoid More Air Clashes

BONN, Germany (AP)—Allied officials today studied a Soviet suggestion for a British-Russian conference aimed at avoiding air clashes along the East-West border in Germany. British sources described the Red reply to a western protest as somewhat conciliatory. The suggestion was made Thursday night by Gen. Vassily Chuikov, Soviet commander in Germany, in otherwise rejecting a joint protest from the Western occupation powers against hostile action by Soviet fighter planes toward three British aircraft last week.

Chuikov proposed a conference of "competent" British and Soviet military representatives "to work out adequate measures" in order to "avoid such disagreeable air incidents," the Soviet news agency ADN reported.

DOESN'T MATCH FACTS

The agency said Chuikov's reply to the British, French and U. S. high commissioners declared their protest was "based on informations that do not meet the facts."

Dismissing Western accusations of "reckless and aggressive behavior" and "deplorable departure from the standards of humanity," Chuikov counter-charged that in two cases the British planes concerned violated air traffic rules over the Soviet zone.

In the case of an RAF bomber shot down by Soviet fighters with the loss of seven British lives, the Soviet commander repeated previous charges that the bomber had fired first. But he added he considered "as deplorable the fact that the crew of a British bomber had lost their lives."

CONCILIATORY

In London, sources close to the foreign office said they considered Chuikov's reply "reasonably conciliatory." They declared his use of the word "deplorable" was a new note in Russian exchanges with the West.

A foreign office spokesman declined comment on the conference suggestion but said the proposal was being studied.

Beside the attack on the RAF bomber, the Allied protest concerned the buzzing of a British European Airways plane en route to Berlin and a pass made by Soviet fighters at a British plane over West Germany.

Unemployment Measures Offered Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Measures for meeting unemployment were proposed today by the Canadian Welfare Council in a brief presented to the cabinet.

In the submission, also put before provincial governments, the council said the federal government should assume financial responsibility for unemployed persons not now provided for, and that the provinces should administer such aid.

The federal Unemployment Insurance Act covers most workers, but some categories are not included.

URGES FUTURE PLAN

The council report, based on a two-year study, said help for unemployed persons able to work should be planned far in advance of abnormal unemployment periods.

Also, it said, the federal government should try to reduce the risk of unemployment as much as possible by "full implementation" of the policy of maintaining a high level of employment.

The provinces, said the council, should develop adequate relief services by helping pay for administration costs and also assuming most of the additional cost of public assistance in periods of severe unemployment.

REVIEW ACT

The council said the Unemployment Insurance Act should be kept under constant review. Benefit payments should be adjusted to the cost of living; coverage should be extended to as many as possible, and supplementary benefits should be given when necessary.

Rehabilitation programs for both disabled and able-bodied persons should be further developed.

The council suggested a formula for federal-provincial payments.

There would be a basic payment from the national treasury to the provinces based on a percentage of the cost of administering an assistance plan provincially and municipally.

Variable payments would be the federal government's share of providing for the employable unemployed, the amount being determined from time to time.

Fear All Dead On Two Bombers

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Little hope remains that any of the 33 men aboard two United States bombers which crashed on opposite coasts of Newfoundland Wednesday are still alive.

The bodies of 21 of the 23 occupants of a 10-engine RB-36 which came down on the shores of Smith Sound while en route from the Azores to its base in South Dakota have been located. Searchers continued to probe the blackened wreckage for the other two.

On St. George's Bay, some 200 miles to the west, floating debris was all that was found of a four-engine B-29 which crashed with 10 aboard as it was returning to Harmon air base after a routine training flight.

All persons on board the two aircraft were United States service personnel. On board the RB-36 was Brig. Gen. Richard E. Ellsworth of Erie, Pa., commanding officer of its home base at Rapid City, S. D.

OFL Scores Pensions To Workers' Widows

TORONTO (CP) — The widow and two children of a man killed in an industrial accident must try to exist on $74 a month, the Ontario Federation of Labor said today in a statement urging higher workmen's compensation payments.

It said in such a case the mother receives $50 a month as long as she remains a widow, plus $12 a month for each child up to 16 years.

"I would be interested to know how these women are living on the pensions they receive from the workmen's compensation board," Max Dodds, the federation's director of welfare, said in the statement.

"Surely the great industrial leaders, the mining magnates and the general employers of labor are not evading their responsibilities to these persons and to the community by forcing these widows and orphans to apply for municipal relief?"

Danger Of War Receding: Eden

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Conservatives today he believes the immediate danger of war has receded.

"But," he added, "This view is subject to all the reservations which one must make in the uncertain position of the world today."

Eden, just back from a Canada-U. S. visit, was addressing the annual conference of the party's central committee. He called British - American friendship the "foundation on which world peace rests" and added "we don't agree on everything, but we know each other well enough to argue, when we disagree, without damaging our relations."

Dollar-A-Year Men Take $1 Cut In Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — The dollar-a-year man has taken a cut in pay. Now he makes nothing-a-year.

A government reply was tabled in the Commons Thursday for a question by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, (PC—Nanaimo) about the number of dollar-a-year men employed by the defence production department.

The return said the department "has associated with it 18 people who are on loan from industry and who are not paid a salary by the department."

Dollar-a-year man was the term used for such people during the Second World War.

France Suffers Drought

PARIS (Reuters) — France is suffering from her worst drought since 1878 and unless rain falls within the next 15 days spring crops will be seriously threatened, the French Farmers' Union reported Thursday night.

Police Suggest Foul Play In Shotgun Death

BARRIE (CP) — George Mason, 56, of Toronto, whose body was found near here Thursday with shotgun wounds in the head and left side, may have been a victim of foul play, police said today.

A funeral director in this town 50 miles north of Toronto said Mason had apparently been dead for two days when his body was found on land he had purchased to build a home.

Tom Donnelly, Mason's son-in-law, found the body stretched out with a shotgun lying across the legs. Police said they are trying to determine whether a man could shoot himself and let the gun fall that way. Two empty shells of the single-shot weapon lay beside the body.

POWDER BURNS

Police reported powder burns around both wounds.

Mason's relatives at Barrie missed him Thursday and later his truck was seen in a field a half-mile from where his body was found. Donnelly and farmers of the area began a search.

Inspector Thomas Wright of the criminal investigation branch of the provincial police left Toronto for Barrie within an hour of the discovery of the body.

Mr. Mason, who operated the Sunnybrook Riding Academy in suburban York Mills, had come to Barrie to buy hay for his horses. He stayed with two daughters who live here.

Police said he went to one of two farms he owns here to collect firewood. His body was found in a clearing with the shotgun lying close to him.

Car Kills Child, 6, Police Seeking Driver

CORNWALL (CP) — Richard Henri, 6, was killed in a traffic accident Thursday night. Police are seeking the driver, who they say did not stop.

When the child did not return from an errand at a store near his home, his father went to look for him and found him lying fatally injured on the roadside. He was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Right On '49 Election, Haig Calls October 19 As Date

OTTAWA (CP)—Here is a new election-date forecast from the man who was right in 1949: Monday, Oct. 19.

It comes from Senator John T. Haig as a second thought to a forecast he made earlier this session. At that time he picked Monday, Oct. 12, but he said Thursday he overlooked the custom of celebrating Thanksgiving on the second Monday in October.

Senator Haig, Progressive Conservative leader in Upper Chamber, is an old hand at picking election dates. He hit it on the nose by predicting June 27, 1949, as the date of the last election.

Outside the chamber, Senator Haig explained his system for picking Oct. 19. He said Prime Minister St. Laurent has expressed the belief that intense political activity should not be carried on in July and August.

"That rules out July and August for an election.

"Since the law requires 60 days' notice of an election, that puts the date into October.

"The fifth of October would mean calling an election Aug. 7, conflicting with a non-political July and August. Oct. 12 as a date gives you two free weeks in August but it's likely to conflict with Thanksgiving.

"So your best bet is Oct. 19."

March Still Lion As Spring Comes

TORONTO (CP)—Spring comes in at 5:01 p. m. EST today with snow in the Alberta foothills, 20-mile-an-hour gales in Manitoba, and hardly a blue sky or balmy breeze across the country.

Sub-freezing weather gripped half the country as spring prepared to take over from winter, which had been around for 89 days and apparently didn't want to leave.

Lower - than - average temperatures were reported in the three Western provinces, Northern Ontaria and Quebec, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Vancouver was struck by fog and a freezing 29 degrees.

Weather offices said the same storm that brought rain to California last night, brought snow to Alberta today.

Probably the only above-freezing section of British Columbia, Alberta or Saskatchewan was Vancouver Island, where heavy fog prevented any wild rejoicing over spring's appearance.

In Northern Ontario, Armstrong reported six below zero and three feet of snow on the ground.

Clouds hung over the central and eastern provinces, bringing rain in the south and snow in the north. Halifax reported 29 degrees—cool for that east-coast city.

Druggist Left Tied To Door, $1,100 Stolen

TORONTO (CP) — A suburban North York druggist was left tied to a door in his store Thursday night after being robbed by a lone gunman of more than $1,100.

William Sayles told police he was just closing his drugstore at 9:30 p. m. when the bandit stepped up behind him and growled, "This is a stickup."

He tied Sayles to a washroom door, walked out of the store and locked the front door behind him.

Sayles freed himself after about five minutes and called police.

W. Germany Approves Army First To Meet U.S. Demands

BONN, Germany (AP)—Disarmed West Germany emerged today as the first country to meet the demand of the United States for "clear and visible" progress toward creation of a 2,000,000-man European army to include German troops. By the sizable margin of 224 to 165, the Bundestag Lower House of the West German Parliament finally approved the treaty Thursday night. Its companion Allied-Bonn peace contract was passed 226 to 164. Although the treaties still face stiff legislative and court tests in Germany, the Bundestag was the first European legislative chamber to act on the army pact authorizing recruitment of 500,000 Germans for service with the projected six-country, one-uniform western defence force.

The action laid down a clear challenge to other West European countries, especially France, to get on with ratification of the treaty in their own parliaments.

In Washington, U.S. State Secretary Dulles said the Bundestag's action was "a truly significant step forward."

"There is now increasing likelihood that the European Defence Community will become a reality," he added.

DULLES WARNING

Dulles had warned European leaders during his February tour of the continent that the U.S. Congress might balk at voting big-scale funds for foreign military aid unless the army project gets rolling by April.

Under the companion pact—the peace contract—the Big Three Western powers renounce most of their post-war occupation rights and grant West Germany near sovereignty. Britain and the U.S. already have ratified this, leaving only France and West Germany to complete action.

In Paris, an official French spokesman pointed out that the army treaty "still has to go through the Upper House (of the German Parliament) where the vote will be a lot closer and then through the German Supreme Court where Socialists are attacking the proposal as unconstitutional."

The anti-rearmament Socialists claim the pact could alter the country's constitution and therefore requires a two-thirds vote for parliamentary approval. The margin in the Lower House balloting Thursday was little better than 57 per cent. The German Supreme Court has said it won't rule on this point until both houses ratify the treaty.

But Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared the Bundestag vote "will be an important signal to other European partners to ratify the European Army Treaty."

WINK COSTS FINE

LONDON (AP)—Frederick Archer, who posed as a dummy in a clothing store window, was fined £2 Thursday for attracting a crowd and blocking the sidewalk. Posing was all right, the court ruled, but Archer caused the jam by winking at passersby.

Couples Refusal With Offer Of Fresh Talks

TEHRAN, Iran (CP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today rejected Britain's month-old latest proposal for settlement of the British-Iranian oil controversy but coupled his turn-down with a hope the two countries would renew diplomatic relations. Elated with his recent Italian court victory over the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, Mossadegh said in a radio address he believed his government now could sell enough oil abroad to operate the Abadan refinery at full capacity.

Although he offered no counter-proposal, the aged nationalist premier insisted he was leaving the door open for further negotiations in the dispute over compensation to the AIOC for Iran's nationalization of its vast properties in the country.

Mossadegh severed relations with Britain last October after 19 months of fruitless negotiations in the oil controversy. The Iranians charged the British government with creating "difficulties aimed at disturbing Iran's order and security."

"SPECIFY LIMIT"

Since the rupture Sweden has represented Iran's interests in London and the Swiss have acted for Britain here.

He asked the AIOC to "specify the limit of its demands for compensation—say so many million pounds."

Then Iran would refer the demand to The Hague international court and abide by its decision, he said.

Iran would then pay within a minimum period any amount determined by the court out of 25 per cent of revenues from the sale of oil at a reasonable world price.

Advisers of Mossadegh had predicted the rejection, particularly after an Italian court March 11 rejected the oil company's demand to attach 5,000 tons of Iranian oil brought to Italy by the Italian tanker Miriella.

Following that decision—which the oil company has appealed—the Miriella and another tanker sailed this week from the Abadan refinery with a total of 16,000 tons of oil. Plans have been announced for other shipments to Italy.

UN Votes Down Mrs. Pandit As Sec.-General

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The race for a new United Nations secretary-general was wide open again today with Russia's latest candidate, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, beaten in her first bid before the security council.

In a five-hour secret session Thursday, the 11-country council turned down Mrs. Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru, and then called again on the "Big Five" permanent members to try to iron out the deadlock before their next meeting, scheduled for March 24.

In the drawn-out manoeuvring over a successor for Trygve Lie, which promises to continue for some time, only Lebanon was said to have voted with Russia in the secret ballot on Mrs. Pandit. Eight countries including the United States were reported to have abstained and Nationalist China, it was indicated, cast the one vote against her.

WANTS UNANIMITY

India's petite, grey-haired chief delegate, still in the running despite the defeat, has insisted she would take the $40,000-a-year job only if everyone agrees on her. Her Indian colleagues indicate she would prefer not to be tagged as the candidate of either Russia or the West.

Besides Mrs. Pandit, the five big powers—Britain, the United States, France, Russia and Nationalist China—have discussed at least 11 other possible candidates. Three, Canada's L. B. Pearson, Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines and Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzeszewskit of Poland, were turned down in fruitless council voting last Friday.

S. Koreans Hurl Back Two Chinese Assaults

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean infantry hurled back two sharp attacks by some 100 Chinese on the muddy western Korean front today—the 1,000th day of the stalemated struggle on this Asiatic peninsula.

The 8th army reported troops of the Republic of Korea 1st division smashed assaults by more than two platoons of Communists.

Woman, 15 Men Saved From Ship

GREAT YARMOUTH, England (Reuters)—Fifteen men and a woman stewardess were rescued today from the 1,085-ton Finnish ship Roine which sank in the North Sea after a collision with the 538-ton British steamer Briardene in pea-soup fog.

The ship's cook is missing.

The Briardene, with holes in her bows and taking in water, picked up survivors from the Roine, which was on its way to Scotland from Casablanca, North Africa.

Thirteen Finnish crew members were transferred to a lifeboat but the Roine's captain, chief engineer and the woman remained aboard the British ship.

Meanwhile, a small freighter, aground in the fog just off the rocky coast of Wales, was in danger of exploding if water reached her 150-ton cargo of raw carbide.

The 332-ton Milborne, a British ship, was straddling a ledge of jagged rocks 200 yards off Rhoscolyn Point.

Her crew had first damped her fires and abandoned ship. But this morning they came back, despite the danger from the explosive cargo.

"Not So Fantastic"

Atom Scientist Envisions H-Bomb Missile Spanning Continents At Lightning Speed

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian nuclear scientist Thursday placed within the realm of possibility the construction "one day" of a huge guided missile with hydrogen-bomb warhead that could span continents with lightning speed.

"The building of such a weapon at this stage is not so fantastic as the idea of an atomic bomb was 10 years ago," Dr. G. M. Shrum said in an interview.

The west coast scientist, member of the Canadian defence research board, added quickly that Canada isn't thniking of building such a weapon, even though she is deeply immersed in the construction of air-to-air guided missiles. And he didn't know of any country that is.

But it would not be too difficult a job, he said, to build bigger and bigger rockets from the little ones and power them to travel longer distances.

"It would be easier probably to build these weapons than it would be to change the minds of aggressive dictators," the scientist added.

Dr. Shrum, member of the national research council and head of the University of British Columbia physics department, touched on the subject Wednesday night during a talk before the Ottawa Science Association.

An intercontinental guided missile with atomic warhead, he said, could probably impose a safe and lasting peace on the world simply because there would be no defence against it.

"Perhaps I said too much last night," said Dr. Shrum, "but what I had in mind was that if all countries had these missiles, they would be afraid to start a war because they would realize that retaliation would be swift."

He did not believe that rocket space ships are in the realm of possibility, but he did believe that intercontinental missiles "will be feasible one day."

Tito Churchill Reach Accord In Defence Talks

LONDON (AP)—Reported well-pleased with results of his defence talks with British leaders, Yugoslav President Tito faced a final round of social functions today as his five-day official visit here neared its end. Sometime Saturday morning, the anti-Soviet Communist dictator will board a launch and travel down the Thames to join the Yugoslav training ship Galeb for his voyage home. Although for security reasons no details of Tito's program were disclosed, it was reported he would be a guest of the Queen at Windsor Castle, just outside London, much of today.

The Yugoslav strong man also arranged to attend a dinner being given for him tonight at the House of Commons by the national executive of the Labor party.

Tito Thursday outlined for Prime Minister Churchill and top British economic and military officials a Yugoslav plan to block Soviet aggression in the eastern Mediterranean.

NO DETAILS

Although no details were disclosed, informed sources said the plan involved increased British economic aid to Yugoslavia and the supply by Britain of powerful new weapons, including jet planes and heavy tanks, to Tito's military and naval forces.

After the meeting, the Yugoslav leader told newspaper men:

"We examined the general situation in the world, especially the question of defence against aggression. We reached the same conclusions in greatest accord on how to preserve peace in Europe."

ACHIEVES PURPOSE

But a Yugoslav source said Tito will have achieved his main purpose if he has convinced British leaders that his country should receive a greater share of Britain's limited supply of arms and aid. Britain already has agreed to give the Balkan country £4,500,000 ($12,600,000) in economic aid for the year ending in June.

Tito apparently stressed that Yugoslavia's ability to co-operate in defence of the eastern Mediterranean is directly proportional to the help she can get from Britain and the United States. He said his country needed jet planes to match the Soviet-made MiGs now being supplied the Red satellites Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

The wartime guerrilla leader also urged the strengthening of his naval forces with British-supplied vessels, either new or reconditioned, and the supply of heavy tanks and other large arms to give his army greater punch.

The Yugoslav dictator set state cares aside Thursday night to take in the ballet at the Royal Covent Garden Opera House.

Quaker Workers Protest Delay

Quaker Oats Co. production workers, impatient with the delay in hearing from a conciliation board, have sent telegrams of protest to Labor Minister Charles Daley and the union appointee on the board, Murray Cottrell.

The workers, members of Local 293, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), are deadlocked in contract negotiations with the company. There are about 400 production workers in the bargaining unit.

The three-man conciliation board—consisting of Judge J. C. Reynolds of Kingston, chairman, and E. Macaulay Dillon, QC, and Mr. Cottrell, both of Toronto—finished hearing the parties on Feb. 16. Since then there has been no word from the board and the union members are impatient.

Local 293's contract proposals include a 15 cents an hour general wage increase; a reduction of the work week from 44 to 40 hours with no loss of take-home pay, a five-day week with no swing shift; improved seniority provisions; higher night-shift premium; and Blue Cross and Physicians Service Incorp. health plans to be paid for completely by the company.

Decision to send the hurry-up telegrams was reached at a union meeting Thursday night.

Synopsis:

Today, the first day of spring, brings to a close one of the mildest winters within memory with mean temperatures for every month well above normal. The winter of 1931-32, when monthly mean temperatures ran as much as twelve degrees above normal, holds the record spot.

Today itself will be springlike in southwestern Ontario, but up north residents, say of Armstrong with three feet of snow on the ground and thermometers standing at six below zero, may question the statement that spring has arrived.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Saturday:

Niagara, Lake Ontario, Georgian Bay regions; Hamilton, Toronto cities: Cloudy, clearing this afternoon, cloudy tonight and Saturday. Rain commencing Saturday evening. Cool tonight, milder Saturday. Winds light becoming south 15 Saturday morning. Low tonight and high Saturday at Toronto and Trenton 25 and 50, St. Catharines and Hamilton 30 and 50, Muskoka 20 and 45. Summary for Saturday: Cloudy followed by rain.

Sketch Club Show Confident; 100 Paintings

Peterborough Men's Sketch Club exhibition this year—their seventeenth annual—is confident, less-conscious than earlier shows. This development results not only from greater technical ease but also, it seems from the paintings on view, assurance in knowing what they are seeing as well as how to paint it. Thus, from a viewer's point of view, the show has context and the vocabulary is not fumbled.

Ten members of the club are exhibiting. Their capabilities vary, of course, generally with the length of their painting experience. More than a hundred pieces are being shown.

HAMER'S HALL

Jack Hamer is showing ten canvases, all interesting and vigorous. His End of Winter is the biggest piece. The City Hall at night is deservedly popular with viewers. Among the smaller ones I liked Jackson Creek at Charlotte St. for the idea and design. "Blue Lagoon" is remarkably lit. There is a good touch of fun in his "OUR Piano"—an impression of a violin concert of the Community Concert series in Peterborough.

C. H. Saunders has a large representation of his characteristic definite, gracious and accomplished water-colour technique. His marine scenes are very pleasing and there is a large flower composition (Autumn Colour) in the graceful manner which admirers of Mr. Saunders' art should acclaim.

PINK PERIOD

C. S. Browne seems this year to be in his Pink Period. He is showing eight oils, with lots of pink and technique of deliberate, rather flat, under-colouring. His Eel's Creek is interesting in design.

J. E. R. Munro's discreet style and competence are again prominent in the show. His "House in Cavan" is warm and fresh, a pleasant, good work. The haze over the Otonabee in evening is sensitively caught. "Fall Woodland" is rich and ripe, just a bit too royally luscious.

H. Steggles has a direct and fresh way with water-colour. His leafy Road to Rice Lake is evocative. His winter Farm—Mount Pleasant has echoes of Laurentian painters, nevertheless much personal feeling. Mr. Steggles is showing fifteen pieces, including one oil.

A. B. Burrows has four modest ink drawings in the show, and they are graceful and unlaboured—like his Picnic, The Oval. Charles Huffman has one piece—Eel's Creek (a haunt of the Club, it seems). In comparison with his first steps last year, this impressionistic piece has real quality.

S. Harris is exhibiting a dozen things. They are well worked over, rather cumbersome and conscious of craft. While they did not appeal to me at all, mine is only one view. The large "Pasture" is striking, and so is, in an uncomfortable way, the surrealistic medley called 'Life'.

G. N. Howson's oils (six of them) are very pleasant and easy to look at. His "Evening Sammy's Lake" is attractive, and his Autumn Birches faithful and delicate. O. C. Simmers has poise in his art (five pieces in the show). "Mill-Hall's Lake" is a thing of repose and unselfconscious charm.

The exhibition continues at the Public Library this week and next.

Southam Resigns National Gallery

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today announced the resignation of H. S. Southam as chairman and member of the board of trustees of the National Gallery.

C. P. Fell of Toronto has been appointed chairman of the board to replace him.

Mr. Southam, publisher of the Ottawa Citizen, has been a member of the board for many years and served as its chairman until January, 1948, when he asked to be relieved. He was succeeded at that time by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey.

At the special request of the government, he agreed to resume the chairmanship for a short period when Mr. Massey became governor-general and vacated the National Gallery office.

In making the announcement, Mr. St. Laurent said the government has "recommended, with regret, the acceptance of the resignation."

"Mr. Southam has been a devoted supporter of the work of the gallery and a distinguished patron of the arts, and will be greatly missed on the board. The government is deeply appreciative of his long and distinguished public service."

Lawyers' Costs Set By Officer From Crash Fund

TORONTO (CP)—C. F. H. Carson, treasurer of the Law Society of Upper Canada, said Thursday that in cases involving the unsatisfied judgment fund lawyers do not receive costs except those awarded by the trial judge and the taxing officer.

Mr. Carson issued a statement in reply to charges made Wednesday in the Ontario legislature by W. M. Nickle, Progressive Conservative member for Kingston.

Mr. Nickle, a lawyer and son of a former attorney-general, said "greedy lawyers" are "milking" the unsatisfied judgment fund by charging exorbitant fees in car accident cases. It is being done to such an extent, he said, that lawyers referred to the fund as the "Santa Claus fund."

In his statement, Mr. Carson said: "Mr. Nickle referred to a case in which judgment was recovered for $56.95 and the costs awarded amounted to $999.31. This was a case in which there were two trials and two appeals and the costs awarded were determined finally by the court of appeal and the taxing officer."

Mr. Carson said that where a claim is to be made against the unsatisfied judgment fund, the case must go to trial. No settlement can be made out of court and in many instances persons must be added as defendants who would not normally be sued.

"The result. . . is that trials last longer and costs are necessarily increased."

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1 11-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 98 15-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.76⅞, against $2.77¼.

Junior Choir Wins Applause Of Audience

In their first public appearance as a new vocal group, Peterborough Junior Farmers' Choir was heartily acclaimed by the audience of nearly 1,000 at the Spring Show concert Thursday night at Morrow Park.

Their 36 voices were nicely balanced in four parts, and they sang with a fine effect of harmony in three numbers under the direction of Charles Allen, and accompanied by Mrs. Ross Moore. Their selections were: Nightfall in Granada, Dear Land of Home, and one from Oklahoma.

This choir, conceived during the winter as a Junior Farmer project by Kenneth Best, assistant agricultural representative, brought immediate response in the volunteering of forty young men and women of this county, and were fortunate in their choice of director.

Mr. Allen imparted to their practice sessions encouragement and spirit of enthusiasm that carried them through the late winter months to corporate poise and assurance that were manifest last night. As the home county ensemble, they were placed last on the program, and the entire audience remained to hear them.

The Junior Farmers were making Peterborough county history in their venturing into vocal music and their initial success should be an earnest of secure establishment for the future.

The Peterborough set in the square dance competition won the honors which went to Hastings young men and women a year ago.

BRASS QUARTETTE

The Durham Brass Quartette, composed of Carlos Tamblyn, of Orono, Earle and Gerald Brown, and Jack Allin, of Newcastle, delighted the assembly of farmers from Central Ontario counties, especially with their smoothness of tone. Gordon Murray, of Woodville, Victoria county, contributed a comedy feature with his monologue "It's In the Book," and Bill Weir, of Omemee, was humorous as master of ceremonies.

The concert was greatly enjoyed by the capacity crowd accepting with the best of goodwill the rather hastily arranged accommodation in the old flower show building at the Exhibition Park.

Dairy Farm Harvests Grass Early To Get Alf Benefits

"We harvest grass while it is still grass. We don't wait until it has become hay."

That has become seasonal forage harvest practice at the Ottawa Dairy Farm, of which he is manager, as briefly outlined by Tom Dickinson in the course of the panel discussion at the Central Ontario Spring Show here Thursday afternoon.

"We should have the first cuting completed by June 12th," Mr. Dickinson said. "We started last May in orchard grass, continuing in reed canary grass, brome and timothy. We want grass when it is five or six weeks old. That is the cheapest feed we know for milk."

The attendance appeared to be around 400 farmers of the district, including some women, and the large audience remained to the last question that concluded the panel discussion on "Land Use."

Watson H. Porter of London, editor in chief of The Farmer's Advocate and Canadian Countryman, was chairman of the panel composed of Prof. R. G. Knox of O.A.C., James R. Henderson of Kingston, Mr. Dickinson, Prof. N. R. Richards of O.A.C., and Doug Parks of Kemptville Agricultural School.

Mr. Porter aimed the discussion at clarity and simple terms of explanation and presentation, combined with wit and good humor, and fulfilled all the expectations of the committee who invited him and his associates.

EXCHANGE OF IDEAS

It was a practical exchange of ideas in methods of land use, with special reference to fertility and its maintenance, forage crops and the ensiling of grass. In fact this panel was supplemental to the discussion on the business of farming Wednesday afternoon, headed by Dr. H. L. Patterson of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The two together must have been helpful to the audience of farmers who were generally familiar with the recommended practices from their own experience.

"We are more than ever conscious of the benefits from harvesting grass as grass," Mr. Dickinson said. "There has been quite a change in the making of grass silage."

"We are putting up the grass without chopping, and we find it is preferred by our cattle. We fed 60 to 85 head this winter, averaging 68 to 70 pounds a day, and the only spreading we did was for their beds. We didn't give our stock any grain. They eat from the silo whenever they feel like it, and we intend to continue that practice next winter. Our plan is harvest the grass while it is still grass. We believe it is just a waste of money by not getting the hay in earlier than is generally done. We find that we are getting more digestible nutrients from it as grass. It enables us to feed more cows, and to carry over a bigger surplus of feed from the same acreage."

The grassland program is adaptable to the conditions of the season. If the grass looks poor early in the summer, "we still have the corn to fall back on."

"We don't average a pound of dry hay a day. We try to keep up the productivity of the field, and we keep rotation down. Some of our fields have been in good shape seven or eight years. If they do show signs of running out, we plow them up and seed them to grain at the same time (of reseeding).

My observation is that the less we work our land, the quicker we build it up. The more agitation it gets, I think, the more do we use up the available nitrogen and organic matter in the soil. Cultivation is going to do that."

HORIZONTAL SITE

Replying later to several questions, Mr. Dickinson said the grass was packed in a horizontal silo on top of the ground. "We put it in with a buckrake and it worked well." What serves as a manger is built across the face of the silo. The cattle put their heads through, and it is moved back as the cattle eat the silage.

The Ottawa Dairy grass is not chopped, and it is self fed as ensilage. As to spoilage, Mr. Dickinson said, "We had no spoilage on the side this winter, and very little on the top. It did not average four inches. From our experience, we recommend the surface silo over the upright."

As to maximum size of a horizontal silo, Mr. Dickinson said it no doubt depended "on the number of cattle you have to feed". "The minimum might be 12 ft. by 12 ft. I saw one 7 ft. wide and 12 ft. long. The width is rather important when you are using a tractor or truck. It should be about half as wide again as the tractor.

This was a comparatively mild winter, one questioner remarked, so "What about snow?"

Mr. Dickinson: "If there's lots of snow on top, there shouldn't be any freezing at all. There is no problem with frost."

The silo Mr. Dickinson was speaking about is 87 feet by 20 feet in width.

"What are you going to do with the upright silos," he was asked, and jokingly replied: "We could use them for bedding".

That was the major contribution by Mr. Dickinson to the panel. It was only one of the topics over which Mr. Porter ran his questioning, and it was significantly bound up with Mr. Dickinson's emphatic statement that in his experience, grass silage makes the cheapest feed for milk, and that is the business of the Ottawa Dairy.

Que. Cattlemen Ask Tax On Oleo Oils

MONTREAL (CP) — The Ayrshire Society of Quebec has asked that the federal government impose a tax on vegetable oils imported for manufacture of margarine.

At its annual meeting here Thursday, the society adopted a resolution embodying the request and expressing appreciation of the anti-margarine laws of Quebec and Prince Edward Island. It termed the substitute a "grave menace" to Canada's dairy industry.

LPP Candidate

WELLAND (AP)—Frank L. Haslam of Port Colborne was nominated Thursday as Labor-Progressive Party candidate for Welland in the next federal election. Tim [illegible] party's national leader, said the party will campaign on a [illegible]g [illegible]ndence from American investment and military control."

Market Busier As Prices Mixed

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned mixed in early afternoon stock market trading today and activity increased slightly over Thursday's level.

Uraniums and Northern Ontario rare metals held firm while New Branswick base metals gained from a mixed morning.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 2,150,000 shares. Heaviest trader was Eastern Metals, a base metal, which moved more than 210,000 shares to gain 22 cents.

Uraniums showed a majority of small gains. New Brunswick issues gained as Brunswick recovered and New Larder U gained.

Strength in holding companies buoyed the golds list and seniors attracted little interest and slipped and juniors continued mixed. Prospectors Airways was strong.

Higher-priced base metals gained and a few sharp gains dotted secondary issues. Campbell Chibougamau and Cassiar jumped and Eurka added more than 30 cents in a turnover of 115,000 shares. Steep Rock and United Asbestos weakened.

Western oils gains balanced losses although Canadian Atlantic, Amurex and Dome Exploration made good gains.

Trustee Respects Orange Order

TORONTO (CP) — A Roman Catholic school trustee Thursday night spoke in favor of allowing board of education employees to attendd Orange Lodge functions.

William J. Daly said of the Orangemen at board meeting: "I respect and honor them. You know where they stand—they're not like so many wishy-washy groups, even in my own faith.

"They believe in heaven and certainly believe in hell. Over the years they have consigned many of our most able popes to hell. Let them march on the 12th of July, but let them get the kind of weather I always pray for."

Until last year, board employees couid attend such functions without loss of salary. Then the board decided an employee would not be paid.

The board will send the matter back to the finance committee for reconsideration.

Commons Picture Taken

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons had its picture taken Thursday. For the first time in some years, the chamber was photographed in session by a national film board photographer.

He snapped the picture at the opening with State Secretary Bradley on his feet, tabling a government document.

Premier Denies Ambitions In Federal Field

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario says he has no political ambitions in the federal field.

He told the legislature Thursday that he doesn't regard service in the federal field more important than in the provincial or municipal field. He added:

"When my service to my native province is completed, my ambition is not to transfer my activities to Ottawa but to Lindsay (the premier's home town.)"

Other developments from the busy day and night sittings of the house:

A revised Pharmacy Act was introduced by Health Minister Phillips which would tighten restrictions on the sale of sleeping pills. If the bill is approved, barbiturates will be available only on a doctor's prescription and can be bought only from a drug store.

CHANGE TRAFFIC ACT

A long list of amendments to the Highway Traffic Act was introduced by Highways Minister Doucett. They include a provision to raise the minimum age of drivers to 16 from 15 and a section strengthening laws against defective vehicles.

Premier Frost accepted a motion of Harry Nixon (L—Brant) to set up a select committee of the House to investigate reform institutions in the province.

Maj. John Foote, minister of reforms institutions, said too many persons are in Ontario jails because prison terms are often given when fines would be sufficient.

Mines Minister Kelly, replying to opposition questions, said it would be impossible to ban the export of natural resources, such as iron ore, from the province.

NOT NET LEADER

Mr. Frost said his statement denying rumors that he might be the next national leader of the Progressive Conservative party was prompted by newspaper speculation and a remark by Mr. Nixon earlier in the week that the premier would soon be asked to take over the party's national leadership.

The premier termed Mr. Nixon's remark "facetious" and added:

"Such a statement coming from a skilful parliamentarian might leave the implication that there is a possible demand for change in the Ottawa leadership and that I am no longer interested in my job here. Neither of these conjectures is correct."

Mr. Frost said George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservatives and premier of Ontario from 1943 to 1948, is "a great Canadian. . . doing an outstanding job at Ottawa."

"In my opinion he is eminently fitted and qualified to provide the alternative in government that our parliamentary and democratic system requires.

"I have a big job given to me in Ontario. It is so big that it requires every bit of my thought and attention. My only ambition is with my colleagues and associates in this House to give good government to the province."

George St. YPU Presents Drama Comedy

Members of the George Street United Church Young People's Union presented a drama comedy, The Road Back, to an enthusiastic audience in the Sunday School auditorium Thursday night.

The play, directed by Mrs. Cecil Wasson tells the story of a family going through a crisis. The father is out of work and the mother is a nagger. They have two daughters, who both work and a son who has been spoiled by his mother.

One daughter, who turns her salary over to her mother to help out, and the son work in the same bank. Another daughter keeps her money to herself.

The son, who becomes involved with the wrong type of friends, takes money from the bank to finance himself and makes it appear that his sister has taken it. She, seeing what has been done, admits the theft in the hope that she can keep her brother going straight.

Into this tangle comes an uncle of the children who poses as a down-and-out tramp, but is in reality a millionaire.

The problems are finally resolved happily. Although the plot sounds intense, there is a good deal of comedy to lighten proceedings.

Also helping to produce the play were stage manager Ralph Brown, business manager Graydon Hadwin, Margaret Walton, and Beverly Watkiss and make-up artists Velmas Powers and Jean Montgomery.

Snowball Fight Fist Fight Court Fight

A snowball fight at the Turner Park skating rink which developed into a fist fight on February 19 resulted in a fine of $15 and $5.50 costs for James Foster, 22, of 611 Chamberlain St.

Foster appeared in police court Thursday and pleaded guilty to a charge of common assault on George Kerr, caretaker of the rink.

On the request of Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, the charge was reduced from one of assault causing actual bodily harm.

CHEEK CUT, BLEEDING

PC Sherman Keliele gave evidence that he and PC William Scott were called to the rink where they found Kerr, who lives at 536 Downie St., with his left cheek swollen the size of a chestnut. The cheek was cut and bleeding. The police had received word that snowballs had been thrown at the rink and the manager asked the participants to stop.

Foster admitted that he and some younger fellows were throwing snowballs, something which was often done in the vicinity of the rink.

He said that Kerr was new at the rink, and when he shouted for them to stop they didn't know who he was. The next thing Foster knew he felt a hand on his shoulder. He turned around and the blow landed on Kerr's cheek "on the spur of the moment."

Frank Sullivan Played In Sousa's Famous Band

By PHIL CALDER

One evening during a concert by his world-famous band, John Philip Sousa cocked his sensitive ear to the sound of a sour note. Without a quiver of his baton, the celebrated conductor swept his eyes over the 80-odd musicians and stared at the offending bandsman. He didn't even scowl. He simply looked.

It was five or six months before the same composition reappeared on the band's program which was being presented in a different section of the continent. But one or two bars before the tricky passage, Sousa turned, raised his hand in the direction of the same player, and smiled. When the uneasy player completed the part without muffing it, Sousa bowed slightly from the waist in acknowledgement.

"Absolutely imperturbable. Sousa had an unfailing memory." That is how the personality of the "March King" is etched in the memory of Frank Sullivan who was a saxophonist in the Sousa band during the closing years of its remarkable history.

YOUNGEST MEMBER

Mr. Sullivan, who now operates a music store on Charlotte St., was probably the youngest person ever to be a member of this unique organization which Sousa formed when he found he was unable to support his family on the income he received as a bandmaster with the United States Marines.

In 1926, at the age of 16, Mr. Sullivan left his home town of Huntsville, Ontario, to begin five years of concert tours with the band which took him to every one of the 48 states of the union and every Canadian province except Prince Edward Island. In the course of this experience he played Sousa's most famous march, "Stars and Stripes Forever," about 1,200 times, twice a day at each city where the band played.

These annual tours were somewhat onerous, Mr. Sullivan recalls. One day the band would play afternoon and evening concerts in Chicago; the next day called for two more performances in Buffalo and another two in Boston the following day. They crossed and recrossed the continent in sleeping cars from New York to San Francisco; from San Francisco up to Vancouver and from there down to Butte, Montana.

People came from miles around to hear the famous band. Some of the thousands who heard them play in a cattle arena in Texas had driven as far as 300 miles to listen.

It was in the midwest that something happened which almost broke up a concert.

The score for one of the prolific conductor's dozens of famous tunes, the "Field Artillery March," called for the firing of pistol shots at a staccato passage. The tympanist raised his pistol and three shots rang out loud and clear. At that moment the air above the platform was filled with clouds of feathers which the local stagehands had released from a batten in the roof as an extra attraction. Apparently they knew of Sousa's reputation as one of the outstanding trap-shooters in the United States, a fitting hobby for the ex-Marine.

A GENTLEMAN

These and similar incidents flooded Mr. Sullivan's memory this week as he watched the local showing of the film, "Stars and Stripes Forever," based on the story of Sousa's early career up to the period shortly after the close of the Spanish-American War at the turn of the century.

"Of course, the picture ended at a time long before I joined the band," Mr. Sullivan points out. "I remember Mr. Sousa as a sort of grandfatherly man. But the picture portrayed him as a gentleman and he certainly was a gentleman in real life."

By a strange coincidence, the picture is being shown locally at the Odeon Theatre which stands next to the site of the old Grand Opera House where Sousa conducted a performance by his band more than 40 years ago.

William Peryer, who lives at 608 Bethune St., recalls leading the local Salvation Army band, of which he was then director, down to the Opera House to hear the concert. Also attending was the band of the 57th Regiment, conducted by Rupert Gliddon, who had composed a march in honor of Sousa's visit to Peterborough and called it "The Vanguard."

The night before the concert, Mr. Gliddon's colleagues at the Peterborough Conservatory sat up until dawn copying scores of the composition for each member of the Sousa band. The next evening the guest conductor handed his baton to Mr. Gliddon who thereupon conducted the performance of his own work by what was probably the world's most famous concert band.

When he appeared in Peterborough, Sousa was at the apex of a career which had already taken him twice round the world on concert tours with his band. He first assembled his own musicians in 1892 when he was already famous as a composer and conductor of the United States Marines band. He went on his first European tour a few years later and subsequently played in most of the world capitals, making his last European tour in 1910.

Thus, when Sullivan joined the band in 1926, the master was well on in years and the rigours of the annual tours were beginning to take their toll. He made his last tour in 1930 and died two years later.

When he died, Sousa was a national figure, if not a world celebrity. While Sullivan wa sa member of the band, many of the cities in which they played would declare a holiday on their arrival. Sousa would usually arrange the schedule so that the band would appear in Milwaukee on his birthday, November 6, when, as their train entered the yards, train and factory whistles would greet their arrival and crowds would turn out to meet them.

STILL A THRILL

The thrill of replaying Sousa's stirring marches never decreased—even the twice-a-day rendition of "Stars and Stripes Forever," almost invariably followed by another Sousa march, "El Capitan."

"El Capitan was like the lead-off man off a baseball team," Sullivan recalled, "not a home-run king but a good reliable batter to start things off."

To play his marches, Sousa obtained oustanding musicians from all over the world such as Meredith Wilson, later a conductor of the NBC symphony; Herbert L. Clarke, acknowledged by many as the world's outstanding cornetist; and the flautist, Georges Barriere, who later formed the well - known Barriere's Little Symphony.

Among the alumni of Sousa's band were Sullivan's two earliest teachers in Huntsville. The first was Ben Vereecken, a graduate of the Belgium Conservatory, whom Sousa brought to North America. Next was Lambert Schoof, who had played under the baton of Hans von Bulow, Richard Wagner's son-in-law, and had spent 20 years with the orchestra of New York's Metropolitan Opera Company, seven of them with Toscannini as conductor.

"Mr. Sousa had always used eight saxophones in his band but it was difficult to find players with a classical repertoire," Sullivan explained.

TAKE THEIR WORD

"He never held auditions. If he contemplated engaging a musician there were always enough former members scattered throughout the continent to vouch for a promising player and Mr. Sousa would take their word for him."

Not a few of the members of Sousa's band came from Canada, including Winnifred Bambrick, of Ottawa, who later achieved literary distinction by writing "Continental Review."

Sullivan, who came to Peterborough in 1940, displays an autographed photo of his late conductor on the shelf of his Charlotte St. music shop, beside one of the entire band taken in Cleveland in 1927.

"You know," said Sullivan, gazing at the uniformed members of the band, "it's a funny thing. But, while Sousa was known as the March King and the band may have done some marching in the early days, while I was with them none of us ever marched a step."

Wisconsin Strike Halts Work In Big Shipyard

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—Seven AFL craft unions went on strike today at the Manitowoc Shipbuilding Corp., one of the biggest shipyards on the Great Lakes.

Seniority and new wage contracts were reported as the issues in the dispute but there was no comment from the parties involved. Negotiations between the company and the union bargaining representatives broke off earlier this week.

About 1,700 workers are affected by the walkout.

About 12 ore carriers and other lake vessels are in the yards of the firm, which repairs and converts ships as well as builds new craft.

Five Dead, Five Hurt As Chicago Hotel Burns

CHICAGO (AP)—Five persons died and a dozen others were injured in a fire which swept the Chestnut Hotel on the north side early today.

Several residents, clad in nightclothes, were carried down ladders at the front and sides of the four-storey building by firemen.

Two men who apparently leaped from the rear of the building were among those taken to hospital.

Killed were three men, a woman and a baby.

Spinach Makes Bones Weak

LONDON (AP)—So spinach is good for kids, is it?

Two medical researchers said today that far from being a boon to the young, the stuff may actually imperil their health.

Doctors Joan E. Bamji and N. S. Bamji of London advanced this theory: "The intense dislike of spinach shown by most children is nature's way of protecting them from its harmful effects."

The doctors set forth their conclusions in a letter to the British Medical Journal.

The Bamjis said experiments with rats show that the oxalic acid in spinach upsets the body's absorption of calcium, thus leading to a weakened bone structure. The acid also, they declared, tends to deposit in the kidneys in the form of oxalates, or oxalic acid salts, which damage these vital organs.

"Spinach raw or cooked, when added to the liet of dogs which includes meat, cracker meal and skimmed milk powder," the Bamjis wrote, "produces not only a greater negative calcium balance but also poor absorption of nitrogen. . ..

"And yet we know of conscientious mothers who have forced large quantities of spinach on their unwilling children day after day."

Greedy Lawyers

This year every driver in Ontario is paying fifty cents extra for his driving permit because the Unsatisfied Judgement Fund is on the rocks. This makes a dollar all told, which every driver must contribute towards the Fund. Considering the hundreds of thousands of licensed drivers there are in the Province, this makes a lush sum. We doubt that it will be lush enough for the lawyers to pasture in, judging from the accusations made by Mr. W. M. Nickle, QC, MLA, in the Ontario Legislature Wednesday.

* * *

The Unsatisfied Judgement Fund was established to assist financially victims of car accidents where the guilty driver had either no means to pay the damages or could not be found. But in practice, the lawyers seem to consider it a cash crop for themselves, and they have munched so greedily at it that they have taken a quarter of the $2,740,000 paid out of the Fund since it was established. It is the avarice of lawyers which has bankrupted the Fund and made the extra fifty cents levy this year necessary. And unless the legal appetite for this money is not checked, even that extra levy will not suffice.

* * *

Lawyers' costs and fees for pleading in simple accident cases where little evidence is required but that of the Provincial Police officer are so fancy that most victims of minor accidents, costing them a couple of hundred dollars in repairs, pay the two hundred and shut up rather than take the case to court and suffer the lawyer's costs. The lawyer may win the case but he also wins the judgement money. Mr. Nickle cited a case in which the plaintiff was awarded $749 damages and his lawyer got $889. He gave another in which the plaintiff was awarded damages of $56 and his lawyer got costs of $933, both of which sums were taken out of the Fund. It is not only in claims against the Unsatisfied Judgement Fund that lawyers' fees are disproportionately high. Their greed touches court actions regarding car accidents in which the plaintiff (and the defendant) are depending on their insurance companies.

* * *

Not all lawyers have the same grasp, and we believe that Mr. Nickle must be considered one of the moderates, since he himself is exasperated by colleagues who over-charge. That there was good reason for his outburst is evident by the silence of other lawyers in the Assembly who did not rise to counter his charges. The general public who suffer from lawyers' exorbitant fees and pay a dollar a year as drivers into the Unsatisfied Judgement Fund will echo Premier Frost's commendation of Mr. Nickle's speech: "Well done, Bill, you're right on the beam."

* * *

Greedy lawyers growing fat on public money intended to help victims of accidents should be taken down to size. The Law Society is failing in its public trust if it does not properly discipline its own members. The Legislature is failing in its public duty if it continues to allow the taxing officer at Osgoode Hall to approve high costs in cases brought against the Fund, instead of the Attorney-General's department establishing them. The legal profession should be heartily ashamed to have to bear Mr. Nickle's strictures in silence. They know what practices are taking place and have done nothing to correct them.

New Infantry Weapons

Despite jet planes, spectacular artillery, undersea fighters and formidable tanks, infantry is still the Queen of Battle. The last war and the Korean war prove its primacy. It is therefore right and necessary that infantry equipment be given the advantages of technological improvement which is applying to other arms and services. The British recognize the importance of infantry's role. The Minister of Defence (Viscount Alexander) has laid down a policy to make the British army one of the best equipped in the world. It begins with the infantry, which is being rearmed. A complete new family of weapons has been evolved, especially improved as regards infantry's anti-tank weapons.

The smallest infantry weapon is the grenade. A new anti-tank grenade has been produced and is being issued. It can be projected from an ordinary, standard rifle, yet its destructive capacity is equal to the most powerful infantry anti-tank gun used in the last war.

A new recoilless anti-tank gun has been designed, too. It is lighter and more manoeuvrable than the existing anti-tank gun, and will probably be the most powerful anti-tank gun in the hands of infantry anywhere in the world.

Production of the new British rifle—a .280 to replace the old .303—has long been held up because no agreement on standardization could be reached between the U.K. and the U.S.A. However, as we have already noted in these columns, British, Canadian and Belgian collaboration has resulted in a cartridge design which should be acceptable to all NATO countries and to their rifles, including the new British .280.

It is well that infantry's weapons are getting the attention they warrant.

95 Miles In Eight Hours

In our restrospective "How Time Flies" column Wednesday, this 1923 March 18th item appeared: "A Peterborough party travels to Toronto by auto without difficulty, making the journey in less than eight hours." The expedition was so remarkable as to be a front page story thirty years ago. Now the trip is made daily by hundreds of cars in two hours. Now the road is a paved highway, and half of it dual-lane. Then the first stage, and the only one usually undertaken in a day, was the "Gravel Road" to Port Hope.

Ah! those Sunday drives to Port Hope in the early twenties. The car was the very latest model; it was a high Model-T touring auto with a brass front. It had no battery. Thus the car had to be cranked. The headlights depended on the dynamo, and brightened on the grinding climb up hill with the left foot pressed on the outer pedal to keep the car in low gear; and the lights faded to a glimmer as Lizzy rolled down hill with gravity and an idle engine.

Most cautious families tried to get home before dark. They had started their 28-mile journey in the morning, so they could leave Port Hope in mid-afternoon for the return 28 miles. However, golden Fall afternoons were too short to allow for a proper visit on the lake front and to get all the way home before dark. But if one made Springville one need not be too tremulous about having to drive the last six miles in the night. One could hope that the car had already had all the flat tires it was going to have for that trip.

It was something of a ceremony, and at the same time, an unlumbering, when the lights were put on at the bottom of the Springville hill. The car was always full of people. Children sat on orange crates between the front and the back seats and babies were kept on adults' knees. The carload shifted at lighting-up time. Two or three adults would get out to inspect the tires. Perhaps there was doubt about the gas supply. Then the front seat would be lifted out. The gas tank was under it. The tank cap was taken off and a broken yard-stick thrust down to see how many inches of gas remained. If more were needed, there was no purpose in driving to a service station. There was no service station. But a gallon of gas was always kept on the side running-board for emergency use.

When the car had been inspected, children's needs attended to, the side curtains buttoned on and apples distributed, the crowd would bundle itself back into the car, except for two people. The driver stood by while the other opened the window of the tail light, struck a match and lit the coal-oil lamp. There would be a pause to make sure it had caught, then back into the car everybody, spread the rugs, and away we go, starting up the long hill slowly, and everybody leaning forward as if to help the engine carry its load over the crest. So in good spirits (if there had been no more flats) but quiet so as not to wake the babies, the voyagers returned home in the dark, with a watch kept in the back seat to make sure that the tail light was still burning.

That was motoring in the days when an intrepid Peterborough party went all the way to Toronto—about 95 miles—by car in eight hours.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: What relation was the Hon. Peter Robinson, for whom Peterborough was named, to John Beverley Robinson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario from 1880 to 1887? Were there two J. B. R.'s? I would like to get these Robinsons sorted out.

ANSWER: He was John Beverley Robinson's uncle, and was a brother of Sir John Beverley Robinson, Bart., for some years Chief Justice of Upper Canada, and father of the Lieutenant-Governor.

The Robinsons were descended from the Hon. John Robinson of Virginia, who was at one time President of the British Colony of Virginia. Peter Robinson's grandfather was Colonel Beverley Robinson who emigrated to New York where he married the daughter and heiress of Frederick Phillips. From him Colonel Robinson inherited a vast estate on the Hudson River. He belonged to the aristocratic party in New York State and was a Tory Royalist. However, he first opposed the British Government's arbitrary measures which lead to the American Revolution of 1776 and at one time belonged to the party headed by George Washington and John Adams which gave up the use of imported goods. He dressed himself and his household in American-made homespun. However, Colonel Robinson — Peter Robinson's grandfather —regarded the independence movement as rebellion. He entered the King's service and commanded the Loyal American Regiment of New York. After the peace of 1783, Colonel Robinson withdrew to England, where he died.

* * *

HIS SON, Christopher Robinson, had been an officer in the Queen's Rangers commanded by Colonel (afterwards Governor) John Graves Simcoe. Christopher Robinson settled in New Brunswick, where he was given a large grant of land on the St. John River just east of Fredericton. There Peter Robinson was born, in 1785. From there he moved to Berthier in Quebec where his second son John Beverley Robinson was born, July, 1791.

The family then moved to Kingston, and later to New York. John Beverley Robinson (later Sir John and Chief Justice) was the favourite pupil of Dr. (later Bishop) Strachan, who remained a strong influence on him all his life. He was called to the bar, sat in the Legislature, and was considered a brilliant and successful Chief Justice. He was a leading member of the Family Compact. When Governor Maitland paid a visit to the Peterborough settlement in the winter of 1826 to see how the Irish immigrants were faring, John Beverley Robinson accompanied him (Peter Robinson was already here). The schoolmaster to the Irish made a request for school teacher. John Beverley Robinson believed, and said it on one accasion, that the less the lower orders were educated, the better it would prove for the community.

* * *

THE HON. PETER ROBINSON'S career was less notable than that of his younger brother, Sir John Beverley Robinson. In the war of 1812 he commanded a rifle company at the capture of Detroit. He was elected to the Legislature Assembly in 1817, and appointed to the Legislative Council in 1827. After taking charge, 1824-5, of the Irish immigration to Peterborough, he was appointed a Commissioner of Crown Lands.

He was a muscular man and had a taste for sports. He was a bachelor. One reason that he did not reach the prominence of his younger brother was that he did not live as long. He died in Toronto in 1838 at the age of 53. Sir John Beverley died in 1863.

THE MEETING called for this evening at the Public Library to revive the Historical Society, will, I trust, be well attended, and be followed by better success and longer life than a similar organization at a meeting held late in 1950. There is certainly no lack of interest, and much material to be discovered, preserved and discussed about Peterborough and district's past to keep a historical society busy for years.

SIR: Is Prince Charles the heir apparent or the heir presumptive to the throne?

ANSWER: Heir apparent; that is, he must succeed if he survives his mother the Queen. His mother was always heir presumptive, since a male child could, until she succeeded her father, presumably have been born to the late King George and the present Queen Mother and displaced her as heir. The Prince of Wales is always heir apparent and Prince Charles will become Prince of Wales in due course. The Duke of Windsor was created Prince of Wales on his sixteenth birthday.

* * *

SIR: What is an alewife? Have you ever seen one?

ANSWER: This is the sort of trick question of which Alpha is wary. After years of answering readers' fair and unfair questions, Alpha has learnt to smell cheese in a trap; he is not caught by this one. Alewives are found behind sand bars, not tavern bars, and smell of salt not of malt.

The alewife— Pomolobus pseudoharengus —is a fish not unlike a shad. It spawns profusely in the tidal parts of the rivers of our Maritimes and New England, during the spring. It grows to a foot in length and is an important food dish. About twenty million pounds of them are landed and marketed by Canadian fishermen each year, with a total value of more than seven hundred thousand dollars.

Anything else you want to know about the alewife? No— I have never seen one, nor to my knowledge eaten one. In French the fish is called a gasparot— which phonetically suggests a fishwife, to which alewives are only contiguously related.

French names of our commoner Canadian fish are interesting; I give a few: cod-morue; haddock — elgefin; herring —hareng (that's easy; mackerel—maquereau (easier still); sardine—sardine (that's a hundred per cent). Salmon is saumon, which is rather odd because in English—even soft-voweled English English, salmon is sahmon (short 'a' like cat) and not saumon. Clams are coques and lobsters homard. Tuna fish is thon, and winkles (of which 70,000 pounds a year are landed) are littorines. Anybody guess what the English for saugers is? Ah! It's my turn for a trick question. Saugers is the English word; its French is dore noir.

COUNTRY NOTE: Spring has come very early. There is no snow left on Bellee Acres, not even by the north side of fences, and there is very little in the cedar bush by the creek. Part of the reason is, of course, that there was little snow this winter. Another is the warm and early spring. A man up Apsley way says the geese and red-winged black-birds are back and that that is a sure sign of a warm spring right away. These mornings birds are chirping all over the place and sheep are lambing—had two more this week, one, glory be, a female, the first.

People used to paved roads and streets (except, it seems, those people who live on Mud Lane!) forget how rutted and muddy country roads can become, and farm lanes. I am keeping my snow tires on until the mud dries, which it is doing very fast. The water is sinking in, not all running away; an indication that there is little frost left in the ground.

Letters To The Editor

PETERBOROUGH PICTURES

Of all the beautiful pictures
That hang on memories wall,
Is one of the Memorial Centre,
I love it best of all.
Not for its design of beauty
With its flag and the ensign,
But in memory of our soldiers
Who fought in their lifetime.

The picture it is fading
That hangs on memory's wall,
Like many a hopeful parent
Awaiting through it all.
The boys and girls since forty-four
Have waited while time flies,
The boys now earning daily bread
The girls singing lull-a-byes.

Another picture with no retrench
By going back memory's lane,
Was the hurry to get the cash to build
From office, homes and bench.

We are told that when we go to vote
We must mark for four or five,
For councils resembling dead wood
Many years we have been the goat.
Some would scrap the Centre of its charms
After the blue print cost ten grand
For one built by Timber Structures,
Who are building sheds and barns.

Although this picture like many of yore
Has tried our patient manner,
Just like the dog that gets the kicks,
We keep coming back for more.

Yours with sentiment,

TAXES NOT TAXIS ON MUD LANE

Sir: The letter about Howden Ave., "Mud Lane" which appeared in your paper Monday evening was of great interest to me. I also am a resident and taxpayer living on this so called Avenue. Mud Lane is a far more appropriate name for a road in such a condition. We are ashamed to say we live on it.

Last week, three different taxi companies refused to send a cab down this road, saying, "Who wants to get stuck up to the hub caps for a mere 50c fare?" Incidently the driver who finally answered my call said he wasn't coming down again, and who can blame him or the others?

All the surrounding streets have sidewalks and decent roads although Howden Ave. was here long before they were. Every time the taxes go up, ours are increased also but do we get our sidewalks? Not on your life. That's just too much to ask for. We put in a petition for sidewalks more than two years ago. Why are we the last to get them on the oldest street?

The writer of the letter I mentioned above was not stretching the point when she stated it was necessary to scrub her floors every day. I've been doing the same thing and it's no fun.

On Sunday morning it's a shame to watch the people ploughing their way through mud to get to Grace United Church. The children also have quite a time getting to Sunday school in the afternoon. My two-year-old has not been outside to play in weeks. On McKellar and Arndon Streets the children are having a gay time riding their tricycles up and down the sidewalks.

So come on, be fair to the children as well as us parents and get busy on this badly neglected street.

ANOTHER LITTLE PIG.

TWO ART TEACHERS

Sir: Although the article as a whole appearing in your paper in connection with North Hastings High School Night School Programme was excellent, I would like to draw to your attention an error in the report on the work of the Art groups. Mr. Oscar Schlienger teaches the advanced group only. Mrs. Bella Barker, a resident of Bancroft, has been teaching one of the Art groups.

Yours very truly,
GORDON WRAGG,
Principal,
North Hastings High School.

When We Get To Mars

(Christian Science Monitor)

What, we wonder, would have happened if Mahomet had gone to the mountain just as the mountain was on its way to Mahomet, and the two had passed each other in the night?

Something roughly similar occurred in the case of Sgt. Luther Selden Jr., who made a quick trip home from Germany on a 30-day furlough to surprise his wife, only to discover that she had left New York that day on a surprise visit to him in Germany. They were both surprised all right.

What surprises us—still—is the way average folk nip around in this shrunken world of ours.

It's a simple at that. The old hops over to the new; the new whisks back to the old; and if nobody's home when we finally get to Mars it will probably be because the little men are off on a junket to Jupiter or running an airlift to Earth.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God. My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God: when shall I come and appear before God? My tears have been my meat day and night, while they continually say unto me, Where is thy God? . . .

Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God. (Ps. 42: 1-3, 11:)

* * *

My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed: I will sing and give praise. Awake up, my glory; awake, psaltery and harp: I myself will awake early. (Ps. 57: 7, 8.)

* * *

Praise the Lord with harp: sing unto him with psaltery and an instrument of ten strings. Sing unto him a new song; play skilfully with a loud noise. For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth . . .

Our soul waiteth for the Lord: he is our help and shield. For our heart shall rejoice in him, because we have trusted in his holy name. (Ps. 33: 2-4, 20-21.)

Canada Changes Consuls

(New York Times)

New York City is losing a good Canadian friend today and gaining a worthy successor. A new Canadian Consul General, Ray Lawson, is taking over from Kenneth A. Greene, who is returning to his native Ottawa after more than three years at his post.

Being a Consul General in New York is more important than being a Minister or even Ambassador to many countries. In fact, most Consul Generals in our city have the rank of Ministers if they belong to the diplomatic corps of their country. In the case of Canada the relationship is especially important. This is because of the great volume of trade between the United States and Canada, in which the New York area naturally plays a major role. The Canadian Consulate General here covers the states of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Canada is now the third largest trading nation in the world. The United States is her best customer, taking 58 per of her exports in 1952, while the American share of Canadian imports in the same period was no less than 70 per cent. American investments in Canada are estimated at close to $8,000,000,000. The very paper this editorial is printed on comes from Canada.

A shift of Consul Generals is therefore a change of importance. Kenneth Greene, an Ottawa business man, was his country's High Commissioner in Australia before coming to New York. His success here won him respect, and his wit and kindliness a great many friends who will be sorry to see him go. Ray Lawson has also been a business man and financier, and is a former Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Ontario. He has many American associations. With Winston Churchill he shares the honor of being one of the two Commonwealth subjects to receive an honorary degree from the University of Miami.

He takes on a heavy job in handling the trade, revenue and consular business of the Consulate General and its extensive Information Office. New Yorkers welcome him and wish him a happy and fruitful sojourn.

Filing Return Said Only Way To Get Income Tax Refund

OTTAWA (CP) — There's only one way to get a refund on your income tax if you think you've got one coming——file a return and claim it.

Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, gave that tip in the Commons Thursday night. He told G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) that there simply is no other way.

Deadline for filing 1952-53 income tax returns: April 30.

Mr. Fraser said a great number of Canadian taxpayers entitled to refunds didn't know they have them coming. Outstanding refunds due should be advertised as they were in the United States.

Mr. Lesage said he understood the advertising in the United States concerned only outstanding refundable portions of income taxes paid by Americans during the war.

The exchange took place as the Commons considered resolutions preceding bills which will give effect to tax changes made in Mr. Abbott's 1953-54 budget presented Feb. 19.

The opposition parties took the opportunity to criticize the government's taxation policies. Committee Speaker Rene Beaudoin was kept busy calling members to order when they strayed too far afield in their arguments.

Resolutions concerning excise tax and customs tariff changes were endorsed and the bills giving effect to these changes—including the immediate four-cent cut in cigaret duty—were introduced and given first reading.

During the rambling discussion Mr. Lesage announced that the government has decided to forgo a tariff change that would have invoked a higher duty on most imported motors. The change may affect millions of dollars worth of imports.

During consideration of the personal income tax reductions—a flat 11 per cent effective July 1 next or 5½ per cent on the year—J. M. Macdonnell (PC - Toronto Greenwood) and Ross Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) teamed up in criticism of income tax policies.

Mr. Macdonnell said the budget provided only "microscopic" income tax relief and "left out of consideration the mass of the people."

After being called to order several times for straying, Mr. Thatcher challenged a government statement that Canadian income tax rates are the lowest and exemptions the highest in the world.

He produced a table—and got the House's consent to put it on the record—which he said showed that a married man with two or four children pays less tax in the United States than in Canada.

Mr. Lesage replied by producing a table of his own, which also was put on the record. It showed, said Mr. Lesage, that the U. S. income tax rates dropped below those of Canada only when incomes amounted to $8,000 and $10,000 a year.

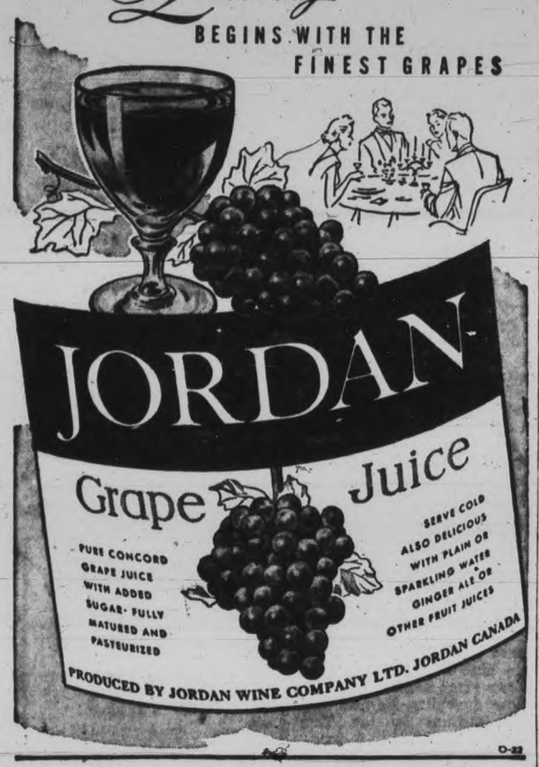
Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) asked if the government would consider exempting municipalities from payment of the sales tax on materials they buy.

Mr. Lesage said Finance Minister Abbott would reply later.

The government's four-cent cut in the cigaret tax also came in for discussion. H. W. Herridge (CCF - Kootenay West), a pipe smoker, asked why the government "discriminated" against pipe smokers and those who roll their own cigarets by reducing the duty only on "tailor-made" cigarets.

Mr. Lesage said the answer was that the total federal taxes on ready-made cigarets still amount to more than half their retail price, even with the four-cent cut. But the total federal levy on fine cut cigaret and pipe tobacco is less than a third of the retail price.

Mr. Lesage, also a pipe-smoker, said he sympathized with Mr. Herridge. But if there was any discrimination, it was still against the ready-made cigaret smoker.



Mr. Lesage told G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) and J.M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) the government hopes the tax reduction in cigarets will reduce smuggling of American cigarets into Canada.

When the two members attempted to question the parliamentary assistant more closely, they were stopped by committee chairman Rene Beaudoin who said he could not allow a debate at this stage on smuggling.

Rescue Workers Comb Ruins As Turkish Quake Kills 600

BALIKESIR, Turkey (AP)—Rescue workers combed the shattered, fire-blackened ruins of Turkish farming towns and villages here in western Turkey today, seeking the bodies of an estimated 300 to 600 persons feared dead in Wednesday night's violent earthquake.

Scores of centres still had not been heard from and some officials feared as many as 1,000 persons may have died in the catastrophe which laid waste to the rich farming and mining region southwest of Istanbul and across the Sea of Marmara from that big port.

From reports so far received at Balikesir, capital of the quake-stricken province, the small town of Yenice appeared the hardest hit. The interior ministry gave an initial report of 300 victims of the 5,000 population, but Turkish newspaper men who visited the town said they believed as many as 600 may have been crushed by the falling walls or charred by flames which swept the wreckage.

The Turkish Red Crescent (Red Cross) estimated a total of 500 dead in the quake area.

Other reports said 35 were dead in the farm city of Gonen, 90 miles southwest of Istanbul and with a population of 12,000, and from six to eight dead elsewhere in the area, inland from the First World War battleground of Gallipoli.

Thousands of homeless shivered through the cold night, without shelter, refusing to return home for fear of another quake.

The Turkish Army and the Red Crescent rushed relief workers, medical help and food supplies to the stricken sections, 30 to 60 miles northwest of Balikesir.

Officials of Gonen opened all jail doors to free prisoners who volunteered to help clear the rubble or run as couriers to villages not heard from.

Stories of terrible destruction came from the shattered towns and villages. United States ambassador George C. McGhee, who toured the Gonen area, said 95 per cent of the town's 3,000 buildings—and all 12 of its mosques—were destroyed or badly damaged.

McGhee said the death toll in Gonen would have been much higher but most of the residents were warned and fled to the open before the first big tremor.

Workers at Yenice reported about half of the 600 buildings there, and again all the mosques, were destroyed.

Istanbul observatory reported 65 small tremors followed the three successive big quakes which began Wednesday night.

Mine Blast Kills 19 Norwegians

OSLO, Norway (Reuters)—A coal mine explosion in Spitsbergen killed 19 Norwegian miners, it was reported here today.

The explosion, which occurred Thursday was the third serious accident in the Spitzbergen coal mines since the war.

In January, 1952, 15 miners died in two explosions in different mines. In December, 1948, an explosion in the New Aalesund mine also killed 15.

The Spitzbergen archipelago, covering 24,295 square miles, is Norwegian territory. Its southernmost point is 360 miles north of Norway.

In September, 1941, Allied forces —Canadian, British and Norwegian—landed on Spitzbergen and destroyed stocks of coal and dismantled mining machinery to keep them from falling into the hands of the Germans.

After the war, the mines were rebuilt.

Lands on Golf Course

CHESTER, N.S. (CP)—A naval flier made a skilful forced landing on a golf course Thursday after his Avenger aircraft from Shearwater naval air base had a power failure 10,000 feet over this Mahone Bay town. Lieut. James Burns of Winnipeg glided in with wheels up. The plane halted with its nose against a pile of rocks.

Pick Irish Plowmen

GRANCE, Republic of Ireland (CP)—Rodney Sheane and Thomas Macdonnel of counties Wicklow and Louth respectively were picked Thursday from 10 of the Republic of Ireland's best plowmen to attend the world plowing tests at Cobourg, Ont., next October. Judges said it was the "best tractor plowing we've seen in years."

Whitton Flays Speculators; Worse Than Reds

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa kept legislature committeemen on the edges of their seats Thursday with a scathing 90-minute attack on land speculators and exploiters.

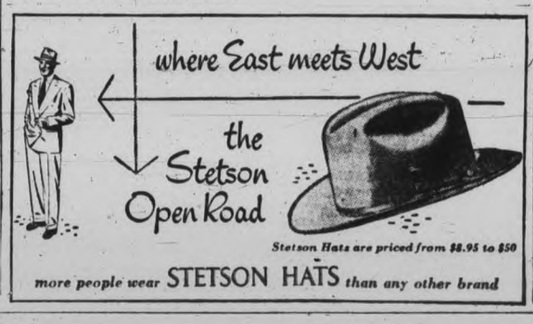
Miss Whitton appeared before a private bills committee to back Ottawa's application for a special commissioner to govern the 1,100-unit Manor Park housing development in eastern Ottawa and any future housing plans in the city.

The mayor, asserting that speculation is worse than communism, won the committee's approval. The bill's passage in the House now is little more than a formality.

Miss Whitton said the city didn't want a court inquiry, which is authorized by provincial law, but a special commissioner appointed by the province to check up on all housing developments in the city.

She said the Manor Park development probably was perfectly legitimate but there were others promoted by speculators. She mentioned one case in which a man bought a large tract of land for $600 an acre.

The purchase was made during an election and he succeeded in having $135,000 worth of waterworks improvements done on the property although the money otherwise would have been used for other local improvements. Six weeks later the land was sold for $6,000 an acre.



Buy From Indians

BRANTFORD (CP)—The Ontario municipal board Thursday approved the city's plan to buy 90 acres of Glebe lands from the Six Nations Indians for $160,000, without taking a vote of the taxpayers. The Six Nations Indians voted some time ago to sell the land to the city.

Blind Woman Flies To Greet Son

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A blind mother who flew here from Ottawa was on hand to surprise the son she never has seen when he returned Wednesday aboard the big navy transport General M. C. Meigs from the Korean war.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Allen, and her son, Pte. Charles John Allen of the 142nd military police battalion, were one of the happiest couples at the pier.

Mrs. Allen, who has been blind for 28 years and has never seen her 23-year-old, six-foot son, was sitting alone on a bench when the soldier recognized her and rushed into her arms.

Mrs. Allen had been put on an airliner in Ottawa by two of her four daughters.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

City council will okay the Ontario water ski championship meet Aug. 8-9 on Little Lake, and the Canadian Association has officially given the green light to the local association to stage this big aquatic event. In time this fine lake in the heart of the city will be advertised widely as "Ontario's largest inland playground," and this summer will start things going in that direction, according to Alf Pink. He is the energetic managing director for the Peterborough Water Ski Association, as well as president of the Little Lake and Otonabee River Regatta Association. Because of his duties on the provincial ski meet, he will not have the time to run any regattas this summer, but expects there'll be future regattas in Little Lake.

* * * * * *

Alf's immediate problem is to get together with the city council, recreation commission, parks superintendent and others interested to make this a big summer attraction for city and district folk, and for the many tourists who visit these parts in warm weather. He feels there is the need of a council-appointed supervisor for the summer at Little Lake where regular instructions will be given for for some four months in life saving, swimming, diving, trick diving, tilting, water skiing and jumping, canoeing and boating. The association will provide the equipment and could advise on a good supervisor for this annual summertime civic project at Little Lake.

* * * * * *

Interest Building Up

Interested industries contacted to date include Outboard Marines Co. and the Canoe Co. here, while the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Sea Cadets and Ornamental Swimming Club are all quite keen on the idea. So is the parks superintendent. All interested kids and adults will have full use of equipment and instructions, and some of the hardier members are ready to start water skiing on the lake March 29, regardless of weather. They're working hard to get things ready and a general meeting will be held next Monday at 7.30 p.m. in the "Y". Mr. Pink says: "We want to make this civic water playground and we welcome suggestions from anyone. The Aug. 8-9 meet is a big thing in itself, bringing in top competitors from all over and winners going into the CNE championships, but we want this to be primarily a summer-long project." Sounds good to us, and we're all for making full use of this lake in the midst of our city.

With OHA play finished here, naught remains in hockey at Civic but some OMHA finals and some transferred district playoffs. At 8.30 tonight, Havelock and Wallaceburg tee off to open home-and-home juvenile "B" finals. Our bantam "A" Shamrocks will go next week against Guelph in provincial finals. Guelph thumped Galt 15-0 to make the big series. We noted an item the other day in the paper of that Western Ontario centre saying: "The locals proceed into finals against Toronto Marlboro bantams." Not so, as Pat Doherty's classy Shamrocks erased the Marlies rather handily.

Which Is The Closer?

Petes' OLA Timbermen were hoping big Merv McKenzie of Hamilton would line up on the local defence this lacrosse season. But here's a piece from the Orillia Gazette: "Merv McKenzie is reported to have agreed to play with Orillia West Yorks this season. A resident of Toronto, Merv is with the department of labor and qualifies for the West Yorks, who hope to get his release from Hamilton. Lacrosse men here deny the report that Orillia players must go to Toronto to establish residence, claiming the new highway makes Orillia the nearest town to Toronto. Orillia is said to be 80 miles from Toronto by highway, 82 from Peterborough and 83 from Mimico."

Well, those battling Maple Leafs are making quite a stretch drive of it as they reach the end of the NHL schedule this weekend. We'd like to see 'em make it, now that Bruins are in, but fear they started their sprint a shade late. See where the NHL rejected a challenge by Cleveland Barons to play the NHL winner; incidentally, some radios and papers have that NHL playoff series confused. There is no NHL playoff—Detroit won the loop title a few weeks ago—but just the Stanley Cup playoffs remaining. The Stanley Cup is a challenge trophy to be played for after the schedule and after a league winner is declared. Gord Howe is putting on a great bid to tie or break Richard's record of 50 goals in league play in one season.

Rideaus Wallop St. John 6-2 For Series Lead

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—Smiths Falls Rideaus took a healthy 2-0 lead in games over Saint John Beavers in their Eastern Canada senior hockey semi-finals with a 6-2 victory Thursday night over the Maritime champions.

The loss left the New Brunswick club with the necessity of a come-back on home ice in the best-of-seven-game Allan Cup series The remaining games will be played in Saint John, starting Monday night.

The Rideaus built up a 4-0 lead Thursday night and were able to coast the rest of the way.

Connie Tudin led coach Hal Dewey's Rideaus with two goals and an assist.

John Choyce, who left Smiths Falls for Saint John in mid-season, and Charlie Knox carried the Beaver scoring. Don Rogers assisted on both scoring plays.

Two Smiths Falls defencemen, Hal Rockburn and John Shedden, together with Alf Webster an the veteran Stu Smith, rounded out the Rideau scoring..

GOALIE BEST

With Smiths Falls controlling most of the play, Beaver goalie Ron Diguer was his team's standout player. He blocked 32 scoring thrusts compared to 22 for Rideau goalie Plumber Craig.

As he did in the series' first game playing coach Lou Kiley played the entire game for his Beavers, getting only four minutes' rest in the second period when he sat out two minor penalties.

Tudin scored the first period's only goal, beating Diguer in a goal-mouth scramble.

In the opening minutes of the second period Webster and Shedden added two goals within 41 seconds. Rockburn scored from a faceoff five seconds after Kiley went off for his first penalty—the only one of the game's six penalties that affected the scoring.

Shedden scored on a solo rush before Choyce opened the Saint John scoring on a power play with Rogers and Knox.

Smith and Tudin put Rideaus farther ahead with third-period goals before Knox got the game's final goal. Knox took a pass from Rogers, skirted the defence and picked the corner of Craig' snet.

It may be the last open bonspiel of this season, and from information on hand it would seem to be one of the best. It's for the beautiful Ostrander Trophy, for men's rinks. Just to show they are right behind the club in this bonspiel, the Ostrander people have donated four gold wrist watches for first prize. This in itself is a great boost for the bonspiel. NHL Continues To Guard QSHL

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League governors Thursday continued interim recognition and protection of the Quebec Senior Hockey League in its relations with the NHL under what is known as the major series agreement.

This deals with player lists and other rights. The QSHL resigned from the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association in the midst of a dispute between the QAHA and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. The dispute was over playing status of a junior player with Montreal Canadien juniors.

The QSHL maintained it was not involved in the dispute but was threatened with suspension by the CAHA. The CAHA subsequently suspended all leagues and clubs within the QAHA after having previously suspended the QAHA itself.

The NHL governors reported they are still considering the CAHA's declaration of suspension of the QSHL. The governors unanimously agreed that in the interval the QSHL will be given full protection of player lists and other rights conferred under the major series agreement.

Hamilton Boxer Wins Main Bout

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Danny Saunders of Hamilton, hard-hitting Negro boxer, decisioned Hugh Lindsay of Toronto in the main bout of an amateur boxing card at the Arena Thursday night. They weighed in at 147 pounds.

The five-round 147-pound co-feature between Jimmy Green, Toronto, and Joe Hogan, Hamilton, was a standout. Green rang up a unanimous decision over his opponent, who made a fight of it all the way.

In a 132-pound clash Omar Secord Brantford, staged a real donnybrook with Farrell Gates of Hamilton for three rounds before earning a split decision.

Harold Brush of Brantford used his decided weight advantage on a heavyweight scramble to decision Ray Moody of Hamilton. William Scheaffer, Hamilton, outpointed Ernie Bier, St. Thomas, and Jim Hurley, Brantford, won from Danny McDonald, Toronto.

Sees Two Groups After Control Of Rugby Union

EDMONTON (CP)—A spokesman for Edmonton Eskimos predicted Thursday that the two big football conferences—the Western Interprovincial Union and the Eastern Big Four—will attempt to gain control of the Canadian Rugby Union at the CRU annual meeting here March 27 and 28.

This would be attempted, he said, through a bid for increased voting power and an effort to change the method of selecting CRU officers, particularly the president.

The big conferences now have only four out of nine votes cast in CRU meetings. They can be out-voted by a group of minor leagues, which includes the inactive Western Intercollegiate Football Union.

The WIFU will hold a meeting here March 26 as a preliminary to the CRU conference.

At this meeting, the western clubs will discuss CRU voting power, method of electing CRU officers, increased expense money for the western representative in the Grey Cup final at Toronto, interchange of officials between the West and East, East-West exhibition games and the advisability of appointing a permanent WIFU commissioner.

Hall Of Fame Members Get Scrolls At Game

MONTREAL (CP)—Two of the newest members of the Hockey Hall of Fame were presented with their official scrolls Thursday night during the Toronto Maple Leafs-Montreal Canadiens game.

The presentations were made between the second and third periods to Nels Stewart and Dickie Boone.

Stewart was a member of Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins and New York Americans and until this season held the all-time scoring record of 324 goals. It has been eclipsed by Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens, whose total now is 346. Boone was a member of the old Montreal Wanderers team.

The presentation to Stewart was made by J. B. Garvan of Kingston, home of the Hall of Fame; that to Boone by Captain Jim Sutherland of Kingston, founder of the Hall of Fame.

Kingston, Toronto Bowlers After Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—A Kingston and a Toronto bowler will battle for the Ontario five pin bowling championship and the $500 first prize at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show Saturday.

Joe Dunphy, Kingston regional champion, ousted Murph Chamberlain of Ottawa and Tommy Mallon eliminated Dominic Senese, St. Catharines regional champion, in the semi-final round Thursday.

Dunphy bowled a score of 1,246. Chamberlain 1,113. Mallon's total was 1,342 and Senese marked up 1,221 points.

Dunphy and Mallon will bowl in two shifts Saturday. The loser will get $250.

Detroit Red Wings Invite Minor City League Stars To Junior Tryout School

By DON GRANT

Detroit Red Wings have sent offers to five Peterborough junior, juvenile and midget players to attend the Detroit Hockey Club's Red Wing junior tryout school early in April. If successful there they will likely be invited to play with one of the Red Wings' minor teams, either junior "A" or "B".

Jerry Frizzelle, Larry Ball, Jack Kane, Bud MacDougall and Bob Gardner received their invitations to the Detroit camp in Thursday's mail. They all had an inkling that invitations would be sent.

The Detroit offer comes direct from Jack Adams, former Peterborough player (1917) and now manager of the Red Wings. The school will be held at the Olympia on April 4, 5 and 6.

While attending the school the boys will be staying at the Hotel Norton-Palmer, Windsor, arriving there not later than Friday, April 3. They will report the morning of April 4 at the Olympia for practice. There Johnny Mitchel and Jimmy Skinner will be in charge.

The Red Wings are making the weekend as comfortable as possible for the lads who'll be trying hard for a junior berth with the parent club. The Red Wings are providing expenses for transportation, meals and hotel room besides other expenses. They also provide all the equipment but the skates.

Scouts from other professional clubs particularly New York and Toronto, have been watching the minors in action this year. Probably other players, especially off the Shamrocks bantam club, in the Ontario finals next week, may receive similar offers.

Jerry Frizzelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Frizzelle, 566 Chamberlain St., started his minor hockey with the peewees under Art Pagett, Sr., at the Trojan Club. Then he jumped into bantam with Albert Watkins' Marines, staying with them for two years bantams, two years midget and one year juvenile.

The 17-year-old lad switched from a forward to a defenceman this year, playing with Doug Mortimer's IOOF juniors.

Lawrence (Larry) Ball, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ball, 287 Prince St., followed much the same minor hockey pattern as Frizzelle. He played bantam with the Marines, then went with the Marines into midget when the whole club moved up. For the past two years he's been with the Marines' juveniles. He also played for Hastings in the Trent Valley League.

Bob Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack (Smokey) Gardner, 260 McDonnel St., started his hockey with the Northend Kids, under Al Revoy and Lin Brown, then moved over to the Optimist bantams for another year. He then played two years with the Martin-Hewitt midgets.

Although only 16 years old and still midget age, Gardner was moved up to the IOOF juniors this year. There he made quite an impression on hockey officials, fans and scouts.

Another former Peterborough hockey player's son, Bud McDougall, son of Mrs. Harold McDougall and the late Shrimp McDougall, 261 Romaine St., also started playing with the Marines' bantams, stepping into midget with St. Peter's. Last year McDougall played with Loyola College of Montreal, first with the juniors and then the seniors, quite a feat for a 15-year-old boy.

Back to Peterborough this year he played with the IOOF juniors attracting the eye of Detroit and New York scouts.

Finally there's 16-year-old Jack Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Kane, 70 Park St. South. Gardner and he were teammates throughout most of his minor hockey years. He began with the Optimist bantams, and then there years (including the past season) with the Martin-Hewitt Aces, the city midget champions.

Hurricanes took six points from Gens, as Aces, Commandos and Corvettes took four from Tigers, Lucky Strikes and Bombers in that order. The standing, with a month to go: Aces 88 points, Lucky Strikes 86, Commandos 76, Glens 74, Tigers 74, Bombers 62, Hurricanes 56 and Corvettes 36.

Leafs Whip Canadiens 4-1 To Stay In NHL Race; Howe Scores Two For 49th

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Thanks to Gordie Howe and the battling Toronto Maple Leafs, the National Hockey League season will be good to the last drop of the puck this season. The Leafs' last-ditch surge toward a playoff spot continued Thursday night as they roared to their second victory in 24 hours, a thumping 4-1 decision over the second-place Montreal Canadiens. And gallant Gordie, with a hysterical Detroit crowd cheering him on, fired his 48th and 49th goals of the season to lead the first-place Red Wings to a 4-1 victory over Boston Bruins. That left Howe with two games in which to equal or surpass Maurice Richard's NHL mark of 50 goals in a single campaign.

All of which means box office all around the circuit this week-end. The defeat of the Bruins left the last two playoff berths wide open, with the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks trailing Boston by two points and leading the Leafs by a similar margin.

HAWKS MEET WINGS

The Hawks entertain the Red Wings Saturday night and will have to cope with the dazzling Howe to stand a chance of victory. Meanwhile the Bruins, still needing a win or a tie to be safe, travel to Montreal and the Leafs entertain the tail-end New York Rangers.

If Howe doesn't break his record against Chicago, the Wings' Sunday date with the Canadiens at Detroit should be a natural, with Montreal's Richard trying to preserve his mark.

The Black Hawks, finishing in New York, will be battling either for a third-place finish ahead of Boston or to survive the Leaf stretch drive, depending on Saturday's results. And if the Leafs get past the Rangers, their wind-up against the Bruins in Boston could be the best of all.

AT THEIR BEST

Conn Smythe's club looked its best disposing of Montreal Thursday night. Spearheaded by captain Ted Kennedy, who scored the 200th goal of his career, the Leafs swarmed all over the Canadiens.

Sid Smith, hero of Toronto's comeback victory over the Hawks Wednesday, fired the only goal of the first period. Eric Nesterenko and Kennedy made it 3-0 in the second and Richard and Toronto's Harry Watson matched goals in the finale.

At Detroit, Alex Delvecchio, Tony Leswick and Marcel Bonin shot the Wings into an early lead. Then they concentrated on setting up Howe.

Ted Lindsay ragged the puck till his line-mate was in position to fire his first tally in the second period. Then Johnny Wilson flipped Howe a passout for his second marker. Wilson himself provided the sixth tally as the crowd screamed itself hoarse every time Howe handled the puck.

Fleming Mackell was the marksman for the well-beaten Boston crew.

Lindsay Bows To Gans In First Game

LINDSAY (ENS)—Before 1,500 hockey fans here Thursday night, the Gananoque Gans opened the OHA intermediate "A" best-of-seven quarter-final playoff series with a 3-1 victory over Lindsay Muskies. The latter eliminated Port Hope Redmen to capture the Lakeshore League title and proceed into provincial playdowns, while Gans (after playing all season in the Canadian-American loop) dropped back to enter OHA playdowns. The second game of the set is Saturday night in Gananoque.

Play was quite fast and smart throughout in the opening fray, and fairly rugged with 11 penalties handed out by Referees Jim Crombie and Larry Heffering. Six of the sentences went to the Muskies.

Star of the contest was Goalie Parrish, of the visiting squad, as he handled at least twice as many shots as the Lindsay netter, O'Connell. The Muskies had more of the play but lacked the finish the Gans showed around the net, and found Parrish almost unbeatable as he robbed them repeatedly in every period.

IN ON THREE

Switzer shone on the Gananoque attack, being in on all three goals, while Wood, Fair and Atkins were also solid performers for the winners. The Parker-Coombs-Crawford line was dangerous at all times for the Lindsay crew, with Bob Lewis and Vic Corley also in for a lot of hot stabs at the Gans' cage. Defensively, Al Burns and Green stood out for the homesters.

Fair counted for Gananoque in the first frame, tipping in a close-in pass from Switzer. Lindsay tied it up in the keen middle chapter, Lou Hennessy rapping in a rebound after Vic Corley's shot from the corner at close range. The Gans clinched it in the third with fine finish around the rival goal. Switzer got the first as he tipped in Anderson's shot from just inside the blue line. Wood made it 3-1 as he backhanded home Switzer's rebound over O'Connell, the latter being sprawled after one save. This goal came in the final three minutes of hot action.

Curved Bluelines Idea For NHL

MONTREAL (CP) — A young Montreal hockey fan has come up with an idea that could add more scoring punch to the National Hockey League.

Richard Filion's "brain-wave" would alter existing straight blue lines into arcs, pointing towards defending goals. Filion, 23, maintains the virtual moving back of the blueline marks would allow wingmen to go in on an attack approximately three feet ahead of a centreman, boosting goal-scoring opportunities and eliminating many offsides.

The plan looks acceptable at first glance, but president Clarence Campbell of the NHL, asked for comment, spotted a weakness.

"My first impression of the plan was that it was very good," he said. "As a matter of fact, it still has a lot of merit.

"But there is also a basic weakness to it as far as offsides are concerned. The curved lines would cause a lot of wrangling on offside calls, because with a wingman carrying the puck and passing to the opposite wing, it is possible a double offside could occur."

Campbell indicated he would give the idea more thought.

Keep 'One-One' Free Throw Rule

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The fellows who make basketball rules have decided to keep the much-criticized "one and one" free-throw regulation until something better comes along.

They acknowledged Thursday that "a lot of people are not satisfied" with the rule but said it would have to do for another year at least.

Thus the national basketball committee of the United States and Canada, which writes the book for colleges, high schools, Amateur Athletic Union, YMCA and Canadian groups, wound up two days of conferences without making a major change.

The "one and one," adopted a year ago amid considerable misgivings, stipulates that the victim of a common foul gets two chances to make one basket until the last three minutes of the game when he gets two shots with a chance to make both good.

The common foul is one committed not in the act of shooting and until a year ago brought only a one-shot penalty. A foul on a shooter provides two free throws.

DUET—Jockey George Kindersley and his mount, Merry, are caught in remarkably similar positions as they spill over an open ditch during the Past and Present Hunters' Steeplechase at Sandown Park, London.

Providence Clips St. Louis 9-5

By THE CANDIAN PRESS

Providence Reds scored six goals in the second period to defeat St. Louis Flyers 9-5 in an American Hockey League game Thursday night.

Pete Kapusta and Ray Powell paced the Reds with two goals and two assists each. Carl Boone netted two for the Flyers.

Other tallies for the winners were by Zellio Toppazzini, Al Baccari, Johnny Denis, Ed Kryzanowski and Ken Smith. Additional marksmen for St. Louis were Lou Jankowski, Jake Forbes and Motto McLean.

In the only other game Buffalo Bisons, who are in the cellar, trimmed Syracuse Warriors 4-2.

Cal McKay led Buffalo with two goals. Will Haas, just up from St. Catharines amateurs, and Lorne Davis completed the Bison scoring. Sam Casanato and Bronco Horvath scored for the losers.

Olympic Hopes Fade For Australian Site

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's hopes of holding the 1956 Olympic Games faded almost out of sight Thursday night when Victoria Premier John Cain rejected a request for the state government to finance the building of an Olympic village.

Earlier in the day, Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies had delivered a final ultimatum to the state government, indicating that the Commonwealth would not provide housing for any extra money for construction of an Olympic village.

The housing problem has been the big stumbling block in planning to hold the 1956 games here.

Expect Record Turnout For Track Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — A record turnout is expected today at the Montreal Forum for the seventh running of the Eastern Canada indoor track and field championships.

Most of the attention will be focused on eight crack Canadian track stars from the University of Michigan's highly-touted squad and two 1952 Olympic champions. Nearly 200 athletes have entered the annual Canadian Legion meet.

George Roden, lanky Jamaican who won the 400-metre event at the Olympics and world record-holder for the distance, and Andy Stanfield of New York, 200-metre olympic champion, are entered in both the 50-yard open and the 500-yard open.

They are likely to find tough competition in the 50-yard open from two Michigan-Canadians — Ross Coates of Hamilton, junior Canadian title-holder, and Walter Sutton of Toronto.

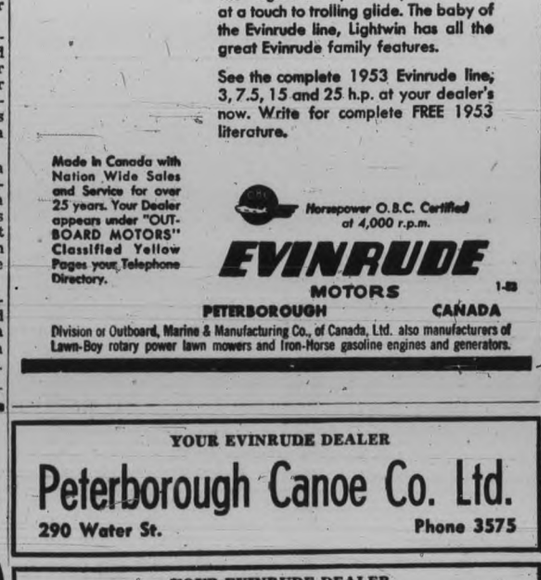
Sutton and Jackie Carroll of Montreal and the University of Michigan are entered in the 500-yard open with a field of 11 others. Carroll is Canada's top quarter-miler.

The impressive Michigan line-up also has John Ross of Oakville, Ont., a favorite in the legion mile.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Irvin (Ace) Bailey of Toronto won the NHL scoring title 24 years ago today with 22 goals and 10 assists for 32 points. The 10 teams in the league that season of 1928-29 each played 44 games and Boston defeated New York Rangers two straight in the best-of-three Stanley Cup final.



LORNE "GUMP" WORSLEY, the New York Rangers' rookie award candidate, has earned his place between the poles on the last place team through the brilliant effort he displayed in Madison Square Gardens. Gump had a tough time breaking into the NHL. For three years after graduating from Montreal junior ranks he was considered one of the best in the minors. He got his break when Chuck Rayner suffered an accident which forced him to retire. After Worsley's rather poor start at the beginning of the season Rayner was brought back but was hurt again. Since then "The Gump" has been stopping them for the Blueshirts.

Police To Escort Non-Strikers At Stratford Firm

STRATFORD (CP) — Strikers, picketing a Swift Canadian Company hatchery in the south end of the city, were advised by the Stratford police commission Thursday that police would provide escort for non-striking company employees entering and leaving the building.

Letters were sent to company and union officials from the commission.

Strikers said they inferred from the letter that provincial police would be called in to take over strike duty. There was no confirmation of this from commission members.

Police say strikers are not permitted to prevent non-strikers from entering a building. They have the right to picket "peacefully."

Strikers on the picket line told newspaper reporters Thursday night that they expect to see company trucks try to remove baby chicks from the hatchery today.

A few thousand chicks were gassed under SPCA supervision on Tuesday because strikers refused to let them be shipped out. The SPCA ordered the company either to feed them or destroy them. There were no facilities for feeding.

SPCA officers visited the plant Thursday to examine new chicks which have hatched. By tonight they will either have to be fed or destroyed.

Strikers said they believed the company was planning to "run the birds out."

Mrs. Mary Power, president of the local 307 of the United Packinghouse Workers of America said that union members worked in the hatchery when a company union agreement was first reached, and that the hatchery was included in working agreements.

W. D. Sinclair, company manager, denied the right of the union to engage in "violent, illegal picketing."

Lupus, Disorder Of The Skin, Cause Not Yet Discovered

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

With increasing frequency this column is receiving inquiries concerning a disease known as lupus erythematosus, which is commonly classified as a skin disorder even though it affects other parts of the body.

Lupus has been considered a rather rare disorder, but like others which may be uncommon for years, there is always a possibility that it will crop up more frequently as time goes by. Let us hope not.

Lupus erythematosus is a strange and peculiar disease which has been known for more than 80 years. As yet, however, the cause has not been discovered, nor is there a thoroughly satisfactory treatment, though the possibilities for treatment have looked up with the appearance of cortisone and ACTH.

The disease seems to act on a certain tissue of the body which is the binding substance for the blood vessels. This tissue is called collagenous tissue. It has been studied a good deal in recent years, but our knowledge of its functions and diseases is incomplete.

Weakness, fatigue and fever are common early signs of lupus. Unlike many diseases accompanied by fever, there is a low white-blood count—that is, a smaller than average number of white blood cells in the blood. Joint pains are fairly common. Although the skin symptoms have long been considered characteristic, they may not appear at first and sometimes the skin signs are completely absent.

Lupus erythematosus is much more common in women than in men. It may start in children as young as six or eight years old. Its diagnosis has been simplified by a rather new and ingenious laboratory test.

The fever and joint pains are generally improved by using drugs like aspirin which contain salycilates. The sulfa preparations, or at least one of them, may have some value also. Male hormones have been tried but have not been shown to have any definite effect on the course of the disease.

The skin of patients with lupus erythematosus is frequently sensitive to light and may have to be protected against the sun. ACTH and cortisone have brought some good results.

TREATMENTS ARE TRIED

Other kinds of treatments which have been tried include well-balanced diet, but not too much food. Adequate amounts of vitamins, particularly "B" and "C", have been recommended, but these do not appear to influence the underlying condition.

It is encouraging that lupus erythematosus is now receiving some concentrated study. This has been made possible in large part by the development of the rather new and quite accurate diagnostic test. Also, cortisone and ACTH have brought forth the possibility of new kinds of study of the disease, as well as treatment.

Senate Puts Off Seaway Debate For Extra Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate sub-committee Thursday postponed for at least a week its hearing on proposals that the United States join Canada in construction of the St Lawrence seaway.

The hearing, before a Senate foreign relations sub-committee, had been scheduled for March 23. Chairman Alexander Wiley said he now hopes it can be started March 30 "or shortly thereafter."

He said the sub-committee "is still waiting on reports from various interested departments of the executive branch."

President Eisenhower, meantime, told his press conference the United States might have cause for regret if Canada went ahead with the seaway on its own.

SEVERAL REJECTIONS

Congress has several times rejected U.S. participation in the proposal to open the St. Lawrence river and Great Lakes to ocean-going vessels, long considered as a joint project of the two governments. Canada announced last year that she would proceed alone if the U.S. refused to join in.

Eisenhower said he would be distressed to see Canada go ahead with the seaway project on its own. He added that if the project is economically advantageous to the United States, it is going to be built regardless of what he or anyone else thinks about it.

Senator Charles Potter (Rep. Mich.), meanwhile, wrote to the president that "a favorable expression from the executive branch at this time would assist immeasurably in clarifying this important issue."

He said the project's "economic, social, defence and political aspects are of vital significance not only to Michigan and the other lake states but to the entire nation."

Withhold Quebecers Names Members Of Commie Party

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—A long running fight against communism, waged by an official organ of the Roman Catholic Church, has broken into full-scale warfare. The heavy ammunition is supplied by a 37-year-old Irishman, a former labor organizer.

When Pat Walsh went to Louis-Philippe Roy, editor of the daily L'Action Catholique, three weeks ago with a story of Kremlin-directed plans for wartime sabotage in Canada, the editor loosed an all-out attack against communism in Quebec province.

It brought yelps of denial and veiled threats from Communist ranks and created some consternation in Quebec City, which is predominantly Roman Catholic.

WALSH CHARGES

In a series of interviews with editor Roy, Walsh named leading Labor — Progressive (Communist) party members in Canada as alleged king-pins of sabotage planning. He denounced Communist "clubs" and Communist front organizations in upper town and in lower town.

The fear that names of Quebecers might be published set the whole city talking.

Quebecers are used to public and political controversies and usually take them in stride, but this Red-tinged sensation touched traditional religious and family ties.

A family might be ostracized by the naming of one fellow-traveller or card-carrying Communist. There might be dismissals from jobs.

Red-haired Pat Walsh started the uproar with an announcement he had resigned from a number of labor organizations, which he said are Communist fronts. He said he had remained a member only to gather information about Communists and their activities.

SUPPLIED NAMES

Mr. Roy, 25 years with L'Action Catholique and editor since 1945, wrote in one of his front-page, two column stories that Walsh had supplied the names of Communiss and sympahizers. About 50 names were reported to be on the list. But later he wrote that names of Quebecers would not be published.

He gave three reasons: Many Communists belong to prominent families whose names would be besmirched; some Communists are young and divulging their names would only embitter them in their deviation;" the public welfare, at least for the present, does not require the naming of persons who are without leading influence.

Walsh says that since publication of the interviews he has been approached on the street and by telephone with requests that names be withheld.

He said there have been such threats as: "When the Red army gets here, we'll fix you."

One threat reached Rev. Pierre Gravel, parish priest in suburban Boischatel where Walsh lives, a long-time foe of Communists. He received a letter saying Walsh's statements would "justify" blowing up Father Gravel's church.

The church was placed under protection of provincial police.

DENIES WALSH CLAIMS

Frequently appearing in Walsh's interviews is the name of Gerard Fortin, president of the Canadian Woodworkers Union (Ind.). Walsh was secretary-treasurer of the union when he quit.

Fortin issued statements denying Walsh's claims. He started a $25,000 libel suit against Walsh and L'Action Sociale Limitee, publishers of L'Action Catholique.

Fortin said "the attitude and statements of Pat Walsh constitute an act of treason towards the working class, and especially the bushworkers he betrayed."

He said one of Walsh's claims—that the Canadian Woodworkers Union received orders from Moscow through Bruce Magnuson to burn forests in event of war with Russia — were "ridiculous" and "dishonest." He also denied that the workers' peace committee, of which he is president, is a Communist organization.

Magnuson, Labor - Progressive party organizer for Northwestern Ontario, described as "false and libellous" the accusation that he acted as courier for sabotage plans from Russia.

Gui Caron, Quebec organizer for the LPP, denied that Walsh was ever a member of the editorial staff of the Communist publications Combat and Action.

Tim Buck, LPP leader, termed Walsh's statements about sabotage "an invention and said Walsh "was never a member of the LPP, much less a party organizer."

In detailing his allegations Walsh said there was sabotage at nearby Lauzon when ships were built there for Nationalist China. He said there has been Communist activity at the Aluminum Company of Canada's Shipshaw development in the Lake St. John district of Quebec.

He said many of the same Communists who worked at Shipshaw now are working at the company's Kitimat development in British Columbia. He said the woodworkers' union was formed to "spread Communist propaganda and cause discontent and strikes among the bushworkers."

In a front-page editorial Mr. Roy asked: "What interest would Pat Walsh have in disclosing all his secrets and turning his back on dangerous individuals?. . . ."

POLICE INFORMATION

Premier Duplessis said information held by Quebec provincial police corroborates many of Walsh's statements.

Roman Catholic Church officials at Archbishop Maurice Roy's residence have remained silent. Father Gravel, however, told The Canadian Press he believes Walsh is "all right." After the sabotage threat against his church, Father Gravel said:

"Those who think there can be peace with the enemies of God and truth are seeking a fictitious peace and are either naive and ignorant or traitors and collaborators of a bloody heresy."

Two other French-language newspapers in Quebec, Le Soleil and L'Evenement - Journal, gave Walsh's claims front-page space. The Chronicle-Telegraph, only English-language newspaper in the city, published a few stories but editorially indicated disbelief that Walsh had been a member of Communist-front organizations only to learn about their activities.

Army Hoopsters Win British Championship

ALDERSHOT, England (CP) — The Canadian 27th brigade's basketball team from Hannover, Germany, won the British Army basketball championship Thursday by defeating a Lifeguards' team 47-30.

It was Canada's first entry in the championships, made up of teams from the United Kingdom and Germany. The squad beat the team responsible for their one loss in 34 games in Germany. Both teams are stationed with the British Rhine army.

Outstanding Canadian player was Bdr. D. C. Fromhart of Kamloops, B. C., with 15 points in the fast, even contest. The three-day series had eight teams in all.

DUKE VISITS CANADIANS—The Duke of Edinburgh, wearing the uniform of a field marshal in public for the first time, chats with L.-Cpl. Murphy, of Trenton, at the Canadian soldeirs' mess hall at Hannover, Germany. The Duke later reviewed the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade, stationed at Hannover.

Winters, Dolan Forecast Record Tourist Season

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's tourist industry is headed for another record year in 1953.

That was the forecast of Resources Minister Winters and D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, in a report Thursday to the Senate tourist committee headed by Senator W. A. Buchanan (L—Alberta).

They estimated that revenue from the tourist industry last year was between $270,000,000 and $280,000,000 from a record 26,000,000 visitors to Canada.

Mr. Winters said Canadians are showing increased interest in travel within their own country this year. Canada's advertising abroad, through paid ads and "rediscovery" of Canada by the United States, also was paying dividends. Everything pointed to a good year despite attractions abroad such as the coronation.

DISSATISFACTION

Committee members expressed some dissatisfaction about the prices for food and accommodation at Canadian hotels and about price and quality of food on the railways.

Senator R. B. Horner (PC—Saskatchewan) said the railways and restaurants seem to act like a combine by raising their prices equal amounts at the same time. Furthermore, the railways did not serve enough roast beef "although the country is full of good beef." Instead they offered roast veal or "dried up old turkey." The size of a meal "is about half enough for a hungry person."

Replying, Mr. Dolan said that complaints are brought to the attention of the railways, restaurants and tourist operators. The Canadian Restaurant Association was doing good work in impressing on members the need for good food and service.

DOLLAR EFFECT

Senator Gordon Isnor (L.—Nova Scotia) and Senator W. Rupert Davies (L—Ontario) questioned Mr. Dolan and Maj.-Gen. H. A. Young, deputy resources minister, about the effect on the Canadian tourist industry of the changed position of the U.S. dollar in relation to Canadian funds.

Gen. Young said fewer than one per cent of the letters received by the travel bureau were complaints from Americans about finding their dollar less valuable than Canadian money.

The bureau and the tourist industry tried to urge Americans to exchange their money for Canadian funds before coming to Canada. Many hotels posted notices giving the exchange rates.

CNR Predicts $400,000 Surplus For '53

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian National Railways made a preliminary estimate Thursday of a 1953 surplus of $400,000—up from $142,000 last year—but pointed to factors that might throw the estimate off widely.

The government-owned company, predicting its second peacetime surplus since 1928, forecast record revenues and operating expenses at $720,000,000 and $676,600,000, respectively in its budget tabled in the Commons.

The income figure was up by about $45,000,000 from the 1952 record of $675,000,000, and the operating expenses would jump almost $42,000,000 from last year's peak of $634,852,000.

NOT COUNTED

But the budget pointed out that the estimates take into account neither the effect of the latest freight-rate increase nor of a retroactive wage settlement reached in February, both running into millions.

The rate increase went into effect Monday, after the budget was prepared. It probably will give the CNR around $20,000,000 during 1953.

Cost of the retroactive wage settlement, giving trainmen and firemen $4,500,000 in pay to last April 1, will be taken out of 1953 revenues, since the contract was reached only after 1952 books had been closed. The budget took account of wage increases that will be paid on 1953 work, but not of that part of the settlement dating back into 1952.

Would Ban Ocean Freighters Using Seaway: McNaughton

OTTAWA (CP)—The St. Lawrence seaway will be able to handle more than 90 per cent of the world's shipping but Canada does not want the big ocean ships to use it, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said Thursday.

"The opinion is that, far from getting some of these mammoths, we want legislation to keep them out," the Commons external affairs committee was told by the general, Canadian co-chairman of the international joint commission.

Gen. McNaughton was reporting to the committee on the work of the IJC, which regulates the use of Canada-United States boundary waters, and which recently authorized the power development in conjunction with the seaway.

His reference to legislation against some ocean shipping apparently dealt with a recently-disclosed move of the federal government to have an inter-departmental committee study the question of excluding non-Canadian shipping from Canada's coastal trade. The 27-foot-deep seaway would open inland waters to bigger ships from other countries.

Gen. McNaughton said the bigger ships have a role of their own in ocean trade and were not designed for traversing waterways.

"The general feeling is that, far from wanting them in, we want them out," he said.

He told the committee the best estimate of seaway traffic is 50,000,000 tons a year, of which 20,000,000 would be iron ore. Much of the ore would be heading inland from the new Labrador ore development.

In this connection, he said it is expected ships carrying ores inland carry grain back from the Lakehead. Special vessels were being designed for this.

Life Underwriters Meet In Toronto For Convention

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Sixteen hundred salesmen today held a "pep" session.

They were life insurance salesmen meeting in Toronto for the Ontario Sales Congress under the auspices of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, probably the biggest annual gathering of its kind in North America.

Four top life insurance salesmen headed the discussions. Three were Americans—to bring the latest sales approaches from the United States.

The fourth was a Canadian-chosen because he can give pointers in any company.

He is Jack Longman, 30, of Windsor, Ont., who spent most of his first 20 years in bed because of insufficient calcium in his bones. Altogether, he has had 39 bone fractures. His bones now aren't so brittle as they used to be, but he wears braces on his legs and walks with crutches. He needs the help of a platform to reach a microphone.

Seven years ago he started to sell life insurance. Today he belongs to his company's "leaders' club."

One of his messages today was a quote:

"Dear Lord give me the strength to endure the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can change, and the wisdom to know the difference."

Joseph N. Desmond of Buffalo, a man who sells around $2,000,000 worth of life insurance a year, was one of the American speakers.

He started selling life insurance on the day in 1933 that United States banks closed. Defeatists, he said, could always find reasons why it is "impossible" to sell insurance, but those with faith continue to sell it.

Opportunities for sales in Canada he said, are almost unlimited, "with your potent growth, new frontiers, new industries, and new people."

Isaac S. Kibrick who, at 20 years of age in 1906, came to the United States from his native Ukraine to become one of the American insurance industry's success stories, spoke about insurance for business executives. He said:

"Every top executive should have an understudy, and he should have an insurance policy to pay for the mistakes which the understudy will make if he is called upon to take over.

"The strength of Canada and the United States is the 'middle-class' business man."

'Handwriting' On Wall Liquor Case Evidence

TORONTO (CP)—Lewd scribbles and the sketch of a naked woman on a washroom wall figured Thursday in a disciplinary hearing by the Ontario liquor licensing board which ended in a two-week suspension of the liquor licence of the Village Inn at Grimsby.

Proprietor Gordon Hannah said he saw the handwriting on the wall as well as the nude sketch but didn't remove them because "they would have been put on again the next day by someone else."

Said Judge W. T. Robb of Orangeville, board chairman:

"There has been inadequate supervision of the premises."

Multi-Purpose Lawyers Lost Breed: Porter

TORONTO (CP)—Lawyers who combine real estate and insurance selling with their practices are a vanishing breed.

Attorney-General Dana Porter said in the legislature Thursday night that these multiple purpose barristers, once common in small towns, are gradually disappearing.

He spoke during consideration of budget estimates for the insurance department, a small government agency operating under the attorney-general's direction.

Mr. Porter said lawyers no longer are allowed to sell insurance and real estate, to allow more people into these fields.

Plan Lift Bridge On St. Lawrence

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal to build a vertical-lift bridge across the St. Lawrence river between Prescott, Ont., and Ogdensburg, N.Y., drew disapproval Thursday before the Commons external affairs committee.

George Fulford (L—Leeds) said the bridge—a multiple-span structure with the vertical lift in the centre—was not in keeping with the idea of the St. Lawrence seaway, which would admit big ships on the river.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian co-chairman of the international joint commission, said the IJC has not yet received an application from the company proposing to build the bridge.

"If we do receive one," he added, "undoubtedly the views of the department of transport will be put forth—perhaps I can forecast—in the most forcible manner."

KILLED AT PLANT

HAMILTON (CP)—Robert Macaskill, 57, yard foreman at the Steel Company of Canada plant, was killed Wednesday night when a 900-pound rail dropped on him. He was directing operations of a derrick from the ground at the time.

Kerry Blue Terrier Best At Sports Show

TORONTO (CP)—A Kerry blue terrier, Int. Ch. Miss Showoff of Cognewaugh, owned by Mrs. M. Eileen McEachren of Todmorden, Thursday night was judged the best dog in the first of two shows being held at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

The best reserve in the show as well as the best Canadian-bred dog was a Labrador retriever owned by Robert Blyth of Streetsville.

Other prize winners included:

West Highland white terriers, open, bitches — 1. Dreamland's White Hope, Albert and Mrs. Kaye, Barrie. 2. The Tweeny of Stoew, Don and Helen M. Seabrook, London, Ont., 3. Heather, Mrs. Howard G. Gratten, Port Arthur.

Boston terriers, open, bitches, (under 15 pounds)—1. Fashionable S. Temptation, Mrs. A. W. Lock, RR1, Tecumseh.

Kitchener Man Fined

WOODSTOCK (CP)—John Brunn, Kitchener, was fined $50 and costs on a careless driving charge. The charge was laid after his car struck the rear of a bus, driving it onto the Canadian National Railway tracks on March 1. The quick-thinking bus driver moved the heavy vehicle off the track under its own power just ahead of an oncoming train.

Identify Fifth Victim

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—The fifth victim of last Sunday's King George Hotel fire here was identified Thursday as Charles Harrington, a sign painter believed from Eastern Canada. RCMP said they were trying to reach his next-of-kin, possibly in Ottawa or Montreal. The other four killed in the $100,000 blaze were previously identified as Mrs. Nina Peters, Alex Megetto, Thomas Rizuk and Henry Morgan.

She Was Laid Up With RHEUMATIC PAIN

"I had been afflicted with rheumatic attacks ever since I was a girl," writes Mrs. F. Rose, Selkirk, Man. "Four years ago I was in bed tormented by rheumatic pain and unable to work. Then I heard about Templeton's T-R-C's. Soon after I started taking T-R-C's I was able to get out of bed, and walk about and do my work. I only wish I had learned about T-R-C's years ago, for I feel they would have saved me a great deal of suffering."

This welcome relief from nagging pain can be yours. Don't suffer another day from Rheumatic, Arthritic, Sciatic or Neuritic pain. Get Templeton's T-R-C's —Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine for quick relief from such pain. Only 65c, $1.35 at druggists. T-849

ALLEGED RED—Harvey Murphy of Vancouver, head of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, (Ind.), has been called one of the "real" leaders of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party in Canada by Pat Walsh. Walsh, Quebec union organizer who resigned recently from a number of Communist-front organizations, said Tim Buck, nominal LPP leader, was "only a figurehead." Walsh claimed Murphy is a graduate of the Marx-Engels Institute of Moscow, a school for saboteurs. Murphy denied the charges.

Cavan News

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staples have returned home from Toronto where they have been visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Staples and other relatives.

Mrs. Milton Fallis fell in her home Friday and broke her ankle. She is a patient in Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

Maple syrup making is again in progress in a number of maple woodlots in Cavan and a very good run is reported.

HOUSE No. 1 built only half mile from "ground zero", lies in ruins (arrow) after the explosion. Observers, in foreground, were permitted to approach no nearer than one mile because of the intense radioactivity which remained in the area for many hours after the pre-dawn blast.

1,100 Aid Rosenbergs

NEW YORK (AP)—An estimated 1,100 persons attended a $25-a-plate dinner Wednesday night to raise funds for a clemency campaign for convicted atom pies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Firemen said they turned another 100 persons away because of over-crowding.

13th Daughter Born To Couple

PITTSFIELD, Me. (AP)—Lloyd Brooks looked at his new-born 13th daughter Thursday and decided that "if we're ever going to have a son, guess we'll have to adopt one."

But Brooks said he was nonetheless pleased with the arrival Wednesday night of eight-pound, two-ounce Lorene Avis, bringing his family to 13 daughters, the largest all-girl family in the United States.

When Lorene Avis' arrival at 6:38 p. m. EST was announced, the 37-year-old, $50-a-week textile worker dashed happily up to the delivery room of osteopathic hospital in Waterville, shouting:

"I knew it would be another girl."

Both the baby and Mrs. Brooks were reported doing well. The mother is 37 years old, stands five feet tall and weights a mere 100 pounds.

Atom-Cannon Firing Expected In Mid-May

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A series of sub-size atomic explosions during the next few weeks will pave the way for the first firing of an atomic artillery shell.

The nuclear debut of the 280-millimetre cannon is expected sometime in mid-May. The second in the series leading to the big gun shot is set tentatively for next week.

While secrecy surrounds the scientists' moves, the next shot is likely to be another tower detonation, similar to Tuesday's opening test and probably a step down in size.

Extend Special Grants Cover Homes For Aged

TORONTO (CP)—Service clubs engaged in building homes for the aged will become eligible for provincial grants if a bill introduced Thursday is approved by the provincial legislature.

The grants would total $500 for each project, which first must obtain municipal approval. To qualify for the grant the service clubs would have to operate within the provisions of the National Housing Act.

Old Convent Changed Into Pleasant Home

By JEAN E. STENTON

TAXCO. — My home in Taxco has been an old convent dating from early times and today it is the Los Arcos Hotel, one of the loveliest spots in the town. Although it is small with a capacity of only 31 rooms, it moves at a leisurely pace and few of the hurrying tourist crowd find their way between its doors.

* * * *

Built in the old Spanish style, there is a narrow hall entrance right off the street. By going down a few steps you are in a lovely patio with a pool, plants and a flowering bougainvillea. This serves as one of the dining rooms. It is the most relaxing and beautiful spot that one can imagine for your meals. The tables are set under a gallery with Moorish arches around three sides.

* * * *

Like the rest of the town, Los Arcos is built on a hill. Consequently everything in the building is on different levels which breaks the monotony of an ordinary hotel. I climb three short flights of stairs to my room which opens on a gallery above the patio. All the rooms on this floor open onto this gallery. From my windows I overlook part of the town, have a good view of three streets below, and look down into other homes and courtyards where you can see the daily life of Taxco people. In every direction I have magnificent mountain views.

* * * *

NO COMPLICATIONS

Meals are included in your hotel rate so you don't have to wrestle with a menu. There is a set meal which has always been delicious. The boys in the dining room give excellent service and all are bi-lingual. Two of them are artists in their spare time.

* * * *

The hotel is operated by Fernando and Lucy Reyes, a delightful couple. Mrs. Reyes is a nurse from Boston and when anyone in town is in trouble they call on her. Her husband is one of the leading Rotarians here. They have two children and hope before too long to send their 13-year-old daughter to school in Chatham, Ont.

* * * *

POOR TOURIST SEASON

Mexico is suffering from a bad tourist season this year. This situation is true not only in Taxco but other parts of the country as well. Mr. Reyes says it is a combination of several things: (1) the Coronation is drawing part of the crowds to England, (2) a lot of Americans are watching to see if there will be a quick end to the Korean war so that their boys will come home, (3) flu epidemic, (4) U.S. businessmen are watching to see what the tax laws will be under the new government, (5) the change in Mexican government has caused some uneasiness among foreigners.

* * * *

Business is only about 30 per cent this year of the normal trade and this is ordinarily their heavy season. The silver shops have been hard hit because they not only have a lot of material on hand, but they have to keep their artisans because each is a specialist and could not be picked up later.

* * * *

The same thing holds true in the hotels. Most of their staffs have been with them for years and they want to keep them working. This is not only because they are experienced but because of the economic effect upon the town if a lot of unemploymet developed. At Los Arcos there are 22 people employed.

Main Street Topics

FILM SHOW

A film on the lumbering industry, Modern Paul Bunyan, was shown at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting Thursday. The film was introduced by Howard Doolittle.

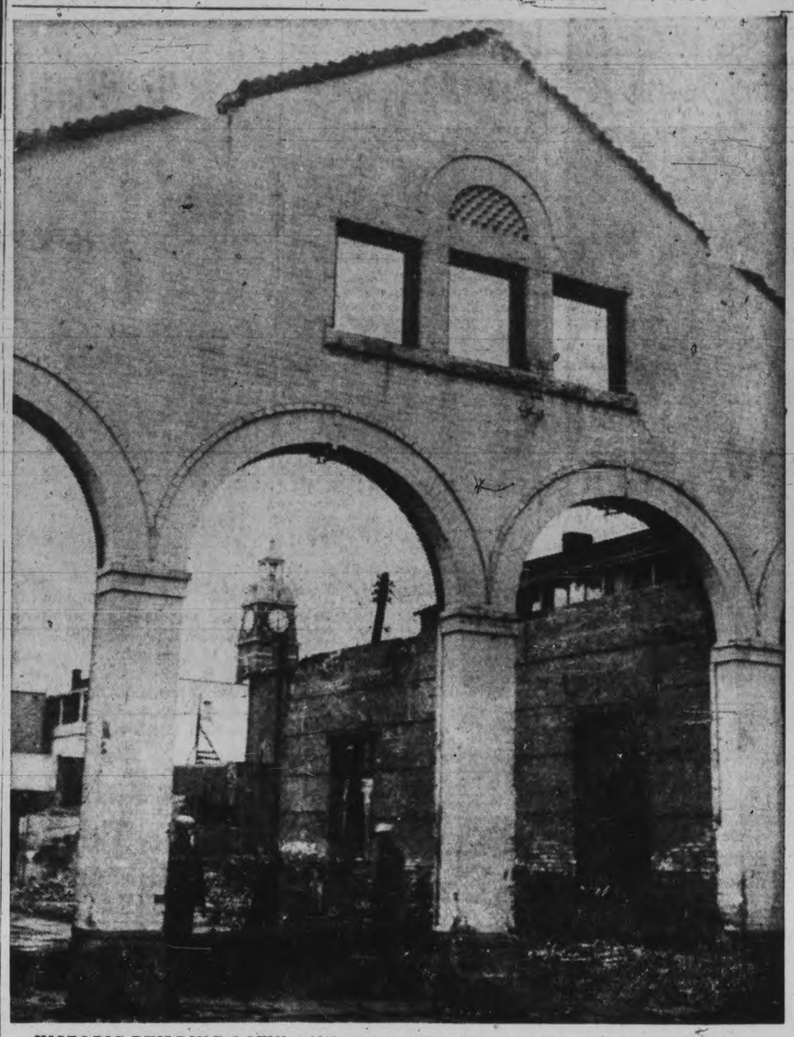
PLAN FUN NIGHT

The YMCA is holding their monthly "Fun Night" program this evening at the YMCA. There will be square and round dancing, basketball and swimming, and all young adults are cordially invited.

TWO FALSE ALARMS

Firemen made two runs in answer to false alarms Thursday night. Somebody reported smoke at Peterborough Fuel and Transfer, 134 Aylmer St., but the firemen could find nothing wrong when they arrived. Later a joker pulled the fire alarm box at Edinburgh and Bethune Sts.

BAND APPRECIATED



If anybody did more Thursday than Peterborough Citizens Band in cultivating good relations who was it? Their hour's program in the drill hall at Morrow Park on Thursday night was greatly appreciated by visitors to the Central Ontario Spring Show, and also by its directors.

ATTEND DINNER

Three Peterborough employees of Shell Oil attended the company's Long Service Award dinner Thursday in Toronto. The dinner is an annual gathering to honor those who have been employed 10 years or longer. Local men honored were F. Deller with 24 years of service, A. V. Read with 15 and S. F. Ferguson with 11 years.

FIRE CHIEF SPEAKS

Fire Chief Ralph Leonard spoke on the "History of Fire Prevention" Thursday evening at the weekly meeting of the Y's Men's Club at the YMCA. The chief also recommended that in building their own homes people adhere to the strict building standards set by the NHA. Cecil Osborne, president of the club, announced the annual meeting of Y's Men's Club would be held on 26th of March.

HISTORIC BUILDING DOWN—Although it looks like the ruins of some famous coliseum or other building in Greece or Italy, the building (above) is actually the old bus barns on King St. At one time it housed the Peterborough Radial Railway cars for years and then the Peterborough Bus Lines coaches. Four years ago it was bought by D. A. McGillis from Irwin-Godson's and for the past several years has been rented to the car dealers. Mr. McGillis decided recently to tear down the building, to clear the ground and level it off. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Freak Returns

A blackbird with a white tail made his home around the premises of Earl McIlwain, 213 King George St., for the past two springs. Today they report the bird has come back again. This oddity with his many noisy fellows is only one of the spring bird varieties coming back daily to the district.

IUE Applies For Certification At Raybestos Co.

The International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL) announced today that they had applied for certification as bargaining agents for the more than 120 production workers at the Peterborough plant of the Canadian Raybestos Co.

Raybestos workers are now represented by Local 527 of the rival United Electrical Workers.

Joe Wirtz, Canadian co-ordinator of IUE-CIO, claimed the IUE had already obtained cards indicating signed and paid memberships from a majority of Raybestos workers. The UE contract at Raybestos expires May 14.

The IUE are also making their fourth bid to become the bargaining agents for some 3,500 production workers at the Peterborough CGE plant. The two-year master contract between the company and the UE expires March 27.

WANTS ELECTION

Mr. Wirtz said that the IUE wants to see an election among both CGE and Raybestos workers. Confident of the result, he said, that there is "a fast swinging away" of locals from the left-wing UE. If Raybestos goes IUE-CIO it will be the fifth local with a membership of about 4,000, that IUE have been taken from UE in the past four months.

Others are Phillips Eelectric in Brockville, and RCA Victor, Phillips Electric and Allis Chalmers in Montreal.

Mr. Wirtz said there are two reasons for the Raybestos workers swinging from UE to IUE-CIO.

"First, UE has failed to win them a single penny increase in wages in the past 18 months. The only thing the old union managed to get from the company in that time was a 1½-hour reduction in the work week.

"Second was Communism. The Communist-domination of UE was brought home to Raybestos employees just three months ago when UE's Secretary-treasurer wrote a letter to the Raybestos local asking for a contribution to a magazine called "Champion" which is published in Toronto.

"You can imagine the resentment among the workers in the plant when they learned that this magazine "Champion" is the official publication of the Young Communist League of Canada. This was a clear-cut case of UE [illegible] to use its members' dues money to promote Communism instead of unionism."

Civic Shows Surplus In February

Report To Board Shows $5,255 Credit

Civic Hospital finished February with a credit of $5,255.20 with the help of its city appropriation, according to a report prepared by Board of Governors' treasurer T. T. Rodger.

Presented to the board Thursday night, the report indicated an overall credit of $8,007.75 on the first two months operation in 1953.

Revenue for the month before adding in the appropriation amount equalled $65,210.11 compared to expenditures of $78,754.96.

With February's share of the appropriation totalling $18,800.05, this left a credit of $5,255.20 for the month's operation.

The board budgeted for revenues to total $127,799.76 which coupled with the grant would total $165,399.86 to cover expenses. Expenses, however, came to only $153,953.18 leaving a budget surplus of $4,446.68 besides appropriation credit of $8,007.75, for the first two months of the year.

EXPENDITURES

Main item in February's list of expenditures was the salary and wage account which totalled $58,514.76. Supplies cost $3,173.82 for the medical and surgical departments and drugs and medicine, $2,590.57. Administration costs were $3,247.18, and professional care of patients, $3,140.52.

General service costs were $10,212.14 and physical plant costs, $4,561.32. Minor expenses brought the total to $85,615.15 which, with deductions for lodgings, cafeteria and other dietary revenue of $6,860.19, gave the total net expenditures of $78,754.96.

Marmora Votes To Install Artificial Ice

MARMORA (ENS)—At an enthusiastic meeting Thursday night, citizens of Marmora and district voted to have artificial ice installed in the five-year-old Marmora arena.

All of the 350 who could crowd into the Marmora town hall voted in favor of the proposal.

Before Thursday's meeting more than 90 per cent of the 400 employees of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Co. voted to contribute a day's pay to financing the project. This contribution, totalling almost $4,000, sparkplugged the idea.

The meeting was called by the Marmora and District Memorial Recreation Centre directors under the chairmanship of William A. Shannon. Many leaders of the community spoke in favor of installing the artificial ice plant.

REEVES IN FAVOR

Among these were Reeve Ritchie Wells, of Marmora village, Reeve Irwin McCoy, of Marmora and Lake townships, Reeve Charlie Buskard, of Deloro village, W. J. Barlow, clerk of Rawdon township, and Hastings county warden Jack Kincaid.

Alex Fraser, manager of the local Dominion Bank, with the aid of General Superintendent of Bethlehem Iron Mines Harold Olsen, presented a financial statement showing how the artificial plant could be obtained.

Bruce McKenzie, representing Ralph Walsh, general manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, also spoke of his company's support of the project.

About 20 leaders of local organizations and business men expressed their support. Speaking for the unions at the Deloro plant and the Bethlehem mines, Pat Bertrand and Percy Gray, Jr., expressed their enthusiastic support of the membership and said that it would be a great help to the youth of the district.

The installation of artificial ice is expected to cost about $25,000. Merchants of Madoc have already made contributions to the fund

McGillis Ready To Sell Hotel, Has $400,000 Offer

D. A. McGillis confirmed reports today that the McGillis Hotel is up for sale. Explaining that he was "tired of the hotel business," Mr. McGillis added that he has already one offer of $400,000. At the same time Mr. McGillis said that his plans for the future, if the hotel is sold, are quite indefinite. He intends to enter another business which will be operated mostly by his sons, Donald and Jerry, well-known Orfun football players. Just what business they will enter is undecided.

His 49 years as a hotel operator has taken Mr. McGillis throughout Manitoba and Northern Ontario before coming to Peterborough.

BEGAN IN WINNIPEG

He first started operating hotels in Winnipeg where he ran the Sherman, then the Bell and finally the Stock Exchange. In 1931 he moved to Red Lake where he built a hotel and worked it until 1939. Then he moved to Uchi lake, about 60 miles east of Red Lake, and about 160 north of Kenora, building once more.

Besides operating the hotel in Uchi Lake, Mr. McGillis was practically a one-man town operator. For he was postmaster, justice of the peace, storekeeper, baker, butcher, restauranteur, ration officer and registrar. He also rented a building to the Bank of Commerce.

Then in March 1943 he came south again, returning to Winnipeg for six months' rest, while his boys were attending St. Paul's College In October Mr. McGillis came to Peterborough to buy the Champlain Hotel which he promptly named the McGillis.

Raffle Illegal, Theft Charge Fails

PERTH (CP)—A county judge ruled Thursday that since a raffle is an illegal lottery, the money raised is obtained contrary to the Criminal Code. Therefore, there was no ownership and could be no theft.

Judge F. W. Wilson acquitted J. Nesbitt of Peterborough, a professional ticket seller, on a theft charge. He had been charged with stealing $1,000 from the Carleton Place Legion.

The money was raised through raffle of a car.

OSCAR WINNERS FOR 1952 were announced Thursday night at the annual Academy Award dinner in Hollywood. Three of the winners are shown here: Cecil B. DeMille, who won his first Oscar in 40 years of movie-making (centre); Shirley Booth, best actress, won hers in her first movie appearance, although she has had a long and successful career on Broadway; and Gary Cooper, best actor, for his portrayal in "High Noon."

Cecil B. DeMille Wins First Oscar In Four Decades Of Making Film Epics

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A happy Hollywood rejoiced today in honoring one of its founding fathers, Cecil B. De Mille, whose "Greatest Show on Earth" became his first Oscar winner in 40 years of epic making.

It was one of the few times Hollywood has honored one of its greats while he was still around to enjoy it.

The movie pioneer, now 72, was the big star of the silver jubilee academy awards Thursday night. A film colony audience cheered wildly in the RKO Pantages Theatre as millions more for the first time saw the ceremony via television.

De Mille's win for "Greatest Show" as the best picture of 1952 was the night's only surprise. Favorites Shirley Booth and Gary Cooper came through as predicted to take the best actress and best actor awards.

C.B. SURPRISED

De Mille, whose 70 pictures previously had won him only millions of dollars at the boxoffice, admitted he was most surprised.

"I thought 'The Quiet Man' or 'High Noon' would get it, he told reporters.

He was happiest for his daughter, Katherine De Mille, who became the first person to have a father and husband win Oscars on the same night.

She is the wife of Anthony Quinn, whose portrayal of a Mexican revolutionary in "Viva Zapata!" won in the best supporting actor class.

Gloria Grahame, also a favorite, was voted best supporting actress for her job as the flighty southern belle of "The Bad and the Beautiful."

Another veteran, John Ford, won the directing award for "The Quiet Man."

CANADIAN WINS

Canada's film industry won an Oscar. The national film board's "Neighbors" took first prize in the short documentary film class. The film was produced by Scottish-born Norman McLaren, who joined the NFB in 1939 and now is on loan to the Indian government as a teacher of cartooning and animation drawing for educational work there.

Although "Greatest Show" was a surprise—"High Noon" was the favorite—its win was not wholly unexpected. Many knew that Hollywood has never forgiven itself for letting D. W. Griffith go to his grave unhonored by the academy.

De Mille says "Greatest Show" has grossed $12,000,000 in 11 months.

Miss Booth, the blowzy housewife of "Come Back, Little Sheba," stumbled as she walked up stairs at a New York theatre to receive her Oscar from Fredric March. However, she quickly composed herself and said:

"I'm a very happy and very lucky girl. It's been a long climb and I guess this is the peak. But the view has been wonderful all the way."

ON FIRST TRY

A veteran of 28 years of Broadway acting, Miss Booth's Oscar came on her first try at movie-making.

Cooper, for 28 years on the side of movie law and order, and a strong favorite, won his second Oscar for playing the righteous marshal of "High Noon." He previously won for "Sergeant York" in 1941.

Cooper, on location at Cuernavaca, Mexico, for a new film, drawled: "I'm a hell of an actor. I get my inspiration from the people who work with me on the picture."

Academy Dinner Long, Dull, Bit Exciting

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Millions of TV viewers Thursday night saw what an academy award event is really like—a little long, a little dull, and at times exciting.

The length and dullness come from the steady procession of awards. Each year the academy seems to find new reasons for giving out Oscars. Not even the wit of Bob Hope as master of ceremonies could relieve the dullness for the general public.

But Oscar night is always exciting too. The thrills come when the major awards are handed out. Even when the winners are generally predicted, as Shirley Booth and Gary Cooper were this year, it is still thrilling to learn the real news.

BIG SURPRISE

The big surprise came with the naming of "The Greatest Show on Earth" as the best picture. No one expected that. The Cecil B. De Mille circus film was greatly enjoyed by all audiences, but the other nominees were more artistic jobs. As with last year's surprise winner, "An American in Paris," the Oscar went to the most entertaining film of the year, not the most artistic.

Star of the arrival festivities was an unidentified woman who stepped from her car and dropped a crinoline slip from under her dress. She calmly picked it up and placed it in the car while the 2,500 onlooking fans howled.

Joan Crawford, sole star nominee to appear at the Hollywood show, appeared flustered, although she claimed she had no idea of winning. She said she had bet Shirley Booth $50 that Miss Booth would win.

Vivien Leigh, the other top winner last year, was scheduled to hand the award to the best actor. She left here for England Wednesday night after suffering a nervous breakdown.

Sailor Falls Off Carrier Trying To Rescue His Hat

NEW YORK (AP)—A 17-year-old sailor, fresh out of boot camp, lost his cap—and, as the high brass fidgeted, held up manoeuvres of a carrier, six destroyers and submarines for half an hour.

William J. Bryant of Vista, Calif. was awfully excited when the 10,000-ton escort carrier Pelau started down the Hudson river Wednesday for war games.

Suddenly, his cap blew off.

Since sailors have a firm attachment for caps, Bryant chased the headgear at full run.

When he reached the end of the deck, he kept running—and fell overboard.

Bryant can't swim. That's against naval regulations but the navy said "it has been known to happen."

As Bryant splashed about, boatswain airman Thomas P. Ivory leaped to his rescue.

The Pelau tried to stop. Excitement reigned.

Finally, a passing tug picked up the men and transferred them to the carrier.

Then, half an hour after the cap flew away, the gigantic gears of the navy began to move on schedule once more and the carrier went on to sea.

They never found the cap.

Hope Brightens For Baby Chicks

STRATFORD (CP)—A ray of hope appeared today for a batch of baby chicks caught in the middle of a packing-house strike.

Officials of the United Packinghouse Workers (CCL) were to meet with police officials to discuss the possibility of taking the chicks from the Swift Canadian Company's strikebound hatchery and turning them over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Sixteen thousand chicks, starving because company employees were not allowed entry to the hatchery to feed them, were destroyed Tuesday. Company officials said 100,000 more were due to hatch soon and would likely meet the same fate.

Pickets of the union's Local 307 allowed a few company employees to enter the hatchery Wednesday and remove some chicks from the incubators but no permanent arrangement has been worked out.

Some 60 Swift employees struck March 6 for a 23-cent increase on an hourly basic wage rate ranging from 58½ to 97 cents an hour.

Toronto Doctor Fined $500 In Baby Case

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Joseph Chaikoff was fined $500 and costs Wednesday following conviction of making a false statement so that a Brooklyn couple could obtain the new-born baby of an unwed 16-year-old mother.

The conviction will be appealed.

Evidence showed that Dr. Chaikoff arranged for the baby to be delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shinder, both 39. Mr. Shinder was fined $150 and costs last week for falsifying the birth registration. The childless couple now is trying legally to adopt the blonde six-week-old baby boy.

A very pleasant evening was spent by all present and Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were the recipients of many lovely gifts in silverware.

Swallows Back

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP)—The swallows came back to Capistrano on schedule Thursday. Priests at the famous old mission said two or three arrived Wednesday and a full complement was on hand early Thursday.

Traditionally, the swallows come back to the mission about dawn on St. Joseph's Day, March 19. They dispossess the swifts which take over the nests during the winter absence of the swallows.

Section Wrong, Dismiss Charge

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — A charge of neglecting to supply the necessities of life to a child was dismissed Wednesday against Mr. and Mrs. John Overholt because the charge was laid under the wrong section of the Criminal Code.

Magistrate Johnstone Roberts said he was satisfied the couple would have been convicted "had the charge been laid under the proper section of the Criminal Code."

The charge was in connection with treatment said to have been given the couple's six-year-old daughter, Audrey. She had been in hospital here since Feb. 3 and her weight has risen from 15 to 25 pounds.

Vets' Widows Claim Pensions Inadequate

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of widows of overseas war veterans told the government Thursday that high living costs have shrunk the value of their government-paid allowances below the minimum needed to live adequately.

The Dominion council of the Canadian Nonpensioned Veterans Widows asked Veterans Minister Lapointe to increase to $60 from $50 a month the widows allowance paid them under the War Veterans Allowances Act.

The allowances are paid to widows of at least 55 years of age who find themselves in needy circumstances. Their husbands must have served in a theatre of war.

Mr. Lapointe promised consideration of their brief.

BUSHEL OF PROTESTS—Gwynedd Marshall, left, and Joyce McLean, right, carry a bushel basket full of protest against controversial Bill 71 into Ontario Legislature today. The protests, sent in by 8,000 Ontario housewives, protest, to the Institute of Edible Oil Foods against Bill 71 which would give the government of Ontario wide powers over all foods containing edible oil. The young ladies are pictured carrying the protests of the Ontario public up to Parliament Buildings in Toronto.

DeCarlo Rolls Best

Guido DeCarlo led men this week in the Mercantile Bowling League with a 328 single and a triple of 786. Marcelle Coulas had 32 to top girls in singles, while Gladys Hamilton's 736 was the best threesome for the lasses. Team high pinnage went to Braund's with a 3,139 effort.

Crowe's blanked East City, while Braund's whitewashed their opponents. Prudential won 3-1 from A & P No. 2, as Nichols took a 3-1 triumph over Neill's. Austin's and Empress split their points evenly at 2-all.

'est A-Cannon

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP)—The U.S. army's atomic cannon, a 280-millimetre howitzer, was fired on the east artillery range Thursday using regulation high explosive shells. An atomic warhead is expected to be fired from the cannon in Nevada, probably in May.

Dutchmen Grab 3-2 Series Lead

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen Thursday night took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 5-2.

The sixth game is in Kitchener Saturday.

Clare Martin spearheaded the Kitchener offensive with two goals and a solid game on defence before he was put out of action in the third period. Charlie Brooker, Maurice Leveque and Don Bauer scored the others.

Tommy Burlington tallied Owen Sound's first marker and assisted on the second by Jaydee McArthur.

Martin left the ice with little more than eight minutes remaining after he was upset from behind by Bill McComb. Martin appeared to strike his head on the ice as he fell. McComb was given a charging penalty, his third penalty of the final period.

Just before McComb's time was up, Harry Psutka of the Dutchies racked up Jerry Reid outside the penalty box. When no penalty was called, McComb yelled at referee Andy Bellemer and was promptly given a 10-minute misconduct.

Less than a minute later McArthur was jugged for hooking and Mercury captain Tommy Burlington protested so vigorously Bellemer gave him a match misconduct. The loss of Burlington and McComb, and the minor penalties to McComb and McArthur took much of the steam from the Owen Sound attack.

Ailing Vivian Leigh Home From Hollywood

LONDON (AP)—Ailing actress Vivien Leigh came home from Hollywood today with a bunch of red roses in her arms, a big smile on her face and three doctors at her side.

Her husband, Sir Laurence Olivier, was with her as she stepped down from a BOAC Stratocruiser at London airport. She suffered a nervous breakdown while making a film called "Elephant Walk" and Olivier flew to Hollywood to escort her home.

Miss Leigh posed prettily for press photographers and then departed in a waiting private ambulance. But before she left the aircraft three physicians and a nurse entered it for consultations with her and her husband.

Chiang, Adlai Meet

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Adlai Stevenson and President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China conferred 42 minutes today shortly after the 1952 U. S. Democratic presidential nominee arrived on his world tour. Photographers heard Stevenson tell Chiang: "You look like a real fighting general." They said Chiang replied: "We are working for world peace."

Need Farm Training Meet Responsibilities

TORONTO (CP) — Increased agricultural training is necessary if Ontario farmers are to meet their responsibilities, C. D. Graham, deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario, said Thursday.

In the 20-year period between 1931 and 1951 there had been a decline of about seven per cent in acreages of field crops but volume of production had increased by 26 per cent.

It has been estimated by specialists in nutrition that between two and 2½ acres are required to provide subsistence for each person. Some eastern countries now have only one-third of an acre or less per capita, he told a service club meeting.

Tapped Neighbor's TV Tapped $78 By Court

TORONTO (CP)—Morris Alter won damages Thursday against an upstairs neighbor who saved himself the cost of a television aerial by tapping Alter's.

Judge Samuel Factor awarded Alter $78 in a complaint against Thomas Donnelly, an electrician who occupies the third and top floor in a building in which Alter occupies a second-floor apartment.

Alter's counsel, Charles Drukarsh, said Donnelly "drove screws into my client's aerial so neatly that they looked like just another support" and servicemen couldn't find what the trouble was.

Fled, Caught, Sentenced

HAMILTON (CP)—Paul Perry, recaptured a few minutes after escaping from central police station last week, was sentenced Thursday to two months on the escaping charge. He was also sentenced to two months for shoplifting. Perry jumped from a second-storey window to the top of a parked car in his bid for freedom.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A new discovery of prehistoric human bones in Mexico was announced Thursday. Cesar Lizardi Ramos of the national archaeological institute said the bones appeared to be from 9,000 to 11,000 years old. They were found just outside Mexico City by Dr. George C. O'Neill of Columbia University, New York.

Mr. Ouimet also announced several other appointments.

TOKYO (AP)—Twenty Japanese workers were missing today after the cave-in of railroad tunnel under construction on Kyushu Thursday night.

Thirty-four others were rescued during the night and one body was recovered. The 55 workers were trapped when 30 yards of the tunnel collapsed more than a mile from the entrance.

Charge NS Gov't With Broad Payroll Padding

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Nova Scotia government Thursday was accused of padding payrolls.

T. A. Giles, Progressive Conservative member for Cumberland West, said in the legislature that padding of payrolls is widespread.

He said he has received enough complaints to raise what he termed grave doubts on whether everything is "on the up-and-up" regarding highway foremen.

Highways Minister Rawding said the accusations are without foundation. There are many petty complaints but his department tries to investigate all those which appear to warrant it.

G. I. Smith (PC-Colchester) joined the debate and said one payroll had listed an elderly man with a withered arm and a 76-year-old pensioner as laborers.

GET MORE HELP

Alberta's municipalities has had more help from its Social Credit government than municipalities in any other province, Premier E. C. Manning said in the legislature at Edmonton.

A three-point program for educational reform in Manitoba was urged in the legislature. Duff Roblin (PC-Winnipeg South), speaking on education estimates, asked for a minimum salary of $2,000 or $2,200 for teachers, better teacher training and using the increased educational grant, recommended by the provincial-municipal committee, as an inducement to organize municipal school districts.

At present, there is no minimum salary for teachers in Manitoba.

The Saskatchewan legislature unanimously passed a resolution asking the federal government to provide for the voluntary check-off of annual dues by farmers to the three Prairie farm unions.

In the Newfoundland house, Premier Smallwood said the government hasn't disposed of its shares in the Newfoundland and Labrador Corporation, nor does it intend to sell them to private buyers.

Battle Eviction, Three Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—Three bloody and bruised men were arrested today after a pitched battle with police over an eviction.

Police said Frank Christopher, 38, and his brothers Tom, 47, and Rocky, 32, will be charged with obstructing bailiffs. Jean Christopher, 24, daughter of Tom, was taken to police station.

The fracas began when bailiffs, accompanied by 10 policemen, tried to evict the family of Mrs. Anna Christopher, 67, from the west-central Toronto home in which she has lived for 50 years.

Urged on by neighbors, Mrs. Christopher's sons grappled with the policemen. The fight ended when the men, with two or three officers holding each, were taken to the patrol wagon.

The Christopher family has refused to leave the property, which is being expropriated by the city to straighten a street jog, on the grounds that the city is not offering a fair price. The city is offering $23,000 for three properties assessed at $22,000.

To Organize 4-H Club In East Peterborough

NORWOOD (ENS)—East Peterborough Junior Farmers met in the auditorium of Norwood District High School with a good attendance. In the absence of the president, Shirley Brown was in charge of the meeting.

It was decided to organize a 4-H grain club in connection with the high school, a tractor maintenance club, a 4-H calf club and swin clubs.

The Peterborough West Junior Farmers provided the program. Francis Walsh gave a pleasing speech on the different problems in club work.

Four members of the Peterborough club, assisted by Ken Best, presented an amusing mock executive meeting, conducted first in the wrong way and then in the right manner.

Dancing followed and a delicious lunch was served.

Sir Walter Scott wrote his famous novel "Guy Mannering" within six weeks in 1815.

Coins Of Queen Best Sellers

OTTAWA (CP)—As far as Canada's mint is concerned, Queen Elizabeth is a best seller.

The mint reported Thursday that demand for the new sets of coins bearing her likeness has been "extraordinary" but that there should be plenty available at the banks.

The demand has even reached the stage where a New York department store is publishing ads saying "Gimbel's and Canada scoop the Coronation."

Gimbel's bought 500 sets of the coins—ranging from pennies to a silver dollar—and is selling them for $4.50.

The set, nominally valued at $1.91, can be had here for $2—nine cents more than the collection actually is worth. The extra nine cents pays for mounting them.

The mint was selling bulk orders of the mounted sets but can't do it anymore, officials say.

The reason: the mint is too busy.

Parish Presents Irish Program

MARMORA — (ENS)—Despite various counter attractions, including the exodus of a large number of hockey fans to Belleville that evening, the St. Patrick's programme arranged on Tuesday evening met with a goodly patronage and those in attendance had a good evening's amusement in keeping with the reputation the Sacred Heart Dramatic Group.

The programme commenced with a medley of Irish songs by the Holy Name choristers, William Shannon, Leonard Begley, Joseph Murray, E. McNamara, Carl Johnston and Michael Fosestell.

Rosemary Brady executed an Irish jig in Irish costume. This was followed by a recitation, "Pat's Dilemna" by Marmora's own comedian, James Black.

A skit "Off to Dublin Town" was well sustained by Brenadette Warren, Rosemary Brady, Dianne Belanger and Bernadette Auger. Susan Callery sand "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

An instrumental trio comprising Charles Brady, saxophone; Mrs. Carl McCoy, piano and Ford Woodhouse, traps, played some Irish airs.

Mary Lou and Rosemary Brady took part in a novelty tap dance. Rev. T. G. Scanlan added diversion with a harmonica solo.

The final number was a specialty, "A Gift from Ireland" with the following cast: Mrs. Rose Brawley, Misses Cecile and Verna Black, Jean Cook, Anne Clairmont, Wilma McKinnon and Agnes Fosestell.

The second part of the programme consisted of a film "Never Take No for an Answer." Parts of this film which centred on an Italian boy and his mule, showed actual scenes in Rome and Assisi. Chairman for the evening was C. T. Nicholson.

Sand-Carrier Skipper Wins Toronto Topper

TORONTO (CP)—Capt. R. F. Lawson Thursday received the traditional harbormaster's hat as skipper of the first ship into Toronto harbor this year.

He brought the sand-carrier Charles Dick from Port Weller to the Harbor Brick Company dock here.

A harbor commission official said the 125-year-old topper—it was brought from England in 1828 — "is pretty raggedy now." the topper was placed on every winning Captain's head and he was given enough money to buy his own hat, the official said.

Capt. Lawson won the honor three times previously.

Boss's Eating Habits Said Faulty As Skinny Steno's

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff writer

That skinny steno who skips breakfast—lunches on soda pop and French fries—isn't going to be chastised today.

It's the turn of the "plump" middle-aged business man in the swivel chair and the University of Toronto's assistant professor of household science, Margaret McKellar, shakes the warning finger.

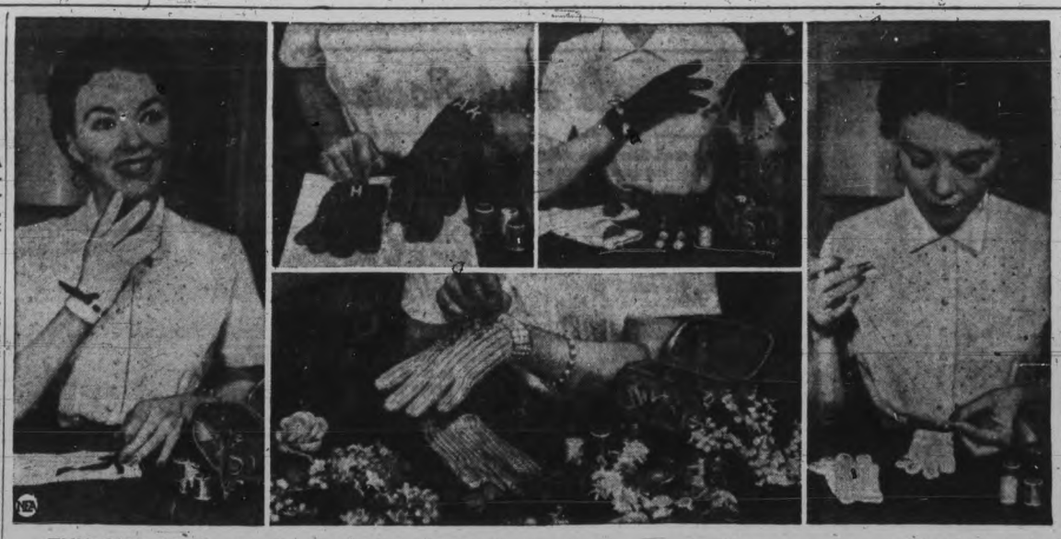
To begin with he'll hide behind that "natural middle-age thickness, or heaviness" line but truth is that he has as many faulty eating habits as his steno.

"Rushing through his meals, particularly breakfast and lunch, is one bad habit many of them have," says Professor McKellar.

Frequently he isn't more than half a piece of toast and a cup of coffee ahead of his steno's breakfast menu. He perhaps feels this will help him to lose weight, but by lunchtime he's good and hungry.

Also there's a tendency to go too hard on the fried foods at lunch. A popular lunch is steak, fried potatoes, not much emphasis on vegetables, perhaps a spoonful of peas, ice cream and pie and a quick dash back to the office.

SAME OLD ROUTINE



Your business man isn't a great one for variety either. He may have the same lunch three days running. He won't mind too much if he has practically the same thing for his evening meal.

When he leaves his office, climbs into his car and drives home, he may draw envious glances from the laborer, who with his lunch pail, fights his way onto a street-car.

However, Professor McKellar notes, the envy might swing in the other direction as far as health and weight are concerned.

It is generally known, she says, that income doesn't mak ethe difference in preventing poor health and overweight that it should.

THIS GIRL ADDS originality to her gloves in a spring that's seeing gayer accessories than in many seasons. She threads velvet ribbon in color to match her suit through cuffs of knit glove with somewhat open stitch (left). She sews flower sprigs to her knit gloves (centre), a sprig at the cuff of one, a spray down the centre of the other. She pins rhinestone monograms to a pair of dark knits (top centre, left) and sews cones of millinery straw (to match her hat) to the cuffs of lacy black knits (top centre, right). She makes an Easter gift for a small child friend by sewing Alice-in-Wonderland charm to the fingertips of each white knit glove (right). If you intend to decorate your knit gloves, be sure to use elastic thread. If you haven't any, sew while gloves are stretched.

Boiling Water During Birth Keep Father Occupied

TORONTO (CP)—Pert Barbara Maxwell says Matachewan, Ont., has "a car outside of every tarness man's menu for a day are:

One serving citrus fruit, one serving whole grain cereal, one serving meat or fish, one potato (if he is not overweight) two vegetables, one of them raw, and a pint of milk.

He should also have from three to five eggs a week and put up a resistance to large pieces of rich pastry for his desserts.

As a final warning, Professor McKellar unleashed a few statistics:

"The figures for overweight individuals are startling.

"For those who are five to 14 per cent overweight the death rate is 22 per cent above that for those of ideal weight. When 15 to 24 per cent overweight the rate is up 44 per cent. When 25 per cent or more overweight the death rate is 74 per cent above that for those of deal weight!"

paper shack."

That's her capsule description of the little mining town, some 30 miles southwest of Kirkland Lake, where she has been stationed as a Red Cross nurse since last October.

The attractive 23-year-old nurse, here for the 33rd annual meeting of the Ontario division of the Red Cross, said she left six feet of snow behind.

"The roads are always kept open and you really need a car to get around. But it amazes me to see these little places that haven't even got curtains at the window, but have a car parked outside," said Barbara.

Babies take up a good deal of Barbara's time.

"You're on call 24 hours a day and although 15 or more babies have been born since I've been in Matachewan, the stork only managed to make two of them daytime flights."

Barbara, a graduate of the University of Toronto's school of nursing, disclosed why so much water is boiled when a baby is born.

"It keeps the father occupied."

The rugged life doesn't necessarily keep people slim and fit. At the moment Barbara has a watchful eye on a 200-pound miner she's put on a diet.

"He was eating a loaf of bread a day, too," she said.

"Overweight is quite a problem up there just as it is in large cities today."

Teeth, too, are a serious problem, she said. "Partly because of poor eating habits, but also because of distance."

"We have a doctor in Matachewan and he pulls teeth, but it's 75 miles to the nearest dentist to get them filled."

Barbara said that she had quite a few Indians on her list, but mostly French Canadians.

"Many of them work at lumbering or in the gold and copper mines," she said.

Barbara said her French wasn't too good but that she knew how to tell a prospective French father to boil water.

WATCHES OF THE MIDDLE AGES were more decorative than practical. Ten-point, star-shaped watch (left) was made in the early 1600's, had only one hand, which indicated the hour. Modern version (lower centre) has easily read dial with gold dots replacing numerals. Odd-looking rabbit (upper centre) is 17-century time-piece with solid silver watch movement inside. Paws lift to reveal dial. Present-day version (right) is lapel watch in form of gold parrot. This has dial concealed inside.

Four young ladies were accepted into the Community of the Sisters of St. Joseph, Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough, in the religious ceremony of reception held Thursday. After the Mass, four young ladies robed in bridal costumes, indicative of worldly splendour, approached the altar railing to ask from His Excellency, the Bishop, acceptance into the Community of the Sisters of St. Joseph. This granted, they filed from the Chapel, while the choir sang the traditional "Go Ye Forth, O Sion's Daughter", to return later wearing their religious habit. These young ladies were:

Miss Helen McDonell (Cornwall), to be known in religion as Sister Mary Elizabeth; Miss Paula Meyer (Wainwright, Alta.) Sister Mary Paula; Miss Jean Kelly (Vancouver, B.C.), Sister Mary Bernardine; Miss Geraldine Soaft (Belleville), Sister M. Mercedes.

Sister Mary Wilma from Viking, Alberta; Sister Mary Augustine from Charlottetown, P.E.I.; Sister Mary Donalda from Ottawa; Sister Mary Doreen from Ottawa; Sister Margaret Mary from Peterborough; Sister Agnes Rose from Lindsay; Sister Francis Marie from Maxville, Ontario.

Sister St. Leonard from Ottawa, pronounced Final Vows. At an earlier Mass eight Sisters renewed Vows for one year.

Reverend W. Murphy, C. Ss. R., Montreal, who preached an eight day Retreat to the Sisters of Mount St. Joseph, delivered an eloquent sermon for this solemn occasion.

Besides the clergy officiating during the ceremony, the following clergy were present in the Sanctuary: Right Reverend J. V. McAuley, P.P., Lindsay; Right Reverend P. Butler, P.P., Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough; Reverend J. McGuire, Rector, St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough; Reverend A. O'Neill, Ottawa; Reverend J. O'Donnell, C.Ss.R.; Very Reverend J. The bride's gown was exquisitely designed of white pleated nylon tulle with inset of lace at the waist. Surplice effect in the bodice formed a vee neckline and the sleeves were short. The bouffant skirt fell over a crinoline. She wore a matching headpiece edged in seed pearls and a fingertip veil and she carried a spray of white spring flowers.

Maid of honor Miss Lillian Sokolsky was in an ankle length gown of shrimp tulle and wore a small hat of matching tulle. She carried a spray of blue and white spring flowers. Groomsman was Mr. Aaron Black of Peterborough, brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Trefler chose a gown of blue organza and wore a hat of matching blue flowers and a wristlet of white spring flowers. The groom's mother was gowned in orchid organza and her hat was of lilac flowerets. She had a wristlet of mauve and white spring flowers.

Going away the bride wore a powder blue suit with blue poodle cloth shortie coat, a navy straw hat and navy accessories.

TEEN-AGE SOCK FASHIONS for spring are literally putting on the dog. From Fido they've taken the dog collar and turned it in to what's now known as the sock collar.

This sock collar is in sturdy plastic, is adjustable and has a simple name plate that can take a teen-ager's name or her initials, those of her beau or of her sorority.

It comes in an assortment of colors, of course, and is worn in company with a sock that's meant for it. This is soft, combed white cotton yarn with heavy triple-roll cuff. The girl wears both (above left).

Another highlight of the spring sock collection for teen-agers is the brand new stretch sock with the real appeal of magic fit. This is in nylon yarn treated for extraordinary elasticity.

Flexibility permits the sock to stretch to several times its normal size (above right), thus creating a new concept in both fit and sizing. This sock comes in two sizes only: medium and large. And it makes for a smooth, custom fit that eliminates both binding and snagging.

MARMORA SCHOOL

MARMORA (ENS)—The monthly meeting of Marmora Home and School Association held in the public school on Wednesday evening was marked with a good attendance the president, Mrs. Ray Frost, being in the chair.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. James Heath on behalf of the local unit of the Women's Teachers' Federation of Ontario for the serving of refreshments at their February meeting.

The president reported that "Men's Night" would be observed at the April meeting with male members of the Association filling the offices for the evening. Due to there being an insufficient supply of cups and saucers for use in the refreshment period, she suggested that a cup and saucer shower might be a feature of that same meeting.

James Sproul said nomination forms were being mailed to members.

The parents of scholars of grade 6 were asked to provide and serve lunch at the next meeting. Attention was also drawn to the camp to be held at Orillia in June for Home and School Association leaders.

W. J. Cottrell introduced the guest speaker, Rev. K. J. Crawford, BA, BD, who gave an illustrated talk on The Holy Bible for Common Folk. He was thanked by the president.

The attendance of parents and grandparents was taken by E. C. Prentice, school principal. Honors were divided between the rooms taught by Mrs. James Heath and Mr. J. Trombley.

Funds of the association were augmented a few moments later as B. G. MacKenzie auctioned some home cooking, fruits, pickles and novelties donated by members.

The program concluded with a spelling match in which Miss Hilda Henderson was winner. The meeting closed with the National Anthem after which refreshments were served and a social half-hour spent.

Facts About Communism Given By James Fraser

The simple facts of communism and the simple way in which this menace to the democratic way of life is being infiltrated into Peterborough homes were outlined to the Local Council of Women Thursday by Mr. James Fraser, secretary-manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Fraser spoke quietly to an audience of about 25 housewives who it is hoped have been stirred to constructive thinking by the scaring import of his statements. He read to them the declaration "to oppose the menace of communism" which has been adopted by the business men in 670 Chambers of Commerce in Canada, and suggested that a similar policy declaration might be made by the Council of Women.

One way in which the women may work in opposition is in friendliness to the newcomers from communist countries Mr. Fraser pointed out. These people have been forced into cliques by language barriers and are now forming foreign language clubs in Canada which are "nothing

DOROTHY DIX:

Antagonism Now Lessening In Mother-In-Law Issue

The omnipresent mother-in-law problem is far from being one problem; it is a difficulty of many facets multiplied by the variety of angles from which it can be viewed.

Whenever I print a letter from a neglected mother-in-law, I am beseiged by mail from young wives protesting that I am presenting only one side of the story. On the other hand, an article warning young brides about domineering mothers-in-law results in a stack of pathetic missives from mothers whose sons are being lured away from them by heartless brides.

And so it goes. There is right and wrong on both sides. Fortunately, it would seem that the antagonism between mothers- and daughters-in-law is lessening. This is in large measure due to the fact that older women are beginning to realize that life does not stop with the marriage of a beloved son. Since I feel that understanding should begin with the mothers-in-law, their position is the one I'd like to consider first, with the lesser problems falling into place in due time.

QUITE A SHOCK FOR MOTHERS

From the time her son is an adolescent, a mother should prepare herself for his eventual marriage. To many mothers, the announcement that Tom, Dick or Harry has acquired a girl and is beginning to look at diamonds comes as a complete shock. Admittedly, it's no fun to have your job snatched from you. A woman who has spent twenty or twenty-five years bringing up her children is bound to feel at a loose end when they marry and leave her. Through some quirk of nature, mothers are far more resentful when their sons marry, than when their daughters become brides. Perhaps a generation or two ago, the comparatively lonely mother had nothing to do but fold her hands and spend much time lamenting her new living conditions. Today, the picture has changed greatly. Women in their forties, fifties and sixties are no longer back numbers. They are efficient, well-groomed, active and alert-minded; they may often offer competition to their young daughters-in-law in most fields. Why should they feel let down over a son's marriage? Surely it is much more reasonable to expect that the two women most concerned over a man's welfare should get along together! Perhaps the point is that they are actually much more concerned with the gratification of their own vanities than they are about the man they both love.

NO INTERFERENCE

When a young man takes his marriage vows at the altar, his mother, sitting in her front pew, should make a few vows of her own. She should prayerfully hand her son over to his bride without reservations. She should prepare to accept the girl into her heart and home completely. "No interference" is, of course, a cardinal rule for good mothers-in-law, and so is the resolution to be around when needed.

She must be resigned to the fact that for the first year or two, the young couple will have little need to call upon her, and she'll feel awfully neglected. Comes a time in every household, however, when no substitute can be found for the experienced hands of a good grandmother. As the family grows, a closer relationship is established between the young mother and the older one, and often a better understanding between the young husband and his mother.

Taking sides in quarrels is taboo; in fact, it's better not to know about the quarrels. And NEVER, NEVER compare one daughter-in-law with another, or with a daughter. Each girl has her own ideas of housekeeping and bringing up children. She's entitled to them, and a tactful mother-in-law respects each set of standards.

AGE, EXPERIENCE COUNT

The extent to which a mother keeps the love and respect of her son after he marries, largely depends on her attitude toward his wife. If that is pleasant and harmonious, all is well. Otherwise, all is friction and tears.

"Why?" asks the indignant mother-in-law, "is the responsibility for being friendly with my daughter-in-law up to me? Surely she should make an effort to meet me halfway."

Well, the girl's part in this reciprocal arrangement will be taken up later, but the initiative is largely up to the older woman because she IS older, knows more of life and human nature, has, or should have, acquired through years of living the tact, discretion and self-control needed to cement a delicate relationship.

Why should the term "mother-in-law" carry so much opprobrium? So many things are being changed in this generation that it's about time a Bill of Rights was adopted by mothers-in-law to clear their names. A real welcome to the new bride is a long stride toward overcoming any preconceived, erroneous notions the young lady may have had about her husband's mother. Then, as time goes on and the hysterics, lamentations, interference, and unsought advice fail to materalize, the young wife will realize that a friend's dire predictions were all wrong. "John's mother is easy to get along with; in fact, she's a darn good friend!" this happy daughter-in-law reports.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: When I was a child my mother made delicious flax-seed or linseed cookies. She died before I married and with her the recipe for those wonderful cookies. I have searched in vain through many cookbooks for a recipe the cookies were crisp drop ones with the linseed baked through them. Could you perhaps give me a recipe I might try?
MRS. ROY B.

ANSWER. I nearly hunted in vain too but I finally got a clue, I have not tried these but they come from a very dependable source.

SEED COOKIES
(using anise, caraway or linseed)

One-half cup butter or shortening less 1 tablespoon. 1 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, ½ cup sour milk, about 2¼ cups flour, ½ teaspoon each soda, salt and vanilla. Almond flavoring is better than vanilla when linseed is used. The amount of any of these seeds is optional—use from ¼ to ¾ cup; adding most of the seed to the dough, but reserving a few to sprinkle over top. Cream butter well, beat in the sugar until mixture is very creamy then beat in the egg Sift the flour with the salt and soda and mix in. Add flavoring. Amount of flour depends on your taste. Drop from teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 8 minutes. In some seed cookie recipes the seeds are pounded to a pulp or put through nut grinding knife of food chopper twice. I hope this recipe helps you.

QUESTION: . . . have had much success with your recipes . . could you please print a recipe for Potato Pancakes? Also a moist chocolate cake? MRS. C. D.

ANSWER:

POTATO PANCAKES

Three medium-sized raw potatoes, 1 tablespoon each flour and cream, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt. Grate the pared potatoes directly into the cream and flour and egg and salt. Stir the mixture as you grate to prevent potatoes browning. Cook by spoonfuls in heavy frying pan in hot fat, flattening the cakes a little with the turner when you turn them over.

MOIST CHOCOLATE CAKE
(fluffy too)

Cream together until light and fluffy 2-3 cup soft shortening and 1½ cups sugar, then beat in 3 unbeaten eggs. Melt 2½ squares (2½ oz.) unsweetened chocolate and stir them in. Sift cake flour and measure 2¼ cups and sift it with 1 teaspoon each soda and salt. Stir the flour mixture into the first mixture alternately with 1¼ cups butter milk (or sweet milk if you have no sour or buttermilk). Pour into 2 greased layer cake tins or square or oblong pans which have been dusted with flour too. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. Layers require 30 to 35 minutes; square or oblong 40 to 45 minutes.

QUESTION: . . . last year I used your recipe for sweet pickled pork, but have lost it . . thanking you,
MRS. R. K.

ANSWER:

SWEET PICKLED PORK

These amounts will "sweet-cure" 50 lbs. fresh pork. Use hams, shoulders bacon (sides and back), fat back and tongues if desired.

For every 50 lbs. fresh pork weigh out 5 lbs. salt, 1¼ lbs. brown sugar, 1 oz. saltpetre. Rub these together well, taking care that the saltpetre is finely powdered. Dissolve them thoroughly in 2 gallons boiling water. Let this cool thoroughly.

The pieces of meat to be cured should be trimmed free of all corners and tag ends then every surface rubbed with salt. Place it in a cool place overnight. Next day pack it in a clean barrel or clean large earthen jar, with heaviest pieces of meat at bottom, bacons and tongues at top. When first solution is cold pour it over the meat packed in barrel. It should cover the meat at all times. The meat should be weighted down by covering it with a large heavy plate or wooden cover weighted down, to make sure meat is immersed. If brine shows signs of fermenting during the process it should be drawn off, boiled, cooled, and then poured back over meat. Bacons and tongues require from 4 to 6 weeks; lighter hams and shoulders 6 to 8 weeks; heavy hams 8 weeks. After curing they may be washed in warm water then hung in smokehouse and smoked.

No Money To Pay Fine Man Jailed One Month

Forrest Johnston, 53, of Bridgenorth went to jail for one month when he failed to pay a fine of $50 and $2.50 costs in Magistrate's Court Thursday.

Before Magistrate W. Russell Philp, on a drunk charge, Johnston was found guilty on the count for the second time in one month. The first charge was laid February 21, and the second Wednesday.

Welland Workers Pick CIO Union As Agent

WELLAND (CP) — Employees of the Plymout hCordage Company here selected the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) as their bargaining agents in a vote conducted Thursday by the Ontario labor relations board.

The union received 98 votes. Fifty ballots were cast for the plant's Employees' Association which previously acted as bargaining agent.

Average Number Of Civic Patients Jumps To 211.2

Daily average number of patients in Civic Hospital for February leaped almost 30 over the January average to 211.2, according to a report made by Superintendent John Hornal Thursday to the hospital's board of governors.

At the end of the month, 194 patients were in residence at the hospital, compared with 145 at the end of January.

In January, however, 458 patients were admitted, 17 more than in February. Sixty-two births were recorded last month, 20 more than the previous month. The hospital's communicable disease division handled 32 patients compared with 25 in January.

Accomodation was improved in February, the repost indicated. January saw 57 patients for whom suitable accomodation could not be provided while the February figure dropped by nine.

275 OPERATIONS

During the month, 275 operations were performed in the hospital and 76 transfusions given, compared with 279 operations and 75 transfusions the preceding month.

In Feburay, 226 nursing days were recorded, four below the figure for January, in administrative and supervisory work. Nursing services took 461 days compared with 508 the month before and general duty nursing days numbered 1,002—91 under the January figure.

Student seniors put in 697 days, intermediates, 355 days and juniors, 736 days. Twelve intermediate nursing students are on duty at other hospitals, six at the Sick Children's in Toronto and six at the Ontario Hospital, Whitby.

Total number of bedside hours provided by hospital personnel and special duty nurses was 22,962.5, an average of 820.08 a day, or slightly under four hours per patient.

Excluding special duty nurses, the total number of hours spent per patient per day by hospital personnel was 3.58.

Marmora Votes

needed even though Madoc has a natural ice rink of its own. From this indication, it is expected that the whole district will support the proposal.

$10,000 COLLECTED

Before the meeting had closed, $10,000 had been collected and further contributions assured. This figure includes the $4,000 being contributed by the Deloro workers.

At present 1,800 can be crowded into the arena. An addition will be made at one end to house the ice-making plant and tiers of seats will be installed above it adding about 250 to 300 seats to the capacity.

As soon as the land around the arena has dried up, a start will be made using the $10,000. This will lay a cement floor on the ice surface and install the pipes in it. The arena can then be used during the summer to hold events to raise more money to complete the venture.

WILLIAM LETTAU

William Lettau Bell Manager

William Lettau, of Toronto, has been appointed Bell Telephone manager for Peterborough, it was announced today. He succeeds E. G. (Al) Baker, manager here since January, 1950, who has been transferred to Toronto as company right-of-way supervisor.

In addition to his Peterborough duties, Mr. Lettau will have supervision over the company's business offices in Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Lakefield, Norwood and Omemee.

With 24 years' service with the Bell Company, Mr. Lettau brings a wide knowledge of various phases of the telephone industry to his new position.

Born and educated in Toronto, he joined the company there in April, 1929, and in June, 1939, was appointed a service representative. Remaining in Toronto, he was transferred to the company's sales department in April, 1943, and in September, 1944, was appointed a staff assistant in the Central Ontario district office. In January, 1946, he was appointed manager of the company's downtown Toronto business office. For the next six years he was manager of a group of exchanges in Toronto. Since May, 1952, he has been supervisor of methods in the company's area commercial office there.

Obituary

THOMAS HENRY THOMPSON

Thomas Henry Thompson, 82, 740 Hurley St., died in a Peterborough hospital Thursday following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Thompson was born in Cavan, son of the late Hamilton Thompson and Eliza Nixen, and has lived in Peterborough for the past five years. Formerly he lived in Centreville.

A retired farmer, he was a member of Fraserville Orange Lodge and the Millbrook IOOF 308 for more than 25 years.

Mr. Thompson has no surviving close relatives. A brother, W. Robert Thompson of Centreville, predeceased him two years ago.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. from the MacPherson funeral home, Millbrook and will be under the auspices of the Millbrook IOOF. The Rev. W. H. Heustin of Millbrook Presbyterian Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Fraserville cemetery.

276 Patients Discharged

A total of 276 patients were discharged, recovered, from the Civic Hospital during January, Dr. R. M. Matthews, chairman of the hospital's medical staff said Thursday evening in presenting the Medical and Surgical Advisory Committee report to the Board of Governors.

Two hundred and twenty-four patients were discharged improved while only six showed no improvement when released.

The purchase of a croupette, recommended by the committee, was authorized by the board which also accepted the Women's Auxiliary offer to purchase a second.

Croupettes which have recently replaced steam tents are used in the treatment of throat and nasal diseases. The hospital already has two and will spend $288.50 in the purchase of a third. This combined with the WA donation, will bring the total to four.

See Precedent Setting In Rejection Of Appeal

SUDBURY (CP)—In a judgment which lawyers say may have far-reaching effects on municipal assessments of railway properties, Judge Albert St. Aubin has turned down an appeal by the Canadian Pacific Railway against a suburban McKim township assessment for a sewer project.

The railway contended that, because it receives no benefit from the sewer, it should not be assessed. With 1,190 feet of land involved, its payment amounts to $7,080.

Judge St. Aubin said in his ruling the fact an owner does not build on his land should not entitle him to an exemption.

Facts About

more or less than undercover groups of communists" he said.

"Communism is a way of life based on the manifesto written by Marx 100 years ago" explained Mr. Fraser. Reading from the manifesto he showed the women that under communist government they could not own any property; all rents would go to the state; there would be very heavy income tax; abolition of all rights of inheritance; confiscation of all property of immigrants or rebels; a national bank at the state capital with exclusive monopoly; centralization of means of communication and transportation in the hands of the state; farmers would be told what to plant and when; all people would have to work; an army would be maintained; there would be free education for all children.

The communists do not plan to invade Canada Mr. Fraser told the ladies. "They have people here now who are working for the revolution. The plan is infiltration, creating a strong fifth column, and an army of spies and enemy agents to transfer secret information to Russia. Their only loyalty is to communism," he said.

Infiltration through trade unions is one definite way in which communists plan to take over Canada. Mr. Fraser said these trained union men are experts at stalling, and can stall the issue of a meeting until the lethargic, non-communist members get tired and go home, then hold the vote and put through the amendments they want. They seek to embarrass industry wherever possible, to destroy free enterprise.

The speaker startled some with the information that a union head working locally is known to have been trained in Moscow. He pointed out that any delay in manufacture of equipment for Korea is an achievement by the communists. "These people are trained in the filthiest manner possible" he said.

Mr. Fraser concluded his address by listing some of the conditions of life which the Russians now endure under communist rule: 94 per cent of the people of Moscow live in one room; wages are set by their red bosses, all on a sweated labor base; unions may not strike; lateness for work makes one liable to forced labor in Siberia; all workers are frozen in their jobs.

"It is the responsibility of all Canadians to expose the aims of communism," said Mr. Fraser. "It is subversive and stands for destruction of political freedom." He added: "If we believe and live up to the Ten Commandments, and certainly if we live up to the Golden Rule, there will be no room for communism."

Mr. Fraser was presented to the members by Mrs. E. Chambers and he was tendered a statement of appreciation by Mrs. V. R. Henry.

James Cruikshank

The funeral for James Cruikshank, 162 Parkhill Road, who died Tuesday, was held Thursday from the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were: Budd, Ormand, Melville and James Cruikshank, Ray Ballantyne and John Miller. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Malenkov Quits As Communist Party Secretary

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov, new chief of the Soviet government, has resigned his post as secretary of the Russian Communist party's powerful central committee. A five-man secretariat, headed by former Ukrainian party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, takes over. Pravda, the party's newspaper, said a plenary session of the central committee accepted Malenkov's resignation March 14. The Pravda announcement made it clear that the 58-year-old Khrushchev, who gained a reputation for firm policies in the Ukraine, will devote his full time to the task of administering the party. He will operate under the leadership of the committee's 10-member praesidium, which is still headed by Malenkov.

The new set-up will allow Malenkov to concentrate full attention on his post as prime minister.

POST ABOLISHED

No mention was made today of the position of general secretary of the party and it appeared this formal post—held for many years by Joseph Stalin—had been abolished for some time.

The four other members of the new streamlined secretariat were listed today—probably in their order of importance—as:

Mikhail Suslow, 51, former party leader in the North Caucasus and Lithuanian republic and recently editor-in-chief of Pravda.

Peter Pospelov, former Pravda editor who long headed the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute as a leading theoretician of the Red party.

Nikolai Shatalin, recently a candidate to the secretariat.

Seymon Ignatiev, veteran party worker and former deputy in the Moscow Soviet.

THIRD SHAKEUP

Today's shakeup in the party secretariat was the third within six months. A 10-man secretariat was elected in October and a decree by the Malenkov government March 6 transferred four members to other posts. They were L. I. Brezhnev, M. G. Ignatov, N. Pegov and P. K. Ponomarenko.

The Moscow announcement appeared to explain why Khrushchev was given no ministry in the Malenkov government although he ranked high enough in the new Kremlin pyramid of power to be listed directly after the five deputy premiers making up inner cabinet.

Under the one-party Soviet system, control of the Communist organization means control of the government.

Giving up the administrative post does not mean that Malenkov has relinquished control of the party. As chief of the party's praesidium, he still is boss.

Actually he has apparently tightened his grip on the organization by placing in command five men who can be considered his lieutenants.

U.S. Plane Turns To Fireball, 35 Said Killed

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Thirty-five persons, most of them United States airmen heading for duty in the Far East, were killed when a four-engine transport plane crashed and exploded in a ball of fire south of here Friday night a few minutes after receiving clearance for a landing at Oakland airport.

The plane, a Transocean Air Lines DC-4 on charter from the U.S. Air Force, struck a hill near Decoto, 20 miles south of here near the eastern shore of San Francisco bay. Decoto is in the area of California's worst air disaster—50 killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane under similar circumstances Aug. 24, 1951. That plane, too, was about to land.

Alameda county sheriff's Capt. Richard E. Condon at the scene of the Transocean crash said there were no survivors. The plane, on a flight from a Roswell, N.M., base, carried 30 airmen and five crew members.

SMASHED HILL

Eyewitnesses said the aircraft, flying through a drizzle of rain, smashed into the hill, broke into bits and then burst into flames.

Mrs. Henry Andrade, who lives only 300 yards from the crash scene, said she heard a crash and then a series of explosions. She ran as close to the burning plane as she could.

"I saw men with their clothes on fire, some on the ground, some trying to get up, staggering, falling back into the flames."

Alameda county sheriff's officers said bodies could be seen burning within the portion of the fuselage that remained intact. The wreckage of the plane was scattered over a quarter mile radius in the soft, newly-plowed field where it fell.

The civilian crew included two stewardesses. The 30 airmen were from Walker air force base, Roswell. The air force said the airmen were support and maintenance specialists en route to the Far East for a tour of duty with a bomber wing.

A rumor that the DC-4 might be carrying "secret cargo" was quickly denied by the air force.

Little was left of the plane when the flames subsided, but one large section of the tail and rear fuselage remained—stark-white against the dark, wet fields.

Mystery Pilot Downs 3 MiGs

SEOUL (AP) — An American Sabre jet pilot who flies against Communist MiGs under cloak of personal secrecy may become an anonymous jet ace.

For personal reasons, the pilot doesn't want his name revealed by the U. S. Air Force.

He already has shot down three MiGs, probably downed three more and damaged two—already a record that few Sabre pilots reach in Korea.

The only thing officially revealed about the secretive pilot is that he flies with the 4th fighter wing and that he has "30 or 40 missions" to go before completing his combat tour.

Officers at the wing say his identity is a mystery outside the wing.

With two more MiGs, the "secret pilot" will be an ace.

Rome Veterans Stage Strike For Pensions

ROME (AP)—For two hours today 1,000 disabled war veterans lay down in the street before the finance ministry to bring attention to demands for increased pensions. Traffic on the busy street was jammed for blocks.

The disabled veterans started the "lie down" strike when told the finance minister was out of town and could not see them. They finally dispersed after members of Parliament promised to bring their claims before the Senate.

Storm Drops 11 Inches Of Snow On Prairies

EDMONTON (CP) — A storm moving northeastward across the Prairies Friday night dumped up to 11 inches of snow on a belt ranging from the Lethbridge area in southeastern Alberta to Saskatoon in northcentral Saskatchewan.

Many highways in Southern Alberta were reported blocked.

VIGOROUS OBJECTIONS to the condition of Howden Ave. have been lodged by residents of the street. They report foot-deep mud on sections of the road, claiming other, newer streets in the area have sidewalks and "decent" roads while Howden has gone without, despite the request of petitioners. U.S. May Seize Freighters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States government has gone after 15 ships it says were trading with Communist countries and has announced it is pointing its legal weapons at many more. Two separate actions were taken Friday: 1. The maritime administration said the mortgages on 14 freighters sold to Greek companies are in default because the owners have not submitted annual inspection certificates. This could be a preliminary to foreclosing the mortgages, but the owners have a chance to stave off that action. 2. At Richmond, Calif., the government seized the Seven Seas, a 10,195-ton tanker, charging it had been bought illegally by aliens using U.S. citizens as dummies.

The 14 freighters—wartime liberty-type ships of 10,000 tons or less—were said to be scattered all over the world and the next step to be taken in their case was not immediately apparent.

Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) said—and a maritime administration spokesman confirmed—that they were on a list of 96 that allegedly have been trading with Communist countries. McCarthy has demanded that the government look into the possibility of repossessing the ships.

NEED CERTIFICATES

They are vessels sold under mortgages by the government. The terms of the mortgages place no restrictions on trading by the ships, the spokesman said, but they do require that certificates be filed annually to show the ships have been inspected and are being kept in good condition.

Declaring that these certificates had not been filed, the government demanded that the certificates be provided or the mortgages paid off in full.

The maritime administration said the owners could avoid forfeiture of the vessels by obtaining the seaworthiness certificates either in the U. S. or abroad.

The other ships listed as trading with Iron Curtain countries are sailing under French and Italian flags, the spokesman said, and "we're going after the rest of them now."

GETS APPROVAL

In the California case Keith R. Ferguson, special assistant to the U. S. attorney-general, obtained court approval of a seizure order. The order said that when the ship

Beverage Rooms Can Serve Meals Under Amendment

TORONTO (CP)—Beverage rooms will be able to serve full-course meals under an amendment to the Liquor Licence Act introduced Friday in the Ontario Legislature. Present regulations permit only sandwiches to be served to beer-drinking patrons.

The amendment permits the liquor control board of Ontario to grant a dining room licence to the holder of a public house licence without having the establishment reclassified as a tavern. Public houses, under present laws, may not be given a dining room licence.

G. Arthur Welsh, provincial secretary and chairman of the LCBO, said many beverage room operators had expressed a desire to serve meals with beer, and he and Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the liquor licence board, agreed the change would be desirable.

SEAWAY MEETING

George Challies, minister without portfolio and vice chairman of the hydro commission, announced that the commission will call a conference of municipalities to be affected by the St. Lawrence seaway "at the earliest opportunity." The meeting would permit representatives of the affected areas to express their views and to learn details of hydro's plan.

He said that the election of President Eisenhower in the United States had brought new seaway supporters to Congress and it is impossible to predict when the project will begin. The Ontario hydro commission was going ahead with work for the power phase of the project.

Even if the project were started at once, the province would have a power shortage by 1957 unless additional generating stations were built. He added:

"It is the intention of the provincial government and the commission that the whole area involved in the St. Lawrence seaway development will be restored with improved municipal services achieved through close and friendly

United Church Raises Million

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. M. C. Macdonald today announced that the United Church of Canada church extension campaign has reached a total of $1,150,000 in 1½ years.

Goal of the five-year campaign is $2,500,000, said the chairman of the national committee on church extension. Dr. Macdonald said the over-all cost of church extension and other capital expansion needs in home missions will be $3,300,000 but $800,000 will be derived from annual allotments from the missionary and maintenance fund, home mission and United Church reserves.

The Montreal presbytery has raised $400,000 of its $500,000 objective while metropolitan Toronto has reached one half of its goal of $500,000. Winnipeg has raised $65,000 and Vancouver $106,000.

Dr. Macdonald said that surveys have shown the United Church must assist in the building of at least 200 churches and some 75 manses in new communities throughout the country. He said that more than 75 presbyteries of the United Church of Canada have accepted objectives in the campaign and another 25 will participate in the drive.

Family Of 3 Dies In Flaming Auto

NEWMARKET (CP)—Three persons were killed and two injured when two automobiles collided and burned near this town 15 miles north of Toronto Friday night.

Mrs. Alice Robinson, her son Hawke and his wife Anne, all of Newmarket, were burned to death after the accident on Highway 11. Alan Aistras and Peter Panek, both of Barrie, were taken to hospital with serious burns after being pulled unconscious from the wreckage of their car by a passing motorist.

Jim Russell of Newmarket, an eyewitness, said the Robinson car had slowed for a left turn into the laneway of Mrs. Robinson's Innisscarra farm home when a second car crashed into it from behind, tossing the Robinson car 100 feet down the highway and turning it over. Both cars caught fire.

Mr. Russell, 19, said his wife Edith, an expectant mother, watched as he ran to the Robinson car but couldn't reach the people trapped inside because of flames. Then he went to the other car and pulled the two men out.

Deep Impact On Peace In Proposals

Three Recent Moves Make Hopes For Peace Stronger

LONDON —(AP)— Western observers sifting recent Soviet moves today reported encouraging signs of a new conciliatory Russian attitude toward the West. The feeling was heightened by a Kremlin promise of immediate action toward freeing British civilian prisoners in North Korea.

The promise was made by foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia and announced early today by the British foreign office. Although the foreign office warned against premature optimism, the Soviet move followed two other developments that foreign diplomats in Moscow said could have a profound impact on world peace. These were:

1. The proposal by Gen. Vassily Chuikov, Soviet commander in Germany, for Anglo-Russian talks to avoid future East-West air incidents. The Russian general surprised the West by expressing regret over the death of seven British airmen in a Lincoln bomber shot down by Soviet MiGs near the Iron Curtain boundary in Germany.

2. President Eisenhower's statement last Thursday that the U. S. always would go halfway toward any Soviet attempt to settle world issues.

NEW ATTITUDE?

Allied quarters in Red-encircled West Berlin also wondered if Soviet Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov has sent orders to the Soviet satellite states, including East Germany, that all air of crisis should be forgotten for the present.

Despite eastern zone threats of dire consequences for Berlin if the West German Parliament ratified the Allied-Bonn peace contract and European Army treaty, there was little strong Communist reaction to Thursday's lower house vote of approval.

The Soviet promise of action in the case of eight British civilians and one Irish missionary held in North Korea seemed of special sig-

Jets Down Five, Damage 7 MiGs

SEOUL (AP)—Allied Sabre jets today shot down five Communist MiGs and damaged seven others in the skies over North Korea.

Two U. S. pilots downed their 10th MiGs and became double aces during the furious air battles.

Capt. Manuel Fernandez, Jr., Miami, Fla., and Capt. Harold E. Fischer jr., of Swea City, Iowa, each raised his MiG destruction score to 10, the 5th air force said.

Fernandez shot down two MiGs this afternoon while Fischer shot down one.

On the ground, there were only sporadic clashes between mud-caked soldiers as steady rain soaked the 155-mile battle front until near dawn.

Twenty B-29s blasted Red troop and supply centres in North Korea during darkness.

Say German Pilots Flew MiGs Against Bomber

BERLIN (AP)—A report reached Berlin from the Soviet zone today that the jet fighters which shot down a British bomber March 12 were piloted by Germans. The Spandauer Volksblatt, a conservative British sector newspaper, said it had learned of the report from East German sources. Allied airmen were unable to either confirm or deny that the Russians may be training East German Communist "air police" in flying the MiG-15s.

Until now, Western quarters have learned only that the fledgling "air police" of the east zone amounts to about 5,000 men and women doing ground crew, tower and general duties at airfields.

The Spandauer newspaper said the city of Magdeburg buzzed with talk of the incident, started by two German women employed at the Magdeburg airfield. It said the two women, identified as Helene Dietrich and Gerda Stoltz, were abruptly dismissed from their duties at the air base for discussing it publicly.

NEWSPAPER REPORT

The newspaper said in a dispatch under a Magdeburg dateline:

"Fraeulein Dietrich and Soltz were on duty on the day in question in the tower. They know that shortly after noon five fighter planes of the MiG-15 model had taken off for a patrol along the zonal border. They were piloted by Germans, among them former Luftwaffe fighter pilot Guenther Lehmann.

"When the planes landed after their flight, Helene Dietrich accompanied the airfield duty oberkommissar as stenographer assistant to the field.

"'They seem to have shot (a plane) down,' she said later to her colleague who had remained in the radio cabin. 'I could see how Oberkommissar Henne stood stiff for a while, but then patted Ennig and Lehmann on the shoulders and shook their hands in congratulation.'

"When at night the shooting of the Lincoln bomber became known in Magdeburg, Helene Dietrich told her family at home:

'That was the air police, not the Russians.'"

Name Zapotocky New President Of Czech Regime

VIENNA (AP) — Antonin Zapotocky, 68-year-old former Nazi concentration camp trusty wanted by the Dutch as a war criminal, today became the new Communist president of Czechoslovakia.

Zapotocky was unanimously elected by 271 members of the rubber-stamp Czech Parliament to succeed 56-year-old Klement Gottwald, who died a week ago today after returning to Prague from Stalin's funeral.

Zapotocky had been premier of Czechoslovakia since shortly after the Communists seized power in a bloodless revolution in 1948.

There were indications that his post as premier will be taken over by vice-premier Viliam Siroky.

SWORN IN

The Communst party central committee voted later to nominate vice-premier Vilem Siroky, former Czech foreign minister, as premier to succeed Zapotocky. It also approved another vice-premier Anton Nevotny as "director" of the central committee.

"I swear that I will work for the welfare of the people of the Czechoslovak republic and that I will obey the peoples democratic constitution of the republic," he pledged in a ceremony broadcast by the Prague radio.

Zapotocky, once a stonecutter, thus becomes the fourth president of the Czech republic, founded in 1918 by Thomas Masaryk and Eduard Benes. Masaryk served as first president until his death in 1937. He was succeeded by Benes who was pushed out by Gottwald after the Prague coup in 1948.

Juneau Mother Throws Two Babies Into Ocean

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A 31-year-old mother of four children told police Friday she put her two babies into their carriage, wheeled them a block from home to the waterfront and threw them off the dock.

The body of her 18-months-old girl was recovered but her month-old boy was missing.

Police said the mother, Mrs. Betty Ritter, talked readily of how she planned the deed because there "never was enough money, never enough food" and she did not want her children to grow up that way.

Mrs. Ritter and her husband, Russell, a taxicab driver, have been separated several days.

"Menace To Society"

TORONTO (CP)—James Lonsdale, 21, was sentenced Friday to eight years in penitentiary for the armed robbery of two employees of an East Toronto firm. In passing sentence on Lonsdale, who previously served three years on a similar charge, Magistrate J. L. Prentice termed him a "menace to society."

Russia Offers Release Of Nine

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia has offered to use her influence with the Communist government of North Korea to release nine British civilians and an Irish missionary captured when South Korea was overrun in 1950, the British foreign office announced today.

The decision, "in accordance with personal instructions from Vyacheslav Molotov," Russia's new foreign minister, replied to the latest of many British requests to Russia to have the nine released.

The Britons held inclyde Vyvyan Holt, former British minister to South Korea, and two members of the British legation staff at Seoul, and the Anglican bishop of Korea. The others are two priests, a nun, a writer and a Salvation Army worker.

Russia's note, delivered Tuesday to Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd, said the Soviet foreign ministry would take up the matter with North Korea "immediately"

The note asked Lloyd to tell Foreign Secretary Eden that his request to Russia of Feb. 17 had received "favorable consideration." Russia would take necessary steps to find "an affirmative solution," it added.

Injunction Bars Picketing Non-Union Stratford Plant

STRATFORD (CP)—An injunction to prevent picketing at the non-union company hatchery has been issued by the Ontario Supreme Court, officials of the strike-bound Swift Canadian plant said here today.

A hearing has been scheduled Monday at Osgoode Hall in Toronto to extend the injunction until a trial or final disposition of the matter.

Notice of the injunction has been served on William Dancavitch, field representative for local 307, United Packinghouse Workers of America, (CIO-CCL).

Meanwhile, attention here focussed on some 85,000 eggs in incubators inside the picketed hatchery. They are scheduled to hatch at the rate of 32,000 a week, with a 16,000 batch due to come out of the incubators Sunday night.

Company trucks under police escort removed 16,000 newly-hatched chicks from the hatchery Friday after a scuffle with pickets. The humane society has ruled that all chicks must be moved out of the hatchery within 48 hours after hatching or they will move in and gas them.

There are no facilities for feeding the chicks inside the hatchery and the birds would starve if left for more than 48 hours.

The union maintains it is carrying out legal picketing at the non-union hatchery. Union officials indicated today they will block any move to remove more chicks from the building following Friday afternoon's surprise evacuation of chicks by company trucks.

Plant manager W. D. Sinclair congratulated police today "on the excellent co-operation they gave us Friday."

He said the 16,000 chicks which had been taken from the hatchery with the aid of police officers had been distributed to poultry growers throughout the district.

The 61 employees of the Swift Canadian's Stratford plant went on strike March 6 for higher wages.

They have turned down a company offer of a six-cent-an-hour boost.

"Drug Addict" Steals $4900 Toronto Payroll

TORONTO (CP)—A man who said he was "a drug addict and in earnest" Friday held up Harold L. Clark of the National Fur Manufacturing Company and got away with a pay envelope containing $4,900.

Clark said he had parked on Jarvis street south of King street in downtown Toronto and was returning to his office with the pay when a man of about 28 or 30 got into the car, pulled a gun and demanded the pay envelope.

He was clean shaven, wore a brown fedora, blue overcoat and had the look of an addict, Clark told police.

Two Children Die In Flaming Cabin

GRAVENHURST (CP) — Two small children were burned to death Friday night in a log cabin four miles south of here before their parents, visiting neighbors across the road, could reach them.

The children were Claudia, four months, and Virginia, 18 months, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Engli, recent immigrants from England.

The Englis and another child had been away only a short time when they saw their small log house on fire. They ran back to the house, about one mile from No. 11 highway, but were unable to get inside to reach the children.

Neither the neighbors nor the Englis were able to check the fire.

No Increase In Payments

Extended Benefits Would Cover Illness In New Unemployment Insurance Plan

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Extension of unemployment insurance to provide limited coverage for sickness may be launched by the government at the current sesion of Parliament.

Insurance benefit payments now are paid only to unemployed workers available for jobs, but a plan now being studied would extend payments to persons who become ill after being put out of work for reasons other than illness.

The proposal would not extend the existing period of benefit payments, which can run up to a maximum of a year. Neither would it provide coverage for persons becoming sick while at work.

A major aspect of the plan is that it would not involve increases in the contributions made by employees and employers to the unemployment insurance fund. Government officials said the $858,000,000 fund can stand any drain that would result from the scheme.

The proposal has not yet been placed before cabinet, it was learned, but is still under study by officials of the unemployment insurance commission and other labor department officers. It was understood to have reached the point where a series of tentative amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act have been drafted.

The move would represent a compromise with the views of organized labor, which for some time has been pressing the government for straight unemployment insurance coverage for workers who leave the job because of sickness.

Informed quarters said there is no chance of this bigger change in the unemployment insurance setup now, for various reasons. One is that it is regarded as verging on health insurance—which the government is studying separately—and another is that it would require an amendment to the British North America Act with the consent of the provinces.

Even on the limited proposal, officials said, there is still no certainty that it is strictly within the constitution, which had to be amended originally for the passage of the Unemployment Insurance Act. This point is under study by government legal experts.

However, there appeared to be an inclination on the part of labor department officials—if the plan can be put through cabinet in time for introduction at this session—to try it out and take a chance on challenges. If it cannot be done at this session, there would be time for consultations with the provinces later.

Family Of Ten Lose Lives In Jersey Crash

WASHINGTON, N. J. (AP)—A 32-year-old dairy farmer and nine members of his family lost their lives in a head-on highway crash Friday night as they were on their way to do the weekly shopping.

Their 1953 sedan was crumpled in a collision with a trailer truck on two-lane route.

State police said it was one of the worst traffic accidents in the history of New Jersey.

Killed outright were Clarence Matlock, who operated a 60-cow dairy farm in rural Silver Lake, N. J., his wife, Alma; three daughters, Esther, 10, Joan, 5, and Rosemary, 2; a son, Clarence, Jr., 1, his mother, Elizabeth, 75, and his two sisters, Grace, 48, and Mary, 50.

DIES ON BIRTHDAY

Another son, Raymond, the only member of the family taken from the car alive, died in hospital early this morning—on his eighth birthday.

Two men in the truck escaped uninjured. They were the driver, John Scarantino, and the owner, Lawrence Butler.

Scarantino, dazed and horror-stricken, was booked at state police barracks here on a technical charge of causing death by auto.

Butler told police his truck was following a coal truck going north on the highway when the coal truck put on its brakes and pulled over to the right shoulder of the road.

Then they saw a car coming straight at them, Butler said, and Scarantino pulled across the left lane onto the left shoulder to try to avoid the car.

But the car also pulled for the same shoulder, Butler reported, and the vehicles collided.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices moved irregularly and narrowly throughout most of Friday's dull session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, and generally closed slightly lower.

However, highlight of the activity on the market was the announcement that the Canadian Wheat Board had made 13 cargoes of wheat—about 4,000,000 bushels—available to Japan. The wheat will grade No. 1 to 4 northern, and be sold at the Class 2 wheat price.

Prices for Class 2 and IWA wheat were down three-eighths of a cent.

If you were a citizen in a non-democratic country should you volunteer to fight if you have proof that your country was using false propaganda to incite war? Attempt To Win Raybestos Men Trick Move—UE

John Whalen, president of Local 527, UE, charged today that the IUE application for certification at the Peterborough plant of the Canadian Raybestos Co. was "false" and "designed as a trick move."

He denied that the IUE have a majority of the membership signed up and paid and he said: "The Raybestos workers are simply being used as guinea pigs by the IUE in one last desperate attempt to provide sensational publicity for IUE at the CGE works in Peterborough."

A new epithet was introduced into the local electrical union wrangle today when Ralph Sullivan, UE area representative, hurled the charge "Fascist" at the heads of the IUE leaders. Ever since the UE was tossed out of the CIO and the CCL in the fall of 1949 the charge "Communist" has been levelled at the top UE organizers, both in the United States and Canada, including Peterborough.

(The UE are in the so-called left-wing of the industrial trade union movement; the IUE are in the right wing. Since the IUE was formed in 1949 the production workers at CGE have been divided in their loyalities and the rival electrical unions have been steadily sniping away at each other. At present the IUE are making their fourth bid to supplant the UE as bargaining agents for the 3,500 production workers at the Peterborough CGE plant.

(On Friday the IUE announced they had a majority of the workers at the Raybestos plant signed up and they had applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for certification. The UE also have the collective bargaining contract with Raybestos that ends May 14. So now the rival electrical unions are battling at two Peterborough plants.)

SOLID SUPPORT

"The announcement by the IUE on Friday morning was designed for use in the IUE's futile raid at the CGE works and is an attempt to fool and frick the Canadian Raybestos workers," said Mr. Whalen. "The vast majority of the Raybestos workers are solidly in support of our UE local and have been since its inception in 1946.

"The Raybestos workers have every reason to support UE. It is through UE that we have won from 72 cents to 78 cents an hour wage increases, and established working conditions beyond the highest expectations of Raybestos workers when they joined UE."

Mr. Whalen said his union had checked with the OLRB on Friday and the board reported that no application had been received from IUE on behalf of Raybestos workers

(Joe Wirtz, Canadian co-ordinator of IUE-CIO, said today that the application was mailed Friday. As the board does not work Saturdays the application would probably be received Monday.)

UE Area Representative Ralph Sullivan said at noon today: "I'm openly charging the IUE leaders with being Fascists."

In a prepared statement he accused the IUE leaders of using "false and Fascist-like tactics" in Canada: "IUE had been chosen by Maurice Duplessis, premier of Quebec, as a national company union to form a labor front in Canada, and the tactics and actions of IUE leaders were identical with those used by the people who actively formed the labor front in Germany in the '30s, and that their actions and tactics through red-baiting and branding all opposition as communism, had earned them the right to be called the storm troopers in Canada."

At the Phillips Electric Co. plant in Brockville, recently wrested from the UE by the IUE, he said that after six weeks of negotiations all the workers had received was a company offer to cut wages by 4½ per cent.

"While the IUE have had that offer for the past four weeks they have withheld the information in the hope that it would not be made public until the completion of their raid next week at the Peterborough CGE plant," said Mr. Sullivan.

U.K. Visitor To Aid Plans For Plow Match

John A. Carroll, Assistant Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario and President of the World Plowing Association which will hold a "world match" in conjunction with the International Plowing Match in Canada next October, has received word from Alfred Hall, Secretary of the World Match organization, that he would arrive in Toronto next week from Britain.

Mr. Hall is coming to Canada to confer with Mr. Carroll on the details in connection with the first world match which will be held during the International meet on October 6, 7 and 8.

Mr. Carroll, said today that Mr. Hall would meet the Canadian committee and with them would inspect the site, work out the details of the prize list and finalize arrangements for the contest.

While in Ontario the world match contestants will be the guests of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

In his letter to Mr. Carroll, Mr. Hall said that he had received word from Arie C. Stehouwer, Dutch member of the World Board, that his farm had been completely innundated by the floods but that he had been able to save his family and cattle and had later recovered his tractors from his flooded farm.

The International and World matches will be held in an area between Port Hope and Cobourg.

A cable news item from Dublin Thursday announced that Rodney Sheane and Thomas Macdonnel, of Wicklow and Louth counties, of southern Ireland, have been selected as representatives in the world plowing competitions at Cobourg. They were picked from ten of the South's top plowmen in a competition that produced the "best tractor plowing seen in years".

MARMORA (ENS)—The executive of the artificial ice committee operating under Marmora District Community Centre Commission are Chairman, William A. Shannon vice chairman, Ralph G. Walsh; secretary, Harold A. Olsen; treasurer, Alex F. Fraser.

A meeting of sub committees is being called for this weekend to get the campaign underway.

co-operation between provincial and municipal agencies."

The commission was determined "to preserve municipal autonomy as fully as possible."

Asked whether there would be a change in the hours of sale affecting beverage rooms, Mr. Welsh said this was a matter for the licence board. Present hours are from noon until 6:30 p.m. and from 8 p.m. until midnight.

The government has long favored a policy of encouraging the serving of food where liquor is sold on the theory that there is likely to be less drunkenness.

Another amendment to the act creates two new types of licences for clubs. Mr. Welsh said that difficulties arise when clubs apply for licences since they must advertise that they are applying for it which gives rise to the mistaken idea that they are open to the public.

The new types of licences are a club licence for the sale and consumption of liquor with or without meals in an establishment classified as a club, and a club licence (restricted) for sale and consumption of beer and wine without meals in an establishment classified as a club.

Plan No Inquest In Barrie Death

BARRIE (CP)—George Mason, 56-year-old Toronto riding school operator whose body was found near here Thursday, died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds, authorities reported Friday night.

Coroner Dr. E. G. Turnbull of Barrie said no inquest would be held. He made the announcement after he had received the report of provincial pathologist Dr. Fred Jaffe of Toronto who performed an autopsy.

Mason's body was found by his son-in-law, Tom Donnelly, with a shotgun lying across the legs. Earlier police speculated that Mason might have been a victim of foul play.

nificance. Previous British appeals on behalf of the group were ignored by the late Prime Minister Stalin's Kremlin regime.

The foreign office said the promise was made in a note delivered here Wednesday that declared:

"The Soviet foreign ministry will take up the matter with the Korean people's democratic republic and will also take the necessary steps in order that this question may find an affirmative solution."

PRISONERS

The British group includes three diplomats, among them, Vyvian Holt, former British minister in Seoul. The others were identified by the foreign office as:

George Blake, vice-consul; Norman Philip Owen, legation clerk, Bishop Cecil Cooper, bishop of Korea; Father Hunt, Father Lee and Sister Mary Clare, all of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; Philip Dean, correspondent for the London Observer, and Father Quinlan of Northern Ireland.

The Russian gesture raised two questions:

Whether a similar release might be arranged for U. S. civilians interned by the Communists in Korea?

And whether it might lead to a move by the North Koreans and Chinese Communists to settle the last remaining issue blocking a Korean truce—exchange of war prisoners.

A foreign ministry spokesman cautioned, however, against easy optimism that the move presaged a shift in Soviet attitude.

WELCOME ACTION

"We welcome this helpful Soviet action," he declared, "but it is too early to suggest that it is an indication of better things."

But there were other encouraging signs.

Moscow dispatches said some neutral diplomats in the Russian capital, commenting on President Eisenhower's apparent willingness to meet Soviet leaders, predicted if preliminary details were handled carefully by both sides there were good chances for such a meeting.

Observers also have noted that the Soviet press has issued on denunciation of Eisenhower and that such phrases as war-mongers and imperialist appear far less often.

Foreign office sources previously commented that Chukov's proposal for a British-Russian air conference appeared conciliatory.

SEE KREMLIN'S HAND

In Berlin, it was pointed out that the suggestion was of such far-reaching consequence that it must bear Moscow's stamp. Informed quarters there said Friday night the Western Allied high commissioners will meet in Berlin March 28 to discuss a possible four-power conference on air safety over Germany.

Some western observers in London speculated, however, that the Kremlin may be trying especially to woo Britain.

They said the Soviet promise on the prisoners and Chukov's suggestion for an air conference, both made to Britain, could be interpreted as part of a Russian effort to drive a wedge between London and Washington.

Spectacular Fire Guts Two New York Plants

Blackpool Meets Bolton In Tilt For Soccer Cup

LONDON (Reuters) — Favored Blackpool and Bolton Wanderers, both First Division teams, will battle for the Football Association Cup at London's Wembley Stadium May 2.

Blackpool, which has never won the cup, today beat London glamor Club Tottenham Hotspur 2-1 in a semi-final at Birmingham as Bolton fought Everton, last second Division team in the knockout contest, to a 4-3 finish at Manchester.

Jackie Mudie, young centre-forward, scored the winning goal for Blackpool 10 seconds from the end and Nat Lofthouse, English international centre-forward, decided the game for Bolton.

Everton, which knocked out the First Division's Manchester United and Aston Villa to reach the semi-finals, made a phenomenal recovery against Bolton after being four goals down at the interval.

Spurred on by a wildly cheering crowd of 75,000 fans, the Second Division team piled on three goals in the second half but was beaten by the clock before it could equalize.

SCORES LONE GOAL

Tottenham's lone goal against Blackpool, which now has reached the cup final three times in five years, was scored by Len Duquemin, who broke his honeymoon to play today. He got a special cheer from the 68,000 fans.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, by downing Liverpool 3-0, moved to the top of the First Division today with 43 points, Burnley, last week's leader, lost 2-1 to Portsmouth and takes over second place with 42 points from Preston, which was idle today. Preston, West Bromwich Albion and Charlton have 41 points each.

There was no change in the leadership of the Second Division, where Sheffield United defeated Bury 3-1 to reach 51 points, four ahead of Huddersfield, 5-0 winner over Southampton.

In the Third Division, Southern Bristol Rovers' run of 27 league games without defeat came to an end. Reading beat Rovers 2-0 but the Bristol team, with 55 points, still is six ahead of cousin Bristol City, which tied 4-4 with Queen's Parm Rangers.

OLDHAM LOSES

Oldham lost 1-0 to Southport and now has only a one-point margin at the top of the Northern section. Second with 45 points are Port Vale and Grimsby. Both drew their games today.

Hibernian was held to a 2-2 tie by St. Mirren and gives way at the head of Scottish League Division A with East Fife, 4-1 victor over Celtic. East Fife has 34 points, Hibernian 33.

Leadership of Division B also changed hands: Stirling's 4-1 victory over Arbroath sent it to the top with 39 points, one ahead of last week's leader Hamilton Academicals, defeated 1-0 by Cowdenbeath.

Plan Central Site For Hangings

OTTAWA (CP)—Provinces would be allowed to execute convicted killers at a central spot under a proposed amendment to the Criminal Code, the Commons criminal law committee was told Friday.

A. A. Moffat, justice department law officer, said the revision was drafted because of protests in recent years against the stipulation that executions must be carried out in the prison where the convicted man has been confined.

A new clause in the bill amending the Criminal Code says only that sentence of death is to be carried out "within the walls of a prison." That would leave provincial authorities, who administer the Criminal Code, free to nominate any prison within provincial boundaries as a place of execution.

Car, Truck Collide $160 Damage Done

Damage totalled $160 in a car-truck accident Friday at the intersection of Reid and Charlotte Sts. Drivers involved were Claude Johnson, 19, of 463 Albert St., and Ralph Kitchen of 556 Arndon Ave.

Kitchen was driving south on Reid and when a break in traffic came on the through street, started across the intersection.

Johnson, eastbound on Charlotte, was partially through the intersection when the collision occurred.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $60 while the Kitchen vehicle sustained damages totalling $100.

PC Harold Andrew investigated the accident.

Delinquent Girls' School Quiet After Two Riots

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP)—The riot-ridden Los Guilocos school for delinquent girls quieted to an uneasy tenseness today, but Hemen Stark, California youth authority director, called the situation a potential powderkeg.

Police threw an all-night cordon around the school grounds, after two riots in the last 24 hours.

Stark had received approval from Governor Earl Warren to place on the alert a company of National Guard troops in case of an emergency. But they have not been ordered on to the school grounds yet.

Police said the 160 'teen-age girls, who are still uncontrolled, are being spurned on by a group of ringleaders. Many are armed with knives and broken glass, police said.

School officials commented that recent breakup of a homosexual ring may have incited the riot.

Stark attributed part of the trouble to "elements of hatred that resulted in Los Angeles' 'teen-age war." Several girls from Los Angeles were transferred to Los Guilocos early in the year.

The first riot broke out at dinner time Thursday when 15 girls, breaking windows, overturning tables and ripping window screens, made a break for freedom. They were all captured within hours.

Supervisors and inmates who didn't participate in the riot were threatened by ringleaders, school authorities said.

In the second flareup the 15 girls broke out of a maximum security compound just after noon Friday. They smashed windows with their fists, protected by sweaters, and armed themselves with glass slivers and knives from the kitchen.

Other girls broke out in groups of two and three each, but were captured.

Russian Radio Turns Friendly

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio broke sharply today with the old Soviet propaganda line and told the world how Russia, Britain and the United States harmoniously co-operated in winning the Second World War.

Repeatedly in the past the Soviets have insisted they won the war all by themselves—not only in Europe but in the Far East as well.

The broadcast appeared to fall in the pattern of "sweetness and light" statements made by the Soviet bigwigs since the death of Stalin and the succession of Georgi Malenkov as prime minister.

Claim Water Replaces Coal In Steelmaking

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Star in a newspage story today, says "an amazing new process by which water power would displace coal in the manufacture of steel ingots has been perfected by a Canadian company associated with Ventures, Ltd.," big holding and development company.

The Star adds:

"The new process holds promise of revolutionizing the world's steel industry . . . It suggests the possibility of a steel industry in Ontario's Steep Rock iron camp; in the Labrador-Quebec ironfield; and also in the Yukon, where iron has been found. . . .

"Some major obstacles remain to be hurdled before the process is proven economically possible."

Will Fine Drivers Without '53 Licences

Chief of Police J. W. Thompson warned today that Peterborough police would begin to prosecute motorists with cars bearing 1951 plates and '52 windshield stickers next week. The deadline for replacing those markers with 1953 plates was last Wednesday.

In Toronto Friday police announced that more than 500 summonses have been issued to Toronto motorists lacking their new licences since the deadline.

Drivers without new plates are liable to fines up to $50 and costs.

Caterpillars Expected To Be Scarce

Forestry experts say that tent caterpillar infestations are on the decline in the Peterborough district and, while there will likely be local areas affected, the foliage munching grubs are "pretty well past."

Tent caterpillars generally afflict a bush area in a three-year cycle. Then the parasites catch up to them and there is a falling off in infestations. A large grey fly is their natural enemy.

"The high infestation period is generally past and is now on the downgrade," said District Forester A. B. Wheatley, of Lindsay. "It isn't at a low here yet. There'll be outbreaks in places."

SEVERE OUTBREAKS

Last year the tent caterpillar menace was obviously on the decline throughout this area. However, there were several severe outbreaks in the Haliburton region.

This year the international border area around Fort Frances and International Falls, Minn., is preparing for the heaviest infestation of tent caterpillars ever seen in the district.

Conferences on control of the pests are planned next week for Littlerock and Northome, Minn., arranged by the Minnesota division of plant industry.

Eugene A. Jamrock, of Littlefork, of the Minnesota entomology office, predicted the invasion will begin within eight weeks.

Can't Read English But Driving Car

COBOURG (ENS) — Displaced persons who cannot read English yet have drivers' licenses, are posing a problem here. A "d.p." was given a ticket for a traffic violation but had to have an interpreter to understand what it was all about. Police wonder how a man who can't read English is supposed to be able to recognize stop signs or other traffic information.

Boyd, Roy Marsh, Bruce Mollard, Maxwell Green and Russell Fair.

Mixed Reception Given News TV Commission

By JEFFREY SMITH

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — An announcement that a royal commission will investigate all aspects of television before stations are established in Australia has been welcomed by church officials and education experts but severely criticized by business and radio interests.

Announcing a cabinet decision, Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies did not say when the commission would be appointed. He said Australia must plan its television to meet local conditions and need not necessarily follow any overseas pattern.

The royal commission will hold its investigation before policy decisions are made by the government on the stages of development of television and before any commercial stations are licensed.

The commission will take up such points as the treatment of political, controversial and religious issues; the number of stations to be established, where and on what conditions; and the hours of television broadcasts.

Education experts, social workers, and cultural and religious leaders want a full commission investigation of television on the grounds that its full effects are only now becoming apparent in other countries and Australia should learn from their mistakes.

The president of the Australian Federation of Commercial Broadcasting Stations, H. E. Beaver, said on the other hand, that there is no justification for the commission because the government has already carried out wide investigations and has sent study missions abroad regularly.

Terming the decision to appoint a commission "good news," the dean of Sydney, Dr. Barton Babbage, said: "A commission will help Australia to avoid some of the mistakes in programing and presentation which have been made overseas."

The commission is expected to begin work in March and will have a time limit of about six months.

Appointment of a commission came as a surprise to many Australians because when Postmaster-General H. L. Anthony returned last November after studying television trends overseas, he said he would recommend its introduction in Australia as soon as possible.

Already the federal government has decided that when television is introduced in Australia, commercial as well as government stations will be allowed to operate.

A site for a government station has been selected at Gore Hill, near Sydney, and it has been reported that several firms with an eye to privately-sponsored television have been conducting tests west of the city.

Windsor Area Leader In TV, Radio

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—This industrial city, though beyond the range of Canada's television stations at Montreal and Toronto, still enjoys a greater variety of telecasts than any Canadian city. It boasts more TV sets per capita than any other Canadian area.

The reaction to television in Windsor therefore may be a guide to other communities to which Canadian television is to be extended in the future. Apart from Montreal and Toronto, Canadian areas that will have television in months to come can see in Windsor what the advent of TV means in terms of education, entertainment habits and family life.

Three stations across the river in Detroit provide a wide selection of programs, both network and local. Stations in Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio, are also viewed here occasionally.

NOT FEARFUL

Theatre managers, night-club owners and tavern proprietors, at first apprehensive of the new medium, say it isn't too great a threat now. "The novelty of TV kept many regular customers away when it first became popular," said one night-club owner. "But it hasn't had any serious effect on business in the last two or three years."

Theatre managers were less cheerful, but were confident that three-dimensional movies, when they come, will be the "shot in the arm" the movie theatres need.

Cocktail bar and beer parlor proprietors said TV is "great for business." It draws customers, particularly for special events.

TEACHERS DUBIOUS

However, many parents and school organizations still look askance at the effect TV has on the family circle, homework schedules and church, Boy Scout and other group activities.

The Windsor Women Teachers' Association and the Windsor Home and School Council collaborated to question hundreds of parents, teachers and school children.

The poll of more than 900 students showed the average grade school pupil viewed three hours on school nights, 4½ on Saturdays and five on Sundays. One 12-year-old said: "I stay up until 10 o'clock on week nights. On Saturday I watch half the day, on Sunday all day."

The average viewing time for high school students was about half that of their younger brothers and sisters.

More than half the 390 parents who replied said they had to set definite rules regarding children's viewing habits. About 31 per cent said they felt TV had improved their children's general knowledge.

Most of the 208 teachers questioned agreed there was a need for more programs to stimulate "mental action," but handed down a split decision on the effect on the childrens' school work.

LULLS AUDIENCE

One teacher said it encouraged students to become "viewers, not doers."

Many teachers lined up with parents who said they frowned on TV sets because of poor English used by announcers and actors.

In summarizing its findings, the committee said it was impossible to be entirely objective.

"When a parent claims a child knows more about world events on account of TV and a teacher claims that pupils are sleepy and listless for the same reason, he may be forgetting, or be ignorant of, other factors which affect these things.

"It would appear, at a conservative estimate, that at least 65 per cent of Windsor pupils have sets in their homes. When TV becomes available throughout Canada . . . it will be more important in the lives of people than radio because it must be given undivided attention.

"It would be safe to say that, counting holidays, children will in the future be spending at least as much time in front of a TV set as in the classroom."

PCVS Junior Drama Club Present 3 Plays Of Variety

Before an enthusiastic audience in Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School auditorium, the school's Junior Dramatic Club presented three one-act plays Friday night under the direction of Miss Fern Rahmel.

The three plays were a study of contrast. The first, "Dark Betrothal," was a historical presentation; the second, "The Fairy Blessing," a verse play based on old superstitions, and the third, "The Hole in the Wall," a laugh-filled comedy.

"Dark Betrothal" was based on the English War of the Roses when Henry opposed Richard for the crown of England. Its main character, Barbara Malsch as Elizabeth, daughter of Edward IV, was destined to marry the winner and the play revolved around the final day of the war, late in August, 1485.

Elizabeth's younger sister, Cecilia, portrayed by Jeanette Grafstein, didn't care for the outcome, only that the war stop, while her dowager mother, played by Carole Levine, had arranged for Elizabeth to marry the probable victor, Henry.

The play reached its climax with the announcement Henry had won which satisfied the selfish mother, appeased Cecilia, the sister; but left Elizabeth to face an uncertain fate in her impending marriage.

Fourteen-year-old Edward, Earl of Warwick, played by Wilf Lentz, appeared throughout the play as a carefree lad but left, a man, at its conclusion, to face an almost certain death in the Tower of London.

Gail Mitchell and Sheila Greenley portrayed serving women, Gail Pulver an old nurse, and Margaret Horton the youngest daughter of the Queen Dowager.

FAIRY IN GARDEN

In "Fairy Blessings," a nurse in care of a child encounters a fairy in her garden who sets a spell on her with the plan of stealing the baby and substituting a changeling. Before succumbing to sleep, she sets out the nightly bowl of milk for Puck who consumes it in the course of action.

After the nurse falls asleep, four fairies return to commit the foul deed but are unable to enter the house because of charms set at entrances for just that purpose. Puck re-enters the scene, enters the house at the fairies' request, then refuses to make the switch because the nurse has been leaving cream for him. The fairies give full vent to their wrath but Puck takes it unconcernedly, and they finally leave.

Fairies were played by Margaret Horton, Robea Purdon, Gail Mitchell, and Myrna Albert. Bill Doherty played Puck and Heather Mackey the nurse.

SHARED SECRET

"The Hole in the Wall" involved three plots about a mythical king's household, in which a "secret" hiding place in the palace wall played a prominent part. The queen used it to hide jewels and a gardener and servant notes to a cook.

Meanwhile the king was using the "secret" hiding place to send notes to a neighboring king. Everybody got the wrong message and the play approached its climax with the queen crying over lost pearls, the king preparing to go to war, and the cook preparing to marry the gardener. Everything was straightened out eventually, and, as the type of play demanded, "everyone lived happily ever after."

Barbara Malsch did some smart solo work as property mistress, while Harold Snowden played the servant; Gary Passmore the gardener; Carole Levine the cook; Gail Pulver the queen; Leone Smedmor the queen's lady-in-waiting; Bill Doherty the page; Arthur Clarke the prime minister; John Young the king; Peter Harris minister of war; Robert Hornal minister of exchequer; Ron King executioner; Bill Ingall a jewel merchant, and Robea Purdon a messenger.

Costumes for the play were colorful and in mood with the settings, while the scenery was used to its greatest advantage. Joan Kennedy acted as general stage manager.

Village Group Seeks To Establish Dairy

WARKWORTH —(ENS) —The Businessmen's Club met in Carlaw's Hotel with an attendance of 28.

Discussions were held regarding the possibilities of a local dairy being established, the problem of cleaning the cemeteries, the collection and disposal of garbage and decorating the village for the Coronation.

Eric Merrill, representing Percy township council, presented the problem of the cemeteries, asking local organizations to co-operate and support this work.

The problem of organizing a local dairy to supply cheaper milk was discussed and a committee was appointed to get information on this subject and report at the next meeting.

Residents were requested to decorate their homes and business places. It was considered advisable not to hold a celebration in Warkworth in order to give citizens an opportunity to attend celebrations in larger centres.

In regard to garbage collection and disposal, a petition is to be taken to find out the number interested.

The business hours committee report was adopted and was to be submitted the the village commissioners.

Arthur Page was guest speaker and outlined a short history of the Ontario Provincial Police with illustrations from his own experience.

Dr. Brintnell moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

CBC-TV Offers Six-Month Show To Bradens

LONDON (CP)—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has offered a six-month television show to Bernard Braden and Barbara Kelly, Vancouver couple who hopped to fame on British radio, stage, screen and TV.

The contract would be for 1954 and the Bradens expect to decide in about a month.

It may set up a transatlantic pattern—keeping them in circulation on both sides of the ocean annually.

If they go, and they want to, they'd leave early next year with their three children.

"We said we would be back when we left Canada four years ago," says Braden, who, with his wife, was a CBC performer. "What we have in mind right now is something along the lines of English intimate revue, a form new to Canadian and American audiences."

SHORT, SWEET

"We'd try and keep things short and homey."

The Bradens are exceptionally busy in Britain. They have their own radio show, appear in films and plan to go into cabaret together. Miss Kelly has appeared in four films and is to make another with her husband. Braden currently has the male lead in the stage thriller, "The Man."

Recently the couple appeared in a royal command BBC performance with a sketch written by Eric Nicol of Vancouver. It was one of the best received. The Bradens credit a long chat afterwards with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh to their boning-up on royal procedure.

"We were told that a lot of people try to bow and shake hands at the same time," said Braden.

2 Cars Bang At Corner

COBOURG (ENS)—A delivery truck driven by Norman Minifie was in collision Friday at a stop-street intersection with a car driven by George Turner. Both are Cobourg residents. The impact occurred at the centre of the intersection and the collision drove the Turner car up on the curb where it broke a telephone pole. Chief H. Pearse investigated.

Challenges PCs Make TV Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—A cabinet minister has challenged the Progressive Conservative party to make a political issue out of the government's policy on television.

The challenge came from Revenue Minister McCann, who reports to Parliament for the CBC.

Dr. McCann said Friday in the Commons he has no apology to offer for government policy dictating that the CBC shall maintain control in the larger cities with private TV stations allowed to operate where the CBC does not.

The policy of George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, he said, seemed to be that private interests should be allowed stations in the large centres to get the big-paying advertising and all the gravy while the other 99 per cent of Canada paid the shot.

Dr. McCann suggested that if Mr. Drew wanted to make a political issue with his own policy "in the not too far distant future—well he had better review it because I am sure that the heat of the summer is going to sweat a lot of the water out of that particular policy."

"In All The Papers"

We were interested in some remarks relating to newspapers which were made by Mr. Allan Fraser, judge of the Ottawa Family Court, when he testified before the Senate committee on indecent literature on February 26. Mr. Fraser complained of an Ottawa paper which had, he said, published distorted reports of two cases which had appeared before him. And he continued with this general criticism: "You will read it all over. You will read it in all the papers. And if you think these books you are talking about influence teenagers and juveniles, or adults, what must a paper that goes into every home every day do?" Further, Mr. Fraser complained of sensational headlines, and of reports which were not fit reading for children.

* * *

Let us say at once that we admire Mr. Fraser and the fine work he has done in Ottawa, and we think we understand his point of view. But there is another point of view on this subject, and we should like to express it.

* * *

First of all, we know nothing of the Ottawa reports of which he complains, and in any case it is the task of the Ottawa press to reply to that part of his remarks. But we think that Mr. Fraser's extension of his criticism to all papers is too sweeping to be true. There are nearly a hundred daily papers in Canada, and of these we see only thirty every day, but at that we think we see more Canadian papers regularly than Mr. Fraser. We cannot agree that they are sensational in their treatment of the news. Undoubtedly cases occur in which reports are distorted, for newspapers are fallible, just as the courts themselves are fallible. But we utterly deny that distortion is a part of Canadian newspaper policy.

* * *

Next, we must make it clear that newspapers are not edited for children or for unusually impressionable young people, or even for adults of less than ordinary moral fibre. They are edited for the average adult citizen. Any other kind of editing is unthinkable. There are often reports in newspapers which children will not be elevated by reading, but we cannot accept the argument that such reports should therefore be excluded.

* * *

This is our reason for the last comment: there have been, in the history of journalism, many attempts to publish newspapers which were entirely free from matter which could give offence to anyone, adult or child, under any circumstances. Such newspapers have been published by sincere and good men, who thought that they knew what the public ought to have. And not one of these newspapers has survived without a heavy subsidy from some organization not engaged in the newspaper business. For the public wants, and insists on having, all kinds of news. It does not necessarily want unsavoury news dished up in the most sensational form, but it decidedly wants all the news. This has been proven again and again. Therefore newspapers in Canada strike a course which is a compromise, giving all the news that they can collect, without stressing that which is of an unsavoury character.

* * *

In conclusion, we point out that great numbers of Canadian papers, of which the Examiner is one, print a proportion of material every day which is of an educational and intellectually stimulating character. We know that this material is popular, and that many people count on it. If teen-agers were to read it (and we know that some of them do so) it would extend their vision of the world. We cannot compel them to read it; compulsion is not part of our business; we can only offer it, and hope that it will prove attractive. We are sometimes a little depressed when people who complain of the newspapers choose to overlook this aspect of our work. We are neither muck-rakers nor educationists; we try only to present a balanced diet of reporting and comment, based upon what is in the news.

A dispatch from Rhodesia says that elephants refuse to get off the railway tracks, ignoring whistles. Of course, a nudge from a locomotive might get the idea across, even to an elephant. Remember what happened to Jumbo in St. Thomas, back in 1885?

"The Place Of The People Of The Falling Snow"

The Grand Coulee dam, biggest in the United States, gives 1,330,000 "firm" horsepower. The Boulder Dam in Colorado provides 665,000. The Russian Dnieprostroy is estimated to give 300,000 horsepower. Kitimat in central British Columbia is the biggest of them all. Its eventual maximum will be 1,650,000 horsepower, delivered; an installed capacity of 2,200,000 h.p.

The story of Kitimat, well known as it may be, can never become commonplace. The enterprise is too magnificent, too important. Three years ago Kitimat—the Indian name means "the place of the people of the falling snow"—was a remote valley in a country of glacier peaks and streams, almost inaccessible except to hardy hunters, bears, wolves, deer and fish-eating Indians. Before the end of this year a switch will be thrown to let pass into history the first electricity from the world's mightiest power plant.

The Kitimat scheme is a 500 million dollar project of the Aluminum Company of Canada. The sole reason for Kitimat is to provide power to burn for electric smelting of processed bauxite from Jamaica and West Africa. Power is the key to aluminum production as it is to all modern production and national material development. To process a single pound of ingot takes four pounds of bauxite and ten kilowatts of electricity. Thus much and cheap electricity is needed. Kitimat will provide it. It will double Canada's production of aluminum ingot, placing her first among world suppliers.

The huge smelter is being built at the new town of Kitimat, which sits on a narrow alluvial shelf at the foot of a fiord, southeast of Prince Rupert. It may reach a population of 50,000 in a short time if other companies establish themselves there to get the cheap power. The smelter at Kitimat is fifty miles north of the inland power plant.

To create that power, a chain of lakes and mountain river 150 miles long has been turned round to flow from east to west, instead of west to east. A watershed the size of Scotland has been harnessed. A tunnel big enough to drive a train down, ten miles long, has been bored through solid rock to a series of pipes—penstocks, to give them their technical name—falling abruptly 2,580 feet, or sixteen times as high as Niagara Falls, to drive a set of turbines buried in a man-made cavern as high as a six-storey building and as long and wide as four football fields set end to end.

The river which has been twisted, tapped and tunnelled is the Nechako which used to flow through the Cariboo country and Tweedsmuir National Park down to the Fraser River. To turn the Nechako around called for the erection of the biggest earth-filled dam in North America, the Kenny. To build it involved blasting the top off a mountain and bulldozing the rubble into a gorge.

To reach the work area alone, before starting on the job, 300 miles of road had to be pushed through virgin bush. To get maps made, to ferry workers, supplies and fuel for their machines, five helicopters have been kept constantly at work, not to mention freight planes, trucks, barges and steamers. The labour force on the project has run from 5,000 in winter to 7,000 in summer for three years.

Kitimat increases the power of Canada, literally and politically, and it is a Canadian project, although $120 million of its $500 million cost have been subscribed by Britain, and American contractors dominate the construction work. When Kitimat begins operations late this year, a new industrial revolution will have come to the Pacific Northwest.

To Correct Abuse

The Ontario Government is speedily moving to protect the public from the practices of an unscrupulous minority of the legal profession. We referred to some of these practices yesterday in discussing the charges made by W. M. Nickle, MLA for Kingston. His accusations were directed primarily against lawyers who have been bilking clients and the Unsatisfied Judgement Fund in motor accident cases. One of the amendments to the Highway Act proposed by the Minister of Highways Thursday will restrict the amount of costs to be paid to the lawyers to not more than twenty per cent. of the amount paid out of the Unsatisfied Judgement Fund—if the amount is more than $500.

Mr. Nickle's accusations against the legal profession, cast in the highly-coloured rhetoric which has made him one of the ablest advocates in Eastern Ontario, bore somewhat severely upon the majority of his legal brethren, who are far from greedy and devious in their dealings with the public. Every profession has its black sheep. The large body of honourable lawyers will be just as glad to see these protections for the public as anyone else.

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: Lay abed this morning, reading the new biography of Dickens. Bed is the only proper place in which to read biography, I find. If I am up and supposedly stirring about, the contrast between the richly productive, meaningful and exciting life of a biographical subject and my own existence is too poignant. When I am in bed I am, for all practical purposes, dead and in Abraham's bosom, and I can be properly philosophic toward the lives of other men. The monstrous unhappiness and dissatisfaction which lay beneath the highly successful surface of Dickens' life is a melancholy subject for reflection. But one may envy him his friends; he seemed to know every one of his time who had one idea to rub against another. I am a Dickens enthusiast, though not a Dickens idolator, and it seems to me that his view of life, which looks so distorted to so many people, was nearer truth than is commonly supposed. The world is still full of Dickens characters, without a Dickens to tell their story.

MONDAY: To the movies to see "The Happy Time", which I did not want to miss as it is made from a novel by a Canadian, and its scene is the city of Ottawa, with which I have some acquaintance. But I found that it was an Ottawa unknown to me—an Ottawa full of gaudily dressed Canadians of French descent, who swore fantastic oaths such as "Name of a Name" and "One thousand Thunders!" Such swearing, and such hard-working gallantry as they indulged in, have never come within my sphere when I have visited our chilly capital. Occasional snatches of French popped up in the dialogue, and there was a boy who kept saying "Be Ann", whenever he was pleased about anything. It took me quite a long time to realize that this was a Hollywood child actor's stab at the French word "Bien" . . . I cannot subscribe to the Hollywood belief that you can make people seem foreign by forcing actors to talk bad English. French people, conversing in their own tongue, do not use stilted, highly ceremonious expressions and arthritic grammar; they are usually pithy and colloquial. Surely this atmosphere is best rendered in pithy and colloquial English?

TUESDAY: Had a long conversation today with a man who is keenly interested in the scientific feeding of pigs, and he told me a good deal about pig-starters—a type of food which has previously escaped my notice. But pig-starter must be fairly palatable, even for the adult human, as it is made of several excellent ingredients and coated with candy; in some cases, I understand, this candy coating even has a red stripe in it, as pigs are gay and frivolous creatures, and like their food to be dressed up. How different, this, from the attitude of my farming ancestors, who regarded pigs as animated garbage trucks, and fed them a nauseating soup at which goats were known to gag. Only one of my great-uncles had any special ideas about pig-food; he fed his pigs windfall apples and great quantities of beechnuts, and the resulting pork was said to have a delicious flavour, though I never tasted any of it, and am sceptical of what my relatives think delicious. He was considered an eccentric and pig-pamperer . . . What would happen if human beings were fed as scientifically as farm beasts? Would we become a race of giants? Would we have nicer natures?

WEDNESDAY: The modern enthusiasm for the deep-freeze interests me, but I am not in the forefront of the movement, for I have observed that quite a lot of frozen food has a taste of brown paper, and is not always completely unfrozen. I lost my appetite for snow and ice when I was a boy. But I feel that the real possibilities of the deep-freeze technique have not been explored. If it can halt decay and arrest all bodily processes, why can the machine not be used as a baby-tender? Consider: a week-end is being planned, and parents are wondering what they can do with the infant; aha! pop it in the deep-freeze, and thaw it out on Monday morning, unharmed and the better for a thorough rest. Junior is behaving badly at school; the family psychiatrist says that he is going through "a phase"; put him in the deep-freeze until the phase has run its course. An expectant mother, who adores the memory of Queen Victoria, is told that her offspring will be born about May 10th; she deep-freezes herself until midnight, May 23rd, and Little Victoria Alexandrina makes her debut, (perhaps a little stiff and blue) on the great Queen's birthday. Deep-freezing may prove the boon of the age.

THURSDAY: My gramophone, cherished companion of my leisure hours, is hoarse. Every record, about half-way through, scrapes and coughs, and the needle jumps. So this evening a celebrated specialist in such maladies came to see it, and I set the machine going, solicitously, as one invites an invalid to demonstrate his symptoms. Would it play hoarsely? Would the needle jump? Who needs to ask! The bewitched contrivance played enchantingly, and the specialist stood by, watching me with an oblique and quizzical glance. It was humiliating—nay, mortifying. But it was a fine exemplification of the Buddhist doctrine of Brahmah—the Spirit which pervades and inspires all Matter, whether alive or inert. Bramah certainly exists, and what is more, Bramah has a warped sense of humour.

❖ ❖ ❖

FRIDAY: I read of a man today who has been awarded a $30,000 scholarship at a Canadian university. This deepens a conviction which has possessed me for some time that the big money these days is in some kind of scholarly work. If he plays his cards properly, a student may go from early High School right through the university and out the other side into post-graduate work, on scholarships. He can support himself in this way until he is about 32, after which there will be an ugly period of actual wage-earning. By then he has the strength to weather this testing-time, he should be able, at 40, to convince some Foundation or other that he is too fine a spirit for a coarsely competitive world, and climb on the gravy-train once more. And with reasonable luck he should stay there until he retires, full of honours, at the age of 70, and quits the university campus forever. But by then his fame should be so great that a commercial firm will offer him a handsome retaining fee just to be handy if anything should go wrong in their particular field—soap, chlorophyll elastic stockings or whatever branch of science they deal in. This is the Golden Age of scholarship.

❖ ❖ ❖

SATURDAY: For the first time in several weeks I found myself this afternoon without anything to do. Of late I have suffered from congestion of the calendar; every hour of every day has been painfully crammed with duties and obligations. This afternoon I was free—free as a bird. But like a bewildered prisoner suddenly ejected from his dungeon I did not know what to do with my liberty. I tried the opera broadcast, but the reception was terrible and the opera—what I could hear of it—was worse. I composed myself for a nap in my chair, but every five minutes or so I would leap up, wide awake, shouting "All right! Don't strike me! I'll do it at once"—a horrible reflection of my life for the past six weeks. I tried a few light household tasks, but they were like work, and I wanted to avoid work. I thought of going for a walk, but the outer world was an indecisive mess of hail, snow, rain and fog. I paced up and down, pretending that I was thinking, but soon tired of it. By four o'clock I was almost frantic with leisure; if I did not find some pleasant way of loafing soon, my afternoon would be gone. And sure enough, it did go, and the jaws of duty closed on me again. Oh, the pity of it!

A Great Showman

By ROBERT MILLER

IT is pleasant to think that a memorial panel has been put up in St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden, in memory of the late Sir Charles Cochran. He was perhaps the most exuberant theatrical producer of his day and at one time must have had half-a-dozen shows running in the West End. They were of all sorts—revues, musical comedies, plays, cabarets— but the ones he loved best were undoubtedly those that gave him a chance to indulge in his passion for spectacle.

How well I remember the first night of "The Miracle," which Cochran put on with a lavishness surprising even for him. Famous stars, well-known designers, expert of every kind and from all part of Europe had been pressed into service. The whole thing was fabulous. The Gothic architecture of the stage had, I remember, been built out into the auditorium so that everybody was a little uncertain as to whether they had come to the right place or had somehow strolled into a rather bizarre Victorian church.

Like most great showmen, Cochran always seemed to be either very rich or very poor. Perhaps his best days were when he cooperated with Noel Coward in a number of dazzling and witty revues that still seem to be among the best I have ever seen. Cochran provided the frills and Coward the wit. He never did anything quite so good after partnership unhappily broke up. The trouble was that Cochran overloaded his revues with too much spectacle: there were too many dances, too many tableaux, too much Gothic and all that. One got a little bored.

Towards A Better World

(Le Progres de Hull)

In a judgment of the Superior Court of Quebec Hon. Justice Oscar Boulanger affirms that motorists are not alone in having obligations. Pedestrians have theirs. "At least they are under an obligation not to rush into suicide by throwing themselves without any precaution across the path of heavy traffic," said the judge. For our part, if we have, more than once, denounced the stupidity and imprudence of motorists, we do not hesitate to say that a pedestrian should do his part and show himself as prudent as the motorist at the wheel should be. Let both of them do their part and accidents will be much less numerous.

JUST A LAMP

Johnnie, aged four, appeared at his father's study door clasping in his hands a forlorn-looking chick which had strayed from a neighbour's incubator.

"John," said his fater, sternly, "take that chicken back to its mother."

"It hasn't got a mother," answered John.

"Well, take it back to its father," said the boy's parent, determined to maintain authority.

"It hasn't got a father, either," said Johnnie. "It hasn't got anything but an old lamp."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else. I have sworn by myself, the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness and shall not return. That unto me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear. Surely, shall one say, in the Lord have I righteousness and strength: even to him shall men come; and all that are incensed against him shall be ashamed. (Isa. 45: 22-24.)

❖ ❖ ❖

To whom will ye liken me, and make me equal, and compare me, that we may be like?

They lavish gold out of the bag, and weigh silver in the balance, and hire a goldsmith; and he maketh it a god: they fall down, yea, they worship.

They bear him upon the shoulder, they carry him, and set him in his place, and he standeth; from his place shall he not remove: year, one shall cry unto him, yet can be not answer, nor save him out of his trouble. (Isa. 46: 5-7.)

❖ ❖ ❖

I beseech you therefore, brethern, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (Rom. 12: 1, 2.)

"I've spent nearly $20,000 on that girl's education," complained the aggrieved father, "and here she goes and marries a fellow with an income of only $2,000 a year."

"Well," said the friend of the family, "that's 10 per cent. on your investment. Pretty good going, I should say."

An Aberdeen woman went to her kirk one Sunday and heard an impressive sermon on the Good Samaritan. So impressed was she that on her return she said to a friend, "I'll never turn a beggar frae my door ony mair."

A few days later a tramp knocked at her door, and, true to her resolve, she ran indoors and cut a slice of bread from the lodger's loaf.

This In Ten Years

(Edmonton Journal)

Hollywood's favorite word "colossal" may quite properly be applied to Alberta's 1953-54 budget. It forecast a record government expenditure of $174,083,130, which is a massive increase of $50,507,000 over last year's total of $123,576,000. Of these expenditures $137,958,130 is to be drawn from current revenues, and the remainder, $46,125,000, from reserves. Revenues for 1953-54 are estimated at $138,368,160, also an all-time record, and an increase of $21,511,890 over last year.

It is instructive to compare these figures with those for the 1943-44 budget, just ten years ago. In that year, expenditures were $22,218,636 and revenues $21,926,827.

Local Hockey In The Halcyon Days When Teams Had Seven Men, No More

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

Peterburians (that's us, so to speak) may be classified conveniently in two divisions:

1. The Juvenilia, i.e. all who have not yet attained the age of fifty; and

2. All those who remember hockey days in the old Charlotte Street rink.

With the age of noisy and gilded youth we are not concerned here. For, if our eardrums can stand it, we are certain to hear enough of the marvels of an atom and auto age, in a recital punctuated with louder and louder bangs.

Let us look at the halcyon days of hockey when teams were each of seven good men and true—and no more. Surely if Canada is still a free country, those who lived in those days retain a right to hear themselves think.

And who shall say them nay if they choose to think about the time when the maestro, Angus McIntosh, with hose and broom, was out-smoothing the glass-makers in laying the ice-surfaces in the old ark-like Temple of Sport in Charlotte Street.

TALK OF OLD

Still among us are a good number of sprightly over-fifties who are not gout-ridden greybeards, or even bald, or toothless. Watch two or three of them foregather. Talk may well begin with a few remarks on our sissified modern winters, which are not at all like those when old King Boreas was a he-man. In the decent deep-freeze winters of old weren't the snowdrifts shoulder-high as snowdrifts should be? Then may be noted a bit of chest-expansion which shows clearly the discussion has got around to the glories of those winters of the Nineties when Peterborough had three teams battling simultaneously in the various OHA schedules—all going at least to the semi-finals. Chest expansion, plenty of it—why not!

Thumb-nail sketches by the late Fergus Kyle, of Toronto, reproduced herewith, depict members of the Peterborough Seniors of 1897 as they appeared in an exhibition game against the TAC's in the Caledonia rink, Toronto, on March 6. Though the half-time score was 3-1 in Peterborough's favor, the final tally stood 6-4 against them. The sketches illustrate an article by the Toronto Saturday Night's sports commentator of the time.

The writer explains that two of Peterborough's stellar players were not present. Had Lionel King and Walter ("Scuddy") Phelan been playing, the observer believed the score would have been reversed. For in point of speed and stick-handling finesse Lionel King, son of Dr. R. King, (himself later a physician) may well hold a top-bracket place for all time among Peterborough's hockey stars. "Scuddy," too, is assured of a lasting niche in the Hall of Fame. Cool and resourceful, he was a tower of strength in both hockey and lacrosse and a perennial favorite of the fans. The line-ups in the Caledonia rink game were:

Peterborough: Goal, Hollingshead; point, Montgomery; cover point, Adams; forwards, Graham, Ashe, Roger Davidson and Crossley.

TAC: Goal, Helliwell; point, Windeyer; cover point, Brummell; forwards, Labatt, Donaldson, Miller and Carruthers.

Referee, Crawford.

TAC STYLE

For the exhibition game, TAC did not play a strictly OHA team. Borrowed players, or "ringers," opposing Peterborough were Helliwell and the brilliant Labatt of the Bank League, and Donaldson of the Wellingtons. Donaldson and Miller were counted as "two of the best shots in Toronto."

Chris. Graham and Wilf. Crossley, then of the Peterborough Junior team, were drafted as substitutes and both acquitted themselves with distinction. Graham was credited with several fast rushes. Roger Davidson was usually an aggressive, close-checking forward.

Montgomery and Adams are remembered by the older fans as two of the strongest defense men of their time. "Monty," weighty and clear-headed, seldom was out-manoeuvred at point, while Sam Adams at cover, was always formidable in checking and frequently in long rushes. Hollingshead, though goaler on this occasion, was better known later for his prowess at cover-point, when the quick-witted Ernie Wasson guarded the goal. Several of the Peterborough team were bankers: "Holly" remained many years with the Bank of Nova Scotia; Ashe, formerly of Winnipeg, was with a Norwood bank. He was an exceptionally fast skater, and effective in his shooting.

In those days "lifting" was looked upon as a major accomplishment. Sports writers were forever telling of "magnificent," or some other kind of superlative, long or high "lifts."

1897 GAME

The same Toronto writer went to Peterborough, on February 20, 1897, to see the semi-final game of the Junior O.H.A. series, which resulted, Wellingtons, 6; Peterborough III, 3. It was described "in many respects a first-class exhibition of hockey, clean and devoid of roughness."

A glance at the Intermediate and Junior personnel shows how younger Peterborough players were rounding into form for Senior honors later. "Rolly" Glover was then a promising Junior, playing "a good game at point," with what was that season "a new team with little practice. Crossley and King were both "fast men and good shots." Thorne at cover point "was quick and lifted well," while Dixon, the goaler, "was cool and stopped cleverly." The commentator congratulated Peterborough on its "creditable showing in entering three teams in the O.H.A., each playing in the semi-finals."

Hockey players of that time were not inconsiderable consumers of food and the gastronomic amenities were usually well taken care of by George Graham of the Oriental hotel. A dinner followed the Junior game here mentioned, at which H. R. H. Kenner, then president of the local team, remarked that "it was the best refereed game ever seen in Peterborough" — a tribute to Mr. Brown, who had officiated on the ice.

THE "COLTS"

When the "Colts" came into being a bevy of younger players skated into the spotlight of renown and held it for many years. In this fast-moving group were such players as Bert Belleghem, Harold and Roy Armstrong, Bill Cavanah, Bill Crowley, Harry Morgan, Fred Whitcroft, Harry King (Lionel's younger brother) and others who in the main, carried on creditably later in more mature company. With the passing years came stalwarts from the ranks of the new rookies, too numerous for individual mention.

Round about the turn of the century when the Victorian era was fading out of history, the old Charlotte Street rink faded with it, as a hockey centre. The Brock Street arena became the new vortex. And so there passed, too, into the limbo of almost forgotten things the ancient wheeze about Peterborough's "band-box" or "billiard-table" rink in which the hometown players had the advantage of knowing all the carom shots. No longer could be hurled the barbed gibe that on an ice area so small "the forwards found it exceedingly difficult to elude the defence." Nevertheless, to all such jaundiced critics, the Peterboroughs had a devastating rejoinder — for didn't they come home as often as not after their battles on rinks afar with sizeable strings of scalps dangling at their belt? After all, a condition may well speak louder than a theory — and have the last word.

GIRLS' HEROES

Peterborough girls of that time all had their favorite hockey heroes. They followed the news avidly and turned out lustily to lend their smiles and cheers to the hometown cause. Who was the handsomest Idol of the Ice in the mauve, fin de siecle years? Juniors. Just ask Mom—perhaps she'll tell you perhaps she'll not. For she has her own pet memories—and let's not be impertinent, or too fussy about calendars.

Few—very few—of the gladiators of the old Charlotte Street arena remain among us today. If we review in memory the long file of those who have passed on, the Juvenilia of today may well join their elders in a moment of silent homage to them. And let us at the same time rejoice with the living and, in particular, doff our hats to one of the "noblest Romans of them all"—one who without benefit of any mysterious Ponce de Leon spring has found the Spirit of Perpetual Youth.

Gentlemen, a toast: To Mr. Chris. Graham, who has Played the Game for Peterborough, and played it well, since the Nineties, every good wish for more and more years of more and more abundant life.

POSTSCRIPT

Newspapermen are frequently classed by many of their fellowmen as more or less necessary nuisances who should be written off, or disposed of as speedily and painlessly as possible in vats of boiling oil. Yet they do not all come prematurely to the bad end usually predicted for them.

NEWSPAPERMEN

It is perhaps noteworthy that at least five of the former daily newsmen who were writing about hockey in Peterborough just before or just after the turn of the century are still living and active, in stubborn defiance of their manifest destiny.

In Alberta and Ottawa is Senator W. A. (to his old Peterborough friends, "Billy") Buchanan, now publisher of the Lethbridge Herald; while living in Toronto are Mr. Ernie Clarry, Mr. Bert Huston, Mr. Sam Moore and the present writer.

A check-up of hockey history reminds us, moreover, that newspapermen do sometimes leave something in the sands of time besides footprints betokening misspent lives. Through many years, the late Rolly Glover, one-time President of The Examiner, a veteran hockey player, was an assiduous and clear-visioned execu-

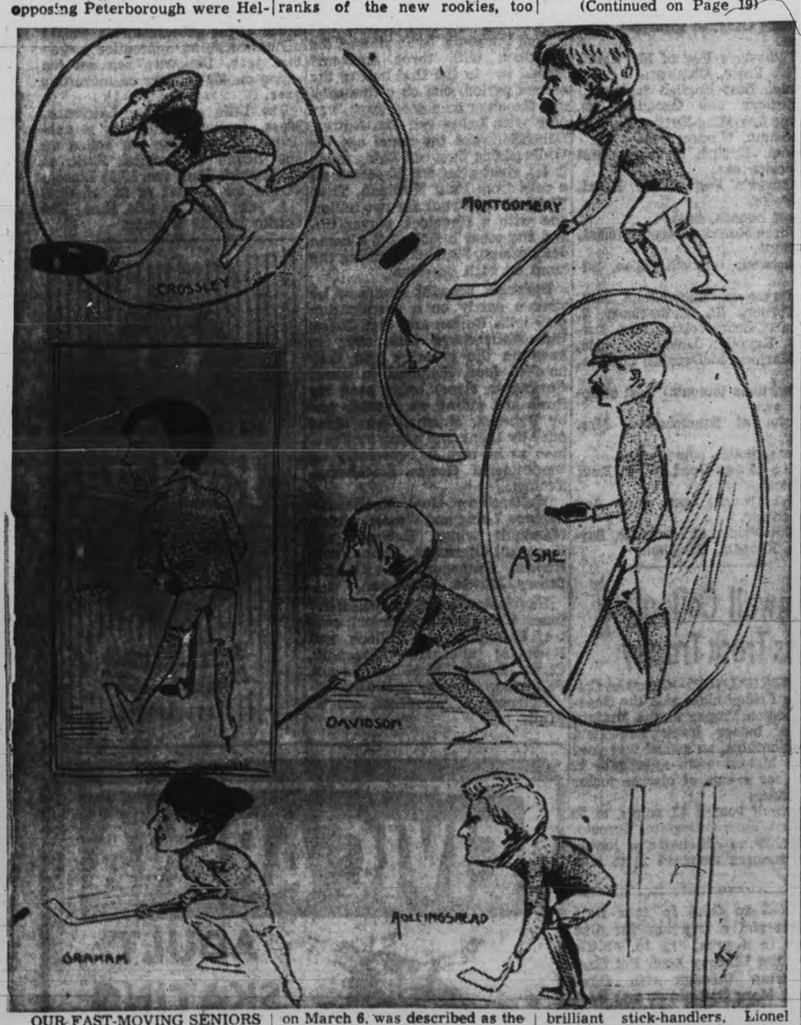
Clocks, Skulls And Other Old Things

The next time you visit the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto you may idly examine a set of old wooden clock works on a substantial stand outside the curator's office.

These handmade mechanical workings were taken from the large clock in the tower of St. John's Church, Peterborough, when it was dismantled. From their final resting place in the basement of the Public Library they were shipped to Toronto some time ago. The curator considers them to be a valuable piece in the Canadian pioneer section of the museum.

Would that we knew where other district memorabilia disappeared that were once housed in the musueum on the top floor of the public library. Until 1914 or so the Peterborough Museum was considered one of the finest in the province.

The first Peterborough Historical Society assembled and supervised a museum in the home of the late Judge R. M. Dennistoun in Inverlea Park who willed the handsome property to the city. This was the beginning. The collection was then moved to the library and was painstakingly catalogued, encouraged and supervised by the late City Engineer T. A. S Hay, who, it is thought now, spent considerable of his own money on it.



From the years of the First World War until the end of the Second, the museum was a dust-catcher filled with broken and rifled showcases and the remaining pieces were carted down to the library basement in 1946 where you will find them now.

Most of the old documents listed in the record book of the "Victoria Museum" have been saved by chief librarian William Graff and his staff. They also purchase material from time to time when funds permit and are constantly on the lookout for old books, especially of Kawartha district nature, and are always glad to hear from people who have some to dispose of.

The refurbishing of some of the old material on hand, the collection of more and the housing of it is a problem that the current Historical Society will be faced with. They gave the matter some thought at their meeting on Friday evening and a further report on the meeting will be found elsewhere in today's newspaper.

RECORD OF THE VICTORIA MUSEUM, Peterborough, is examined by chief librarian William Graff. The historical documents listed therein are fairly intact and have been filed by his staff but the few artifacts in the basement are a sorry reminder of a once valuable collection. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

OUR FAST-MOVING SENIORS of 56 years ago sketched while in action at the Caledonia rink, Toronto, by the late Fergus Kyle, gifted newspaper artist, then with Saturday Night and many years with the Daily Star. The last half of this exhibition game, on March 6, was described as the fastest display of hockey seen in Toronto that season. The Toronto TAC's, reinforced by several top-line players from other city teams, overcame Peterborough's half-time lead of 3-1 and won 6-4. Two of Peterborough's most brilliant stick-handlers, Lionel King and Walter ("Scuddy") Phelan, were absent from the line-up. Drafted for the emergency, Chris Graham and Wilf Crossley, both then juniors, won their full share of honors in a battle against heavy odds.

Your Garden:

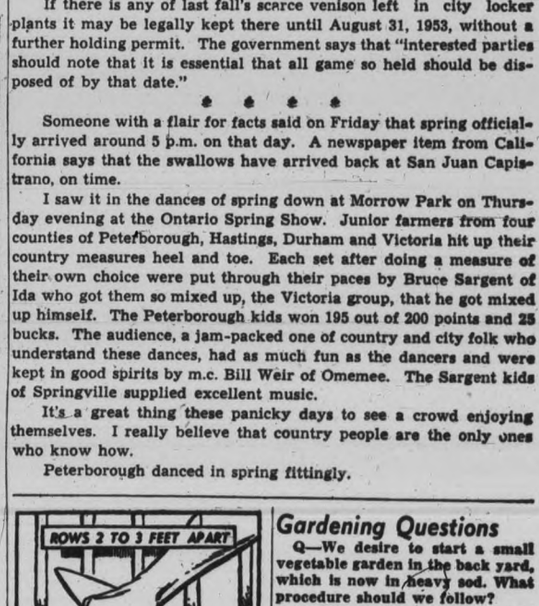
Early Seeds For A Successful Year

By HENRY PREE (N.E.A.)

March is generally conceded to mark the end of winter and thus stir the gardener to plan for a more successful year. The old gardener, observing the splendid condition of the soil while planting a gift rose, immediately thought of garden peas.

Ever mindful of his New England boyhood training, he purchased seed and made plans to prepare the required space.

Peas are a cool weather crop and seed must be sown as early in the spring as possible to insure development before hot weather arrives. Light soil is ideal since it warms up earlier in the spring, but a well drained heavy soil, rich in organic matter and well limed, will also produce a satisfactory crop.



Seeds are sown in furrows, an inch apart and an inch and a half deep in rows two to three feet apart. Treat all pea seed with an inoculant such as legume aid or nitrogen. Inoculation enables pea plants to obtain nitrogen from the air and fix it in available form for both the pea plant and for the crops which will be grown on the same piece of land.

To secure thorough inoculation, each seed must be well coated with the powder or jelly. Seed is placed in any clean container and thoroughly moistened (not soaked), the inoculant poured over the seeds and stirred or mixed until all the seeds are well coated. Inoculation insures a more vigorous root and top growth. Inoculated seed should be sown immediately after treatment.

Tall varieties, such as Telephone, Perfection and Alderman, require a support of either brush or wire to keep them off the ground, while the dwarf and semi-dwarf varieties, such as Burpeena Early, Motts Excelsior, Laxtonian, and Little Marvel, may be grown without support.

One pound of seed is sufficient for 100 feet of row, and from this the gardener should harvest a bushel of peas. The recommended method is to sow, all at one time, varieties that require different periods for maturing, because early sowings get a better start and produce a greater crop than the successive sowings made later in the spring after the soil was dried out.

Powdery mildew, a disease attacking peas in hot weather, is controlled by spraying with bordeaux mixture or dusting with sulphur. There is no control for root rot, a soil infesting organism; just do not grow peas in that spot for at least five crop years. The pea aphid is the one insect to worry the gardener. Control is by frequent contact applications of Black Leaf 40 in spray form.

Careful planting of peas will pay you dividends.

POLITICS

The most melancholy of human reflections, perhaps, is that, on the whole, it is a question whether the benevolence of mankind does most good or harm.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

Until eight months ago we Kawarthans had little to brag about in the matter of background.

We could go back 135 years in the written record and review the pioneering settlement of our ancestors with some accuracy. We hoped timidly that there was truth that Champlain had passed our way and, though his route has never been definitely established in the immediate vicinity, the story added to our background stature.

Last July, however, a group of experts from the Royal Ontario Museum turned back our history 2,000 years when they revealed village campsites of the ancient Mound Builders along Rice Lake and the Trent.

Historically, we had arrived.

The Peterborough Examiner broke the initial and subsequent reports. Toronto newspapers and a Montreal weekly magazine featured our place in the ancient past.

We were elated.

The whole discovery had a great aura of importance at the time but eight months of uncanny silence has taken the edge from our ardour. Many of us hoped that it would be but a start to a final full-dress program at the provincial-federal level. We hoped that the Serpent Mounds would eventually be developed into a national historic shrine marked by bronze stones and cairns that thousands of people would visit them yearly.

We were promised an archaeological field report at least by late fall of '52 and are now wondering, (if it was prepared) why it has never been made public. Is the report gathering dust on the top of some minister's bookcase in Queen's Park? Is it locked away in some dark vault to be forgotten or has it been mulched into a waste paper bale?

We would like to know.

As taxpayers we are not willing to shrug the whole thing off. Is it being mercenary to suggest that, having paid indirectly for the job, we would like to review the account?

It isn't just that.

The whole thing was given too much publicity to drop like a hot potato and, having a district pride in the outcome of the investigation, we hope some day that the dream of the archaeologists for developing a national shrine will come true.

Time for the publication of the Serpent Mounds report is long past due.

It is good to learn that the Peterborough Nature Club made a net profit of $97 from their recent presentation of Dick and Ada Bird's outdoor film. Half of the amount goes to the Federation of Ontario Naturalists. Our bird watchers are as keen with a business deal as they are with a pair of binoculars, it seems, and other clubs with similar programs might tear a page from their book.

If there is any of last fall's scarce venison left in city locker plants it may be legally kept there until August 31, 1953, without a further holding permit. The government says that "interested parties should note that it is essential that all game so held should be disposed of by that date."

Someone with a flair for facts said on Friday that spring officially arrived around 5 p.m. on that day. A newspaper item from California says that the swallows have arrived back at San Juan Capistrano, on time.

I saw it in the dances of spring down at Morrow Park on Thursday evening at the Ontario Spring Show. Junior farmers from four counties of Peterborough, Hastings, Durham and Victoria hit up their country measures heel and toe. Each set after doing a measure of their own choice were put through their paces by Bruce Sargent of Ida who got them so mixed up, the Victoria group, that he got mixed up himself. The Peterborough kids won 195 out of 200 points and 25 bucks. The audience, a jam-packed one of country and city folk who understand these dances, had as much fun as the dancers and were kept in good spirits by m.c. Bill Weir of Omemee. The Sargent kids of Springville supplied excellent music.

It's a great thing these panicky days to see a crowd enjoying themselves. I really believe that country people are the only ones who know how.

Peterborough danced in spring fittingly.

Gardening Questions

Q—We desire to start a small vegetable garden in the back yard, which is now in heavy sod. What procedure should we follow?

A—Spread lime, at the rate of five pounds per 100 suare feet, and a 10-6-4 or similar fertilizer, at the rate of three lbs. per 100 square feet, over the area and spade or plow to a depth of 10 or 12 inches. These materials will hasten decomposition of the sod, help to hold moisture and act as a source of food for soil bacteria. Break up the soil lumps and allow to stand until seed sowing time when the soil should be thoroughly pulverized by raking.

Q—Is it advisable to grow mushrooms in the house cellar?

A—Advisable if treated as a novelty and one can maintain a humid atmosphere and a temperature strictly between 50 and 60 degrees. Become well informed with their requirements before investing. Well-composted manure is a necessity.

LOSE OUT BY POINT — Kenner Collegiate Rams lost the lakeshore bantam basketball championship Friday night by a single point. SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Though an early meeting of the senior ball club here will be called to discuss matters, it appears a foregone conclusion that the senior Petes will not operate this year. Not enough players and no league. Most of the veterans of last year's COBL champs are retiring, and Belleville and Kingston plan to play away down east —a prohibitive trip for the Petes, if they did get in. So, we'll have a good junior club operating this summer in the Lakeshore League, and gradually building toward another and younger senior team within a year or two, if all goes well. But there'll be no senior ball here this summer, we're quite sure. Older fans will regret this but sports go in cycles, and the senior brand will return another year, maybe next, maybe in '55 or '56. In the manner of Robert Service, let us lament briefly:

* * * * * *

Hello, Jim Hall, you are looking fit,
A dignified office chief:
You are not as young as you were back then,
Yet your waist shows no excess beef.
(Was it you, Jim Hall, three decades ago
All over the field fair flew,
As Riverside fans roared with acclaim,
Was it you, Jim Hall, was it you?)

* * * * * *

Was It Really You?

Hi, Max Swanston, how are you doing?
A question one scarcely need ask:
Looking prosperous, plump and happy
As you take on a political task.
(Was it you, Swanny, old catching star,
Back about 'twenty-two,
Who packed in fans near the river's edge,
Was it you, Max, old man, was it you?)

* * * *

Hail, all you stars of other years,
When the diamond sport was great,
And other strong COBL clubs
Dotted a Liftlock date.
(Was it all you aces of yesteryear
Who thought when your time was through,
That senior ball would still thrive here,
Was it you, old-timers, was it you?)

Oshawa Hires Coach

Oshawa Red Raiders of the intermediate ORFU had a rally night this week and named Jack Wedley, former Argos' ace, as coach for the 1953 grid semester. Jack plans a spring clinic to check on Oshawa talent and put the prospects through some gym work and mayhap a bit of outdoor drilling ere the weather warms up. Some Toronto guys will help round out the autumn Raiders in our grouping. Wedley informed the gathering that his team would be pass-happy. Said he: "Today's game features the pass, so we'll pass 'em dizzy. I have my own pass system, sort of the best of a couple I've seen that work well." One must admit that the Raiders, who slipped a shade last fall after beating Cobourg the previous year, have a first-rate football man in Wedley, a fellow who has starred for years in Big Four ranks, and who can put his finger on a lot of promising grid imports. We think the whole group will be stronger than a year ago, which means that the champion Peterborough Orfuns will have to build, too.

A bunch of former hockey greats of one-time pro and amateur calibre will take to the ice in the Peter Campbell Memorial Arena, Port Hope, next Tuesday night at 8:30. They're the old crocks of Port Hope playing the Bowmanville vets, proceeds being split between the Salvation Army building fund and midget hockey in the lakeshore town. Dit Clapper and Cy Wentworth (Maroons' ace of other years) have agreed to do the refereeing. Some of the oldsters on parade with these teams that eve will be Sheeny Moise, Dutch and Mike Osborne, Finnegan Hills and Alex Hills, Stan Crossett, Joe Micks, Denny Demison, Dutch (Tubby) Harwood, and a bunch more. Sounds like an item from a 1932 newspaper.

Kenner Cagers Edged Out By Just One Point In Series With Oshawa

Kenner Collegiate Rams lost the lakeshore district bantam basketball championship Friday night to Oshawa Central by a heart-breaking one point. Whipping Central 66-47 at Kenner Friday, the Rams lost the two-game series 97-96. For Oshawa won the first game earlier this week in Oshawa 50-30.

On the small Kenner floor the Rams kept control of the game from the start, checking the Central quintet closely. But Central relied upon the 20-point lead from the first game.

The Rams led by only a point 15-14 in the first quarter and then went ahead 28-23 at the half. They surged ahead 46-31 at three-quarters and were down only five points on the round.

Then came the early minutes of the fourth. Central tried desperately to stem the Kenner attack. But the Rams finally tied the round 52-all (52-32 on the game). From therein it was seesaw all the way until the last 12 seconds.

Then Central hooped a field basket to take the lead on the round by two points. Bob Druery had the chance to tie the round when he was awarded two free throws. He made one, missing the second and tying point.

The shooting by both quintets was the game highlight. Koloosie, a shorty for Central was deadly on long shots in particular but Goodall and Vaughan could hit the hoop with ease. Jerry Montgomery and Bob Druery found the range easily for the Rams.

Montgomery paced the Rams through the first quarter with eight of the Rams' 15. But he was matched by the well-distributed scoring of Central's Vaughan, Koloozie and Radkowski. Paul Parnell, Bob Hollingsworth, Montgomery and Druery gave Kenner the five-point lead at the half, despite the seven-point spree by Goodall.

Les Scharf joined Montgomery in the third quarter scoring to run up Kenner's game margin. Druery then sent the Rams further ahead in the fourth with a barrage of shots which netted 14 points. But Central's Radkowski, and Vaughan off-set those points with enough to win the title.

Druery led the scoring with 24 points, followed by Montgomery with 19. Oshawa's best was Goodall with 12.

Lineups:

Central (47)—Vaughan. Thomas, Koloozie, Payne, Olynik, Goodall, Voege, Radkowski, Horton.

SCHOOLBOY BOXER DIES

DENVER (CP)—Cloyd Hughes, 16, died in hospital Friday from head injuries suffered in a high school boxing match Tuesday. The bout was stopped in the third round when Hughes was taking a bad beating. He suffered a brain haemorrhage.

Jones In Five Bratton Kayos

NEW YORK (AP)—Hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago came from behind Friday night to knock out Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., in 2:52 of the fifth round of a welterweight bout at Madison Square Garden. Bratton weighed 149, Jones 152.

A 17-to-five favorite, the flashy 25-year-old Bratton was taking a good licking until he nailed his clever rival midway in the fifth with a smashing right to the jaw. Another right wobbled the former California middleweight champion.

Although he was dazed, Jones punched back at his keyed-up opponent. That was his undoing.

Bratton clipped him with a terrific left hook to the jaw and Jones fell on his back. He staggered to his feet as referee Ray Miller counted 10 and then sagged against the ropes.

New Track Star Toronto Girl Gains Accolades

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty-year-old Mary MacDonald, Canada's newest track star, is fleet of foot, charming of manner and as feminine as they come.

A Canadian—and probably a world—record, 6.8 seconds for 60 yards, was set recently in Hamilton by this attractive, dark-haired sprinter, whose uppermost thought now is:

"Can I do it again?"

In an interview, Mary, dressed in a dainty white blouse and light blue skirt, said:

"I got off to a good start in that heat and I knew I was running well. You can just tell when you are. My coach told me I gained about a yard right at the beginning and naturally in a 60-yard sprint to get away to a good start means nearly everything."

UNASSUMING GIRL

Mary, who runs for the East York Track Club and is rather an unassuming girl, is keyed up by comments of sports writers such as:

"The East York flier will bear watching against the class of the United States."

The young five-foot-six, 126-pound sprinter makes some of her own clothes, but says she really has no time for hobbies or much else besides track work.

She trains three nights a week. It takes her an hour to get to the club, and that's after working all day as a stenographer with an insurance company.

Black's And Lindsay Win By Narrow Margins In Girls' Playoff Games

Black's defeated Civic Nurses 22-19 to open their Girls' City Basketball League finals last night in the YW, while Lindsay edged CGE 28-26 to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five junior finals. Collis a week ago took senior honors. They were two grand games Friday night, nip-and-tuck all the way and winding up with very narrow margins for the victors. The rival lasses were fairly flying at times, and plenty of close checking resulted in a raft of fouls and free tosses. D. Copp of Lindsay and Fran Hannam of Nurses each drew four personals late in their contests. The series will resume next Friday evening.

TIGHT ENOUGH

Black's took a tight 7-6 lead in the first half, after a 3-3 initial quarter. C. Gibson counted three points for them up to that time, C. Raper dropping in a basket, and R. Naylor and M. McGill clicked for a free throw each. For Nurses, Bev Dawe was the main gun to notch five points, all on foul shots, Betty Jaquith getting one.

In the last half, Black's got 15 points, their edge being 8-4 in the third quarter, since Nurses fought back furiously to outscore them 9-7 in the final frame and almost sew it up. Pacing Black's in this half was C. Raper with seven points in a sparkling showing, as M. Hollingsworth counted four. R. Naylor was good for two and M. McGill and C. Gibson one each. B. Jaquith led the losers in their late attack with four points, Marg Flavelle having three, and Carol Chestnut, Bev Dawe and F. Hannam two apiece. Teams:

Nurses: F. Hogg, C. Chestnut, B. Dawe, M. Flavelle, A. Rose, B. Jaquith, F. Hannam.

Black's: E. McIlhagga, R. Naylor, C. Raper, M. Hollingsworth, M. McGill, J. Fredericks, C. Gibson, M. Middleton.

AN EARLY LEAD

Lindsay racked up a healthy 19-11 lead in the first half, after leading 8-6 in the opening spasm, but were outscored 15-9 in the last half, they got but seven points in the third quarter to nine for CGE, and the latter had a 6-2 bulge on them in the fourth of a hotly-contested tilt.

Leading Lindsay's attack in the first half was Marg Owen with eigh points in a nifty effort, as L. Cullis and R. Gilson clicked for four each. H. Tsandilis had two and D. Copp one. For Electrics, Barb Luther led with four, Pat Gaskell getting three, Ruth Bullock two, and Dot Jackson and Jennie Luther one apiece.

The last half saw Lindsay lasses limited to four points by M. Owen, three by L. Cullis and one each by D. Copp and R. Gilson. Meantime, Dot Jackson got hot for CGE to fling in four field baskets and a free one for nine points in a great try to whittle down the Lindsay lead. Pat Gaskell came through with three points, Marg Batley two and Barb Luther one, but they ran out of time. Teams:

CGE: B. Luther, M. Jones, M. Batley, J. Luther, K. Calladine, S. Hubbert, S. Hubbert, R. Bullock, P. Gaskell, D. Jackson.

Lindsay: D. Copp, R. Gilson, M. Owen, H. Tsandilis, S. Alger, L. Cullis.

Cornwall Collegiate Wins Track Trophy

MONTREAL (CP)—Cornwall Collegiate Friday night won the Canadian Legion Trophy at the Eastern Canada indoor track and field championships, an award that goes to the highest team aggregate in points for events of classes junior and under.

Cornwall scored 32 points to 30 for East York Collegiate, Toronto. University of Michigan's junior-class runners amassed 15 to take third.

Wallaceburg Juves Take Opener By Two Goals Over Havelock In Finals

Wallaceburg finished strong to take a 7-5 OMHA juvenile "B" victory over Havelock here last night before nearly 700 hockey fans in Civic Arena. This was the first of their home-and-home provincial finals, and the Wallaceburg crew will carry a two-goal lead into the return match in the Western Ontario town next Saturday.

It was fine, fast hockey, exciting all the way, and Referees Ed. Woodcock and Bill Flint kept it well under control. There were but six minor penalties handed out, four of them to the winners. Three of the penalties resulted in goals for the team at full strength, Havelock twice cashing in and Wallaceburg once taking full advantage of the odd man.

WELL-MATCHED

The teams appeared quite well-matched throughout, on size, speed and ability. The Havelock boys had a good margin the first half of the game, holding a 4-1 bulge at one time. However, the westerners fought back to dominate play most of the second half as they gradually pulled up even, and then went ahead late in the fray. They also had a goal called back on them for a man in the crease.

The score was 1-0 for Havelock in the initial inning, and they had a 4-3 margin going into the third after each side had potted three. Wallaceburg coming on in the last half of the frame. The westerners clicked for four markers in the third chapter as Havelock tallied just once, though they made Goalie MacKenzie do the splits to keep out several more. Both goalies had plenty to do.

Bill Laing gave the homesters a 1-0 edge late in the first heat on a neat play after some hard, clean hockey with each side in turn threatening, but Havelock having more of the territorial play. The speedy action by the husky young fellows kept the hefty crowd—many from Havelock and district—in noisy and jubilant mood.

HE GOT THREE

Tom Paranuik (who starred for Havelock with three markers) tallied two in the first half of the second period, one on a fine solo, and the other on a good three-way play with Laing and Jim Ruttan. Babcock broke the goose egg for Wallaceburg then but Laing made it 4-1 right after for Havelock on a pass from Paul Newman. Then Wallaceburg struck for two tallies, one with a Havelock player off, and the other a fluke off a home defenceman, Marshall lighting the lamp on each occasion.

Paranuik brought cheers as he sank a dandy on a combination play with Ruttan and Jim Chase. But Wallaceburg took over to keep on the pressure and they notched four, Marshall (a smart finisher in close) being good for three and aiding on another one by Babcock. Marshall was aided once by Laing and again by Freeman as he tore in repeatedly on bespectacled Goalie Stackhouse. Teams:

Wallaceburg: Goal, MacKenzie; defence, Laing and Wasser; centre, Marshall; wings, Babcock and Freeman; alternates, Mann, Pratt, Rupert, Finnegan, Maynard, Emery, Mickle, Butterman.

Havelock: Goal, Stackhouse; defence, Kerry and Drummond; centre, Laing; wings, Pollock and Newman; alternates, Paranuik, Chase, Ruttan, McMillan, Logan, Patterson, Crowley and Hickey.

Referees, E. Woodcock and W. Flint.

Galt Clips Majors 5-1, Ties Series

GALT (CP)—Galt Black Hawks fired four goals in the third period Friday night to defeat Toronto St. Michael's 5-1 and tie their best-of-seven semi-finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series 1-1.

The third game will be played in Toronto Sunday.

Kenny Wharram paced Galt's third-period assault with two goals. Minnie Menard scored Galt's first goal in the second period and another in the final. Hec Lalonde scored the other. Bil Dineen counted for the Irish.

The first period was scoreless and in the second period each team scored once.

The officials ruled with an iron hand, meting out 19 penalties.

After Menard scored the opener, Dineen tied it up. The tie-breaker came at the six-minute mark of the final when Lalonde flashed the light. Wharram scored his two in a row and Menard sunk the fifth.

DeSpirito Starts Off After 400 Winners

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—Tony DeSpirito, the 17-year-old jockey who booted home a world record total of 390 winners last year, is off to a flying start in his quest to beat that mark.

The youngster is continuing as a full-fledged jockey the blistering pace which enabled him to break Walter Miller's 46-year-old record of 388.

Irked by critics who attributed much of his success to his weight allowance as an apprentice jockey last year, DeSpirito has set his sights on 400 winners or more this year.

The little guy from Lawrence, Mass., is well on his way to achieving his goal. He has rolled up one victory at Tropical Park, 41 at Sunshine Park and 18 at Lincoln Downs for a total of 60 winners.

A year ago at this time, DeSpirito had 10 winners.

'If' Word That Spells Hopes Of Three Teams; Boston Needs Single Point

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

IF . . . A word that spells the hopes of two National Hockey League playoff contenders this weekend. Two playoff spots are up for the taking and three teams fight for them tonight and Sunday. Of the six remaining games, five will decide in two nights what 204 couldn't in the space of five months. Detroit Red Wings have clinched top spot and Montreal Canadiens have nailed down second place. But Boston Bruins, Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs are forced to fight for third and fourth positions. They each have two games to prove themselves, but one must bow out.

New York Rangers are definitely out of the post-scheduled play, but the Broadway Blues can cause a heartache or two.

BY STATISTICS

As it now stands Boston is in third place, Chicago fourth and Leafs fifth. The statistical picture:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Boston	27	28	13	149	168	67
Chicago	25	28	15	162	171	65
Toronto	25	30	13	147	166	63

The week-end game picture:

Saturday—New York at Toronto, Boston at Montreal, Detroit at Chicago.

Sunday—Toronto at Boston, Montreal at Detroit, Chicago at New York.

The "if" picture:

Boston can clinch a playoff berth if it ties either of its two games.

If Chicago can earn three points—a tie and a win—Leafs are out.

If Boston loses both, Chicago loses one and wins one or ties two and Leafs win two, the three would be tied, in points, for third place. That would be Bruins and Leafs who would have 27 victories each. Third and fourth places would then be decided by the team that scored most goals during the season.

PLAY "IFFIE"

If Bruins earn one point, the last playoff position would be filled either by Leafs or Chicago. If the Hawks lose both and Leafs win one, Leafs are in on victories. If the Hawks win one or tie two, Toronto would have to win both games to tie Hawks in points. Leafs then would make it on the basis of having more victories.

If Chicago ties one and Leafs win both, Leafs make it by a point. Again if Chicago ties one and Leafs win one and tie one, both would be deadlocked in points, but Leafs would be in on victories. If Chicago loses both and Leafs tie both, the two would be tied both in points and in victories and the team scoring most goals over the season would be Stanley Cup contenders. A win by the Hawks and a loss by Toronto eliminates the Leafs.

And if it is too confusing to follow, basically the picture is this—any one of the three teams could end up in third or fourth place and anyone could be elimmated. Sunday night will tell.

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Trotters Friday night won their fifth consecutive Ontario junior basketball title, defeating Welland Lutherans 63-21. The win gave them the two-game, total-point series 134-63. Trotters won the first game 71-42 in Welland.

Helena Sulikowski chalked up 16 points, giving her a total of 42 for the series. Sonya Sahaidak scored 14 and Mary Lee, 13. Betty Walker, who scored 16 for Welland last Saturday, was top scorer for the losers with seven. Donna Lewis was second best for Welland with five points.

Trotters now try for their fifth consecutive Dominion championship against the winner of the Montreal-Cornwall series.

Welterweights End Training For Title Bouts

QUEBEC (CP)—Rocky Brisebois of Montreal and Bryan Kelly of Niagara Falls, Ont., wound up training sessions today in preparation for their Canadian welterweight championship fight here Monday.

The title was left vacant when welterweight champion Johnny Greco of Montreal announced his retirement several weeks ago. Greco is scheduled to present the championship belt to the winner.

Both Kelly and Brisebois—who have met twice before in non-title bouts—have expressed confidence of victory.

In previous meetings, Kelly won the first by a technical knockout and Brisebois won the return match with an eight-round split decision.

Kelly is favored over Brisebois for the title fight because of his superior punching power and stamina.

Kelly's record reads like this: 13 wins by a knockout, 11 wins by decision, two draws, two losses by technical knockout and five losses by decisions.

Brisebois has eight wins by knockouts, 15 by decision, three draws, two losses by technical knockouts and seven by decision.

Winner of the title fight must defend his title within 60 days against Fitzie Pruden of St Catharines, Ont., next in line on the list of contenders.

MONTREAL CAGERS WIN

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Montreal Hi-Aces took a 10-point lead in the Eastern Canada junior basketball semi-finals Friday night with a 74-64 victory over Saint John Junior Atlantics.

The Atlantics hung on until the final three minutes, when Hi-Aces romped through the tired band of port city hoopsters almost at will.

Fouls could easily have been the downfall of the Montreal and district champions, who had a total of 30 called against them to 18 for the New Brunswickers.

With this year's new rule allowing a second free shot on a foul if the first is missed, Saint John had 52 and made 24 good for points. Montreal made 13 of 32 "in the key" shots.

Montreal's Phil Flerquin scored 22 points.

Second game in the two-game, total-point series will be played here Saturday.

ALLAN CUP SERIES DATES

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—The Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-finals between Saint John Beavers and Smiths Falls Rideaus will resume here Tuesday night. The Rideaus lead the best-of-seven series 2-0. Club officials said the fourth game will be played here Thursday and the fifth on Saturday.

CHURCHILL HORSE WINS

NEWBURY, Eng. (KP)—Prime Minister Churchill's hurdler Non-Stop, won the $1,680 Highclere Handicap Friday. The four-year-old beat Welsh Flower and Casabell to the wire. Fred Winter, one of England's top jockeys, was aboard.

TULLY, Ireland (AP)—Louis B. Mayer, United States movie magnate, was reported Friday to have purchased Royal Charger, Ireland's prized thoroughbred sire, for $300,000. The Irish National stud recently purchased Tulyar, undefeated three-year-old champion of the continent last year, from the Aga Khan for $700,000.

SAUER'S FINGER BROKEN

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Hank Sauer's broken little finger is a matter of big importance to Chicago Cubs. It may keep big Hank, the "most valuable player" of 1952 in the National Baseball League, out of action for a month and throw him out of stride for two months. The Californian broke his little right finger in a slide earlier this week.

Mack Predicts Braves To Lose Money In '54

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) Connie Mack, retired manager of Philadelphia Athletics, predicts the Milwaukee Braves will lose money in 1954.

Commenting on the Braves' transfer, the 90-year-old baseball celebrity said Friday: "Boston can support two teams. I don't like the idea of the Braves moving out.

"The Braves will do well the first year they play in Milwaukee. But the second year they'll have to pay the bills themselves. It won't go good in Milwaukee after the novelty wears off."

Mack spent four of his 65 years in professional baseball in Milwaukee. He was part owner and manager of the Milwaukee team in the 1897 Western Association.

Favorites Capture Features In Montreal Legion Meet

MONTREAL (CP)—As expected, the favorites captured the feature events Friday night at the seventh running of the Canadian Legion's annual Eastern Canada indoor track and field championships.

There were no world record shattered, but the field of nearly 200 athletes gave a small forum crowd —3,000—a "run" for their money.

The crack University of Michigan runners, all Canadian boys, fared well. They came through in the Legion mile, two-mile open, one-mile relay, 1,000-yard open and one-mile junior.

The two 1952 Olympic champions entered in the meet—third successive year the event has carried title recognition for Eastern Canada—also came through with wins.

Only one "open" record was broken—the provincial open and the Canadian native mark of 3:32.2 for the one mile relay, set in 1952 by the University of Toronto, was beaten by the University of Michigan squad, which ran the course in 3:29.4.

RECORDS TOPPLE

Another Canadian native mark was set. Two provincial native records were bettered and one meet record was broken and another equalled.

Michigan's John Ross captured the Legion mile with a record time of 4:17.8, compared with the previous Canadian native mark of 4:19.7. The Oakvlile, Ont., boy finished far ahead of Montreal's Jack Alexander, running for Notre Dame University, and Mel Crawford, University of Toronto.

Andy Stanfield of New York, 200-metre Olympic champion, won the 50-yard dash open event in 5.4 seconds, one-tenth second slower than the meet record. Ross Coates of Hamilton and U. of Mich., was second and Walter (Pete) Sutton of Toronto, another Michigan runner, was third.

CARROLL SECOND

Lanky George Rhoden of Jamaica, Olympic 400-metre champ, took the 500-yard open, but not before being given a close call by Jackie Carroll of Verdun, Que., and U. of Mich. It was so close at the finish that both were clocked in the same time, 59.1.

Cornwall Collegiate, with the highest team aggregate in points for events of classes junior and under, won the Canadian Legion Trophy. The team scored 32 points to 30 for East York Collegiate, Toronto. University of Michigan's junior-class runners were third with 15 points.

Heats were run off in the afternoon in several of the lower-age classifications, but the major events were staged in the evening.

Michigan's distance runner, George Lynch of Toronto, won the two-mile open event in 9:55.6, finishing far ahead of Fred Gumpel, Montreal track and field.

Michigan scored again when Geof Dooley of Montreal, captured the 1,000-yard open with a time of 2:25.1, breaking the provincial native record of 2:27. Another Michigan athlete, Ron Wallingford, won the one-mile junior in 4:26.8.

Stewardship Subject Of Address To YPU

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — The Rev. V. M. Gilbert and Mrs. Gilbert were host and hostess to the Young People's Union.

Lorene Timlin, stewardship and training convener had charge of the worship service. The scripture reading was taken by Jean Willis and the meditation "How Much Land Does a Man Need." by Eunice Minifie. Dorothea Bowman led in prayer.

A poem "The Critic" was given by Lorene Timlin. Milton McIntosh received the offering.

The topic on "Stewardship" was given by the Rev. V. M. Gilbert who said: "Each one of us has one particular thing that he or she excels in. Skill isn't to be used as you please. Stewardship wasted in youth can never be made up."

Joyce Buttars read a poem "Smoke of a Thousand Villages." Dorothea Bowman accompanied at the piano for the hymns.

President Robert Turner conducted the business.

An invitation was received from Camborne YPU to attend their meeting in Camborne church on April 15, when Major Corbett of the Salvation Army, Cobourg, will be guest speaker. Warren Buttars was appointed to see about obtaining a play. The next meeting will be on April 2.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction after which lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge.

Golden Wedding Celebrated Near Codrington

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Grant Goodfellow, a well-known and highly respected couple celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage Wednesday at their home about three miles north of Codrington.

Approximately 100 friends and relatives called to extend congratulations and best wishes during the afternoon and evening. Mrs. R. McCann received the guests and was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow were married March 18, 1903, at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan at Morganston by the Rev. Sexsmith, assisted by the Rev. W. A. Bunner of Castleton. The bride's cousin, the late Mrs. Joseph George (nee Libby Moore), was bridesmaid and David Goodfellow of RR 1, Brighton, was groomsman for his brother.

RECALL WEDDING

They recall their wedding day was sunny and bright and they drove by horse and buggy to Colborne over muddy roads and quite a depth of slushy snow, taking the train to Toronto to spend their honeymoon. On their return they took up residence on the groom's farm, now owned by Mr. David Goodfellow. Later they lived where their son John resides, retiring in 1947 to their present residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow had a family of five: two daughters, Mrs. Percy Campbell (Ora) of Dartford; Louise RN, Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto; three sons, John of Codrington, James with the RCAF at Edmonton, Alta., and Donald, who died in 1944 during a mission with the RCAF.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow received many gifts and cards. Their family presented them with a chrome table and their neighbors in the Codrington community gave them four matching chrome chairs in grey and gold. Others gifts from relatives and friends included a silver tea service, copper hurricane lamps and bonbon dish, gold-trimmed tea service, cups and saucers and cake plates.

A certificate of congratulations was received from the provincial secretary, the Hon. Arthur Welsh.

Spring flowers decorated the spacious rooms. The dining table was covered with a lace cloth and was centred with a three-tier decorated anniversary cake flanked by gold candles and yellow daffodils. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Percy Campbell, Miss Louise Goodfellow, Mrs. Clare Ames, Mrs. Fred Ames and Mrs. John Goodfellow.

Bavasi Probes Morale Drop After Shifting Robinson

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers today sent vice-president Buzzy Bavasi to Miami to investigate reports of a serious morale problem arising from the shift of Jackie Robinson to third base.

Taking note of published reports, President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers said at Vero Beach:

"I can't believe that such a serious situation exists as no player has complained to Bavasi, (Fresco) Thompson or myself. Buzzy will join Fresco and Charlie (Dressen) in Miami and if there is anything more to this than the usual spring 'popoff' we will deal with the situation." Thompson is vice-president in charge of the farm system.

The reports, published in the New York Daily News and New York Herald Tribune, said resentment was growing among the Dodger players over the benching of Billy Cox, last year's regular third baseman, and Dressen's continued experiments to find a new third baseman.

The latest move by Dressen was to shift Robinson, normally a second baseman, to third base Wednesday.

Jim Gilliam, a Negro under contract to Montreal, replaced Robinson as second baseman. The rookie has fielded sensationally in spring practice.

Dick Young of the Daily News quoted Cox as saying:

"This ain't worth a damn. That's the way I feel about it."

Friday night Cox said he hadn't talked about the situation but added:

"I'd feel a lot better if Dressen talked to me about it."

Dressen retorted:

"When I was playing baseball I played where the manager told me and he didn't have to explain it to me. As far as that goes there is no reason now to believe Cox isn't the third baseman. This is an experiment. I think Robinson can play third and Gilliam is a better fielder than Robinson. If he can do it we will have a .300 hitter at third base."

Cox hit .259 for the Dodgers last year.

Roger Kahn of the Herald Tribune said the morale problem created by the switch of Robinson to third "is delicate now and may grow worse."

"When Gilliam moved to second and Robinson to third, resentment grew," he added.

Remillard Ridden Winner In Most Big Races In Ontario

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—When the racing season opens next month Pat Remillard, one-time Dakota cowboy and one of Canada's top riders, will be celebrating 25 years as a jockey.

Pat broke into organized racing after two years on the wildcat county fair circuit in Illinois. He rode against such saddle greats as Sonny Workman, Georgie (The Iceman) Woolf, Charley Kurtsinger and others. He grabbed headlines from New Orleans to New York and was leading rider at a number of stops on racing's major circuit, the "big apple."

His winning ways continued when he came to Canada 20 years ago to ride for a Toronto stable. Despite advancing years he has been first or second in winning mounts in Canada for the last four years.

HIGH COMMENDATION

Recently his skill received official recognition when the chairman of the Ontario racing commission, magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, recommended Remillard to be dean of a school for young jockeys the commission suggested setting up in Ontario.

Magistrate Bigelow said Pat "knows every trick of the trade."

His horsemanship was developed on the family ranch in North Dakota. The family, originally French-Canadian, settled first in Beresford, S.D., where Pat, one of a family of 13, was born in 1906.

A few months later they moved to Bowman, N.D., to a 1,600-acre ranch. Pat rode the range for the family and neighboring ranches before going to Illinois.

IN BIG TIME

After two years on the "leaky roof" circuit Pat made the jump to organized racing and rode his first winner at Bainbridge, O., July 17, 1930, on a horse called French Brigade.

JOCKEY 25 YEARS — When racing opens in Canada next month, Pat Remillard, one-time cowboy, will begin his 25th season as a jockey. Born in South Dakota, Pat came to Canada 20 years ago after riding on racing's big-time circuit from Florida to New York. He has been one of Canada's top jockeys ever since and has been recommended to head a school for young jockeys suggested by the Ontario racing commission.

As an apprentice he enjoyed great success. Later, when he lost the five-pound allowance, horses continued to win for him and he was leading rider at Havre de Grace, New York and other tracks in the early 1930s.

In May, 1933, while at Pimlico, Md., he accepted an offer to come to Canada from the Hastings Stable owned by Dr. W. P. St. Charles and W. H. Wright.

He has ridden winners of most of the big races in Ontario and, while not considered a "colorful" rider, is known for his skill at plotting a race.

NOTABLE UPSET

He drove the maiden filly Paolita to an upset victory in the 1943 King's Plate before a crowd of 40,000 over a muddy Woodbine strip in pouring rain. He had planned the race well and studied the track that morning. When the horses turned into the home stretch Pat took Paolita almost to the outside fence and came home on the firmer footing while the others struggled ankle-deep in gummy mud along the rail. Paolita paid $78. It was the only race she ever won.

A rare honor came his way Oct. 4, 1952, when Long Branch Race Track in Toronto held a "Remillard Day," and presented him with a television set and his wife with a set of silver. He is the only jockey to be thus honored in Canada.

Although he has considered retiring several times, especially after some of the spills which have broken numerous bones and fractured his skull once, he continues. In 1950 and 1951 he was the country's top rider. In 1948 and 1952 he was second.

Seldom bothered by the weight problem, he said in an interview he is down to 108 pounds now and ready to go again.

COMER—Though forced to miss the $100,000 Florida Derby at Gulfstream because of injuries, Greentree Stable's Straight Face, Ted Atkinson up, has been an outstanding winter development, will aim at major stake races this spring.

English Teacher Gets Homes For Dogs Past Racing Days

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Concern for the fate of middle-aged racing greyhounds, slowed up a second or so in their pursuit of an electric rabbit, started a schoolmaster on a one-man campaign.

Frank Sanderson, 58-year-old teacher-turned animal-protector, tries to find homes for dogs that are past their peak instead of allowing them to be killed, as often happens.

Sanderson's campaign is aided by the Canine Defence League, which joined him in 1949 and found homes for 300 dogs. The total, up to 352 in 1950, has declined the last two years but league officials think it means more owners are finding homes themselves for their racing Rovers.

ONE-MAN BATTLE

Sanderson, a voluble man who neither drinks nor smokes "because I can't afford to," disapproves of the entire sport as one which turns the dog into a money-making machine. He still carries on his individual battle, mainly through letters to newspapers and periodicals.

"Adoption" procedure follows this pattern:

An owner calls to say he has an animal ready to retire. The dog is checked for health and temper and handed over to a new owner, who has been checked and who signs a prescribed form. Then begins the process of "detraining" the nervous dogs, used to the high-tension life of the tracks. Most have lived rigidly controlled lives, and have to be accustomed, for instance, to small animals.

Sanderson keeps a small Corgi dog, "invaluable" for getting the racers into a non-competitive frame of mind once they leave the tense atmosphere of the floodlit betting rings.

MANY DESTROYED

How many dogs are still done away with annually is something nobody will estimate. The National Greyhound Racing Club, which sets the rules for the 70 largest tracks, estimates it at "quite a number." There are approximately 700,000 racing dogs in Britain.

Sanderson says that since no racers compete after five years of age, and most reach their peak between two and three, the number "put to sleep" must be huge. Only the stars are kept for breeding purposes.

Apart from the humanitarian angle, says Sanderson, destruction of so "adaptable, intelligent and

PCs Reiterate Canada First Policy On Gas

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative spokesmen reiterated in the Commons Friday the policy that Canada's huge resources of natural gas should be used to serve this country first before any is exported to the United States

At one point, E .D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) said he welcomes the "conversion" to that policy of Trade Minister Howe who recently announced no export permits would be granted until Eastern Canada is served with western gas.

"That has been the policy since 1907," interjected the minister.

Mr. Fulton said the minister on previous occasions had voiced a different policy.

The discussion took place during consideration of a private bill to incorporate Mid-Continent Pipelines, Ltd., which plans a line west from Alberta to Winnipeg and then to Eastern Canada by an undisclosed route. Some critics of the bill have said the company may plan piping gas into the United States.

NO PROGRESS

The measure, before the Commons almost a month, made no progress during the hour devoted to discussion of private bills.

Rodney Adamson (PC — York West) said it would be close to "treason" to sanction export of Canadian natural gas to the U.S. while the great nickel belt around Sudbury and the huge markets in Ontario and Quebec went without it.

Mr. Adamson, a mining engineer, said the best technical opinion was that natural gas could be used in the production of nickel. Piping western gas to the great nickel belt around Sudbury and the mineral-rich area of Northern Ontario could mean terrific development there.

In addition Canadian gas should be supplied to the great Toronto-Oshawa-Hamilton industrial area with a potential population of 5,000,000 people after completion of the St. Lawrence seaway.

South African Nationalists Seek Sovereignty Mandate

BY ASTLEY HAWKINS

CAPETOWN (Reuters) —Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's Nationalist government, thwarted by appeal court decisions invalidating some of its most controversial legislation, is seeking a mandate at next month's South African general elections to establish "the sovereignty of Parliament."

Malan's Nationalists, if they are returned to power, say they want to clear up a constitutional controversy and assert the "will of the people" by making parliamentary acts immune from the testing rights of the courts.

The whole issue, steeped in legal interpretations of the Statute of Westminster and the South African constitution, arises from the Nationalist government's unsuccessful efforts to put male colored (mixed blood) voters in Cape province on a separate electoral roll.

NUMBER 800,000

The "Cape coloreds," as they are locally known, now number some 800,000 and mostly residing in Cape province, South Africa's southernmost province. Males of the "colored" community in Cape province have long had the vote with the white population on the common electoral roll, a privilege never established in the Union's other three provinces—Natal, the Transvaal and the Orange Free State.

Pursuing their general policy of "apartheid," which means white domination with complete segregation and separation for all colored peoples of the Union, the Malan government sought to switch the "Cape coloreds" to a separate electoral roll in 1951 by passing the Separate Representation of Voters Act.

LIMIT 'COLOREDS'

Under the act, the "Cape coloreds" would have been limited to electing a few white parliamentary representatives of their own.

This would have placed them on a similar basis to the African natives of Cape province, who also possess traditional voting rights under the Cape colonial constitution of 1853, but limited by educational and property qualifications.

Under the Native Representation Act of 1935, native voters in Cape province elect three European members of the South African assembly and two members of the Cape provincial council.

But after the Separate Representation of Voters Act was passed four "colored" voters successfully challenged its validity on the grounds that it violated the "entrenched clauses of the South African constitution, which require a two-thirds majority at a joint session of both houses for amendment.

The South African constitution was made law by the British Parliament's South Africa Act of 1910 which embodies it.

When the voters' act was first tested in a lower court the challenge was rejected on the grounds of a 1937 appeal court ruling that since the 1931 Statute of Westminister, South African courts have no power to question the validity of an act of the South African Parliament.

From failure in the lower court, the four "colored" voters won a favorable decision in the appeal court.

ACCEPT SETBACK

Declining to accept this setback, the Nationalist Government then passed the High Court of Parliament Act designed to give Parliament power to reverse appeal court decisions on constitutional matters if necessary.

Fresh proceedings brought by the same four "colored" voters resulted in this measure also being found invalid by the courts.

Malan and his colleagues accepted temporary defeat, but have since repeatedly expressed their determination to find a way of putting Parliament above the courts so that the "peoples will" can prevail.

Political observers here, though favoring the Nationalists' chances in the elections, do not expect them to get a two-thirds majority of the seats in Parliament. Without that, they are wondering how another Nationalist government could execute a "mandate" or achieve its purpose unless it resorts to such methods as "packing" the courts.

Can't Stand Canada Wants Back In Prison

DETROIT (CP)—Thomas H. Joy, 63, deported to his native Canada six months ago after being paroled from a California prison where he was sentenced to life for murder in 1938, asked Friday to be returned to prison because "I can't stand Canada."

Joy, a native of Clinton, Ont., was brought to the U.S. by his parents when he was an infant.

He said he spent six months in nearby Windsor, Ont., and finally crossed the river to Detroit. He gave himself up as an illegal immigrant and was promptly charged before a federal grand jury.

Joy told officials he just wants "to go back to an American jail."

"I've been bewildered on the outside. After 14 years you find the world has changed terrifically."

Polymer Earns $2,798,481 Profit In 1952

OTTAWA (CP)—Polymer, the government's synthetic rubber plant that grew from a wartime baby into a peacetime industrial giant, earned a net profit of $2,798,481 in the last nine months of 1952, Parliament was told Friday.

Sales and production of rubber were generally higher than in any previous period, but lower rubber prices combined with "substantially lower" sales of chemicals cut the net profit by eight per cent from the previous year, president J. D. Barrington reported.

The annual report of the publicly-owned Sarnia corporation was tabled in the Commons by Production Minister Howe. Because of the short nine-month fiscal period—to bring subsequent fiscal years to coincide with the calendar year—the corporation's 1952 operations were not easily comparable with previous 12-month fiscal periods.

$1½ MILLION DIVIDEND

However, the report showed the net profit after providing $3,005,000 for income tax and $3,806,499 for depreciation. In the nine months regular quarterly dividends paid to the federal treasury, totalled $1,500,000. An extra dividend of $1,000,000 was declared at the end of the year.

In addition, $1,000,000 of outstanding debentures were retired. The total surplus on Dec. 31, 1952, amounted to $11,855,720.

President Barrington reported that generally the plant had a good business year in 1952 and expected a "profitable" year in 1953.

The world demand for rubber continued to climb and he predicted that consumption soon will tax the productive capacity for natural and synthetic.

$20 MILLION EXPORT

Canada's synthetic rubber exports total about $20,000,000 a year.

A big question-mark was the decision of the United States government to dispose of its own synthetic plants to private industry. Congress was expected to get disposal plans this year. Mr. Barrington said he was awaiting the outcome with "considerable interest" but he did not believe the actual disposal will take place before 1954.

The $2,798,481 net profit for the nine months of 1952 compared with $8,375,786 for the 12 months of the fiscal year ended March 31, 1952. But that latter figure did not include income tax payments. Crown companies only started paying taxes last April.

In the nine-month period, gross income from the sale of rubber and chemicals totalled $33,676,579, compared to $45,895,465 in the previous 12 months.

Expenses totalled $27,633,098, compared with $32,353,747.

Supplementary Costs Total $77,680,383

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott tabled in the Commons Friday supplementary expenditure estimates of $77,680,383 for the fiscal year ending March 31.

The amount included $32,346,000 to cover operating loss of the agricultural prices support board. The loss resulted from government meat purchases while Canadian meat exports were banned due to an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Second largest amount in the supplementaries was $25,000,000. It represented a government contribution to reduce the unamortized portion of the civil service superannuation account liability. Another $532,715 was for a grant to the superannuation fund.

Dutch Youths Convicted Of Stealing

COBOURG (ENS)—Two Dutch youths, Herman and Jacob Molenaar of Haldimand township were allowed on suspended sentence when they pleaded guilty Friday to theft of some household articles from a vacant house owned by Mrs. Elizabeth McComb of Haldimand township.

The offence took place in December of last year and in January of 1953. The youths claimed that the door of the house was open. Defence counsel H. Richardson pointed out that the two accused were needed on their father's farm as there were 175 acres to work.

"A first offender in this country has a chance to show that it was a mistake which will not be repeated in being allowed to go on suspended sentence. You are getting the same consideration as Canadian-born residents.

"If you are not familiar with our laws all you have to do is drop into any police station or ask the crown attorney and you will be advised in regard to the law in this country. I am allowing you out on suspended sentence for one year but you are to report once a month to the provincial police in Cobourg."

Mythological Themes Have Role In Theatre

TORONTO (CP) — Adjudicator John Allen said Friday night the new pre-occupation of British and French playwrights with mythology is an important trend in modern theatre.

Speaking at the central Ontario drama festival, which concludes tonight, Mr. Allen said "The Family Re-Union" by T. S. Eliot, presented by the University Alumni Dramatic Club, was an interesting example.

One of his chief criticisms of the play, directed by Herbert Whittaker, was the tendency of the cast to get lost in the poetry. He spoke highly of the decor which caught the atmosphere of the Greek amphitheatre. The play takes its pattern from the legend of Orestes.

World War Left Strange Heritage In Pacific Isles

LONDON (Reuters)—The Second World War left a strange legacy in some of the islands of the Western Pacific—tribes are rebuilding their ancient civilizations along military lines.

Prof. Raymond Firth, noted New Zealand anthropologist, said in a lecture here that some islanders have been organized into groups, drilled with sticks, given flags to wave, and even "fitted out" with kings and queens to cheer.

Under the joint impact of the war, commerce, and Western civilization, the traditional social system on the islands was in some cases swept away.

Firth was lecturing on New Guinea and Solomon islanders, who watched from the jungles as Allied troops fought the Japanese on their islands.

"Dances and other ceremonies have been abandoned and spectacular rites given up by the people, who burned all their masks and regalia," the London University professor said.

MORE CREATIVE

He said the natives want more creative roles, producing things with their own capital, their own equipment, their own management. They have recognized that with such new roles comes a new dignity.

Some were emerging as middlemen in trading, as small capitalists and as organizers of the labor of others.

"These people are not simply casting out their native heritage," he said. "They are abandoning one kind of native life which they have cherished to try to build another more in tune with their needs."

Most of the inhabitants of the area are Melanesians, who for generations practised primitive communism, sharing wives and property alike. This form of society still exists though the right to individual property sprang up with the coming of the white man.

LONDON (AP)—Marshal Tito ended a historic visit to Britain today and left for Yugoslavia with a British pledge to stand by his Communist Balkan state in resisting aggression.

The Red dictator who broke with Stalin's Russia in 1948 stood stiffly at attention as the London port's launch Nore drew away from Westminster Pier. He wore full uniform with a light grey coat with scarlet lapels.

Foreign Secretary Eden, in full morning clothes, was present to bid him adieu. A naval guard of honor presented arms as Tito stepped from his bullet-proof limousine and moved toward the launch.

It was believed to be the first time in Canada that the test, developed by Dr. Ward Smith at the University of Toronto, has been used in evidence.

Gordon E. Conroy, 22, was convicted. A test on his saliva showed two parts of alcohol per 1,000, which Dr. Smith said indicated Conroy was in no condition to drive.

Chiefs Of Staff Ask Revision Of U.K. Pensions

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP)—Public appeal for an early boost in pensions paid retired regular officers, to save them from financial difficulties, has been made by Britain's three Second World War chiefs of staff.

The plea for an upward revision of the current scale, based on living conditions 20 to 30 years ago, is contained in a letter written to the London Times, signed jointly by admiral of the fleet, Viscount Cunningham of Hyndhope, Field Marshal Viscount Allanbrooke and marshal of the RAF Viscount Portal.

Their call follows a full-dress debate on the subject in both Houses of Parliament.

These leaders express concern about the future quality of the armed forces unless "injustices" are removed.

SEE INJUSTICE

The writers, all still on the active list, make it clear they personally will not be affected by improvements they are seeking and add: "But we wonder whether it can be reconciled with our great national traditions that officers who have devoted their lives to the service of their country, and who have done so much to preserve its freedom, should be denied in their old age a pension considered reasonable by modern standards."

Introducing the subject in the House of Lords, Lord Jeffreys, a retired general, referred to the grievance felt by the older classes of officers who retired under what is known as the royal warrant of 1919.

RATES REVIEWED

By that enactment, pension rates were subject to review every five years and a maximum revision of 20 per cent permitted, according to the rise or fall of the cost-of-living index.

After fluctuating trends, pensions were stabilized in 1935 at 9½ per cent below the basic rates originally fixed.

Lord Jeffreys estimated application of the 20-per-cent increase permitted under the original plan would possibly involve an extra annual outlay of about $1,000,000.

"I suggest that is not a very large sum to spend on doing bare justice and fulfilling an obligation to these faithful servants to their country," he said.

In reply, Defence Minister Earl Alexander, Canada's former governor-general, said he doubted if pension increases would be welcomed by those constantly urging reduction of government expenditure in the interest of ending the inflationary spiral that had troubled the country during the post-war years.

He promised the government would give the matter fullest consideration, but added: "It would be wrong of me to hold out hopes that the government will be able at the present time to meet the claims made on behalf of those retired officers."

Any Bonds? Today?

Mary Pickford, 'America's Sweetheart' of silent film days, will embark on a nation-wide tour of the U.S. to promote the Bond-a-Month campaign in April. Just 35 years ago, the "Little Liberty Lady" with the golden curls, shown below, toured the nation pleading with the people to buy Liberty Bonds. Her work during the World War I period netted Uncle Sam nearly $50 million. She was born in Toronto.

NWT Missionary Tells Of Life Among Eskimos

MARMORA (ENS)—Canon W. J. R. James, missionary on furlough from St. Aidan's Mission, Baker Lake, N.W.T., was the speaker at a special service in St. John's, Madoc, on Thursday.

He narrated the life and customs of the Eskimos in the part of the Arctic Circle in which he has served for the past quarter of a century.

He mentioned that the Eskimos of whom he had baptized 374, possessed a good grammar of their own, were musically inclined, were carefree and cheerful and had almost parted entirely from polygamy and adultery which had been so prevalent before the advent of Christianity in their territory.

The Rev. T. H. Good, rector of Madoc, conducted the service, the lay reader from Tweed parish read the lesson, while Canon J. M. Brownlie, rector of Marmora, took the closing prayers and pronounced the benediction.

St. John's choir was augmented by members of the choirs of St. Bartholomew's, Bannockburn, and St. Paul's, Marmora. The anthem was "Fairest Lord Jesus."

At the close of the service, colored slides of life among the Eskimos were shown.

The offertory was devoted to Arctic missions.

Later, in St. John's parish hall, the WA of the church served refreshments.

A discussion period was led by W. J. Cottrell, lay reader of St. Paul's, Marmora, and snapshots of people and places connected with St. Aidan's Mission were displayed by the missionary. Both in the service and in the discussion in the hall, Canon James stressed the need for ordained clergy to volunteer for service among the Eskimos.

UE Sell-Out Shapes Up at CGE

The UE is preparing to sell-out CGE workers for the fourth year in a row. That fact was spotlighted in the Financial Post of March 21. The headlines and story read in part as follows and we quote:

"Is This Union Nervous Now?"

Red-Led UE May Settle Quickly To Hold Its Position

"There were signs this week that Canada's No. 1 Communist -led union, the United Electrical Workers (UE) has some fears for its future.

"In the face of an increasingly serious threat from the rival International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO) at the big Canadian General Electric plant in Peterborough, Ont., the union is applying for conciliation in its dispute wth CGE.

"This is one interpretation of the UE's move after only six weeks of negotiations. If the union officials felt more confident of their strength, they'd keep negotiations going for several more weeks before applying for conciliation. Instead, they're going to go for a relatively quick settlement which will include the Peterborough plant and keep IUE out of there for a year.

"IUE can apply for a vote of employees to switch union allegiance now; once the contract is signed, they won't be able to ask for a vote for another year.

"Too, a quick settlement would strengthen the UE's position with its memcontract in front of the Peterborough workbers in Peterborough; it could dangle the ers, saying "we've been able to get this for you while IUE here and in other CGE plants is still negotiating . . .

"The 3c (offer by the company) is to take care of the 'improvement factor' FOR THE NEXT TWO YEARS — the extra money employees get as compensation for their increasing skill and knowledge on the job.

"What rankled the UE people more than anything during the negotiations has been the company's announcement of its new pension plan for employees. The UE officials aren't saying it's no good; they're really mad because they can't take credit for it . . .

"It looked this week as though they (UE) may accept a relatively low settlement for the sake of strength on the Peterborough front."

To recount, that story made these points about UE in its present "negotiations":

1 UE crawled into conciliation after just six weeks (just 2 meetings) of sketchy "negotiations".

2 If UE were strong and militant, it wouldn't crawl into Conciliation so fast, but would keep fighting the company until it got another higher wage offer, and then go into Conciliation to get a third higher offer.

3 UE wants a quick settlement to prevent IUE-CIO from having an election.

4 The 3c offer UE has from the company is actually not a wage increase at all. It is just an "improvement factor – the extra money employees get for their natural increase in skill and knowledge on the job".

5 UE is mad at the Company ... not because the Pension Plan is no good (It Stinks) but because "IT CAN'T TAKE CREDIT FOR IT". That is a frank admission that the company knows UE is so weak that it can give the workers what ever it wishes to, and that UE can't make the company give a single penny more.

Such a situation is the reason why IUE-CIO is in Peterborough seeking an election at CGE. IUE-CIO wishes to have this election so that it can bring a strong, effective, capable trade union to bargain with CGE and make CGE pay the wage rates and contract benefits that CGE employees deserve.

Don't be left in the lurch with this sell-out union that crawls into Conciliation after only two meetings with the company. IUE-CIO can supplant UE in time to assume the present negotiating responsibilities and make CGE start providing higher rates and better contract benefits right away. Furthermore, IUE-CIO will insist on FULL RETROACTIVITY on all wage gains (and there won't be any 3c sell-out) and make the company pay the new increase back to the date the UE contract expired.

In this way, CGE workers have nothing to lose but a weak, inept and isolated union. They have the chance to gain a strong, capable, effective trade union ... plus a decent wage increase, a joint employee-company-paid Health-Welfare-Pension-Severance Pay Plan and the other contract improvements they deserve.

The issue is a strong, capable, effective trade union as opposed to a weak, wobbly UE. The choice is clear. Join IUE-CIO. Sign a card today. You can sign in the privacy of your own home by telephoning the IUE-CIO office (2-1405) or dropping in at the IUE-CIO office, 393 Water Street, at Water and Hunter, above the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Last Sorrowful Days Brightened With Hope

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The last sorrowful days of Jesus before His crucifixion were brightened with hope, even as He spoke of tribulation: "Be of good cheer: I have overcome the world." (John 16:33.)

The disciples may well have recalled these words of good cheer after the Resurrection and, as they saw through obedience to their Master's command the Christian faith spreading and beginning its world conquest.

But in the darkness of that hour with their Master saying strange words of what was to befall Him, their hearts and minds were still evidently set upon the idea of an earthly kingdom.

We can well understand their confusion. Peter was about to deny vehemently that he knew the Master who had been apprehended. Yet it was this same Peter who had been with Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration and who had hailed his Master as the Messiah, "the Christ, the Son of the living God."

It seems inconceivable that Peter's denial of the one whom he had hailed as Lord and Master was due to any cowardice or lack of will.

More probable, and more in harmony with all that Peter became, his denial was a reaction of disappointment from all that had led him to leave his fishing nets and follow Jesus.

He had acted with vigor and determination then and in his denial he was acting with the same vigor in renouncing it all. Yet his renunciation had in it something of his impulsiveness.

So, Peter, when the crisis of his denial had passed, went out and wept bitterly.

He remembered the Master's prediction of his denial before the cock's crowing.

But neither the denial nor the repentance could overcome his disappointment. He had left all to follow Jesus but he was going back to his fishing nets. "I go afishing," he said to his fellow disciples, and they were ready to go with him. (John 21:3.)

But then came the revelation of the living Christ. It was a different sort of fishing in which Peter engaged in the Day of Pentecost when the first great ingathering of disciples gave evidence of the power of the Gospel, vindicating the words of good cheer that the Master had expressed in an hour of sadness.

These things were written down in remembrance after the Resurrection and triumphs of faith had brought new understanding to the disciples. But both the tragedy and glory are there, ship between God and man (John 15:14, 15), and man's eternal place came the message of the friend- the sorrowful days out of which in the love and life of God.

Santa Prisca Custodial Has Had Strange Story

TAXCO. — A story that I heard in Mexico's capital has sent me chasing across the country trying to track down the famous custodial given by Borda to the Santa Prisca Church here. Everyone has been familiar with bits of the story. But few of them were sure what constituted fact and what legend.

* * * *

When the French mine owner Jose de la Borda built the Santa Prisca Church starting in 1748, he donated the custodial, its greatest treasure. Bernice Goodspeed in her book "Mexican Tales" describes it as being a yard and a half in height, of pure gold. It weighed 4,439 castellanos and was beautifully wrought and incrusted with 5,872 diamonds, 2,652 emeralds, 544 rubies, 160 amethysts and 28 sapphires. Its value was placed far above the costly custodial in Toledo, Spain.

* * * *

Later Borda met with reverses and he was obliged to sell the rare piece to Mexico City's Cathedral. But in 1863 the Government seized this relic and sold it for 120,000 pesos to a woman who took it to Europe. It is now in Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris. People in Mexico City tell me there is a drive being made to recover it from France and restore it to its rightful place in the Taxco Church.

* * * *

COLORFUL STORIES

These facts are proven. The others which are equally interesting have remained as legend because no one has yet been able to substantiate them. In the original story I heard, when the custodial left Mexico City Cathedral it passed to the Vatican with the understanding that if Borda ever should be in financial straits, he would be given the equivalent value in money. From the Vatican the custodial is rumored to have passed to Peru where it remained for several years. Then through turbulent events it returned to Mexico and during the Maximilian period it went to France where it has remained.

* * * *

Around 1720 a Franch miner Manuel de la Borda came to Taxco. He acquired some mines and later sent for his younger brother, Jose de la Borda. The two were descendants of an old French family who lived near the French-Spanish border. Over the years there has been an argument as to their nationality, some claiming Spanish, others French. However the concensus seems to lean to the French side.

* * * *

Manuel gave his brother a mine "La Juelas" (Flagstone) not knowing it was to become one of the greatest in Mexico. Jose was very successful. Both he and his brother married Taxco girls. So far as is known Manuel left no children and Jose had two, but his son became a priest and his daughter a nun and the family line died out.

* * * *

BORDA CIVIC MINDED

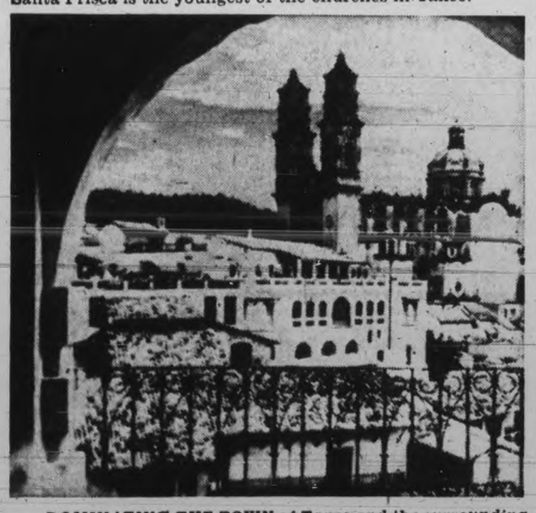
Borda made a big fortune. He had mine investments all over the country. But he lost money frequently, too. He was so interested in public welfare and gave so much money to the poor that he died almost in poverty. He put in the water system which had been used here until less than 10 years ago; he laid out plans for the present town; he operated orphanages in Taxco and other places. Some Mexicans have told me they were not certain of his burial place but Miss Goodspeed told me her investigations and those of the Taxco historian have verified that he is buried in the San Francisco Convent in Cuernavaca.

* * * *

Borda built his church after he made his fortune from the silver mine. There is a saying "God gave to Borda and Borda gives to God." He promised His Holiness Benedict XIV that he would construct a church in Taxco stinting neither labor nor expense and that he would decorate it magnificently with ornaments and jewels. The Pope granted Borda and his descendants extraordinary indulgences.

* * * *

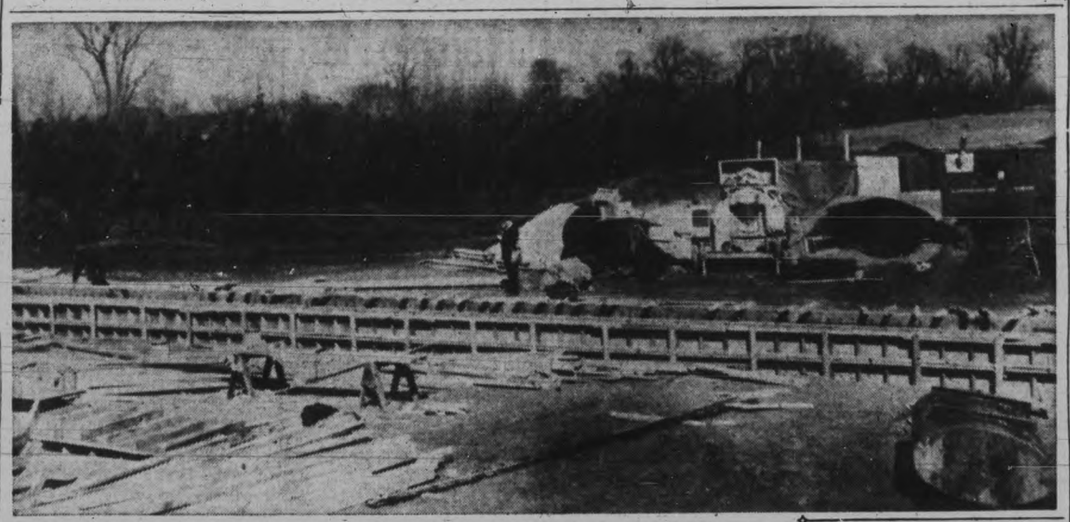
BUILT OVER MINE



The church was built on the site of a little chapel for the miners. There is an old gold mine here and the entrance is said to be under the altar. Borda got the gold for the decoration of his church from that mine and it has not been used since that time. The exit of the mine, not generally known, is under the Santa Veracruz church, three blocks away, where my friend Father Ramos is.

* * * *

The ornately carved towers and facade and richly gilded altars are fine examples of the Mexican Churrigueresque. In the sacristry are splendid oils by Miguel Cabrera, among them a portrait of Borda and one of Santa Prisca to whom the church is dedicated. It shows her in the act of saving it from destruction by catching with her bare hands the thunderbolts which threatened it.



* * * *

The church which dominates the town with its elaborate towers is a soft pink color. It faces on the plaza and is a landmark for the visitor. Although it is the biggest, this Santa Prisca is the youngest of the churches in Taxco.

DOMINATING THE TOWN of Taxco and the surrounding countryside is the handsome Santa Prisca Church, built by a French miner Jose de la Borda after he made a fortune out of his silver mine. The ornately carved towers and facade and richly gilded altars are fine examples of Mexican Churrigueresque.

NEW PETERBOROUGH-NEWCASTLE CUTOFF is now under construction. McFarlane's of Picton and Malvern of Toronto have nearly completed clearing bush along the right-of-way. Men of McFarlane's bush gang (lower) stand back to let a tree fall in the Cavan station district. Both companies have started constructing culverts; McFarlane's have constructed two near Highway 28, about 1,000 feet north of Highway 7A (to Cavan). Carpenters (top photo) complete the frame for the culvert nearest Highway 28.

Cutoff Highway May Extend In Straight Line To City From Connection With 28

Right-of-Way Being Cleared To Link Highways 28 and 35 To Provide New Route Through To Newcastle

The Newcastle-Peterborough highway, now under construction between Highways 28 and 35, may be extended straight through to Peterborough. The extension is one of three plans being considered by the Department of Highways to improve highway conditions between the new link and Peterborough. A second plan of the department follows the general route taken by Highway 28 from south of Kendry Station to Peterborough. A highways official said the hills and curves along that approximate nine-mile stretch would be improved. The third plan was not clearly defined.

The extension of the Newcastle-Peterborough cutoff would mean an entirely new highway through to the city. If it followed the pattern of the cutoff highway, the new link would be straight from Highway 28 running roughly parallel to the Canadian Pacific railway line, joining Highway 7A at Lansdowne St. West.

At the same time the southern portion of the link, Highway 35 from Orono to Newcastle will be improved. This work will include re-alignment of 30 per cent of that stretch, mostly cutting out curves. The remainder will receive general improvements.

Contracts haven't been called for that work but estimates for the work were included this week when Premier Leslie Frost announced costs of road construction in Ontario for this year.

Meanwhile the McFarlane Construction Company of Picton has nearly finished clearing the right-of-way of the north part of the 21-mile link between Highway 35 and 28. No work has been done yet on the second contract which includes the centre six miles of the stretch.

McFarlane's have concentrated on the north contract which begins just north of Highway 7A (to Cavan) and runs diagonally through bush and marsh to a point just south of Cavan on the Cavan-Millbrook road.

Early in January the company

Award Contracts For 2 Bridges On Highway 28

R. A. Blyth Construction Co., Toronto, has been awarded the contract for the highway bridge at Young's Point that is included in this season's expenditure in the county by the Ontario Government.

Hon. H. R. Scott said today that Raynor Construction Co. of Leaside put in the successful tender for the Burleigh Falls bridge.

Work on these jobs will not get under way until the spring freshet volume of water subsides. They are both construction projects for this year.

At Young's Point the old bridge will be used when the Blyth Company moves in to begin their contract. For traffic accommodation at Burleigh Falls, a bailey bridge will be set up for one-way traffic.

Acreage Owners Considered In Assessments

Peterborough's private bill for the annexation of 1,200 acres of Smith Township has a provision permitting special assessment for lands of two acres or more now being used for gardening or agricultural purposes.

This will keep the assessment relatively low and will be a help, particularly to veterans who have small holdings under the Veterans' Land Act. A similar provision was made when the city annexed part of North Monaghan Township in 1948.

The special farmlands assessment will continue for five years. As soon as the lands are subdivided into lots it will no longer apply.

No figure has been set. It must be arranged between the city and each person being assessed. If agreement can't be reached the assessment will be determined by the Municipal Board.

VLA PEOPLE

"It was a concession the city made thinking of the VLA people in particular," said City Clerk E. A. Outram.

A minor amendment has still to be made to the private bill. It was not specifically mentioned that the assets and liabilities of the separate school in the annexed portion of Smith will now be assumed by the Peterborough Roman Catholic Separate School Board.

The bill was passed by the narrow margin of 12 votes to 10 at a hearing Thursday before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature. It will likely be reported to the Legislature this Tuesday.

District Rich In History Says J. J. Talman

"The best way to know where you are going is to know where you have been", Dr. J. J. Talman, historian and librarian of the University of Western Ontario told a meeting of persons interested in re-establishing the Peterborough Historical Society. He spoke on the importance of local history. It "gives breadth and depth to national history".

Friday evening's meeting at the Public Library was well attended. Its chairman, William Graff, was appointed to name and head a committee to convene an April meeting of the Historical Society. Proceedings of a meeting held in in 1950 to reorganize the society were declared, on vote, to be voided. Thus the ground was cleared for a revitalized Historical Society in Peterborough. The meeting favored a working, informal approach, rather than emphasis on constitutional issues.

RICH IN MATERIAL

In introducing Dr. Talman, Mr. Graff referred to the successful Peterborough Historical Society of fifty years ago and to the valuable work it did. Dr. Talman, a former Provincial Archivist, said

Mr. Tischart met six striking shipping-room employees, who walked out early this week, and said they agreed to return. They went on strike over a grievance and were supported by about 125 workers from other parts of the plant.

Management refused to talk terms until work was resumed. M. H. Hudspeth, plant general manager, said the union and its members walked out in an illegal strike.

Fewer Strikes

OTTAWA (CP)—Loss of work through strikes in February was low, the Labor department reports in a monthly survey. Working time lost through industrial disputes was 23,777 man-days compared with 31,050 days the month before and 47,603 in February of 1952.

Oils Show Only Notable Gain On Toronto Mart

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western oils took over from speculative mining stocks on the Toronto stock market this week.

The oils showed the only significant gain of the week, rising almost four points on the Toronto stock exchange index. The other indexes — industrials, golds and base metals — made little headway.

The boom stocks—uraniums, New Brunswick base metals and Northern Ontario rare metals which traded most actively in the recent "penny boom" — lost ground this week. Observers blamed the losses on lack of concrete drill-hole results.

Companies with interests in the three areas have a lot of work to do yet, they said, before ore bodies are proved up and actual production starts. The prospect of a long wait tempted many short-term speculators to take their profits and get out.

ABSORBS SELLING

Most issues absorbed the selling fairly well and the downtrend appeared to be more of a post-boom correction rather than any big break in speculative mining prices.

Attention turned to western oils, spurred by possibilities of higher production allowances for producing wells. Plans by many companies for extensive drilling programs in 1953 made the oils more attractive.

Monday and Tuesday saw the sharpest gains in oils, but the section recorded small advances Wednesday and Friday.

Toronto started the week with oils gaining in a mixed market while Montreal was slightly weaker. Both centres were mixed Tuesday, but Toronto headed lower Wednesday. Small gains were recorded Thursday and both turned mixed again Friday.

QUIET IN N.Y.

It was a quiet week in New York, starting with a late-afternoon rise Monday. The gain continued Tuesday but levelled off Wednesday and the market was mixed for the rest of the week.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto indexes showed industrials up 1.10 at 321.50, golds down 58 at 79.36, base metals down 2.27 at 173.24 and western oils up 3.96 at 126.35.

In the Montreal averages, banks were down .09 at 33.41, utilities up .9 at 96.6, industrials down .6 at 205.4, combined down .1 at 169.1, papers up 6.84 at 719.60 and golds down 1.21 at 63.52.

On the New York market, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 30 cents at $115.30.

Silver-Haired Spinster, 77 Writes Guidance Column

By CHRISTINE SIROIS

MONTREAL (CP)—For 50 years now, thousands of French-speaking Canadians have turned to a daily column in Canada's largest French-language newspaper for guidance in matters of romance, family life, etiquette, even dress.

The column is written by a silver-haired spinster of 77, known to her readers as "Colette." She is also "Colette" to the staff of La Presse who see her arrive twice a week with batches of handwritten copy. Her real name is Edouardina Lesage.

Colette, who gives her readers advice in line with their upbringing, joined La Presse in 1903 and began to write her column, "Le Courrier de Colette."

STRICT ADVISER

Quebecers took to the direct and firm advice of this young daughter of a Louiseville farmer, educated in the village convent by nuns.

From 400 to 500 French-speaking Canadians and readers from many parts of the world write in every week seeking answers to personal problems.

A 17-year-old girl wrote: "I have two brothers. They tell my mother not to let me go out when I want to . . I only go out four or five times a week, always with others, get only $2 pocket money."

Colette's answer: "When can a young girl go out five nights a week without losing the taste of a normal existence in a well-organized home? It is evident that you lack healthy and clear direction."

Another girl asked whether she should go to Montreal to find a job.

"Don't seek adventure; you will only lose some feathers and make your mother weep," wrote Colette.

DEVOUT CATHOLIC

Colette, a devout Roman Catholic herself, never mentions the word "divorce" but the word "separation" appears in connection with marital quarrels. Of course there is no question of remarriage in such cases, since it is strictly forbidden by the church.

Her advice may seem straight-laced and old-fashioned but to her fans it is as sound as the Sunday sermon of the parish priest.

For the last 20 years Colette has been doing her column in her suburban home where she lives with her three unmarried sisters and a brother.

COLUMNIST — For 50 years, thousands of French-speaking Canadians have turned daily to the column in Canada's largest French-language newspaper written by a frail spinster of 77 known to her readers as Colette. Her real name is Edouardina Lesage. She writes a column on marriage, family life, etiquette and fashion for Montreal La Presse.

Peering through spectacles she writes her column in longhand and then takes it personally to the one Linotypist who can read her copy.

Some women fans feel Colette sides with the men in marital and love matters. They would probably be surprised to know she is a strict-looking elderly woman with grey eyes and a deeply-wrinkled face.

OTHER CRITICISM

Others think Colette is encroaching on the fields of religion and medicine or interfering with parental authority.

Colette answers: "Why should a poor housewife, or a young woman, who see no answer to their problems, be prevented from seeking advice under pseudonyms from an impartial person who may help them find a solution?"

A widow once told Colette that people should settle their own affairs.

"True," Colette answered. "But some people lack the confidence to solve difficulties which frighten them. These people are my clients."

Mr. and Mrs. Ontario—

Let your member know you want YELLOW margarine!

Public Reaction Has Been Terrific!

All across Ontario thousands and thousands of letters have been rolling in, expressing opposition to the margarine colour ban and to Bill No. 71. As fast as they can be sorted, they are being delivered to Members in the Ontario Legislature.

Members of the Legislature have now had time to realize the full implications of Bill 71, and they are deeply concerned. We are certain they will make a wise decision.

BUT—You'll Still Have to Color Your Margarine Yourself!

Yes, the law of the land still forbids you buying coloured margarine. Mixing colour into margarine serves no useful purpose except to annoy and irritate the busy housewife!

Many men in the Ontario Legislature are against the ridiculous margarine colour ban. Undoubtedly a majority are against it! They can be encouraged to act if they know the public is behind them!

It's Time to Lift the Color Ban on Margarine!

Next week the coloured margaine question may come up for debate in the Ontario Legislature. Let us hope it will be a free debate cutting across party lines. NOW IS THE TIME TO LET YOUR MEMBER KNOW YOU ARE BEHIND HIM! Let him know you support his view that it should be legal to buy coloured margarine.

YOU Can Make the Democratic Way Work!

Ontario is today overwhelmingly an industrial province; 86% of our families live in cities, towns and small villages. The latest Gallup survey shows 72% — that means 3 out of every 4 people in Ontario — think margarine should be made the same colour as butter.

Let the Government know that the vast voting public — the millions of margarine users in cities, towns and on farms in Ontario — want their margarine yellow.

You can show the members of the Legislature that they have wholehearted public support in lifting a nuisance law which forces hundreds of thousands of consumers to do a messy, time-wasting colour mixing job.

Act today — if the members of the Legislature see you are behind them you could have yellow margarine next week!

Couple Awarded $46,050 Damages

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—As a result of an accident in which Mrs. Ann Jeffery was blinded, lost her hearing in one ear and part of her face was paralyzed, she and her husband were awarded $46,050 damages Friday.

Evidence showed a truck driven by George Jeffery was in collission with a car driven by Robert Thompson on the Lakeshore road near here in December, 1951. Thompson had entered the road from a lane and the two vehicles crashed.

Thompson was found 75 per cent negligent for running his car onto a travelled portion of the road when he knew another vehicle was approaching and Jeffery 25 per cent for not having complete control of his truck on an icy road.

Mrs. Jeffery's head struck a pole in the accident. She and her two children were sitting with her husband in the cab of the truck.

Rev. H. Wright Speaks To WI On Citizenship

NORWOOD (ENS)—The March meeting of the Norwood Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Gardner Thursday afternoon, with 20 members and five visitors present.

Mrs. Albert Gill presided for the nominations. Mrs. Fred Gardner gave current events. Mrs. Gardner introduced the Rev. H. K. Wright who spoke on "Citizenship and Education." He said a good citizen shares in the privileges and responsibilities of the community. Good citizens are concerned that they and their children should not simply regard freedom as "doing what you please" but as choosing the best, according to judgment, educated or trained by knowledge, discipline and experience.

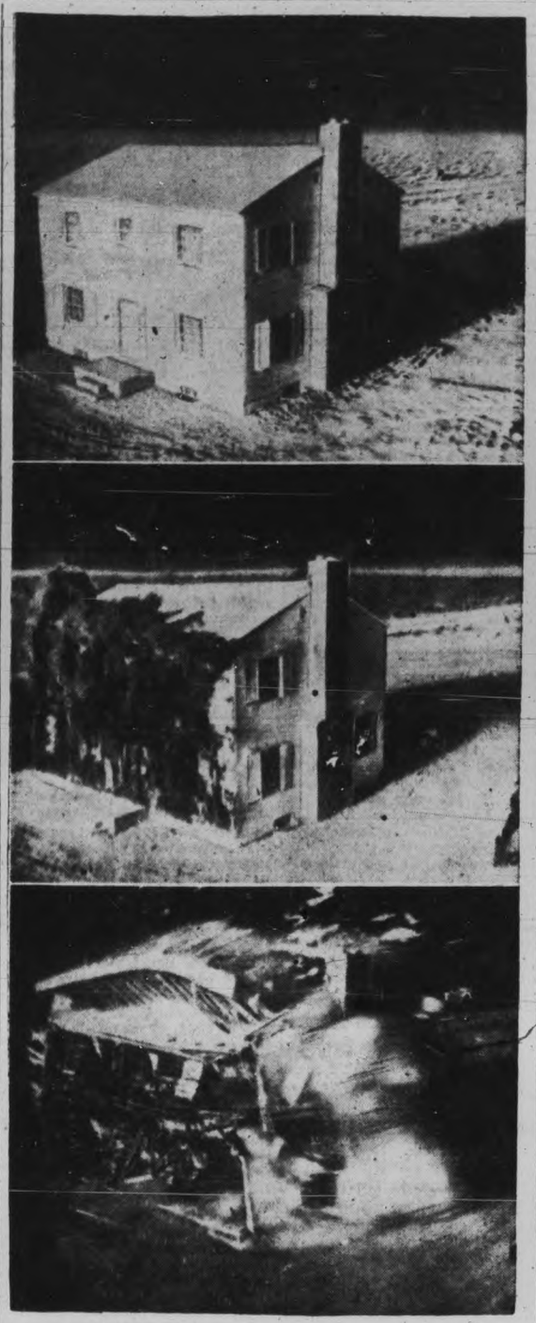
He spoke of the different aspects of education. In closing his talk Mr. Wright said "Let each one of us live with such high and courageous devotion to freedom and such practice of integrity and honor, that others will resolve to defend and to extend the society of free men."

Mrs. Gardner thanked Mr. Wright. Lunch was served by Mrs. William Golloher, Mrs. Fred Gardner, Mrs. Clarence Copp and Mrs. Earl Armstrong.

Frame $5000 Mortgage Instead Of Burning It

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Instead of burning a $5,000 mortgage that has been paid off, members of the Baptist church at West Lorne, 25 miles west of here, framed it.

Friday night they presented it to Harold Thompson, chairman of the board of deacons, to be hung in a place of honor.



It took nearly seven years to pay off the mortgage taken out to rebuild the church after fire destroyed it April 21, 1946.

Teacher Loses Dismissal Suit

TORONTO (CP)—Miss Meriza Lacarte has los ta $20,000 damage suit against the Toronto board of education for wrongful dismissal.

The Toronto teacher's suit was dismissed Friday without costs. Mr. Justice J. M. King of the Ontario Supreme Court said that although Miss Lacarte was a "highly qualified and efficient teacher," the board of education "could come to the conclusion that there was lack of co-operation on the part of the plaintiff . . and that it was an honest and bona fide conclusion."

The teacher was dismissed in 1948. Mr. Justice King said the trouble began in 1946 when Miss Lacarate was asked to teach less French and more art, despite the fact that she was a highly qualified French teacher but had only meagre qualifications to teach art.

The trial judge said Miss Lacarte had lost some $20,000 in wages since her dismissal "and it still remains to be seen whether or not she will ever have an opportunity to teach again."

Brockville High Put On OSSTF Blacklist

BROCKVILLE (CP)—The Brockville board of education today said the collegiate institute here has been blacklisted by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation for not fully meeting teachers' demands for wage increases.

James Hone, chairman of the board, said difficulty has been encountered in replacing teachers who had resigned or hiring more to take care of increased attendance.

He said it would appear as though all teachers had to clear through the federation before accepting positions in Brockville.

The federation sought increases of $600, $700 and $800 for collegiate teachers here this year and in negotiations with the board, reduced their demands to $500 and $600. However, the board offered teachers only $300 and $400.

Cutoff Highway

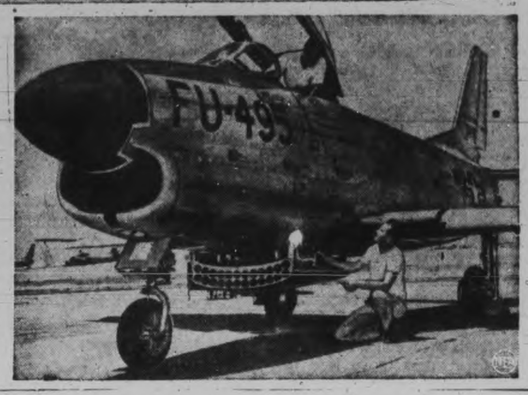
sent men into the bush to clear the right-of-way. Only a small stretch, near the Cavan CPR station, has yet to be cleared. Some grading was done near Highway 28 but was discontinued when conditions became muddy.

While the clearing of bush is being done, carpenters are busy building culverts. This work is progressing rapidly and two culverts within sight of Highway 28 have been completed.



Meanwhile at the south end of the new highway the Malvern Construction Company of Toronto has cleared right-of-ways, starting at the bottom of Enterprise Hill, Highway 35, five miles north of Orono. The clearing operations have been completed and like McFarlane's, the Malvern Company has started building culverts.

Grading will be done as soon as the weather permits.

A highways department official said the new highway will not be completed until fall when it will still be only gravel. It will probably be paved next year.

The remaining portion of the new Peterborough - Newcastle link, from Enterprise Hill to Orono was rebuilt in 1949 and quite likely will not be touched. The five-mile stretch is asphalt road, standard size, 22 feet of pavement with 10- foot shoulders.

MIGHTY MOUSE — The wraps are off the secret rocket-firing device on the U.S. Air Force F-86D Sabrejet, shown in action, above, at Los Angeles, Calif. It is a retractable pod that fires 24 "Mighty Mouse" rockets, each equivalent to a 75-mm. artillery shell. They are usually fired in salvos of six, 12, 18 or 24, fanning out up and down, left and right, as they speed toward the enemy target. An electronic mechanism guides and locks the plane onto the target for the kill. At right, a mechanic inspects the pod on an F-86D, the nation's only one-man interceptor plane.

Peron Sends Trade Expert In Howe Mission Follow-Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Argentina's President Juan Peron has followed up Trade Minister Howe's business-hunting swing through South America by sending a dynamic trade expert of his own to Ottawa on the same sort of mission.

Only there is nothing transient about the mission of Dr. Lucas Mario Galigniana. The lean, friendly 43-year-old economist who sat in on Mr. Howe's talks in Buenos Aires has come here to stay as a full-fledged ambassador.

And, he said in an interview Friday, his primary purpose is to increase two-way trade between the two fast-developing countries from the drop-in-the-bucket level of $12,500,000 it hit last year. And he wants to increase it as fast as possible.

In keeping with his usual custom of meeting new envoys shortly after their arrival, Prime Minister St. Laurent had a 30-minute talk with Dr. Galigniana Thursday. Nothing was said later about what they discussed.

In the interview, Dr. Galigniana said the Peron government would like, first, to sell a lot more goods in Canada and thinks it can do so. Secondly, it wants to increase cultural relations by exchanges of scientists and students and, thirdly, it would like to convince Canadians that Argentina is an interesting and inexpensive place to visit.

A journalist, economist and financial official by background, the new ambassador is a pleasant, unassuming man who left the post of under-secretary for foreign trade to come here on his first diplomatic assignment.

"The Argentine," he said, "is young and just starting to go places, like Canada."

Soo Club Says Season On Rainbows Too Early

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Members of the Algoma Rod and Gun Club think the open season on rainbow trout in this district is too early.

They passed a resolution Friday night at their monthly meeting asking that the May 1 to Sept. 15 season in this district be changed to June 15 to Nov. 30. Members of the club contend that the fish still are spawning after May 1 and in the St. Mary's river, with colder Lake Superior water, the rainbow spawning extends into June.

The club asked for an open season from May 15 to Sept. 15 north of the French and Mattawa rivers.

Thousands Get Free Legal Aid

TORONTO (CP) — The Federation of Law Associations of Ontario says lawyers are giving free legal aid to thousands of persons unable to pay for it.

It has released the text of a resolution in which it says this is one of the reasons it "deprecates as distorted and unfair" the suggestion by Kingston Lawyer W. M. Nickle in the Ontario legislature Wednesday that some lawyers are taking advantage of the unsatisfied judgment fund by charging exorbitant fees in automobile accident lawsuits.

Mr. Nickle, Progressive Conservative member for Kingston, said legal fees paid out of the fund are sometimes out of proportion to the amount of damages paid to a plaintiff.

The federation said existing procedure "furnishes adequate protection from any abuses alleged to exist" in connection with the fund.

District Rich

that this district was very fortunate in the amount of historical material already made available, in words and in documents collected. He said that Peterborough had a rich field, in which the ground was well broken.

Dr. Talman spoke of other local historical societies in the province and the ways they operate. A local historical society "must grow from its own ground; you must have a realization that your community is worth study".

USES OF LOCAL HISTORY

Among projects which a historical society might undertake were: organizing and collecting material; marking important spots in the community; saving material of real worth and significance; acquainting new Canadians and persons new to the community with the district's past. "Local history is the most intimate way to reach them." He felt that the organization and maintenance of a local museum were not one of the primary functions of a local historical society.

Dr. Talman ended his informal address, which was punctuated, at his request, by questions from the audience, with this quotation: "History must be more than an adornment for the cultivated gentry . . . It must be a guide to action, something positive".

Art Association Enjoys Portrayal Of Dickens

The "Afternoon with Dickens" by Miss E. Luly Hall of Toronto was a particular delight to the Literary Club members of the Womens' Art Association: Miss Hall was presented on the studio program Friday and she recited from Dickens' "Tale of two cities", two glimpses from "Nicholas Nickleby" then a story from one of his lesser known works called "Mrs. Lillipur's lodgings" ('Collection of Christmas Stories"). Her final offering was an example of his short stories called "A child's dream of a star."

This was a different type of art study from the usual lecture. Miss Hall's readings contained a wealth of pathos and she displayed a remarkabel memory. In the introduction president Mrs. Ford Turnner intimated that she has 300 items in her repertoire but she specializes in Dickens. She is also a writer and uses the pen-name "Yvonne St. Clair." Five books have been published and another will come out in July. Two are Canadian stories, "Loyalist Daughter" and "Splendid Dawn." The others are of a religious nature and she writes religious education articles for publications originating from Toronto. She was trained in elocution in Liverpool, England.

Comment of appreciation on Miss Hall's splendid portrayal of Dickens' characters was made by Mrs. N. D. Seaton.

The Association has presented seven out-of-town artists on the studio program this year, Miss Hall being the last, and a Christmas musicale was presented by the Music Study Group. The program commenced with a tea and reception on October 17th and will conclude with a luncheon and the annual meeting on April 17th. The YWCA Green Room is used as the studio.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Mr. John Douglas Head and Miss Carol Beatrice Williams, both graduates of Victoria College, University of Toronto, has been announced. Mr. Head is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Head of Peterborough, and his fiancee is daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Waldemar Williams of Hamilton. The marriage will take place April 11th in Westdale United Church at Hamilton.

Lip Habits Mirror Your Personality

Lip habits are such dead giveaways to the condition of our minds. Nervous, tense people have so many of them. Old-looking, though not necessarily old, people often have many that they've allowed to set. The serene face of a truly beautiful woman has a mobile mouth that she uses for a natural smile and a pleasing voice, but that face never mugs.

Mugging, which people are always doing unintentionally, is so unattractive. You aren't aware when you are doing it. Many mugging habits may stem from ill health, either mental or physical. But there is something we can do to eliminate these unattractive expressions from which few of us are exempt. We can ask our closest friends whether we mug. When we become conscious of the bad habits, we can try to eliminate them.

Here are some of the ugly muggings one sees all the time:

Pursing the lips outward in a combination of the babyish and the old.

Sucking the mouth, or the teeth, with an animal-like sound.

Twitching the corners of the lips up sporadically. (This does not refer to a tic, which only a psychiatrist can treat).

Smirking instead of smiling — distorting the mouth into a foolish-looking line.

Licking the lips frequently, especially while talking.

Biting the lips.

Rolling the lower lip downward, revealing the membrane of the mouth.

Tucking the lips in over the teeth, grimly.

Holding the mouth open.

If you can eliminate whatever your unattractive lip habit may be, you will have gone far towards making yourself look many years younger and prettier.

Helped Build Lift Lock Celebrates 50th Anniversary

William Jobe, of 448 George St. St., one of the workers who helped build the Lift Lock, and his wife are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary this weekend.

Mrs. Jobe was born in Devonshire, England, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams, and moved to Peterborough the following year with her parents.

Before marrying Mrs. Jobe, Mr. Jobe started to work for the Trent Canal system in 1898 as a construction laborer and rose through the years to the position of foreman in charge of all mechanical works from the Severn River to Trenton.

Mr. Jobe recalls the official opening of the Lift Lock in 1904 and the hundreds of people who lined the sides of the river to see the opening. In 1906, Mr. Jobe was sent to Kirkfield to take over the locks and in all that time the canal was under construction, only one man lost his life. At the peak of construction, there were over 100 men employed on the canal.

The traffic in the earlier days, according to Mr. Jobe, consisted mostly of ferries carrying wood to the lakehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Jobe were married in 1903 by the Rev. Bastow in the Park St. Baptist Church and have lived in Peterborough most of their lives. Since Mr. Jobe's retirement in 1947, he spends most of his time in his woodworking shop behind their home, where he specializes in making cabinets. Mr. Jobe is a member of the Masonic Lodge and in 1948 he was presented with the Imperial Service Medal for 50 years' faithful service with the federal civil service. Both are members of the Baptist Church here in Peterborough.

They have one daughter, Mrs. James King (Edith), of Toronto; four boys, Herva Jobe, of Oakland, California, Arthur, Norman and Eddie Jobe, all of Peterborough; six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Actually they are officially married 50 years on Monday, but are receiving relatives on Saturday night and friends Sunday and Monday evening.

Home and School Association News

BRIDGENORTH SCHOOL

Dr. J. P. Wells, MOH for Peterborough, was guest speaker Thursday evening at the meeting of Bridgenorth Home and School Association and spoke on the public health service. He defined the meaning of health as a state of physical, mental, social and enconomic and spiritual well-being. The Dept. of public health maintains continuity and helps relieve the pressure from the private practitioner in many cases when the pressure of the sick is too great for individual doctors to handle he said.

Health habits must start in the home but must be carried on in the teaching in the schools and in enlarging on this he compared cleanliness and uncleanliness in two schools he had visited recently. The Dept. of Health cannot force people into good health habits but can only educate and teach the necessity of it he added.

Several leading questions were asked of Dr. Wells with regard to socialized medicine as in England, compulsory report to the Dept. of Health of communicable diseases, and the problem of local garbage collection.

Mrs. Ray Harding, president, presided. The Rev. D. P. Morris led in the opening prayer.

Mrs. Harding gave a complete financial report on the ladies' minstrel show to date. The money is to be put into a reserve fund for the purchase of a second piano and other things for the school. Suggestion was made that proceeds from the next four shows be turned over to the W.A. of the Bridgenorth United Church toward the renovating fund and met with approval. President of the W.A. Mrs. Karl Blewett said that the W.A. will entertain the ladies of the cast.

An enjoyable musical interlude was provided by the triple trio and accompanist from PCVS who recently tied for second place in the Kiwanis music festival in Toronto. One of the numbers, "He that hath a pleasant face" was their winning festival number.

Mrs. Isabel Crary of Peterborough presented the elementary and intermediate certificates and bronze medallions for Life Saving won last summer and an Instructor's certificate, badge and brooch were presented to Mrs. Earl Blewett.

Mrs. C. Payne, health convener, introduced Dr. Wells to the meeting and appreciation was shown to him by Mrs. Arnott.

Refreshments were served in the intermediate room by Mrs. E. Whitehill and committee.

1,000 UK Debutantes Seek Title In Coronation Year

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—In a year of royal pageant and homage, about 1,000 British debutantes are brushing up on the social graces in the hope of becoming debutante of Coronation Year.

It's an important title any year, resulting generally in the lucky girl being feted, dined and dated by eligible bachelors who escort the girls to balls and parties, starting with Queen Charlotte's ball, May 12. This year, obviously, it will be an honor more keenly sought than ever.

Actually, there is no official deb-of-the-year title. But toward the end of nearly every season there is one young woman whose good looks, charm and photogenic qualities have singled her out for the honor, by general assent.

EARLY FAVORITE

One of the early favorites for laurels this year is Mary MacDonald-Buchanan, younger daughter of Major Reginald MacDonald - Buchanan, senior steward of he jockey club.

Mary's mother inherited from her father £3,000,000 and the famous Woolavington racing stud and string of horses. Mrs. MacDonald-Buchanan won the Derby with Owen Tudor in 1941, and 17-year-old Mary, with the polish of a Paris finishing school, already loves horse racing and is a good horsewoman.

An outdoor girl with a captivating personality and no desire for a career is 18-year-old Gillian Cecil, daughter of Lady Mary Burghley. She comes from her family home in Berkshire to a mews house near Hyde Park Gardens for the London season.

Her wardrobe for this year's festivities includes 12 evening dresses priced from £25 to £100 apiece, three cocktail dresses, two suits, three afternoon dresses and six cotton frocks. With matching accessories, costs rise to around £500.

Add to this the cost of a "coming-out" dance with an average charge of £3 a head without drinks, and you have the reason many 1953 debutantes are having a joint party with a friend. Miss Cecil shares her dance at one of the ritziest West End hotels June 9 with a school friend, Lady Mary Lindesay-Bethune.

Vivacious Caroline Clive, granddaughter of Brig.-Gen. William Darell and one of the prettiest of this year's debutantes, will have at least 500 people at the dance she is sharing with her cousin, Charmaine Schroder. Miss Clive will be 18 in May and has already taken a year's citizen and arts course that ends in April.

Lady Jennifer Bernard, 17-year-old daughter of the Earl of Bandon, hopes to "do" the season on a £400 budgeting. She is designing and making many of her evening and cockktail dresses. She also loves cooking, has a cordon bleu diploma, and will no doubt be helping cook in the kitchen to prepare for her "coming-out" dance July 4.

Petticoats Slim, Billow At Hem

NEW YORK — Petticoats retain their very important importance, and though slimmer at hipline, they still billow out into feminine fullness at hemline.

For sheer blouses and summer dresses, slips are likely to have camisole-styled tops and wide lace shoulder-straps, plus shadow panels below the waist. Kayser, however, offers both a slip and a petticoat with a knitted front panel of 70 denier nylon, this does away with the double thickness in most shadow-proof lingerie.

Spring Is Fragrance Time

Spring is synonymous with change and just as you change your wardrobe, you will want to wear a different type of scent from that you have been using during the winter months.

According to a national survey conducted last month the American woman is an individualist. Neither the colour nor the line of a costume dictates which fragrance is worn. She wears perfume to please herself. And when asked if the same perfume is used all the time, 94% answered in a loud "no". 68% said that the type of perfume used depends on the occasion which is governed by the costume. Others said they wore perfume to suit the mood as expressed by their costume. How fortunate we are that the Fashion of Spring 1953 has so much variety yet one thing in common—elegance.

Fashion emphasis has shifted from skirt t top interest. The straight silhouette has unexpected touches of feminity in flattering necklines, softly full or shirred sleeves, back fullness in skirts. Colours range from pastel blues, greens and pinks to vibrant tones in the same families. Black is strong again. White is seen everywhere as an accessory, and in combination with colours and black. With such variety, elegance and womanly flattery in the clothes you wear, perfume takes on new importance as the fourth dimension of your personality.

A soft sweet fragrance gives a feminine provocativeness to the crispness of a box jacketed suit. The scent you select may be a floral bouquet or the loveliness of a single flower. However, you, Mrs. Independent Canadian, may want to emphasize the chic of your new fashion with a worldly blend which is clear yet sparkling, or one which has a spicy overtone.

At home clothes have become more popular than ever. They range from simple cotton dresses to silk and satin lounging pajamas with sheer coats. Even silk brocade shorts embroidered in sequins and pearls, have been created for your casual life. But whichever mood the fashion expresses, emphasize your own womanly charm with a scent which means gracious living to you. Truly, the fragrance which surrounds you completes your picture—this year more than ever.

The new spring clothes have an eclat about them which seems to demand the feminine accessory of perfume. For afternoon occasions and informal evenings, simple necklines are complemented by large puffy sleeves or softly draped ones. What more charming accessory than a sweet floral perfume or a woody scent with an insistent undertone.

Every woman enjoys a sense of elegance and charm. She wants to feel secure in her own womanliness. And one of the pleasantest and surest ways of expressing this sense of loveliness is in the use of perfume.

Separate Jackets For Summer '53

MONTREAL — Summer 1953 will be the summer of separate jackets. Sun - dresses, afternoon dresses, and traditional frocks are all being shown with matching or contrasting jackets in a variety of styles. One of the newest is a linen textured viscose jacket with trim boxy lines —it's dyed to match a viscose jersey street dress. The good looking jacket would serve equally well with beach clothes—or even with an evening dress!

Baby Band Mothers Of City Show Interest At Rally

A shower of clothing for Korean children featured the 8th annual rally of Baby Band Mothers of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the United Church. The rally was held in Trinity Hall Thursday evening. Eight Peterborough mothers' clubs were represented by more than 150 young mothers attending.

Mrs. Wm. Taylor, president of Trinity Baby Band Mothers, and Mrs. W. R. Philp, Presbyterian secretary, who presided, welcomed the guests. As well as the members of the United Church groups of the city and Stewart Hall, there was represented the Murray Street Baptist Church group, St. John's Anglican Mothers' Club and the MA Club of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Little Maureen McWilliam, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McWilliam represented the Baby Bands and delighted everyone with the two piano solos.

The Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell, new minister of Trinity Church, was introduced by Mrs. Philp and spoke a few words of welcome.

The Rev. I. G. Pollock of Grace United Church, guest speaker of the evening, gave a stirring address on "Education in Africa today" which proved to be quite thought-provoking.

He feels that the great need in South Africa today is native education and if the African is going to be educated it must be done by Christians. To man the schools with Christian men and women is an acute problem, he said. It is the work of all denominations—95 per cent of the schools in South Africa are supported by Christian churches he pointed out. There is great need for support outside the country in respect to money and also, moral emphasis by the churches.

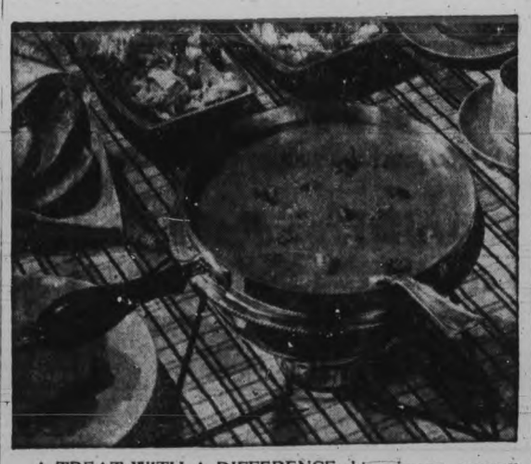
"Home means a great deal to the African and he has a strong sense of family ties." Mr. Pollock emphasized the importance of the home and its influence in the field of Christian education. "We look forward to the dawn of emancipation for dark Africa, from bondage of fear, into the light that is Christ, through Christian education."

Mr. Pollock was introduced by Mrs. L. Massey of Stewart Hall and thanked by Mrs. J. Telford of George St. Church.

Interesting reports of the year's activities were given by the past presidents of the various groups. Mrs. S. Adamson reported for Knox, Mrs. H. L. Hamley for Mark St., Mrs. R. W. Parnall for George St., Mrs. S. Whittington for Stewart Hall, Mrs. H. G. Shaw for Murray St. Baptist, Mrs. R. B. Stewart for St. James and Mrs. W. B. Gordon for Trinity

There was keen interest in the report from St. John's Mothers' Club given by president Mrs. B. K. Scarlett, and also in the activities of the MA Club of St. Paul's read by Mrs. J. H. Shields.

In giving an over-all resume of the activities of the past year, Mrs. Philp said that more than $1,600 had been raised for children's work with part of the money going to buy equipment for the nursery of a mission hospital in British Columbia.



Special emphasis has been put on children's work in home missions this year. Thirty-six complete layettes were made and distributed to mission hospitals, overseas relief in Korea and to the local Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. A. Olmstead, literature secretary, and Mrs. W. H. Morton, librarian, had arranged an interesting display of books for the mothers and children.

A short devotional period with its theme "Appreciation of other races" made a fitting introduction to the speaker's address. Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Hamley and Mrs. A. C. Gertley were associated with Mrs. Philp in this part of the program. A delightful poem "Women with children" was read by Mrs. O. Mackie.

The tea table was the focal point of attention during a social hour with its centrepiece a globe of the world encircled by miniature dolls dressed to represent the children of other lands, thus carrying out the idea of world friendship. Blue and pink candles in triple candelabra lighted the table which was laid with a cutwork cloth. Honorary president of Trinity club, Mrs. S. D. Carver, and Mrs. E. Alton poured the tea.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX:

Women Can Find Ways To Attract New Friends

DEAR MISS DIX: I am approaching thirty and see no future ahead as I see nothing accomplished in the past. The present is just a deadly routine of going to work, returning home at night to listen to the radio, watch television, and go to bed to rest for another day of the same. I know no people in my own age group—the folks in my office are either much younger than I, or married. What can I do to make friends, or do something to make my life less monotonous?

CAROLEE

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIENDLY PERSONS AROUND

ANSWER: Just how much effort have you made so far to change the pattern of your life? It seems almost impossible that anyone could achieve, at 30, the routine you have outlined without making a considerable effort to stay in it!

The crux of your problem is that you give the impression that you have resigned yourself to these evenings alone. Making friends is actually one of the easiest things. Virtually everyone wants to be liked, and all you have to do is convey the impression that you want to be friendly, and they'll respond. One rebuff, however, and you're set way back.

Think your situation over honestly. How many times a day do you extend a cheerful greeting, pay a compliment, pick up the opportunity to open a conversation, go out of your way to do someone a small favor, remember the birthday or anniversary of an acquaintance with a greeting card, send a get-well card to an ailing co-worker? These are some of the things that will make folks aware of you as a friendly, pleasant person.

Since you have left your mark already on the few people with whom you do have contact, your best bet is to begin all over with a new group of people. You live in a city with wonderful potentialities for meeting folks. Drum up an interest in something—as a starter I'd suggest ceramics or painting—and take a course in it. Nothing is more conducive to easy friendship than a shared hobby.

Make up your mind that lonely evenings at home are a thing of the past. Get into action, throw off the passive moodiness and try to become someone that other people will like to know.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Last spring I was going steady with a fine boy, but we broke up because I got mad over a trivial matter and, being an impulsive person, gave him back his school ring. When I cooled off, I realized I should have discussed the matter with him first. He hasn't spoken to me since.

CATHY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There's no sure way of winning back a boy once you have hurt him. This may be the lesson that will enable you to mete out better treatment to the next nice boy you meet. Learn to control your temper, and remember the other fellow has a story to tell, too.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I would like to take advantage of a free typing course in high school, but I have only finished three years of grammar school. I came to this wonderful country when I was 12 years old and my family never sent me to school here.

D. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Adult education courses in evening high schools are open to all interested persons, and your previous schooling has nothing to do with what you want to accomplish now. Good luck with your typing.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Fifteen years ago I took an elderly man—he is now close to 80—into my home as a boarder, for a small payment each month. Now, I have had an operation and am not well enough to maintain my home. I am worried about the man since I don't know where he can go.

P. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since he is able to pay board, I'm sure you could find a family who would welcome the extra income. Try a small advertisement in this paper, or contact the local welfare agency who will doubtless be able to help him.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: I am a regular reader of your recipes but the one I want I wonder if you would print again: Suet Puddings. It never turns out like my mother used to make it . . . M. F. M.

ANSWER: Of course it warmed my heart to have such a wonderful response to the column I wrote on Suet Meat Puddings back in January. But, my sweets, if you are interested in it, would you mind clipping this right now? It would save me a lot of time and you a lot of stamps.

BOILED BEEFSTEAK PUDDINGS

(Quantities to serve 4)

Meat Filling: One lb. skirt or flank steak or shank beef, ½ lb. beef or pork kidneys, 2 small onions chopped, 2 small potatoes chopped, salt, pepper, butter. Cut meat into about 1-inch cubes—removing veinous portions from kidneys, and soak the meat in cold water to cover while you prepare.

Suet Crust: One-half lb. finely crumbled suet, 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, about ½ to ¾ cup cold water—enough to make a dough soft enough to roll out easily. Sift the baking powder and salt with the flour in a large bowl. Add crumbled suet and mix in exactly as you would for pie pastry—with finger tips or pastry blender. Add water to make stiffish dough. Divide in 4 portions and roll each portion out to make a round about 8 or 9 ins in diameter and ¼-inch thick.

Lift a quarter of the meat mixture out of the water, let it drain just a little then place it just off centre on the pastry. Add a quarter of the chopped onions, and potatoes, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Wrap in crust by folding longer end of dough over filling and quickly sealing all edges, moistening the edges to seal them. Fold outside edges over again and press them firmly. Wrap each pudding in large clean square of cotton cloth or parchment paper about 18 by 24 inches. Tie with string, circling pudding several times over its length with string or heavy thread. Tie. Drop wrapped puddings into a large kettle of boiling water. Cover. Boil gently 3½ hours, making sure that puddings are immersed in water throughout.

To serve lift puddings from water with long-handled spoons, taking care not to puncture crust. Cut strings, roll out of cloth and deftly transfer to serving plates. When they are slit at top a lovely brown gravy overflows and courses down onto the plate. These are an entire main course.

QUESTION: . . . the low cost and nutritious ideas you have been printing are an answer to a prayer. I clipped the dinner menus. Were there luncheon menus? . . . I would like the recipes for liver loaf, creamed tuna (could salmon be used too), raisin bread pudding, barbecued shoulder chops . . liver was always a problem to me until I found in one of my cookbooks advice to pour boiling water over and let stand a few minutes. My husband never liked it before that . . . I roll it in flour, salt and pepper and then fry it in bacon drippings . . Is cracked wheat bread much below whole wheat in your standards . . . my husband is not one for meat loaves, but your recipes are so good I sometimes risk a little scepticism. Usually he likes the results. I'm thankful that he is as willing as he is to try . . . Mrs. G. D.

ANSWER: Liver cooked as you do it sets the blood . . its highly important nutritional ingredient. Never soak it in cold water though—this soaks out the blood. Cracked wheat bread is better than white but not half as good as whole wheat. If your family eats whole wheat cereal and added wheat germ you can feel comfortable in serving them cracked wheat bread. Whole wheat bread contains almost every essential mineral and some of the important vitamins absolutely essential to good health.

LIVER LOAF

(popular and good)

Gently brown 1 lb. beef liver in hot butter or fat until set. Put it through food chopper with ½ lb. pork sausage meat, following them through the chopper with 3 slices bread, ½ a medium onion and 1 stalk celery. Mix together with 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. 2 eggs. Press into buttered loaf pan, and if desired top with 2 slices bacon. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. This is good served with stewed or casserole of tomatoes and baked potatoes in jackets. A very economical meal too.

Slim Skirt Dominates Spring Style

"Slim and easy" is the predominating theme of the new spring suits this season, with a wide range in interpretations of this so very flattering look. Skirts are uniformly slim, with all the fashion interest centred on the all-important jacket.

Variations on this look include the box-jacket suit, with emphasis on the wider shoulder look, the fitted suit with longer jacket, the semi-fitted effect, inspired by the Paris designers, and the practical three-piece "walking suit" ensemble.

The box-jacket suit makes news this spring, being popular with every figure type because of its easy fit, and slenderizing effect when coupled with its reed-slim skirt. Many jackets have a carved oval look, carried out with curving button and facing trim.

The cardigan box-jacket introduces texture news in facings of self or knitted trim, braid, fringe, or tiny pin-tucking. And the cutaway, or tuxedo jacket often reveals a dyed-to-match wool jersey, silk or cotton blouse as part of the costume look.

SHOWS OFF BLOUSES

The tailored suit, classic and flattering, is again important, in sheer gabardines especially; meticulously fitted to the body, open necklines invite the soft, pretty show of the new feminine blouses.

"Custom tailoring" details such as self bindings, precise pockets and slimming skirts add to the neat, spare line. Lightweight fabrics, including the gabardines, tweeds, flannels, jerseys and synthetic blends, tailor beautifully, and their light, practical weight give the wearer more good use from season to season.

Look for the longer jacket line this spring, both in boxy and fitted styles. Molded over the hip and slightly eased at the waist, this season's fitted jacket is a far cry from the man-tailored or the exaggerated padded styles of yesterday. Cardigan necklines add to the overall slim effect.

The slim, elongated silhouette centres too on the compromise between the box and the fitted jacket, with both neckline and waistline cut slightly away from the figure. A miracle of fitting gives slenderness without the precise figure-hugging cut American women have come to think necessary. Inspired by the Paris collections, this line has been successfully adapted here, and is one of the most prophetic of all silhouettes.

TWEEDS FOR SPRING

Look for the use of nubby boucles, soft fleeces, interesting mohair blends and softer tweeds. Harder suitings, such as worsted crepe,

New Shoes Trimmer

Footwear for men moves happily this spring toward the more comfortable type of thing they like most. The new in shoes reflects styling dominant in suits, jackets, and slacks.

With due concern for the average man's innate conservativeness the new footwear is trimmer and lighter and the variety of styles being made available for the new season furnishes a broad opportunity for expression of individual taste.

The most exciting development of all is the blossoming of the universally popular "loafer" style into full-fledged footwear that is now designed to go anywhere—to business, to the dance, or to play.

This new type of shoe is a far cry from the original "loafers" which soon after their introduction came to be known as "sloppy joes." To begin with, they are now called "slip-ons." In the second place, they are being so carefully designed that once the trouser cuff reaches down to their tops, they are distinguishable from time-tested classics only by the fact that they have no strings.

THEY HAVE NO STRINGS

And in place of strings they are conservatively decorated by shaping of the leather itself. Some sport tassels. Models are available in a great diversity of leathers.

More conventional shoes for men for this spring are treated somewhat more conservatively as might be expected, but every care is taken to avoid the stodgy. Browns are out in front. The wing tip is expected to be even more popular. Plainer, smoother and more restrained detail, especially in the higher priced brackets, dominates the new shoe picture.

Maximum temperatures in July and August at Victoria, B.C., average 69 degrees.

Local Hockey

tive worker in the provincial councils of the OHA.

But among Peterborough men who took helpful parts in the upbuilding of Ontario hockey in its formative years senior honors must go to Senator Buchanan, the son of an esteemed Methodist clergyman, who lived in Fraserville, Warsaw and Norwood. A brother, the late Robert P. Buchanan, was born in Warsaw. "Billy" Buchanan began his newspaper career with reportorial work on the Examiner and the Review. His abilities came to the attention of the late John Ross Robertson, founder of the Evening Telegram, Toronto, who took a keen interest in the developing of amateur sports. In response to an invitation from Mr. Robertson, the budding Peterborough newsman joined the Telegram, where as part of his work he gave valued help in the organizing of the sports of the time. Later, Mr. Buchanan went to St. Thomas, thence to Lethbridge, where his newspaper has widened steadily its news prestige and editorial authority.

Thus, it may be said, doubtless with a measure of truth, that newspapermen are not always cumberers on the earth or useless excrescences in the field of sport. They may also serve who only sit and write.

Seed Of Show Auctioned At Higher Prices

Auction Friday afternoon of the prize-winning grain at this week's Central Ontario Spring Show brought considerably better prices than a year ago.

Some of the top prices for registered seed were: Oats—Lanark, $3.20; Larain, $2.60; Abegweit, $2.60; Clinton, $2.50; Cartier, $2.30. Barley — Barboff, 3.70-$3.50. Winter wheat—Cornell, $2.50.

Timothy, $10.95; Red Clover (half bushel), $8.75.

Gordon Hancock was auctioneer, dispersing the grain and forage seed to fulfill its purpose. Attendance appeared to be twice as large as a year ago, bidding was active, and the sale was altogether a satisfactory climax to the show.

President Robert Armstrong, of Cavan, remarked to the Examiner when the ten-bushel lots of seed were being loaded into trucks by the afternoon buyers, that the show had been in all respects quite an improvement over last year's.

From the Junior Farmers' seed judging competition Wednesday, the main show itself, the discussion panels, the Thursday night concert and finally the auction sale of seed, the record was all an advance over the show of 1952.

"I know the directors will express their appreciation of the support we have received from the departments of Ottawa, the Peterborough city council, and the Exhibition Board and many others," Mr. Armstrong said.

"Before that, however, I would like to personally thank the business men of the city and our show district who helped materially with their exhibits. It is a real encouragement to feel that they are interested in our show and what we are trying to do for the improvement of agriculture in our counties."

Slim Skirt

sheen gabardine and sharkskin present an equally exciting side of fashion news this season. And jersey is the big surprise of the year, in both fitted and boxy suits, and travelling ensembles.

Tweed, the standby for winter suits, puts on a new face for Spring wear. In a bubble-light weight, it lends itself beautifully to the exacting demands of the new suit tailoring, proving a boon for travellers and those who like year-round wear from their basic suits. Braid, fringe, and sharp white touches of linen accentuate the luscious fabrics.

Denim, rayon and rayon-synthetic blends, as well as cotton and linen, make sturdy, fashionable "look like tweeds," flashed with jewel and embroidery accents that dress them up for town wear.

Look for the new and improved use of synthetic fabrics in the new suits. Blends of dacron, orlon, acrilan, viscose, vicara and rayon, used in conjunction with wool and silk have an elegant look and all the properties of good travellers.

The costume suit is a feminine version of the slim line for spring. Right for every woman who leads a busy life, this fashion adapts itself to day-into-evening wear, perhaps with a change of accessories.

Trucks Run Strike Blockade Remove 16,000 New Chicks

STRATFORD (CP)—Strikers and police pushed and scuffled with one another shortly before 3 p.m. Friday when police provided an escort for two trucks carrying live chickens from a Swift Canadian Company chick hatchery.

The trucks made it and are believed to have removed about 16,000 chicks.

One striker, Mrs. Dora Deitrich, about 60, mother of 10 children, said after the scuffle that she had been injured. The woman was semi-hysterical for a short time after the incident but did not appear seriously hurt.

About 14 pickets linked arms in front of the building to stop the vehicles. When the trucks tried to skirt them, the strikers ran in front of the vehicles. The dozen policemen on duty had to push the pickets aside to prevent them from being run over.

The running of the blockade took place about 20 minutes before union representatives were to meet officials of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to discuss taking the chickens out under bond.

About 16,000 chicks were in the hatchery and were due either to be fed or to be removed Friday. There are no feeding facilities in the plant.

Bill Danacvitch, union field representative, who earlier in the day had agreed to a conference between himself, the police chief and SPCA officials, said after the scuffle that any future talks with a view to removing live chicks would be called off as far as he was concerned.

More chicks are due to hatch within a few days.

Later in the day officials of the Swift Company reported to police that large quantities of sugar had been dumped into the gasoline tanks of two trucks. A garage man in Stratford confirmed the report that the crystals in the gas tanks were sugar.

A report of the incident was given to newspapers in the form of a company press release.

Employees of the Swift plant have been on strike for higher wages since March 6.

Some 16,000 chicks were gassed Tuesday by Humane Society workers.

Found Guilty Of Drunk Driving

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Pleasant Point man, Burwell A. Finley, was convicted Friday of driving while intoxicated, in Magistrate's Court here, and sentenced by Magistrate E. A. Gee to seven days and costs.

Finley was arrested on Thursday night by Sgt. Eberts of the town police, when he was followed on one of the main streets and finally stopped when he drove his car on the wrong side of the road.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge, and was defended by R. I. Moore, QC. Some empty liquor bottles and one full one were entered as having been found in his car at the time of the arrest. Magistrate Gee, after finding Finley guilty, sentenced him to seven days and costs of $15.50 or an additional ten days. His license was also suspended for three months and his car was impounded for the same period, while the liquor found in the car was confiscated.

Saskatchewan Presses Probe Into Insurance "Kickbacks"

REGINA (CP)—A probe of alleged corruption in the Saskatchewan government insurance office is ending its second week. It may go on until Easter.

Speaker Tom Johnston has said the integrity and good faith of the Saskatchewan government and of the legislature are at stake. Premier Douglas has promised the investigation will be thorough.

The inquiry, by the Crown corporations committee, is centred on an affidavit sworn by Joseph Oliver Rawluk, 32-year-old Regina insurance man.

In the affidavit, Mr. Rawluk claims that in return for insurance business steered to his firm, "kickbacks" on commissions were paid to Provincial Treasurer Clarence M. Fines and to the manager of the government insurance office, Michael F. Allore. Both have denied the charges under oath.

The hearings have brought crowds of up to 1,000 spectators to the public galleries and overflowing onto the floor of the chamber behind the members' desks.

The crowds have been attracted by sharp clashes between Premier Douglas and Liberal leader Walter Tucker, and by dramatic incidents such as the premier's suggestion that Mr. Rawluk and Mr. Fines test the veracity of their statements by taking "truth serum."

The Crown corporations committee has 36 members, or better than two-thirds of the legislature. It deals with the state-controlled business enterprises of the CCF government, including the government insurance office which sells casualty, fire, automobile and inland marine insurance and operates the Saskatchewan Guarantee and Fidelity Company Limited.

The affidavit was brought before the committee March 10 by Mr. Tucker. Mr. Fines said then that he understood the affidavit had been in existence for some time and that John Diefenbaker, Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative member of Parliament, had investigated Mr. Rawluk's charges before last June's Saskatchewan election and had "refused to have anything to do" with them.

The affidavit tells how Mr. Rawluck, together with Dr. Morris C. Shumiatcher, QC., and Philip Bodnoff, organized Financial Agencies Limited in 1950, first as a collection and real estate agency and later as an insurance firm. The next year Dr. Shumiatcher and Mr. Bodnoff withdrew from the company and Mr. Rawluk eventually lost his government insurance agency.

The affidavit alleged that in December, 1950, shortly after the company was organized, Dr. Shumiatcher and Mr. Bodnoff told Mr. Rawluk that "Mr. Allore had indicated his willingness to direct as much business as possible through our company. In return he wanted to receive for himself and the Honorable C. M. Fines, 50 per cent of all commissions received by the company on business turned in by him. . .

"Dr. Shumiatcher and Mr. Bodnoff thought this would be a good arrangement but that Mr. Allore and Mr. Fines should be satisfied with 40 per cent of all commissions received. . .and I agreed with this proposal."

Dr. Shumiatcher, formerly of Calgary and a 1941 law graduate of the University of Alberta, testified for nine hours and said there was not "one iota of truth" in statements involving his name.

Mr. Bodnoff, a drive-in theatre operator who came to Regina from Montreal in 1942, also denied the claim.

Mr. Rawluk at one point described an alleged car ride during which he claimed he gave Mr. Fines money in an envelope. It was this evidence that prompted Premier Douglas to bring up the question of "truth serum."

He told Mr. Rawluk: "You heard Mr. Fines' denial. . You recognize you both can't be telling the truth." He then went on to ask the witness, if the honor of a public man was at stake, and if Mr. Fines was willing to undergo a similar test, "would you be prepared to submit to examination by truth serum."

Mr. Rawluk replied: "Yes, I most certainly would."

He requested protection of the Saskatchewan Evidence Act Thursday night when he admitted he had signed false signatures to a number of cheques.

Easter Meeting Of WMS Held

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church was entertained by Mrs. V. M. Gilbert at the parsonage with 22 members and five visitors present.

Mrs. R. D. P. Davidson presided over the meeting which was opened with quiet music by Miss Edith Hoskin. The roll call was answered by repeating a line of an Easter hymn.

Mrs. A. Jamieson, reported that 2,700 Christmas cards had been sent to Miss Millicent House, Angola, Africa, who will distribute them to the native children in rural areas.

The president announced that the April meeting would be held at the church when a bazaar will be held to aid the expense fund. Mesdames A. Taylor, N. McIntosh, and A. Buttars will be in charge.

Mrs. F. Shier, treasurer, reported that the allocation for this year is still the same. Mrs. H. Davidson moved that the allocation of $400 be adopted.

The citizenship and temperance report given by Mrs. J. Ritchie had as its title "How Quickly Time Flies." It was decided to hold a WMS Sunday evening service sometime in May or June when the Rev. V. M. Gilbert will be on vacation.

Mrs. V. M. Gilbert read an interesting letter from Miss Frances Wallbridge, a Missionary in Africa.

Mrs. L. McIntosh, leader of the group in charge of the worship service, gave an Easter call to worship on "The Tomb", followed by prayer by Mrs. A. Buttars. Mrs. William Buttars give the Bible reading.

Mrs. J. Ritchie gave the meditation and Mrs. H. Davidson led in prayer. Mrs. W. McMann read "An Easter Message". Miss E. Hoskin was at the piano as Easter hymns were sung.

A solo, "He Lives" was sung by Mrs. C. Timlin. Mrs. R. D. P. Davidson took the devotional and read the Easter Story. The meeting closed with prayer.

A vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. Gilbert for her hospitality and to those assisting with the program by Mrs. L. McIntosh. The hostess and Mrs. A. Jamieson's group served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

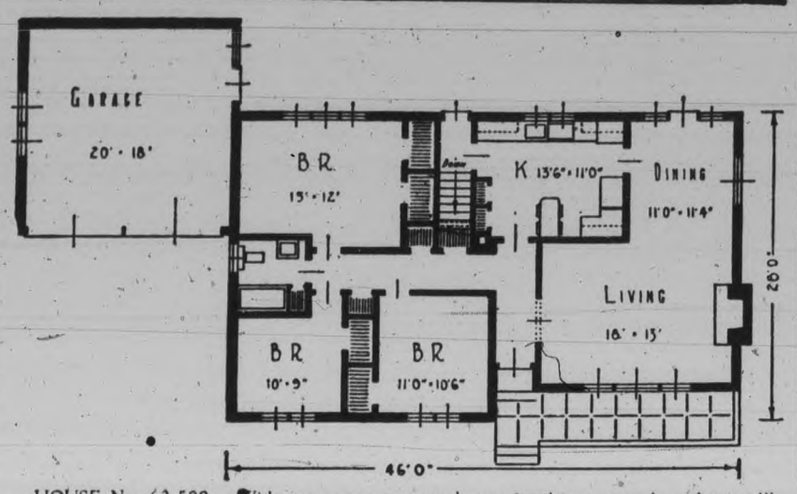
Jail CIO Leader On Red Charges

NEW YORK (AP)—A Canadian-born transport workers leader was yanked from a collective bargaining table Friday and sent to Ellis Island on a deportation warrant alleging he belonged to the Communist party.

Gordon A. Barragher, 45, a native of Toronto, was arrested in Patchogue, N.Y., where he was in the midst of negotiations in a 42-day bus strike.

Barragher is chief negotiator for local 252 of the CIO Transport Workers Union. He was president of the local, which covers Long Island's Nassau and Suffolk counties, from 1947 to 1951.

Immigration agents called him from the bargaining table and read their warrant to him.



Later a reporter asked him if he were indeed a member of the Communist party.

"Nonsense," he replied.

In Washington, Attorney-General Herbert Brownell said he had ordered Barragher held without bail.

The United States paid Russia $7,200,000 for Alaska in 1867, equivalent to two cents an acre.

HOUSE No. 62-509.—Wide eaves are an important part of the charm of this broad frontage home and the low, stone planting area at the front seems to make the house cling to its attractive site. A study of the room layout, as shown, reveals a plan you'll find hard to beat in comfort and convenience. For working plans, write to Home Building in Canada, 2842 Bloor St. West, Toronto.

Decorate Rooms With Books; Possibilities Unlimited

Today's home decorator is increasingly aware of the effect of attractively bound books and their housing on the physical charm of a room. Not only do they lend a feeling of repose and contentment but their use in shelves of various sizes is an inexpensive means of enlarging the apparent size or developing the tone of any room in the house. Books will be found in growing frequency on a hanging shelf in the kitchen, a built-in space in the basement playroom or in the nursery as well as in their usual places in the library-den, the living room and the bedrooms.

Their possibilities in decoration are unlimited. Book nooks look especially well near a fireplace. Firelight and reading . . . somehow, each complement the other. A nook near the fireplace makes books ask to be read.

A tall, narrow shelf may be placed at either side of a window with a comfortable window seat between them.

Built-in book nooks are as beautiful as they are simple. They can be placed almost anywhere in the house. Of course, one must use discretion, but odd corners or small spaces extending into the rooms can be converted into shelves inexpensively. Rounding the upper part of a recessed shelf gives a picturesque, neat effect.

Book nooks are a convenient way of introducing colour. For example, a playroom shelf lacquered in orange on a tan wall, or a living room nook in antique-white on a blue or grey panelling will go a long way in relieving an otherwise monotonous wall space.

When planning your house and your book space, figure ten books to the foot and do not allow too much depth. Seven or eight inches is usually adequate. Allow plenty of room for expansion, however, as you will naturally be adding to your library as time goes on. Do not have the shelves too high or too low. If you think the books will be hard to reach up near the ceiling, plan to put a small vase or piece of statuary on the top shelf. If they are too low convert the bottom shelves into cupboard space for the children's toys or for storing magazines.

If at all possible, do not enclose books in glass. Books are to be read not to be preserved.

Old books add flavor to the decorative scheme, but if too badly worn they should be rebound either by your book-store or yourself. Whichever way you decide on, get a variety of bindings. Have some done in leather, some in buckram, some gaily patterned paper and in shades of red or blue or gold.

A comfortable chair and a lamp call for a book somewhere near them. Arrange as many of these little studies as possible. Try brightening an otherwise gloomy corner with a little coloured lamp, a table with a built-in book stall, a chintz covered chair. Built-in bookcases housing attractively bound volumes are found with growing frequency in the modern home. As a decorative feature, books are unbeatable for added life and colour.

Suffers Broken Leg

HAMILTON (CP)—Alec Sirko, 21, of Brantford suffered a broken right leg Friday when he was pinned to the ground by two slabs of concrete. He was working on a downtown demolition project. Hospital authorities Friday night described his condition as "fairly good."

Refinishing Old Floors Calls For Work And Care

Letters from readers indicate an interest in refinishing wood floors, both with and without removing the old finish.

Readers who have bought older homes and are remodelling them are interested in starting from scratch, having taken the old finish down to the bare wood. Others have newer homes and wish only to resurface worn floor finishes. This column will deal with the latter method first.

First, and this is most important, remove all polish, wax and oil from the floors. Unless this is done, and thoroughly, subsequent coats of enamel or varnish will not dry.

To do this, wash the floors with cloths saturated with turpentine. While still wet, wipe dry with clean cloths. Then sand lightly with 2/0 sandpaper and wipe with a cloth dampened with turpentine to pick up dust. Repeat this operation if you want to be doubly sure. There are also prepared wax removers, which you can get at your hardware or paint store.

VARNISH FINISH

If a varnish finish is desired, apply one or two coats of floor varnish. Varnish stain will both darken the floors and varnish in one operation, but it is an opaque rather than a clear, transparent finish.

Use a 2½- to 3-inch brush to apply varnish. Flow it on with a full brush, then smooth it out with long, even strokes with the grain. For smooth flow and rapid drying, varnish on a clear, nonhumid day with the room temperature about 70 degrees.

If a second coat is desired after the first has dried overnight, sand the first coat lightly with 2/0 sandaper, wipe with a clean turpentine - moist cloth, and apply varnish.

For enamel finish, touch up worn spots with eight parts enamel to one part turpentine, sand lightly, and follow with one or more coats of floor enamel.

BARE FLOORS

Now for refinishing from the bare wood.

Open-grained wood floors, such as oak, need a filler to fill the open pores of the wood and to add to the surface smoothness. Close-grained woods, like pine and maple, need no filler.

If the floor is to be both filled and stained, stain should be applied first when a deep shade is desired. Where light or medium stain is desired, add enough oil stain to paste wood filler to produce the color effect wanted, then apply both in one operation.

To apply filler alone, thin it first with turpentine until it has a creamy consistency. Brush this mixture first across and then with the grain. When it dulls (in five or 10 minutes) rub across the grain with a coarse cloth to pack the filler into the pores. Let dry, sand lightly and clean with a cloth moistened with turpentine. Where filler is used on floors to be varnished, apply filler first.

To stain the floors, spread oil stain on a few boards at a time, brushing with the grain. The longer oil stain stands on wood, the darker it becomes. When the desired color effect is obtained, wipe it all off and do a few more boards.

Finally, varnish the floors following the same directions given earlier.

Deaf Association Raps 'Moochers'

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Association of the Deaf, Inc., said Friday a peddling racket involving some deaf mutes and some persons posing as deaf and dumb has sprung up again across Canada. The association is taking steps to stamp it out, through co-operation of the police and the public.

The racket was checked in Western Canada several years ago. This week it has been reported in Toronto and elsewhere.

Announcement of the drive against the peddlers came from David Peikoff of toronto, resident of the Ontario Association of the Deaf and secretary of the national organization.

"These moochers trade on public sympathy by handing out printed cards saying they are deaf and cannot find employment, or else they peddle cheap merchandise," he said. "They can make up to $150 a week this way and it is believed there may be a gang behind the racket."

He said a teen-aged girl peddling adhesive bandages in a downtown Toronto restaurant this week obtained at least $3 in about 15 minutes.

Toronto Doctors Defend Spinach

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto children's doctors and nutrition authorities arose Friday to the defence of spinach, following a report from two London doctors that the leafy vegetable may imperil children's health.

The supporters of spinach said the vegetable should be included in a balanced diet. Professor E. W. McHenry of the University of Toronto, leading Canadian nutritionist, said that a case in which an abnormal amount of a food has been forced on animals cannot be compared with a child's balanced diet in which the same food has been provided in normal quantities. Professor McHenry was commenting on the London story which quoted Drs. Joan E. Bamji and N. S. Bamji as saying that experiments on rats showed that the oxalic acid in spinach upsets the body's absorption of calcium, thus leading to a weakened bone structure.

Dr. McHenry said the claims by the London authorities had been long known here and had been carefully studied and disproven.

MAGAZINE EDITOR DIES

VICTORIA (CP) — Arthur Reginald Whittemore of Toronto, 67, editor of Canadian Nature Magazine and national secretary of the Audubon Society of Canada, died here Thursday night from a heart attack. Mr. Whittemore had been in Victoria since Sunday on a business trip, accompanied by his wife. She will accompany the body back to Toronto for burial.

FLOW VARNISH on the floors heavily, then brush out smooth with long, even strokes with the grain of the wood.

Giving Children Lessons In Telephone Technique

By NANCY CLEAVER.

The telephone has a unique place in today's world. Canadians, during a recent year, had the highest per capita usage of the two hundred and fifty countries where telephones are operated most widely. Our countrymen averaged 378.2 telephone conversations per person during 1951. The United States has the largest number of telephones, the United Kingdom the second largest number, Canada continues to hold third place for the number of telephones in use and also for the number of telephones (22.1) per hundred persons.

But quantity does not always mean quality—and the way the telephone is used in the home depends very much on the mother's and father's standards. At a very early age a child is listening to the way in which his parents answer the telephone.

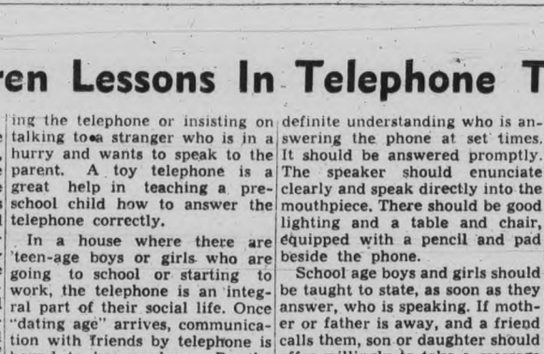
SETTING AN EXAMPLE

The adults in the home where there is a small child should give some thought to the example set from day to day in telephone conversations. The practise of courtesy will have a far greater influence on the manners of a child, than direct teaching on correct telephone etiquette. Little children should not be allowed to make themselves a nuisance by answering the telephone or insisting on talking to a stranger who is in a hurry and wants to speak to the parent. A toy telephone is a great help in teaching a pre-school child how to answer the telephone correctly.

In a house where there are teen-age boys or girls who are going to school or starting to work, the telephone is an integral part of their social life. Once "dating age" arrives, communication with friends by telephone is bound to be popular. By the time an individual has reached adolescence it is a bit late to try to change his "telephone habits!" So it is wise to start early on the right path.

The different members of the family should have a Family Council and come to a reasonable agreement on the use of the telephone. Every household is different and so there are no rules which fit every home. But there are some questions which a family can discuss and try to find a mutually satisfactory answer.

If some of the calls on the home phone are related to the work of father earning a living, how can this priority be observed? If there are several people using a phone, brief conversations are a necessity, but what is the upper time limit on a telephone "visit?" How can "turns" on the phone best be scheduled, if several members of the household want to phone at the same time?



The efficiency in the use of a phone is increased if there is a definite understanding who is answering the phone at set times. It should be answered promptly. The speaker should enunciate clearly and speak directly into the mouthpiece. There should be good lighting and a table and chair, equipped with a pencil and pad beside the phone.

School age boys and girls should be taught to state, as soon as they answer, who is speaking. If mother or father is away, and a friend calls them, son or daughter should offer willingly to take a message "The caller's number and name should be written down at once. Verbal messagees so often are forgotten or get mixed-up! At the end of the conversation the receiver should be replaced gently. Slamming it down almost equals slamming a door in another person's face.

LEAVE INFORMATION

When both parents go out for the evening, they should always leave the name of their destination, and if possible the number of the phone where they can be reached, in case of an emergency. A card posted near phone should have the number of the family doctor, the fire department, the police, as well as business' and friend's numbers which are frequently used.

In a small home it is often difficult to arrange for privacy in the use of the phone. But listening-in on another's conversation is a bit like reading person's letter! The Golden Rule solves many difficulties in telephone technique. Anything so useful as a telephone should be used with consideration as well as efficiency. How does your family "rate" in its use of Alexander Bells' invention in Brantford, Ontario, which has had such a profound influence on modern business and social life?

TOY TELEPHONE is a great help in teaching a pre-school child how to answer the telephone correctly.

Ottawa Removes Controls Metal Shipping

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government today lifted all export and import controls on shipments of a wide range of strategic metals to and from the United States.

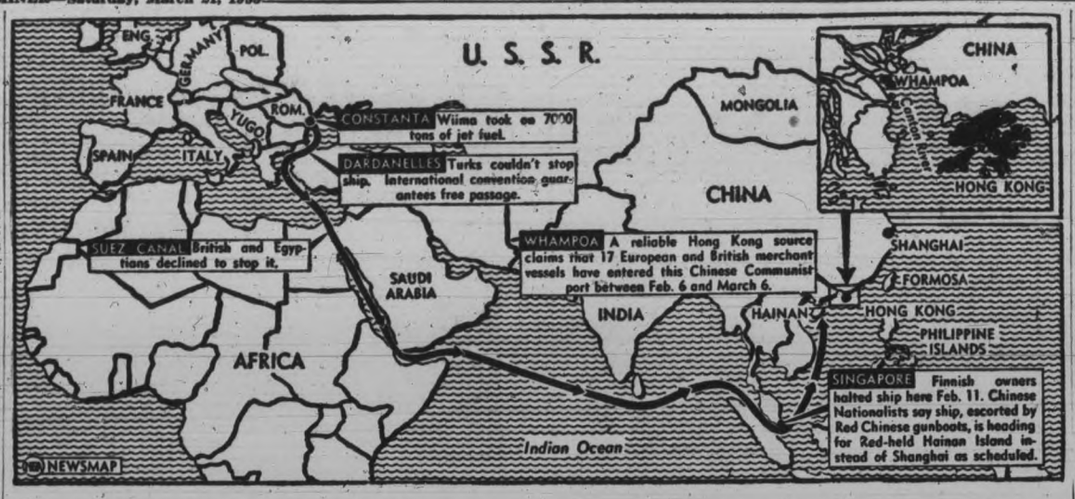
The move affects all non-ferrous metals, except nickel and nickel-bearing materials.

From now on, exporters and importers of these metals will not require government approval on shipments across the Canada-U. S. border of aluminum, copper, tin, tungsten, zinc, antimony, bismuth, brass, bronze, cadmium, cobalt, lead and molybdenum.

The controls-lifting order, effective immediately, covers shipments in the form of ores, concentrates, scrap, fabricated forms and ingot metal.

The trade department also announced the government is prepared to hand out export licenses "readily" on shipments destined for consumption in "friendly countries" abroad.

Canada, in co-operation with the U. S. and other western countries, still maintains rigid control on the movement of strategic materials to Communist countries.



Controls were imposed and expanded following the outbreak of war in Korea. Canada regulated exports to the U. S. to make sure Canada's defence didn't suffer.

She also imposed import controls on shipments from the U. S. at the request of the U. S. government. Officials said the U. S. now has agreed these import controls be eliminated.

Controls on nickel remain because of a continuing scarcity.

Acid Threat Nets Robber $25,000

FORT MEADE, Md. (AP) — A man flourishing a bottle he said contained acid walked into a bank here Friday and held it up for about $25,000.

The staff of the bank said he threatened to throw acid at them if they did not turn over the money.

The Fort Meade provost marshall was advised a quick check showed about $25,000 gone.

Get 6 Years Each

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—John Franko, 23, and Hugh Nickerson, 19, both of nearby Beamsville, were sentenced Friday to six years and 10 strokes of the strap each on charges of rape. Both pleaded guilty to raping a 21-year-old girl from nearby Vineland last December.

Mice In Countess' Shoes Stir Controversy In Denmark

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A claim by a Danish countess that she was the first woman to wear a shoe with a live mouse in the high heel has angered the Danish Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Newspaper reports say live mice in transparent plastic shoe-heels have become a big hit with eccentric ladies in Paris this spring. Countess Irene Ahlefeldt-Laurvig saw these reports and told a Copenhagen reporter she introduced the fashion at a Paris ball six years ago. She showed the reporter the shoe with the hollow heel that housed the mouse.

The society today announced that they would take action against Countess Irene. Said President Knud Jensen:

"We have requested, through our French sister organization, that a police charge be brought against the countess. Her offence may not be punishable in Denmark but the French should see if she could be charged according to their law. In any case, she should be barred from France in the future."

Countess Irene is not alarmed by the society's action.

"It was such a darling little mouse and it was the pet of everyone at the ball," she said. "I kept it in my shoe heel for about 30 minutes. Afterwards it fed happily on a big piece of cheese under a glass cheese cover. It is a strange thing to take such drastic steps because of this little mouse. I don't think the society will succeed in its efforts to have me barred from admission to France. No, sir."

Whitton Calls For Arbitration

OTTAWA (CP)—Embroiled in wage disputes with firemen, police and departmental civic employees, city council will submit its case to "arbitration" by a civic plebiscite, Mayor Charlotte Whitton said Friday.

The Ottawa Municipal Service Association Thursday night voted to reject a proposed city schedule of pay boosts. Previously the police association rejected civic offers.

The mayor warned that "every five-cent piece we pay, over the very generous proposals we made, means an increase in the tax rate." She added:

"This is something that may yet have to go to the taxpayers for a vote. I am not sure just what method is available for doing so, but I will ask for a study of the matter so that such a vote can be taken—if necessary."

Members of the Ottawa Municipal Service Association seek a $40-a-month increase for salaried workers and an increase of 20 cents an hour for hourly-rated employees. The city has offered a 10 per cent increase for employees with 10 years' service, five per cent for employees for five years' service, and no increase for other classes.

Future Unknown For Turbine Firm

OTTAWA (CP)—The $8,000,000 government-supported John Inglis marine turbine plant at Scarborough, Ont., likely will have most of its current defence orders filled by late 1954, defence production officials said Friday.

What will happen to the plant after that was "anybody's guess." The officials were hopeful that some defence orders for the plant will continue, though they would probably be sharply reduced from the current rate.

The plant was built with federal capital assistance to manufacture new-type turbines and other marine propulsion machinery for the 14 escort vessels that Canada is building for her navy.

The turbines cost about $1,000,000 each and require highly-skilled workmanship. Officials said it would be a great loss to Canada in trained personnel if the plant were allowed to go to seed after its current contracts are completed.

Japanese Prince To Be April Guest Of Massey

OTTAWA (CP)—Prince Akihito, 19-year-old son of the Emperor of Japan, will be the guest of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, the governor-general, for two days during his April visit to Canada, the state department said Friday.

The Crown Prince of Japan will come to Canada April 11 by RCAF plane from San Francisco and will be here until April 21, his itinerary shows.

He will sail for London from New York April 22 and will represent the Emperor at the coronation of the Queen June 2.

He will be a guest of the governor-general at Ottawa April 17-18. He will visit Niagara Falls April 19, Toronto April 20 and Montreal April 21.

Judge Denies Motion For Separate Trials

BUFALO, N.Y. (AP)—State Supreme Court Justice William H. Munson denied Friday a motion for a separate trial of Maurice O'Dell of Hamilton, Ont., accused of the holdup-slaying of a Buffalo jeweler.

O'Dell, 28, and Walter F. Griffen, 26, also of Hamilton, are scheduled for trial April 13 on a charge of murder in the death of Donald F. Hurd.

Hurd, 45, was shot and killed last Dec. 9 by one of three gunmen who escaped with more than 30,000 in jewels. Police said most of the jewelry was recovered.

Jail Three Suspects Minutes After Theft

TORONTO (CP)—Police picked up three suspects Friday within minutes after Capt. Reginald Bevington of the fire department was robbed of $234. Earlier reports placed the amount stolen as high as $7,000.

Jack Howse, 25, Edward Turner, 25, and Percy Wells, 40, all of Toronto, were charged with the robbery and being armed with an offensive weapon.

BC Boosters Turn Mountain Skiing To Tourist Draw

By PETER MURRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Boosters of Vancouver's "Evergreen Playground" have started plugging something new for them—snow.

Careful to remark that the snow falls only on nearby mountains, the tourist bureau is drawing many visitors to the city with the lure of easily accessible winter sports.

The three peaks of Hollyburn, Grouse and Seymour mountains across Burrard Inlet will receive more than 120,000 visits between them this year during the December-to-May season. Chair lifts on Grouse and Hollyburn and a government-maintained highway on Seymour have brought skiing within an hour's journey of downtown Vancouver.

RECORD LENGTH

The Grouse chair lift, in two sections, is 8,000 feet long and is described as "the world's longest metropolitan chair lift." It was completed in January, 1951.

The three mountains are about 4,000 feet in elevation and have an average snow depth of eight to 10 feet. Some of the best skiing comes in late April and May when a warm sun melts the overnight crust, making for ideal snow conditions.

Ski lessons sponsored by two city newspapers are attracting people of all ages and walks of life. It is not uncommon to see a kindergarten-age tot skimming down a slope alongside a 60-year-old.

A little harder to reach but offering unparalleled alpine scenery is Garibaldi park, some 35 miles from Vancouver. Still in the development stage, this 450-square-mile park land is destined to rival some of the finest resorts in the Rockies.

HIGHWAY PLANNED

At present the only means of getting there is by boat, bus, snowmobile and a two-mile ski trek. A proposed new highway along Howe Sound to Squamish would bring the skiing grounds within a two-hour drive of Vancouver.

Garibaldi development has been pioneered by two Norwegian immigrants, Ottar and Emil Brandvold and Ottar's wife, Joan. This hardy trio, beginning in 1941, has built a log chalet capable of accommodating 37 people.

The Brandvolds eventually plan a series of mountain huts dotting the area which would permit easy one-day trips from cabin to cabin in the alpine playground.

Most of the terrain around Diamond Head, where the lodge is situated, is above the timber line, giving long, uninterrupted ski runs on treeless slopes. From the "saddle" there is a 1½ mile-long run to the chalet.

The Brandvolds maintain that only government indifference is preventing them from opening up the full potentialities of the park. But they can't complain of any lack of co-operation from the public. In Squamish, 40 citizens loaned $100 each, interest free, on the purchase of their new snowmobile.

REV. A. B. MASILAMANI, professor in the Canadian Baptist Theological Seminary in Kakinada, India, who will be the guest preacher in Murray Street Baptist Church at both services on Sunday.

Whose Balloon? Nobody Knows

According to the Canadian Department of Transport, the Weather Balloon which was found in the Clifford Fallis bush on the Fallis Line some weeks ago belongs to the American weather authorities in Buffalo. But the American Weather Bureau claims that the balloon is of Canadian origin.

"The Flying Saucer" as the balloon was named locally, has caused considerable controversy between the American and Canadian weather authorities. A large number of the experimental balloons that are used by the Canadian Weather Bureau are of the American radiosonde type.

The only possibility of a Canadian type of ballon falling in the Millbrook vicinity would be if it were released by the weather station in Toronto. But that weather station in Toronto does not have any record of a balloon released on that day. However, they cannot be absolutely certain because they send quite a few instruments up for training purposes and do not keep an accurate count of the number they send up.

However, the opinion of the Department of Transport is that despite the USWB claim that it was not their balloon, the probability is that it did originate somewhere in the United States possibly at Buffalo. They base their theory on the fact that it had a red parachute and although they occasionally use a red parachute, it is much more probable that a radiosonde sent by the Canadian Weather Bureau would have a white parachute.

Killed In Truck Crash

CORNWALL (CP)—Arthur Gagne 69, was killed nine miles east of here Friday when a light pick-up truck in which he was a passenger went out of control and went into a ditch on No. 2 Highway. The vehicle was driven by Robert Montroy, the victim's son-in-law.

100 Ice Skaters To Participate In 4th Carnival

The Peterborough Figure Skating Club will present its 4th annual carnival—Ice Fantasies of 1953—March 27 and 28.

More than 100 member skaters of the club and professional skaters will take part in this show, which club officials promise to be the best yet.

Highlights of the carnival will be the solo skating of Miss Mildred Harris, gold medallist of the Toronto Figure Skating Club and world-famous comedian skater, Neville Murray.

But this year it is believed that the most brilliant skating ever seen in Peterborough will be displayed by the club's own professional Ede Kiraly. Mr. Kiraly, who came to Peterborough last fall, started winning skating championships in 1944. Since then he has won the World's Academie Singles Championship and was runner-up to Olympic world's champion, Dick Button, in 1948. He and a partner also won the World's Pair Championship. Both the European Singles and Pair Championships are also included in Mr. Kiraly's long list of awards.

This year the carnival will feature a 60 foot backdrop in Coronation colors. The first number on the carnival program will also tie in with this event—Coronation Capers.

The second event on the program will be a skating interpretation of Goldilocks and the Three Bears. And the carnival will be climaxed with a brilliant and colorful masquerade ball.

As has been the case in former years it is expected there will be a capacity audience at all three carnival performances — Friday night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. Tickets may be obtained from all club members and at TEM Travel Agency.

Ike And Malenkov May Meet Hint Given—Dulles

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles believes a meeting between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Malenkov could result from a word dropped at the United Nations by a Russian diplomat. Dulles expressed the belief last Wednesday in testimony before the Senate foreign relations committee. He was discussing reasons why the Eisenhower administration nominated Charles Bohlen to be U.S. ambassador to Russia.

Bohlen probably will not take part initially in any possible arrangements for a meeting between Eisenhower and the Soviet prime minister, Dulles said. He said such a meeting conceivably could grow out of informal remarks made by the Russians at the UN.

Eisenhower has said he would be willing to go half way to meet Malenkov in a meeting aimed at reducing cold war tension. There were reports last week that his remarks had been favorably received in Moscow. And there have been several instances lately of a new "sweetness and light" attitude toward the West. However, as yet there have been no concrete indictations that Russia wants the East-West meeting.

MOVE OPPOSED

Nomination of Bohlen, a career diplomat, has stirred up a controversy. A number of members of Congress, including Republican Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, have joined in opposing the move.

They oppose Bohlen because he has defended agreements reached by Roosevelt and Truman at Big Three Yalta and Potsdam conferences. Bohlen has said it was not the agreements but Russia's failure to observe the agreements that was the trouble.

Committee Urges Leave Controls To Municipalities

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario legislature committee today recommended the government discontinue all rent controls by March 2, 1954. The recommendation enables the government to prepare legislation during the current session. If it is passed, the question of rent control will be left to the municipalities. The select committee voted 4 to 1 in favor of the move. T. D. Thomas, CCF member for Ontario, was the single dissenter. Mayor A. J. Reaume of Windsor, Liberal member for Essex north, was absent.

Committee chairman C. G. MacOdrum, Progressive Conservative member for Leeds, said decontrol would probably result in a slight increase, followed by a levelling off of rents.

Mr. Thomas said the province was better equipped to handle rent control machinery. After the meeting, he said he had no prior knowledge of the government's intention of dropping rent control.

OPPOSED

"I'm very much opposed to it," he said. "It's undemocratic to urge such legislation without representations. The provincial government is going to get out of the field and it doesn't care if the municipalities take over or not."

Only 219 of the 926 municipalities in the province still have controls, but the list includes almost all of the larger centres.

Mr. MacOdrum said the decision, supported by the government stemmed from the belief that decontrols would stimulate housing without any serious rise in rents. Experience in Detroit had shown little change in rents when controls were lifted, he said.

Travel Minister Cecile, also a member of the committee, said more accommodation became available in his home town of Hawkesbury when controls were lifted.

Mr. MacOdrum said municipal councils would have sufficient time by March, 1954, to set up their own organizations if they wished to retain controls.

The chairman said rent situations vary from district to district within municipalities, and the councils would be better able to judge where control measures should be applied.

1,000 Soldiers Heading For Korea War

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than 1,000 Canadian soldiers today were travelling across Canada by train headed for a one-year tour of duty with the 25th Brigade in Korea. With official and family farewells ringing in their ears, they left training camps at Valcartier, Que., and Petawawa, Ont., during the weekend for a west coast embarkation point. "You will do well," said Defence Minister Claxton to the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, which will replace the regiment's 1st Battalion. At Petawawa, the 81st Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, and 23rd Infantry Workshop of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers paraded before Maj.-Gen. H. A. Sparling, acting chief of the general staff. He told the men he is confident they will uphold the reputation gained by Canadian troops in Korea.

Mr. Claxton told the Royal 22nd men—both French- and English-speaking officers and men from many provinces—that they were "an example of the unity of the people of Canada."

"You will come back a short year from now, with an even greater reputation earned in action," he said.

60 VETERANS

About 60 of the infantry battalion are returning to action in Korea for the second time. The unit is commanded by Lt.-Col. J. G. (Tony) Poulin.

The 81st Field Artillery Regiment which left Petawawa is commanded by Lt.-Col. W. H. Sterne, 40, of Brantford, Ont. The infantry workshop unit is led by Maj. V. W. Bethel, 36, of Winnipeg.

Mr. Claxton praised the Royal 22nd battalion for being the first Canadian unit to go overseas at full strength—without any absentees.

A sudden attack of appendicitis, however, left the 81st Field Regiment without its quartermaster, Capt. Ned McLean of Fredericton, N. B., and Picton, Ont., was successfully operated on and will be sent to Korea later when he recovers.

McNaughton Asks To Change Name To Leslie

KINGSTON (CP) — Lt.-Col. E. M. D. McNaughton, son of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, has given notice that he will seek to change his name to "Leslie" in accordance with the terms of a will left by his aunt, Mrs. James Norman Stuart Leslie, of Kingston.

A legal advertisement appearing in Ottawa newspapers Saturday gave notice that Edward Murray Dalziel McNaughton would apply to a county court judge in Ottawa April 27 to change his surname to Leslie.

Last August Mrs. Leslie's will left a home and $250,000 to Col. McNaughton on condition that he change his name "legally and publicly" to Leslie.

His father is chairman of the Canadian section of the international joint commission and commanded Canadian troops in England during the early part of the Second World War.

IN KOREA

When the legacy was first announced Col. McNaughton was on duty in Korea and at that time he said: "I haven't the least idea what I'm going to do." He intimated that he would wait for at least a year before coming to a decision but also said: "If the old girl (Mrs. Leslie) sincerely wanted me to continue the family name it very possibly will be a matter of personal honor with me."

Two weeks ago Col. McNaughton's legal representative, T. J. Rigney, said in Kingston that the amount of succession duties was still in the process of being determined.

Col. Leslie predeceased his wife by about a year and liquidation of his extensive holdings had not then been completed.

The will also said that if Col. McNaughton, a bachelor, declined to change his name, children of any future marriage were to be given a similar opportunity.

Three Americans Held As Spies By Chinese Reds

MACAO (Reuters) — Communist authorities on the Chinese mainland are holding three Americans they captured Saturday as spies, reports said today.

Chinese reports from across the border said the Communists questioned the men today on the accusation. They were accused of spying on the defence force on Lap Sap Mei Island, between Hong Kong and Macao.

The three—two of them news correspondents—were picked up by an armed Chinese vessel Saturday while on a yacht trip past the island.

The Communists were said to have supported the spy charge by producing the yacht's radio transmitter.

Today's reports said they were questioned today at the mainland town of Tang Chia Wan.

The three are Don Dixon, International News Service correspondent, Richard Applegate, NBC special correspondent, who owned the yacht, and Ben Krasner, a Brooklyn sea captain.

Fishermen today reported seeing them landed at Tang Chia Wan Sunday by a Communist patrol boat. They said a Chinese woman was with them.

Fishermen said they believe the patrol boat brought them from the Communist island of Lap Sap Mei, between here and Hong Kong. The Kert was last seen by eyewitnesses being towed towards the island by the junk which intercepted her 10 miles off Hong Kong.

3 Provinces Seek Aid To Build Defence Highway

EDMONTON (CP)—British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan have decided to seek immediate federal aid for the building of all-weather defence highways.

The highways ministers of the three provinces conferred in Edmonton Saturday and decided to press for an early conference with the federal government to discuss the plan. The ministers issued a statement that agreement was reached on the following points:

1. That the Dominion government should establish an over-all highway assistance policy throughout Canada for the purpose of building a network of main and secondary highways at the earliest possible moment.

2. That the governments of Saskatchewan, British Columbia and Alberta are strongly convinced that the federal government should contribute to the construction of all highways destined to become defence roads.

3. That the time now has arrived for the federal government to establish a policy of immediate aid for all-weather defence highways in order that maximum coordination may be obtained in present and new construction in the provinces.

Separation Said Divorce Grounds

TORONTO (CP)—The idea that a marriage has ceased to exist when the partners are not living together was suggested Sunday by Henry Cartwright of Kingston as the basis of a reformed divorce law.

Speaking to the Divorce Reform Association, which later changed its name to the Marriage Law Reform Association, Mr. Cartwright said he felt that separation for a specific period should be the sole grounds for divorce in Canada.

He said he thought divorce laws should be placed within the jurisdiction of the provinces. If that were done, it might be possible to get a divorce law similar to the English law of 1937, which makes desertion for three years grounds for divorce.

In Canada, adultery is the sole ground for divorce, except in Nova Scotia, where cruelty also is accepted.

Cat Hikes 1,500 Miles In 18 Months To Family

GAGE, Okla. (AP)—Meowrrr!! The S. A. Woods family saw a vaguely familiar cat crawl feebly into their yard and stared. Was this Tommy? It was! The family feline had hiked, or hitchhiked, his way back to Gage from California, a distance of 1,500 miles.

Of course it could have been a stray who just happened to look like Tommy. Just because he answered to his name was no positive proof. This bedraggled ball of fluff which still retained a trace of its bright yellow coat would have had to average more than 83 1-3 miles a month during his 18-month absence to walk the distance. That's more than two miles a day, without the aid of a compass.

So the Woods clan checked. When Tommy was a kitten he had suffered a broken right hip. A physical check revealed this animal had the bad hip.

Woods still wouldn't believe it. He called the woman in California who was supposed to be taking care of Tommy. She said the cat had disappeared a few days after he was put into her care 18 months ago. Woods and his family were in California then. They had moved there from Gage, but decided they preferred their Oklahoma farm.

Woods was firm with his children. Tommy would stay in California. No tears, it was final! Arrangements were made to leave Tommy in good hands and the Woods drove back to the Sooner state.

But they hadn't checked with Tommy.

When the cat disappeared the new owners made a thorough search, decided he had been killed, and didn't write Woods fearing the children might take it too hard.

In 18 months Woods and the children had all but forgotten their old pet. Then:

"Meowrrr!!!"

Rising Dollars

SEATTLE —(AP)— A trouble-shooting crew cut down its 100th or so kite of 1953 from a power line today and found concrete proof of the soaring dollar. Six silver dollars had been used as weights on the kite's tail. The young owner, Dick Filtz, 12, didn't see anything strange about it. He got 'em back, didn't he? And they "were all I had for weights."

Fireman's Body Shielded Mates

SHARON, Ont. (CP)—A man who offered his body as a shield for firemen fighting a farm blaze here Saturday was credited with saving at least one life when an oil drum exploded.

George Green of nearby Holt suffered burns to the back, legs and head, and is in hospital with severe shock.

Firemen Lieut. John Gibson of Newmarket said:

"I owe my life to that man. I was facing right into the place where the barrel of stove oil exploded. There were about 25 of us close to it but Green took the full force in his back."

He explained that Green shielded him with his body while the fireman directed a hose on the flames which destroyed a back kitchen and wood shed on the farm of Ken Pinder. The blast threw the two men 25 feet and Green's clothes caught fire.

Sharon is 31 miles north of Toronto.

Dentist Uses X-ray To Identify Thief

NEW YORK (CP) — An X-ray taken by a dentist before his patient robbed him was used by police to identify the robber.

They arrested Ramon Rivera, 22, Sunday on charges of assault and attempted robbery.

Police said that at least four dentists found themselves looking down the barrel of a gun before they finished examining Rivera's teeth. The robberies netted $400.

However, in one case, they said, Rivera made the mistake of permitting the dentist to make an X-ray of his teeth before the robbery.

They traced Rivera from a key chain lost in a scuffle during one of the robberies, then made positive identification by the X-ray.

UN Command Admits 2 Shells Went Wild

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — The United Nations command today acknowledged two Allied shells fell by mistake in the Neutral Panmunjom truce area two weeks ago but told protesting Communists they invited such incidents by establishing positions next to the zone.

Col. Willard Carlock, UN liaison officer, said no casualties or damage resulted from the wild shells.

Kicked Shell, Boy Killed

SAN JUAN (AP)—A 12-year-old boy was killed and three other persons injured by the explosion of a shell they found in a United States navy-marine target area on Vieques Island off Puerto Rico, the navy announced Sunday. The announcement said the four had strayed into the target area, which was marked as dangerous, while "searching for a lost cow." They found an unexploded shell, kicked it, and it exploded.

24 Passengers Drown As Launch Sinks

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Twenty-four passengers, including eight women and five children, died Saturday when a 73-ton launch sank after hitting a reef off southwest Formosa. Twenty passengers and the crew survived.

Fawn Born In Zoo Thousands Miss Event

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty thousand visitors flowed through the Bronx zoo Sunday but neither they nor the zoo attendants noticed the day's most important event.

A doe gave birth to a fawn of the "Pere David" variety, a rare kind originally smuggled out of Mongolia by a French missionary, Father David, in 1865.

Several hours after the fawn was born an attendant noticed it.

Airman Shot By Rusty Rifle

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian airman, shot Sunday night by boys playing with an old, rusty rifle, was listed by hospital authorities today as improved but still in serious condition.

The Canadian, Flt. Sgt. Stuart McNaughton, formerly of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Ottawa, suffered a bullet wound in the chest.

The 33-year-old sergeant is attached to the air member's division of the Canadian joint staff in Washington.

McNaughton's wife, who found him lying in the yard behind their apartment, called police. The police found a rusty .22-calibre rifle in a parking lot 50 yards away.

Later, police said, a woman brought her 11-year-old son to the station saying he had told her he shot a man with a rifle he and two other boys had found in an alley.

Police, who said the shooting appeared to be an accident, released the boy in custody of his parents.

Freight Trains Collide Head-On, Two Killed

NEHASANE, N. Y. (AP)—Two railroad men were killed Sunday night and three injured when a pair of New York Central freight trains collided head-on near this hamlet.

A dispatcher said a 91-car southbound fast freight plowed into a north-bound local freight standing on the single track.

Dead was Roy Goppert of Utica, fireman, and Stanley Seiglowski of Yorkville, head brakeman. Both were aboard the north-bound local.

Just Like Cars

Builders Urged To Accept Old Houses As Trade-Ins

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian builders were urged today to accept old houses as trade-ins on new ones.

That would help maintain the present production rate of new houses and apartments, Emanuel M. Spiegel of New York, president of the United States National Association of Home Builders said.

In a talk to 300 builders attending the 10 h annual convention of the National Homebuilders' Association of Canada, he predicted that such trade-in transactions would set the purchasing pattern in the United States during the next few years.

He said the builders will repair and modernize the old houses and put them back into the market in new house condition.

W. H. Grisenthwaite of Hamilton, president of the Canadian group, opened the convention with the assertion that Canada's house production could be increased to 125,000 a year from last year's 75,000 if new sources of mortgage money could be tapped.

He suggested this money could be made available in such institutions if savings banks were permitted to enter the mortgage business, a step he said could be brought about by revision of the Bank Act.

Turned Over Wheel To Passenger, Crashes

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Police today told the story of a one-minute driving lesson which resulted in charges against Lawrence White, 33, of Morrisburg, and George Sadler of Lancaster.

They said Sadler, driving his car Sunday, picked up White, who had been hitch-hiking. Then, police said, Sadler showed White how to shift gears, moved over to the passenger side of the seat and went to sleep.

When they reached Belleville, the car went out of control and snapped off a lamp post. Damage to the car was about $500.

Police charged White with careless driving and driving without a licence. They charged Sadler with permitting a person to drive without a licence.

Wealth, Power At Stake

Approaching Elections In Africa Decide Position Of Whites On Continent

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—White rulers are tightening their grip on the key British African territories south of the Sahara in the face of challenges by Negro millions.

Fear, suspicion and often death stalk South, Central and East Africa. For the white voters of these regions, grave new decisions are imminent.

South Africans vote April 15 in a general election to settle whether Prime Minister Daniel Malan's government will get a new five-year mandate to carry on a bold but stern policy of race separation.

Malan pictures the choice for the white South Africans as this: continued dominance of non-whites, or extinction.

Southern Rhodesians decide April 9 in a referendum whether to join a project for a Central African Federation with the colony of Northern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Nyasaland.

Rhodesian spokesmen say privately that CAF—sponsored by the British government—in time would become a pro-British bastion in Africa blocking any ambitions South Africa may have northwards.

East African whites soon must choose between using purely military or military plus economic means to restore peace to the fertile Kenyan farmlands where Mau Mau tribesmen are terrorizing the colonists.

Governments in some of these regions have taken on wide new powers to crush any show of political defiance or physical resistance.

CAN SUSPEND LAWS

The Malan government supported by the main opposition party got parliamentary authority to suspend most South African laws whenever "public safety" demands it. It now has the right to proclaim a state of emergency, withdraw civil rights, ban newspapers, set up concentration camps, confiscate property and flog and jail passive resisters and their supporters

Since 1951, Justice Minister C. R. Swart has more than doubled the number of secret members of the South African police force. An estimated 200-strong group has the job of hunting down elements considered subversive under broad terms of an act outlawing communism.

In the Rhodesias and Nyasaland, civil authorities are standing by to deal with any demonstrations against CAF that may come from the 6,000,000 Negroes.

Britain rushed two battalions of infantry to Kenya this month to help local authorities cope with Mau Mau.

This secret society of Negro terrorists, vowed to drive the whites out of the country, was said to be switching operations from farmlands into crowded towns.

Disorder and instability in Africa south of the Sahara undoubtedly weaken Western interest in the cold war against communism. For those vast tracts of jungles, swamps, bushlands, mountains and deserts, where 3,000,000 whites rule more than 160,000,000 blacks, form more than a manpower reservoir.

They give forth such minerals as manganese, diamonds, copper, gold, thorium, vanadium and uranium.

What's more, should the Allies fight a global war, South Africa would be an essential refuelling station and workshop.

Light Plane Crashes Pilot On Critical List

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Francis Bonham, 33, of nearby Tecumseh suffered two broken legs, shock and head and face injuries Saturday when his light plane crashed at Windsor airport.

Hospital officials said Sunday there was no change in his condition which was described as "critical" Saturday.

Officials said Bonham, a native of England who came here about four years ago, was negotiating a landing in his Fleet Canuck craft when it was caught by crosswinds as it touched down on the runway. He had about 70 hours solo flying time to his credit.

3rd Child, Same Date Born To Mother

CINCINNATI (AP) — Reporters didn't find out about it until Sunday, but Mrs. Reva Harvey may claim a new sort of record.

The 37-year-old housewife is to leave today with her newest daughter.

Nothing unusual about that—except that it's her third child in three years, and all have been born on March 14.

All three children were delivered by caesarean section.

Mrs. Harvey and her husband Clarence, also have another child, Patricia, 10, who was born before Mrs. Harvey got the March 14 habit.

3,968 Japanese Reach Home From Red China

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—A second repatriation ship, Takasagu Maru, arrives today from Shanghai with 1,959 Japanese nationals stranded in China since the end of the Second World War. The first group of 2,009 men, women and children arrived in a pelting rain early today from Chinwangtao, Manchuria, aboard the Koan Maru. By mid-summer, some 25,000 Japanese—some held as long as 16 years—are scheduled to be returned from China.

Swarms of reporters who boarded the Koan Maru heard conflicting stories of life in Communist China. Some Japanese wept for joy at the sight of their homeland. Others defiantly spouted Red propaganda.

However, Mayor Tasuo Sagane of Maizuru said the passengers were the most orderly group yet to arrive at this huge repatriation centre from a Communist country.

More than 600,000 Japanese from Red China, the Soviet Union, Nationalist China and Korea have been repatriated through this former Japanese naval base since the end of the Second World War.

STAGED DEMONSTRATIONS

Sagane said that on previous occasions—especially in the case of repatriates from Russia—the returnees staged sit-down strikes or stormy demonstrations, shouting slogans and singing Red hymns.

The demonstrators were encouraged by hundreds of Japanese Communists in this city—a stronghold of the Japanese Communist party.

The mayor said today's first group was different and "for the first time, I have really felt a warm spot in my heart for my returning countrymen."

The driving rain added to the confusion of Koan Maru's arrival. Some repatriates talked freely. Others glowered, close-mouthed. A few shoved and pushed the only two Americans in the press party.

Some described Red China as a paradise; others told of being driven at pistol point to work in Communist factories.

Almost all of the repatriates said Red China was conducting a successful war against germs and flies.

Some said the Communists taught them that South Korea invaded North Korea and that U. S. troops are waging germ warfare in Korea. They blamed the U.S. for the breakdown of truce talks.

The Japanese said they acquired these beliefs in study groups which met in factories, offices and rural districts. Housewives held meetings of their own.

Several expressed belief that fewer than half of the repatriates had absorbed the Red teachings.

The Japanese are being repatriated under arrangements made by the Japanese Red Cross and two Japanese Communist-front organizations. Red China had asked to negotiate with these groups when it proposed the repatriation.

Author's Wife Suicide Victim

NEW CITY, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, 48-year-old wife of Maxwell Anderson, the playwright, was found dead Sunday in the garage on the Anderson estate here and authorities called it a suicide.

Mrs. Anderson, a native of Montreal and the second wife of the 65-year-old Pulitzer prize winning playwright, had been separated from her husband for several months, close friends of the family said.

Mrs. Anderson, formerly an actress, was found seated in her car in the tightly-closed garage.

She was glad in a nightgown and a mink coat.

Ernest F. Wiebicke, chief of police of Clarkstown township which includes New City, told reporters:

"I am really satisfied that it was suicide from carbon monoxide poisoning. She had been dead from 24 to 36 hours."

Generators Flown In To Restore Power

BEAVERTON (CP)—An Ontario hydro helicopter Saturday flew three portable generators to Thorah Island in Lake Simcoe to restore electrical power to four families.

The families had been without service since Tuesday, when a fault developed in the submarine cable that carries electricity to the island.

Ice on the lake was too thin to hold repair crews so a hydro crew flew the generators in, installed them and instructed the farmers on how to operate them. The underwater cable will be repaired when the ice clears.

It was reported in error Saturday that the total collected was $6,755.

3 Prisoners Shot In Jail Break

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Three prisoners died here Sunday in a brief struggle to break out of the Tarrant county jail.

"We're going for blood and death," announced Bobby Baker, the self-chosen leader of seven desperate convicts as they fled their cells.

Minutes later the jailbreak-general and two others were fatally shot and a fourth seriously wounded by a 73-year-old guard who emptied two pistols into them.

The attempted break was an unsuccessful re-enactment of a daring escape Feb. 18 from the same jail of 10 prisoners, including Floyd Hill, Alcatraz parole breaker, only one still at large.

Three of those in Sunday's attempt had been recaptured after the February break.

Killed instantly by chief turnkey W. P. Foster was Bobby Baker, 18, indicted for armed robbery. Lloyd Lescher, 17, held on car theft charges and Baker's confederate in the earlier break, died minutes later. William Ford, 20, jailed for car theft, also was fatally wounded.

Five Race Horses Die In Fire At Jamaica Track

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK (AP) — At least five race horses were dead today from a flash fire that levelled a barn Sunday night at Jamaica race track, the third fire at a New York track and 10th in the United States since last May.

Firemen kept the blaze from spreading to other barns housing about 500 thoroughbreds getting ready for the track's April 1 opening. They could find only five charred carcasses Sunday night in the ruins of Barn 22.

But owner Pat Torino reported the loss of Sign Here, Fair Self and Brave Irish, and trainer Larry Paradise said Anne Kissler's Star Ruby also was missing. And trainer Maurice Dudley of the Owl Stable said Micheo, a full-brother to the stakes-winning Miche, and Tecolete, a promising two-year-old also were missing.

Tecolete, which won his only start in impressive fashion at Santa Anita, appeared to be the most valuable horse lost as the flames roared in a 100-foot-high column, visible for 10 miles. A $16,700 purchase as a yearling, he had been nominated for the $10,000-added Youthful Stakes April 29, one of the track's major two-year-old tests.

Among those saved was Intent, twice winner of the rich San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita. He was found racing around the track all alone in the dark.

Intent and four others, Fleeting Owl, Last Round, High Chief and Benhadar, raced wildly about the track area to get away from the fire. Last Round had been nominated for the Paumonok Handicap, the track's opening-day feature race.

Track officials estimated the loss of the barn at $30,000 and the horses were valued at another $30,000.

DERBY WINNER

Another well-known horse which survived the blaze was Count Turf, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1951. The horse was led to safety from a nearby stable. Only two other horses were in Count Turf's barn, but 18 others were due in today.

Firemen prepared to sift through the ruins of Barn 22, situated near the backstretch, for more carcases. Two lead ponies also were reported destroyed, but the remains of only one could be found.

One of the other local fires, at Belmont Park last Sept. 15, broke out on the eve of the fall meeting, and Belmont Park also had a fire June 16 just after the close of the spring meeting.

Gerry O'Grady, chief of the track's detective detail, said there was nothing to indicate any suspicious circumstances about the fire.

Stable hands tried to open all the stall doors and some of the horses dashed wildly to safety. Other steeds, however, milled in their stalls, screaming.

Guilty Plea Brings Suspended Sentence

LINDSAY (ENS)—A 24-year-old Kirkfield man, Peter Marrin, was today put on suspended sentence for a year after pleading guilty to breaking and entering the Kirkfield garage of G. V. Grant on Saturday night and stealing $11 from the till.

Magistrate E. A. Gee placed Marrin in custody of his aunt, Mrs. Ruby Harrigan, who has a farm near the village. A $200 good-conduct bond was ordered posted.

Marrin also pleaded guilty to a previous charge of illegal possession of liquor and he was fined $10 and costs.

OPP Constable John Williams of Fenelon Falls said on February 28 he found Marrin seated in a car after the theft, holding a half-empty bottle of wine.

On the more serious charge Marrin said he got into the garage by breaking three panes of glass in a window at the rear of the garage Saturday night. He then reached in, unhooked the latch, climbed in and rifled the till of $11.

Defence counsel suggested that the youth be put on suspended sentence. Magistrate Gee agreed on condition that Marrin work on his aunt's farm, abstain from liquor and go to church regularly.

Accused Man Denies Stabbed Wife At Party

SARNIA (CP) — John Chudik, 30, of nearby Point Edward today pleaded innocent to a charge of stabbing his wife early Sunday following a drinking party.

Electing trial before Magistrate J. C. Dunlap, he will appear March 31. He was released on $500 property bail.

Mrs. Chudik, 28, suffered a four-stitch wound in her side. Hospital authorities reported her condition today as satisfactory.

Peasants

MANCHESTER, Eng. (CP) —Conductor Sir John Barbirolli stopped the music Sunday night when his audience started applauding too soon. He turned on the spectators, furiously waving his baton, and shouted: "Shut up. Shut up!" He then took the Halle orchestra back over the final four bars which the applause had drowned out.

Chinese Assault Old Baldy In Heavy Attack

SEOUL (AP)—A fierce Chinese assault by up to 3,500 men hit Allied positions around Old Baldy on the western front early today (Tuesday).

The 8th army said the Chinese jumped off against Allied positions about 8 a. m.

From there it built up to a heavy blow in the early morning hours.

Allied troops fell back from nearby Pork Chop hill and fighting still was raging on Old Baldy at last report.

Old Baldy, 11 miles west of Chorwon, overlooks one of the main invasion routes to Seoul.

It was by far the heaviest Korean fighting of the year.

STRIKE AT NIGHT

The Chinese struck first Monday night (Korean time) with two companies, about 350 men, against two forward positions on the lower end of T-bone hill and were driven off in an hour and 45 minutes battle.

At the same time, about 350 Chinese hit an outpost in the White Horse mountain sector of the central front. Fighting was continuing.

The two onslaughts broke a day of relative quiet which had seen South Korean raiders roast Red bunkers and trenches with home-made jellied gasoline bombs in two strikes on the eastern front.

The troops counted a dozen dead North Koreans and more were believed caught in the scorched bunkers, the 8th army reported.

The deadly bombs were metal ammunition boxes filled with jelly-like napalm, clinging core used in aerial firebombs.

The RoKs popped their fire-boxes into Red positions on two craggy hills held by two North Korean units.

Only small clashes were reported elsewhere along the western front, soaked by a night of rain.

The heavy weather pinned down Allied planes with the exception of some light bomber strikes in predawn darkness against Red positions on the western and central fronts.

Sunday's action was hot and deadly, both on the thawing front lines and in the air.

The 8th army said Allied troops killed more than 200 Chinese in three western hill fights.

United States 2nd division raiders poured into a nest of Red caves north of the Hook, killing or wounding 100 Chinese.

Near Kelly hill, west of Yonchon, South Koreans raided another cave-tunnel network, killed 26 Chinese, and then got another 75 of about 150 Reds who jumped into the fight.

THIRD CLASH

In the third clash, a U. S. 1st marine division outpost kicked back a 500-man attack in a hot 35-minute battle in early morning darkness.

In the air, Thunderjet fighter-bombers struck a railroad switching yard near Namsi, about 45 miles south of the Manchurian border, leaving the yard in flames.

Sabre jets poked north into MiG Alley, but encountered no Red jets.

Other fighter - bombers blasted Red rail and road traffic north of the battleline.

At sea, the battleship Missouri and cruiser Los Angeles were fired upon as they steamed close in to bombard Wonsan harbor. Neither ship was reported hit.

Later the Missouri steamed south to Kojo and fired on shore gun positions and buildings.

River Explosion Causes Mystery No Reason Found

GRAND ISLAND, N.Y. (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard, the Niagara Falls fire department and police of two counties Sunday night investigated a report of an "explosion" near the North Grand Island bridge over the Niagara river.

No one was able to say what had happened.

The bridge connects Grand Island with the city of Niagara Falls.

Joseph Plutere, who lives near the river in Niagara Falls, said he heard two loud noises, the first louder than the second. He said a bright light illuminated the neighborhood.

Plutere said he saw debris floating in the water afterward.

Authorities checked all airports in the area, but no airplanes were reported missing.

One private boat was put out, but nothing but driftwood was found.

The coast guard sent a launch from its base at Buffalo to investigate.

Boat clubs were checked, too, but no boats were reported missing.

John Dilliott and William Hall, toll collectors on the bridge, said they had heard a loud noise some distance up the river, but did not report any bright light.

Tourist Group Approves Dropping Stars

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Tourist Courts Association through its president, Fred W. Butler, today said it approves the provincial government's decision to drop its "star" grading system of tourist establishments.

Mr. Butler said that "any system of grading other than a straight approval or none at all, is unworkable and unsatisfactory." He said there were too many variations in types of accommodation.

ASSISTANCE

However, Mr. Butler suggested that the provincial department of travel and publicity should consider giving three other types of assistance:

"An information service with suggestions and advice for tourist operators; co-operation of government departments, such as the department of highways, to ensure that changes in roads don't put operators out of business unexpectedly; and financial help for worthy operators who wish to make improvements or extend their services."

22 Freight Cars Jump Track, Three Injured

DELHI, Ont. (CP)—Three men were injured Saturday when 22 railway freight cars left the track and piled up together near this community 20 miles southwest of Brantford.

A train on the Wabash Railway line was speeding past a siding where workmen were unloading freight cars when a car about the centre of the moving train went off the track. It piled into cars on the siding, injured the men working, and cars at the back end of the train jammed into the front end.

Injured were Irving VanDommel of Delhi, Norman Young of Simcoe and Morris DeVoogdt of Otterville. They were treated at hospital.

Meals In Pubs Branded Outrageous

TORONTO (CP)—Describing proposed new regulations which would permit Ontario beverage rooms to serve meals as "outrageous" and "liquor favoring," Rev. Ben Spence of the Order of Good Templars said Saturday the move "is a scheme to get patrons to stay longer and therefore drink more."

The new meals-with-beer regulations were announced Friday in the legislature by Provincial Secretary Welsh, chairman of the liquor control board.

Mr. Spence said:

"It will mean additional liquor sales and that, in turn, will mean increased drunkenness, disorder, destitution and crime."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices continued to move narrowly and generally lower in early trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

There was little feature to the trade as commercial demand was limited.

The threatened strike of Lakehead grain elevator operators contributed to some hesitation on the market.

March Storm Lashes Prairies With Wind, Snow

EDMONTON (CP)—High winds and heavy snows swept across the Canadian Prairies during the weekend as the March lion paid a return visit with a roar even deeper than on his first. Winds as high as 45 miles an hour and snow 18 inches deep were reported throughout the three provinces. Drifts reached heights of six to eight feet. Prairie residents received gale-like winds and freezing temperatures at most centres March 1, the day that is supposed to determine weather conditions at the end of the month. Ironically, the weekend disturbance came almost precisely with the first day of spring.

The storm began Friday at Lethbridge, moved up through Alberta to Coronation and North Battleford to Prince Albert in Saskatchewan and then on through Manitoba toward Gillam, south of Churchill.

Last reports indicated it was moving slowly over Lake Winnipeg and gradually losing intensity. All but the northeastern corner of Saskatchewan and the southeastern corner of Manitoba felt its effects.

The storm was one of the worst in the history of Melfort, Sask., where taxi companies rolled cars into garages and tried to do business with horse - drawn sleighs. Even horses couldn't plow through the drifts. Town crews labored most of Sunday to clear passages to the town hospital and other important buildings.

ABANDONED CARS

Communications were disrupted and traffic stopped at Swift Current, Sask. Motorists abandoned cars and walked back into town. Buses stalled and planes were unable to leave the airport as scudding snow reduced visibility to 20 feet.

Any motorist who ventured out used lights. Many were trapped at out-of-the-way places.

The storm, caused by twin low-pressure centres—one from the Pacific coast, the other from South Dakota — converged over central Manitoba. Snow still was falling in Manitoba and Saskatchewan late Sunday night but had stopped in Alberta.

British Columbia during the week-end had regular spring weather with average temperatures in the 40s, although some points had scattered showers. Snow fell in northwestern Ontario Sunday and is expected to continue today.

Snow is expected to cease in Saskatchewan by this afternoon. Better conditions will be delayed slightly in Manitoba. Lighter winds are forecast along with higher temperatures.

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Helen Garkowski, 30, who police say went on a shoplifting spree with her 10-year-old son, was held by police today.

Mrs. Garkowski tried to blame the boy, police said. He will appear in juvenile court today.

The Rev. J. O'Sullivan conducted the requiem mass.

The link that had to come

The two main roads to the solution of life's problems, divergent though they may have seemed to be, are the way of Science and the way of Religion.

These two paths converge in Christian Science. Today the rational thinker finds logic, supported by proof, in the religious thinker's deep conviction of a primal cause, or intelligence, called God.

Science and religion can now agree, for through the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, the actual Science of Christianity has been revealed.

This great book shows, through reason and revelation, the solution to problems of health, supply, or of any other kind. It may be read or obtained at all Christian Science Reading Rooms. The coupon is also for your use.

NOT TO BE OUTDONE by the fashion show presented some weeks ago under the sponsorship of the Cobourg Business and Professional Women's Club, the members of the Men's Club of Trinity United Church, Cobourg, Friday night presented a fashion show of their own in the Sunday school hall. It was not necessary to import any models from the city as the Men's Club had a great variety of talent among their own members. After showing a few garments worn by the man of distinction, the men displayed feminine attire, modelled in their own inimitable masculine fashion. Some of the models are shown above. Lined up, waiting to go on are, starting with the "lady" on the left, Bob Irwin; looking wistfully between Bob and Clifford Earle is Dr. Jack Tripp. Incidentally, Clifford Earle depicts the outdoor type. The mournful model in the right foreground is Bill Holland. Cliff Page, in left photo, shows what a blushing bride looks like. —(Murray Smith Photos).

BIGGEST FURNACE

CARDIFF, Wales (CP) — The world's biggest blast furnace is to be built for the Steel Company of Wales. When completed at the end of 1955 it is expected to add 500,000 tons a year to the country's output of pig-iron.

Auto Workers Move To Clear Reds From Union

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Leaders of the CIO United Auto Workers readied a new weapon today aimed at curbing any Communists or sympathizers within the union's 1,350,000 membership

A constitutional amendment prepared for presentation to the UAW's international convemtion would make it easier to prove a member is a Communist and thus ineligible to hold office in the union.

The auto workers was one of the first to bar Communists—Nazis and Fascists, too—from office. But it has found it difficult to prove, under the present provision, that any particular member is a Communist or subservient to the party.

Details of the new provision were not disclosed before it went to the convention floor. It was learned, however, that the amendment would not attempt to oust members from the union, only from union office.

THREE ISSUES

As the convention went into its second day it became apparent that tightening of the anti-Communist provision would be one of three major issues to come up.

The others will be:

1. The formal launching of the UAW's campaign for a guaranteed annual wage in 1955.

2. The marshalling of support of the nearly 3,000 delegates behind the union's demand that the auto industry revise the current five-year contracts to meet inflationary developments since they were signed in 1950.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has hinted strongly that the union wouldn't hesitate to strike if necessary to win either the annual wage or the current contract revisions.

In his opening address Sunday, Reuther called the annual wage the only means of bringing about full employment and full production in peacetime.

Reuther told the delegates he still is hopeful that further action can be taken at a Washington meeting April 7 toward merging the AFL and CIO into a unified labor organization.

In speaking for a merger resolution he said the CIO would insist upon:

Membership in all unions must be open to all people regardless of race, creed or color.

Both organizations must rid themselves of any racketeering elements.

Plaintiffs Awarded Damages In Lawsuit

COBOURG (ENS).—Judgment in favor of the plaintiffs was handed down in assize court here in connection with the motor accident damage action brought by Linda Vivian Stone and Douglas Odgen, administrators of the estate of George Aubrey Stone of Oshawa, against Raymond McGaffey and Wallace Corbett of Windsor. The action was the result of an accident which occurred on March 6 of 1951 near Bowmanville, between a car driven by George Aubrey Stone and a truck driven by Wallace Corbett and owned by Raymond McGaffey. The judgment awarded $582 to Linda Stone and $691 to Douglas Odgen.

Man's Skull Found Suspect Foul Play

QUEBEC (CP) Provincial police investigating the discovery of a man's skull Saturday in woods north of Quebec City hinted today there may have been foul play in his death.

The skull carried marks which indicated the man's head may have been struck by a blunt instrument, police said. Experts estimated the unidentified man was in his late 50s when he died several months ago.

Ice Breaking Up Ore Ships May Sail Soon

CLEVELAND (AP)—With their eyes on the thermometer, Great Lakes shippers predicted Sunday that ore vessels may be moving through the St. Mary's river by the end of this week.

Right now the river, which connects Lake Huron and Lake Superior, is a mass of ice 14 to 20 inches thick. But the Coast Guard says the ice is deteriorating rapidly and ice breakers will start operating there early this week.

"If the weather stays warm," said Capt. Dwight Dexter, operations officer of the Coast Guard here, "I think some ore vessels will be able to get through the St. Mary's under escort, on Saturday."

The biggest fleet operator on the lakes—the Pittsburgh steamship division of U.S. Steel—started getting some of its 64 ships ready for the navigation season Sunday.

Forward crews were going aboard, and the company announced that nine vessels will leave lower lake ports March 27 for the Lakehead.

There, at such points as Duluth and Two Harbors, the ships will take on ore and start the long file that won't end until late fall.

Threat Of Strike By Clerks Surprise To Elevators Assoc.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Announcement by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (TLC) of a strike deadline at the Lakehead came as a "sorry surprise" to members of the Lakehead Terminal Elevators Association, a statement by that group said today.

The union announced Friday that 1,600 Lakehead grain elevator operators will strike April 6, if an agreement which the union claims was negotiated last fall, is not signed by the association before that date.

Local 650 of the union said the association agreed to a 40-hour week and wage increases from $1.10 to $1.40 an hour but that the contract was not signed and the association is not living up to the agreement.

The association's statement said the union claim is based on the denial of an agreement drawn by deputy Labor Minister MacNamara last September and signed by the union.

The statement said in part: "The present stand of the union is based on the claims that a 40-hour work week, which was acceptable to them last fall, is not satisfactory today although the agreement was signed as effective until Dec. 31, 1953. The union demands that Saturday be placed on the same basis as Sunday, but admits they are receiving overtime and negotiated wage increases in accordance with the agreement."

The association's statement accused the union of wanting to shut the door between Western farmers and their markets for two days out of seven and said the matter of a Saturday holiday was not discussed last fall because it was assumed the flow of Western grain should not be interrupted.

The agreement was signed by T. L. Pateman of Winnipeg, chairman of the union, and P. C. Watt, chairman of the employers committee, and certified by Mr. MacNamara, the statement said.

Since the agreement the operators have paid overtime for all work over 40 hours a week retroactive to Aug. 1.

The employers requested Mr. Pateman to sign a formal agreement in December but the union refused to do so and have never signed, the association statement said.

Ronald Hooper, officer in charge of the department of labor industrial relations board in Winnipeg, was asked Saturday by the federal government to interview both parties in the dispute to determine the cause. Mr. Hooper is expected to submit his report today.

Domesticity in Montreal, Toronto and Peterborough

Cities are made up of buildings and people and the buildings the people live in have something to do with the character of the place, as well as the character of the people in them. And so we direct our readers' attention to the fact that Peterborough has 10,020 domiciles, Toronto 157,175 and Montreal 247,485. There is not only this difference in numbers. There is a difference in kind. Of Peterborough's domiciles, 7,110 are single, detached houses, 880 are houses in rows or terraces and 2,025 are apartments and flats, in apartment blocks, duplexes, or structurally converted houses.

* * *

That so many Peterborough people live in apartments, flats or places above stores may surprise many of our readers, who survey the 7,110 detached houses and think of this city as a city of homes and front lawns and back yards. Let them consider Toronto's domiciles. Toronto has 46,700 apartments or flats, 59,860 attached houses (double houses or terraces), and 49,975 detached houses. The kind of life Torontonians live is partly determined by all those flats and attached dwellings, sharing common walls with neighbour's voices. Nevertheless, Toronto is near Peterborough in character because, for a large city, it has a great many detached houses.

* * *

Our readers who may not like apartment life will shudder at the Montreal figures. Montreal has 227,555 apartments or flats, only 8,260 single attached houses, and—most remarkable of all—only 11,460 single, detached ordinary houses. Think of it: great big Montreal with only 4,350 more houses than Peterborough! No wonder Montrealers are a very different people from Peterburians, with only half as many houses again as Peterborough offers.

* * *

There is another significant comparison. In Peterborough far more than half the dwellings of all kinds are owned by the people who live in them: 6,370 of the 10,020 dwellings are occupied by the owners. Let us cast a superior, home-loving eye at Toronto. It is as we would have expected, considering Torontonians' similarity to Peterborough people. More than half their houses are owned by the people who live in them. The figures are: 97,795 owner-occupied, 59,380 tenant-occupied.

* * *

Now for Montreal. You can guess the situation there without knowing the figures. You might guess it from the financial, political and general municipal messes Montreal gets into. In Montreal only 43,215 of the houses, flats, apartments and all other types of dwellings are owned by the people who live in them. The vast number, 204,270 dwellings, are rented. Montreal people are not home-owners and property taxpayers. They thus do not have the direct interest in their city government which Toronto and Peterborough people have.

* * *

We do not venture to say how much a person's or a place's character is moulded by the kind of dwelling he lives in or how much the pride of ownership or the pains of tenanthood influence him. That is a study for sociologists. We merely remark on the facts, and doing so, believe that these matters do affect and create character in a person and place. Our figures, incidentally, are out of date. They belong to the findings of the 1950 census-takers, just published.

The Crown In Canada

The Governor-General spoke to a Niagara Falls Club on the Crown and its relation to Canada, and in that border town his words were well tuned to American listeners-in.

"We, in Canada, admire American ideals, and so far as lies in our power, we strive to emulate American achievements. But we do not forget that the institutions of Crown and parliament, embodying in a symbolic fashion as well as in their practical operation, the ideals of liberty and authority are, on this continent, peculiarly ours. It is we who have cherished and preserved them in the new world. It is we who can offer them in our own Canadian translation, as our contribution to civilized life on this continent.

"I would remind you that the universal craving for a personal symbol of justice and mercy is happily fulfilled in Canada without servility and without emotional extravagance. We see it, with splendor and with simplicity, in the institution of the Crown and in the person of the Sovereign. The combination in this symbol of law and authority with humanity is, I think, a not unworthy contribution which Canada makes to North American life."

A notable exposition of the Crown of Canada as gem and symbol in an otherwise republican continent.

Keeping Our Own Power

The Aluminum Company of America wants to develop an immense power potential of the upper Yukon River to energize a proposed great smelter it would build in Alaska. The project might have involved as much as two billion dollars. Now, it happens that Alaska is U.S. territory and the Yukon is Canadian. The company wanted to use the power possibilities of a great part of the Yukon and northern British Columbia. The Canadian Government has rejected the proposal. It will not allow a foreign company or country to tap Canadian power. This is the right decision.

For more than forty years it has been a principle of Canadian policy not to permit the export of Canadian power. Once power is exported it is exported forever. It is unlike other commodities which can be cut off at the will of the Government. Towns and great industries grow up around power outlets. These become a vested interest. It is impossible to withdraw a license for power export, once it has been issued. Why should Canadian power be siphoned into Alaska to feed an American industry and whatever other industries and towns grow up around it? If the Aluminum Company of America wants to use this Yukon power, let it establish its smelters and towns in the Yukon—as its Canadian counterpart is doing at Kitimat, B.C.

The traditional prohibition against the export of power has been voided by recent Ottawa legislation regarding natural gas. A permit has been issued to permit gas export from southern Alberta to Montana. This is reputed to be for defence purposes. Another, more important export has been approved. Washington and Oregon states have a shortage of power. They want to import Canadian gas. A licence has been issued to allow it. The reason why this is sensible is that the B.C. west coast has an abundance of hydro power and does not need the natural gas. Further, the only way some Albertan and B.C. places in the interior can economically get access to the gas is by tapping a pipe line whose chief purpose is to serve (at a price) hungry northwest American centres.

The eastward flow of Alberta gas is a different matter. Central Canada needs power. It needs the gas. Mr. Howe has therefore said that Canada must retain for her sole use any eastward flow of gas, and that the pipe lines must be laid across Canadian territory, not American.

Mr. Howe expects that before long an all-Canadian pipe line will be built from southern Alberta into central Canada. Will it eventually reach Ontario and serve cities as far east as Peterborough? We do not know, but it seems certain that none of this gas will be exported to the States to feed middle-American cities when our own can use the gas.

Britain's Defence Effort

Canada and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries undertook large re-armament programs in 1950. Canada planned to spend five billion dollars on it, and the military and supply people, after a slow start at spending the money, are now pretty well up to schedule. Britain undertook a program to cost £4,700,000,000 in a similar three-year period which would have ended next March. However, last December Mr. Churchill's government announced that it would reduce the peak and the annual rate, and spread the program over an extra year. Does this mean that the U.K. is letting the side down?

The British effort proves the contrary. Viscount Alexander's "Statement on Defence, 1953" issued last month estimates expenditure on defence for the current year at £1,636,000,000, an increase on the original estimates (under the rearmament program) for the year and an increase over the actual defence expenditures during the fiscal year 1952-53. It is the highest defence budget estimate ever made in peace-time in Britain.

Lord Alexander said that while economic circumstances required that the earlier plans be modified, "there has been no change in the determination of the Government to put forth their utmost efforts to strengthen the defences of the United Kingdom, of the North Atlantic Treaty area with which those defences are indissolubly linked, and of the whole free world." It is necessary for strong defence that a country be economically strong—a proposition recognized by the NATO Council. At its December meeting the Council decided that for the future

"more emphasis should be given to increasing the effectiveness of the forces of the alliance and the units necessary for their support rather than to the provision of greater numbers, to the extent that the resources were not available for both tasks."

To this end, Britain has reduced the huge total sum she intended to spend on re-armament, but is still budgeting for the largest peace-time defence spending in her history. She is improving her equipment, advancing her techniques and continuing the two-year compulsory military service—now extended for another five-year period.

A Los Angeles man has developed an allergy to money, and breaks out in a rash after touching it. What he needs is a wife who will take over all that dirty, unhealthy work.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

MY COLLEAGUE Lister Sinclair, who writes on matters musical in "Saturday Night," devotes an article to the ludicrous distinction that is made between Classical and Popular music, as though everything that is not classical is popular and vice versa! Sinclair points out that this did not exist in the eighteenth century: Mozart, Schubert and the rest of them wrote dance music that was actually performed at court balls and other humbler festivities, and it did not occur to anybody that they were lowering their artistic status by so doing.

Vestiges of this saner attitude persisted well into the nineteenth century, though the advancing tide of the Romantic movement posed a dilemma for the composer. He had either to assume the bardic pose (and the scowl that went with it) or else he deliberately set out to please the greatest number of people with the largest number of more or less obvious tunes. Berlioz and Offenbach represent the two opposite poles.

I do not seek to deny the obvious achievements of these two men, but they might have achieved more if they had not been hedged in by the conventions of the Romantic Weltanschauung. It is true that Dvorak wrote a good deal of frankly light music such as his ubiquitous Humoresque and the delightful and characteristic Slavonic Dances, while Brahms unbent on occasion to write waltzes and expressed his admiration for the lilting strains of Johann Strauss the younger. Yet by and large btween "serious" and "light" music there was a great gulf fixed.

✧ ✧ ✧

OF COURSE the only real distinction is between good music and bad music. This is a distinction which is perfectly easy for each individual to make for himself, for music that he likes is (to him) good, while that which he dislikes is bad. But when it comes to justifying his own particular predilections to the rest of the world he is led into a series of false intellectual positions.

This is the difficulty of the critic of any art. He can simply say that he likes such-and-such a thing. He can if he wishes embroider his simple statement of preferences with superlatives. He can even disguise his simple likes and dislikes with verbiage purporting to bolster them up with specious reasoning. The Soviet critic Georgei Khubov says of Khachaturian's First Symphony ". . . it is a lofty epic of the new, strenuous joyous life of work and conflict". Assuming that this is a candid criticism (and this is a fairly big assumption to make in present-day Russia) all it means is that it is a vigorous full-blooded work written in an idiom that appealed to Khubov.

But the critic can examine a work much more closely than this, describing in great detail its various excellencies and defects, as they appear to him; yet he is unable to prove that his judgment is correct in terms of reason. The further he advances the further the horizon recedes.

The critic can make a contribution to the art by helping the public to understand music, but understanding is not enough; the emotions of liking or disliking must be brought into play. I sometimes think that our audiences are too polite. If they honestly dislike something they sit tight for fear that they might show their ignorance or their bad manners by showing their disapproval in a vocal manner. Yet the very same people would not hesitate to boo a dirty player or a bad decision at a hockey game.

I would not go so far as to advocate the sordid brawls that have from time to time broken out in the concert halls and opera houses of Europe, but I feel that audiences might on occasion exercise their undoubted right to boo or whistle a poor performance. The French have an expression for a work that arouses a somewhat tepid response from the audience—"succes d'estime". The Canadian public is apt to accord almost anything a success d'estime—until they get home, and then their frank opinion is elicited in confidential whispers.

All this has a bearing on "popular" music, for there can be no real popularity without a certain amount of unpopularity to throw it into relief.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCLAIR TAKES the optimistic view that the gulf between "serious" and "popular" music is beginning to be bridged and exemplifies the work of such men as George Gershwin. I am afraid I cannot feel so sanguine. The rift is as wide as ever. The "serious" composers have retreated, as it were into a shell.

This is especially true of the "dodecaphonic" school of Schoenberg and his followers. They appeal to a small clique of devoted admirers and have quite lost contact with the general public, to the loss of both, as many of them are exceptionally talented men. Atonality has been going for about thirty years, and it still fails to produce a response from the public (though Alban Berg's work in this field is an exception to the general rule). Are we to assume, then, that the public is an ass and the atonalist geniuses ahead of their times?

It seems to me that they have established a convention of severely limited potentialities. As for the devices of inversion, cancrizans, augmentation, diminution and the like, which they took over from the Art of Fugue, they look ingenious enough on paper, but are quite unrecognizable in performance. There is nothing clever or learned involved in repeating a theme upside down or back to front, which is all that the first two terms I have employed above mean.

The difficulty arises when they are to be introduced with artistic appropriateness. That is where Bach's supreme greatness lay. He could use all these devices in such a way as to make them seem inevitable and right, and being right it will communicate, as Aaron Copland says, because communication is part of its rightness.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PROBLEM for the modern composer of "serious" music is one of communication, to break down the barriers between his doubtless very interesting private world and the public without descending to triviality and vulgarity. This cannot be achieved by state interference without seriously impairing the quality of creative work, as we see in Russia today; it must come from within. Benjamin Britten is one of the few who have not only seen this dilemma but also succeeded in establishing contact. His idiom is unmistakeably of our time, but his work is, by its clarity and deftness, appealing to a large section of the general music-loving public.

Letters To The Editor

DEMOCRACY OR DICTATORSHIP?

Sir: The Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature on March 19 furnished one of the clearest proofs that we are living under a dictatorship, in approving the decision of the Ontario Municipal Board concerning the Smith annexation. The petition was presented to the committee asking that the taxpayers of the City of Peterborough and of the area to be annexed be permitted to exercise the supposedly inalienable right to decide the question of annexation by referendum and this right was supported by ten members of the committee. Twelve members of the committee voted to take away this right from the taxpayers in this particular case. We wonder what happened to the votes of the other thirty members comprising the committee and why it is that twelve members of fifty-five can carry a matter which is so fundamental to our mode of government? In this letter I am not arguing the merits or demerits of the annexation but I am stressing the fact that we are being submitted to the dictatorship of a few members of our City Council some of whom are not even on our Council at the present time. Thank goodness that an election is in the offing as I feel confident that many of us will know what to do to the party which upholds a principle which is contrary to our way of life; and let us hope also that the memory of the taxpayers will not be so short that we will have forgotten this incident by the time the next provincial election rolls around.

I am confident that we will certainly not have forgotten it by the time the next municipal election comes around and will presumably act accordingly.

In speaking to one member I was informed that he did not wish to speak one way or the other on this contentious question as he felt that to do so would be an interference in municipal politics. It is felt that the action of the Provincial Government is an interference in municipal politics and further that the member representing this community should have endeavoured to secure for his constituents the right to decide this momentous question by referendum.

Yours truly,
GEORGE W. CARPHIN

THE COMMITTEE LET FEBRUARY PASS

Sir: Just as in the famous baseball poem by DeWolfe Hopper—Casey at the Bat—"There is no joy in Mudville cause the mighty Casey has struck out", well you can apply this simile here in Peterborough. There is little joy in Peterborough because the woeful Joe Jebson and his committee have really struck out. This latest effort of theirs is the best yet.

It appears that in order to get a government grant towards the proposed Memorial Centre they have to prepare a bill to go through the legislative assembly in February. Apparently, and I say that advisedly, they have decided to figure on the Exhibition Grounds for the Centre so it appeared necessary to get a Bill before the House in February. Never let it be said that Mr. Jebson or his associates ever moved in a hurry.

In their true and lackadaisical manner they allowed this February to pass without getting the Bill before the House. That is typical of their attitude ever since they were placed in charge of the Memorical Centre. What difference does it make to them if the hockey fans of this city have to suffer for a few more years from lack of a rink? You'll never find Mr. Jebson down at Civic Arena at a hockey game so what does he care for the long-suffering fans who have to go down and freeze to watch their favourite sport?

I think is is long overdue to have a new shuffle among the members of the Memorial Centre committee. If they haven't accomplished anything in nine years at the helm of this scheme, they certainly are not likely to get very much done in the next few years.

SUBSCRIBER

LAWYERS AND THE UNSATISFIED JUDGEMENT FUND

Sir: Your editorial of March 20th entitled "Greedy Lawyers" hits a new low for bias and invective. The editorial makes reference to "simple accident cases where little evidence is required but that of the Provincial Officer". This reference is so unrealistic as to be ludicrous. Unless the police officer has actually seen the crash, the only knowledge which he has of the accident relates to measurements and observations made some time after the accident has happened. Often these are incomplete and hurried, and in nearly every case have to be supplemented by the testimony of the actual participants and witnesses. In most cases the actual liability is obscured by the desire of each party to avoid being adjudged to blame. The result is a complicated battle.

Your editorial writer, by parroting Mr. Nickle's figures, closed his eyes to the explanation given by the Treasurer of the Law Society on page 2 of the same issue. Fairness would have demanded a reference to this explanation.

What your writer does not realize is that obtaining payment from the Unsatisfied Judgment fund involves a tremendous amount of detailed work in interviewing witnesses, preparing pleadings, examining litigants and preparing the case long before it comes to trial, the actual trial itself, the examination of the Defendant as a Judgment Debtor, and the most detailed and exhaustive efforts to show that the person against whom judgment has been given has no assets or that those assets have been seized by the Plaintiff.

The amount paid out of the fund for costs is not money paid solely to the lawyers, but includes witness fees and travelling expenses, transcripts of evidence, costs of service of documents, court expenses and Sheriff's charges. The amount of those costs is controlled by the court, and by the taxing officer. If the latter fails in his duty to the public, then let the Attorney General replace him, for the Attorney General appointed him.

The reason the fund was insufficient last year was due to the fact that the number of accident claims to the fund is increasing, that the costs of automobile repairs and of hospitalization have increased many times and that juries are awarding larger and larger judgments to victims, and not solely to legal costs as your writer would attempt to make out.

If the cost of making application to the fund is to be reduced, streamline the procedure and eliminate the red tape which makes court costs necessary.

To narrow-mindedly blame the lawyers for the depletion of the fund without setting out the true facts is unworthy of your editorial page.

Yours very truly,
R. H. CARLEY

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you. (Matt. 5:43,44.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward. But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly . . .

After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen. (Matt. 6:5,6,9-13.)

✧ ✧ ✧

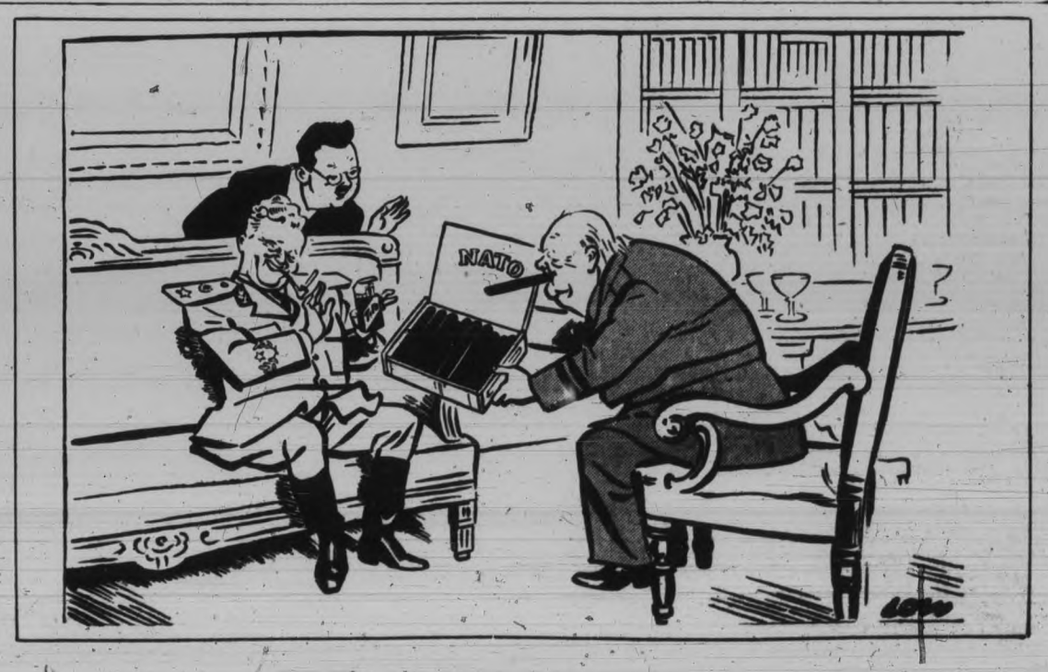
That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ. And these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full.

This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. (I John 1: 3-5.)

Kitimat Is Born

(Vancouver Province)

British Columbia's newest municipality takes definite shape with the introduction into the Legislature of a bill for the incorporation of Kitimat.



Sleepily existing for hundreds of years as the tiny Indian settlement known as "Kitimaat", the area was selected as the heart of the vast $550,000,000 aluminum and power project of the Aluminum Company of Canada. Today a thriving construction camp, the community is confidently expected to become one of the province's leading cities, with a population of 50,000 or more.

The current northern development, of which Kitimat is but one feature, is helping Canada to break away from the long tradition of developing largely as a narrow strip along the 49th parallel. Expansion to the north makes us a bigger, stronger nation.

KNEW ALREADY.

A placid old lady who took life philosophically sat knitting in the drawing-room. To her there came rushing her grand-daughter. "Oh, Granny, Granny!" cried the girl, "Father's just fallen off the roof!"

"I know, my child," replied the old lady, without even raising her eyes. "I saw him pass the window."

Mary Pickford Starts On Old Bond Sale Route

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mary Pickford embarked today on a journey along the same bond-selling route she travelled in 1918.

America's sweetheart is again hitting the road for the United States treasury department, duplicating her trip to sell Liberty bonds in the First World War. This time it's a different war, and she is aiming her efforts at enlisting workers in the bond-a-month plan.

"I am going out to do my duty as a citizen which is a small thing when you think of what our boys are doing in Korea," said the Toronto-born actress. "I am not going to exploit Mary Pickford. For all I know, I may never make another picture. I want to devote all my time on the tour to selling bonds."

She reminisced about the 1918 tour. "I went with Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks Sr., and Marie Dressler. I was the only one who came back with a voice. (Those were days before public address systems.)

GESTURES DID IT

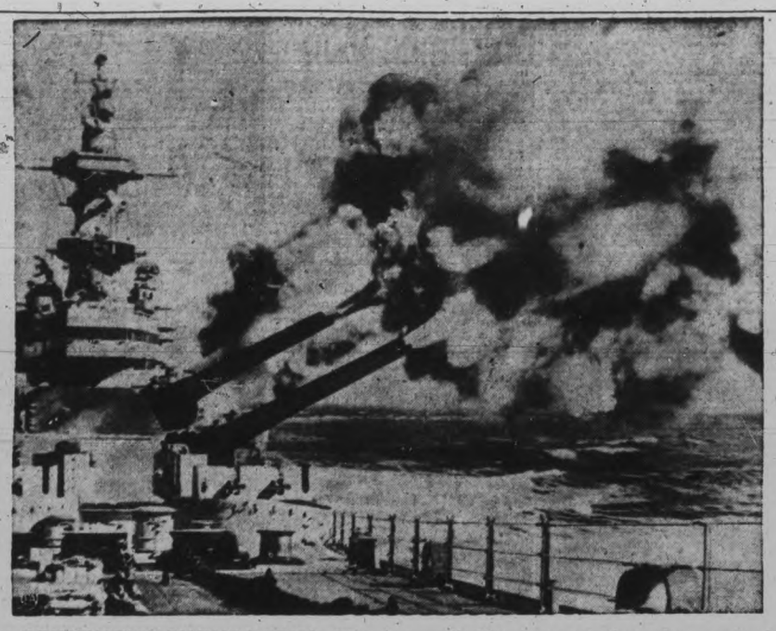
"That's understandable when you realize we appeared before 100,000 people from the steps of the treasury building on Wall street. Naturally, we couldn't be heard past the first few rows; the rest had to get the idea by our gestures.

"Wherever we went, Charlie would have to give his little duck walk Douglas would climb half-way up the side of the stage and I would let down my curls."

Miss Pickford discoursed on a number of other topics, including:

Chaplin: "I don't know why he killed off the little character he used to play. His greatness was that he rose above the problems of the world. When he started to delve into those problems, he was not as successful.

"I imagine he must miss California, as everyone would who has lived here. After all, he was here since 1912."



Her return to pictures: "I am leaving the door open. But when I do return it will be in an entertainment picture such as I used to make. I don't believe in giving the public a pill when they order a chocolate soda."

New Chief Constable

WATERLOO (CP) — Inspector Lloyd Otto Saturday was appointed chief constable of Waterloo, effective April 1. He will succeed C. E. Moreau, retiring because of ill health. Inspector Otto has been acting chief during chief Moreau's illness.

Two Die of Smallpox

TODMORDEN, England (AP)—Health officials took emergency measures Saturday to halt a threatened spread of smallpox which already has cost two lives in this central England textile town. More than 100 persons believed to have had contact with the victims were vaccinated. Five cases have been confirmed in Todmorden. Another confirmed case was reported in Oldham about 12 miles away.

DESTRUCTION BY THE DOZEN—This dramatic photo shows the big guns of the USS Iowa firing more than 12 tons of steel in one salvo from her 16-inch guns. The salvo, propelled by three tons of powder, was fired during the Atlantic Fleet's "Operation Springboard," which took the mighty battleship on a three-week cruise in the Caribbean Sea.

Classless Marx Society Anything But To Swedes

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The classless society envisaged by Karl Marx is anything but classless in Moscow today.

Swedish newspapermen who went to the Soviet capital to cover international skating competitions returned convinced that Communist Moscow has more snobbery than uncommunist Stockholm.

Factory and office workers, on the other hand, have started a new fashion of having no butter on their bread. Loaves of all kinds cost only a few kopeks. But butter costs 21 rubles (about $4.25 at the official exchange rates) for 2.2 pounds.

The average wage of a factory worker is 600 rubles ($150) a month.

DIFFERENCES SEEN GREAT

What impressed them was the difference between the almost elegant clothes worn by the wives of high officials and the down-at-heel-shawl-round-head type of dress of typists and factory girls.

A better quality two-piece costume, they report, costs 1,500 rubles ($375) in Moscow at present and a pair of good shoes 300 rubles ($75)

Only officials of the rank of factory manager and upwards seem to be able to afford their own automobiles.

The best cars, the Sis, are mainly supplied by the state to the higher officials.

Growing class distinction was also noticed in travel. Every high Soviet official travelling on the Moscow - Leningrad express was given a whole reserved compartment to himself. Other compartments were so full that passengers were sitting on the floor.

A new snobbery is also growing among schoolchildren. Education is theoretically available to all children on the same terms. But here and there "snob" schools are springing up, where the pupils are almost exclusively the children of high army, navy or air force officers, or important bureaucrats.

DEVELOPMENTS FOR LUXURY

The journalists were impressed by the skyscrapers sprouting up here and there in Moscow, but surprised to learn that, with the exception of the new Moscow university building, most of them are intended for new hotels or blocks of luxury apartments. They could not report any visible efforts to provide homes for the more poorly paid workers.

The correspondents found the underground subway trains impressive, efficient and extremely clean.

Women cleaners are posted in the stations to pick up immediately the smallest piece of paper or other refuse dropped by passengers, so that the halls and platforms are always immaculate.

Cab Calloway Plays Role Written For Him In Musical

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—Cab Calloway is a long, tall man who seems to nave been built in seventeen sections like a wandering railroad, each section making a turn in an opposite direction when there is a change of mood in a musical score.

And he has just switched onto another line, now that he has sidetracked his customary orchestra, and is again winning the applause of Broadway audiences with his performance in a straight acting role in the return of the musical play "Porgy and Bess" to the Ziegfeld theatre.

In the role of Sportin' Life, a charming but scandalous figure who peddles narcotics to the presidents of Catfish Row in Charleston, S.C., Calloway melds perfectly into a role that at times is not unlike the performances he gave when he was directing his "Hi-de-ho" orchestra.

"Playing Sportin' Life now, and giving up direction of my orchestra, (which is still playing) isn't just a whim of mine," he said. "When Dubose Heyward wrote the original libretto of 'Porgy and Bess' and George Gershwin composed the music, it was their idea that I would play that part.

"I wanted to do it, but at that time I was committed to bookings with my orchestra so far in advance of the date that 'Porgy and Bess' was scheduled to go into rehearsals that I just couldn't walk out on the orchestra.

"So this revival of the show happily came along just at a time when I could get free myself."

The Cab also explained how he developed his renowned "Hi-de-ho" type of singing.

"I was booked with my orchestra one night and a friend of mine came up to me and asked if I would do a new song of his for a tryout that night in the club," Calloway explained. "I gave the music to the orchestra and put the lyrics in my pocket.

"When I signalled for the orchestra to start playing the number, I couldn't find the slip of paper with the lyrics. . . . So I just started doing the "Hi-de-ho" and the song went over great. I don't think my song writing friend liked it, but the song was a hit."

No Election Date Set At N.S. Legislature

HALIFAX (CP)—The Nova Scotia legislature was prorogued Saturday without announcement of the election that political observers predict will be held either May 12 or 19.

Indications are that Premier Angus Macdonald, who leads the 27 Liberals in the 37-seat House, will announce the election date in about two weeks.

Progressive Conservatives form the official opposition with seven seats. There are two CCF members.

B.C. Premier Hints Election To Come Soon

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett Saturday night hinted to newspaper men that a provincial general election can be expected soon.

The leader of the minority Social Credit government gave the hint after being named "British Columbian of the Year" at the annual "Suds-'n-Skits" show of the B.C. Newsmen's Club.

Mr. Bennett said he hadn't made a speech for seven weeks and he wasn't "going to start now."

Then he added: "But it won't be long before many speeches are made throughout the province."

The comment seemed to back up the premier's statement some months ago that a provincial election was likely "before the hot summer months."

The legislature has been in session since early in February and prorogation is not expected until at least the end of this month.

Social Credit formed the minority government following the June 12 election last year which saw the defeat of the Liberal administration.

Present standing in the 48-seat legislature is: Social Credit 19, CCF 18, Liberal 6, Progressive Conservative 2 and Labor 1, vacancies 2.

Captain C. E. Scott 45 Years On Lakes

MIDLAND (CP)—Capt. Charles E. Scott, 62, who served 45 years with Canada Steamship Lines, died Saturday.

He spent many years as master of the company's tug Bayport, which has been much in demand as an icebreaker.

Surviving besides his widow are five sons, Charles, William, Clarence and Thomas of Midland and Fred of Penetanguishene, and three daughters, Mrs. Clarence Stone of Brantford, Mrs. Thomas Gillespie of Toronto and Mrs. Don Argue of Midland.

Changes Mind About Ship Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Navy changed its mind Saturday about awarding a construction contract for 23 air rescue boats to a Canadian shipbuilding firm

The decision was disclosed in a letter by Navy Secretary Robert Anderson to representative Thor Tollefson (Rep.-Wash.) who had protested that vessels "built for our navy should be constructed in U.S. shipyards."

Anderson said the navy's bureau of ships has considered awarding the contract to a Canadian firm which submitted the lowest bid The Canadian company was not identified.

"It has been decided, however, to award this work to an American firm or firms, and negotiations are now being conducted toward that end," Anderson wrote.

One reason for the decision, he said, was that "the diminished size of the navy's current boat and ship construction program, as compared to those in fiscal 1951 and 1952, may not permit the retention of as broad a base of operating yards as heretofore."

Toronto Cage Juveniles Defeat PCVS, 68-64 To Take Semi-Final Set

Toronto Adam Beck juveniles outpointed PCVS 68-64, in the Collegiate gym Saturday night, in the second game of their home-and-home semi-final cage series, for the right to meet Sarnia for the title. It was a hotly-contested struggle throughout, with the issue in doubt until the final whistle. Harold Young's boys held a seven-point edge in the Toronto game thus winning the round by an 11-point margin. Zolton Temesy's hustling boys put up a stout battle to overcome their deficit and finally succeeded, late in the final quarter; and, in fact, took a slight round lead. But the law of averages worked against the locals as the Young band staged a spirited last-minute drive to emerge victorious in a well-merited triumph.

TOOK THE LEAD

PCVS took a 17-14 margin in the first quarter when, led by Dan Griffin, Jack Corbett, Terry Roberts, the Boorman brothers and Doug Ash, the locals seemed on the way to victory. The second quarter saw the crack teams battling on fairly even terms, with little to choose between and each scored 15 points to enable PCVS to hold a 32-29 game margin, but four down on the round. Dan Griffin paced the locals with three baskets and a pair of foul shots this quarter, while Harry Pharoah led Toronto with five single points.

PCVS held a one-point edge in the third quarter as Terry Roberts scored half his team's 20 points and Thompson 11 of Toronto's 19; and play reached a fever pitch with Referees Howard Hempstead and Hank Wilson ruling indiscriminately.

HEAVY DRAMA

The final minutes proved most dramatic of all as both teams threw discretion to the winds and action flew either way with the lead changing hands as often as an old car with a cracked block. Finally, Terry Roberts brought the big crowd to its feet midway in the period when he snared a difficult basket close in to tie the score.

Roaring back with relentless vigor, the Queen City boys equalized as lanky Lloyd Thompson again put his team in the van after Pharoah had tied the score on a sizzling effort. Corbett tied again on a lovely long shot, but, led by the irrepressible Thompson, who missed some but hit more, the visitors gradually popped in an extra two to gain the spoils.

Toronto—Thompson 36, Pharoah 12, Dunn 8, Barr 6, Logan 4, Gates 2, Square, Furniss, Clarke.

PCVS—Griffin 21, Roberts 19, Corbett 9, Ash 5, R. Boorman 4, Galvin 2, Ryan 2, J. Boorman 2.

Officials: Lionel Hempstead and Hank Wilson.

Tri-Bells Down Tillsonburg To Take Series

TORONTO (CP)—Nortown Tri-Bells Saturday night won the Southern Ontario senior basketball championship with an 85-66 victory over the 1952 Canadian champions, Tillsonburg Livingstons.

It was the second straight victory for the Toronto club. They took the first game 79-73 in Tillsonburg last Saturday. They now meet Sault Ste. Marie for the Ontario championship.

The best-of-three series will be played in the Sault April 2, 3, and 4

Bill Coulthard led the Livingston scoring with 17 points and Harry Wade and Woody Campbell sank 10 points each. Glenn Pettinger paced the winners with 17 points.

OUTCLASSED

The Livingstons were outclassed by the hard-checking Nortowners. The Toronto team took a slim lead early in the first quarter but as the session ended the Livvies had a two-point edge. From there on it was Tri-Bells' game. Toronto turned on the pressure in the second quarter and led 42-26 at the half. They built up a 19 point edge in the third, increased it to 20 in the fourth and had it cut by only one point at the final whistle.

The Livingstons picked up 32 free points and only 17 field goals. Tri-Bells counted 29 field goals and 27 free shots.

Robinson Happy About Switch

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jackie Robinson spoke out Sunday about his shift from second to third base, denying reports of racial tension and dissension on the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"What's good for the Dodgers is good for Robinson," he commented. "If the kid (Junior Gilliam) can hit .275, I think our club will be stronger with him on second base. He can get balls that I can't reach any more—maybe two or three years ago but no more. After all, I've only got a couple years left. It I have to move I'd rather play third than first."

"If we have racial trouble on our ball club, then the rest of the country should have the same thing. It just isn't so. Not with the kind of fellows we have on this team."

Ontario Rinks Lose In Utica Bonspiel

UTICA, N.Y. (CP)—Rinks from Ontario lost out Saturday in semi-finals of the Utica Curling Club mixed bonspiel.

A Cornwall rink skipped by Bill Raeside was defeated 10-4 by a Chicago rink skipped by Perry Pennington.

A Schenectady rink skipped by Ralston Reid advanced to the final of the second event with a 10-6 win over a Hamilton Thistle rink skipped by Harold Smith.

Two other Utica rinks defeated a Brockville four, skipped by George Beley, 12-8.

Tommy Mallon Wins Bowling Crown

TORONTO (CP)—Tommy Mallon Saturday night won the Ontario five-pin bowling championship at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

Mallon, Toronto and district regional titleholder, defeated runner-up Joe Dunphy, Kingston regional champion, by 256 pins for 10 games. The final score was Mallon 2,636; Dunphy 2,380.

Mallon threw a 304 opening-game shot at his left-handed opponent and in the 10 games 206 was his lowest score.

2 Galt Players To Tour Europe With Hawks

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Wilson, manager of Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league, said Sunday that two players will be chosen from the Hawk team to make a tour of Europe with the parent Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

The Galt manager declined to name the players but close observers are of the opinion that the pair will be selected from among Ken Wharram, Minnie Menard, Hec Lalonde and Jim McBurney. Galt is playing Toronto St. Michael's in the OHA Junior A semi-finals.

TIMOTHY GEOHAGEN

Two of the strongest men in wrestling, Yukon Eric and Timothy Geohagen, will team up against a pair of the roughest characters in the game, Man Mountain Dean and the Red Mask, in the feature event at the Brock Wednesday night.

The return of Geohagen to the local scene is welcome news, and along with Eric should give Dean and the Mask a rough time. Nothing would please the fans more than to see Dean and the Mask absorb a real lacing, and Timothy and Yukon are the ones than can do it.

Supporting this outstanding main event will be Larry Moquin against Firpo Szybsko in the semi-final, and Frank Taylor and Ovila Asselin in the opener. This is the best array of talent to show here this season and rates a capacity crowd.

Local and district mat fans are well acquainted with the ability of all these grapplers and can look forward to an explosive evening packed with action.

Badminton Win For Visitors In Tournament

Peterborough players were entered in four events, and they won two of them. Mrs. Maurice Charlton and Verna Rose won in ladies' doubles over Mrs. A. France and Mrs. J. Woodman of Kingston. In senior men's doubles, Ralph Charlton and Willard Elmsley proved too good for Dr. Crewson and J. Findlay of Cornwall. The results:

MAJOR SERIES SET UP

SIMCOE (CP)—A. E. Stirling of Chatham was elected president of the Ontario Baseball Association for 1953 at the organization's annual meeting Saturday.

He succeeds W. F. Nickel of Stratford who announced his retirement at the meeting.

C. G. Riddell of Milton was elected first vice-president, Tim Turow of Preston second vice-president and James Millman of London, Ont. third vice-president.

The executive: F. Bradley, Hamilton; J. Leask, Fort Erie; H. McMullen, Milton, and A. Walker, Oshawa.

The association established a new series for the top-drawer senior teams to be known as the major series. Although any team may enter this new category it is likely that the Senior Intercounty League will be the only loop to operate in the 1953 major series.

The move paved the way for a new senior A set-up, in which competing teams wouldn't be allowed to use United States imports.

MUST BE RESIDENT

To be eligible for the senior series a player must be a bona-fide resident of the city or locality in which he plays by Jan. 15, and he must have been a continuous resident of Canada for one year prior to Jan. 15.

A player may advance to the major series for three games, for which his senior A club will receive payment of $10 a game. If he plays more than three games he must sign for the major series and will not be allowed to revert to a lower classification that season. The major team with which the player signs must reimburse the senior club an additional $50.

Any city with a population of 30,000 or more must enter either the major or senior A series.

Following a lengthy discussion on the minor leagues the delegates voted in favor of home-and-home series to declare champions in the B, C and D groups where time permits. Otherwise playoffs will be based on the tournament system.

PROTESTS

A recommendation that all protests be disposed of within five days from the time the secretary receives the complete protest was approved.

Reviewing the year's activities, Nickel called for closer consideration of the minors in the hope of finding "some means of improving the financial position in which our minors find themselves."

Treasurer Merrill Blank reported that the OBA operated with a profit of $463 during 1952.

The Stirling Trophy for the outstanding coach in the province was presented by Stirling to Bud Morrison of Petrolia, who handled five teams during the year and won championships in Peewee, B and intermediate divisions.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Ted Reeve (the Moaner), who writes a column for the Telegram, had an item from Gus Ryder on Saturday. Said Ted: "A notice from Ryder Gustavus, the Lion of the West, who sayeth that next Saturday the Peterborough Swim Club will be at the New Toronto pool for some ornamental and synchronized swimming with all the usual hearty Lakeshore Club trimmings. Their lacrosse team up Peterborough way wasn't so ornamental, but they certainly were synchronized." Ah, yes, you can say that again, Reever. The Toronto West Yorkers found that out in the sizzling Eastern Canada senior lacrosse finals last gutted-stick semester.

Moving to an Orillia setting this season, the West Yorks may use several of last year's Orillia senior "B" champions in their '53 senior "A" lineup. Two chaps who had senior experience up this way, though hailing from Orillia, are Terry Gordon and Jack Westonfelt. Latter at 35 has about had it, and is unlikely to make the team, if he tries for a spot. But Terry is just about 29 and still going strong. Two more good prospects up that way are Hank Pearsall and Jerry MacTaggart, while Ed Steacy, Earl McCrone, Joe Antonia and Bob Burrell are Orillia possibilities. Several from Huntsville, too. Practises in the arena there will commence in another three weeks as the schedule opens early in May.

Remaining Ball Classes

OBA annual meeting decided to adopt a new major series, which would take in the moneyed Intercounty League. And there'll be a senior "A" setup for clubs in leagues which have sponsors and where players are not paid so much a game but may share in splits at season's end. The proposal also is that senior "B" and senior "C" classes be adopted to replace good intermediate ball circuits and former so-called senior loops which were actually only of intermediate "A" calibre. Thus the name "intermediate" could be dropped for all players over junior age. Dr. Cliff McKee of Peterborough headed the committee which prepared the OBA draft dealing with the major and the senior "A" series.

Two right powerful pro grapplers, Yukon Eric and Timothy Geohagen, will team up against two rough hombres—Man Mountain Dean and the Red Mask—in the main bout here Wednesday. A tag team bout to headline the weekly wrestling card at the Brock Arena. Big Eric comes this way fresh from a series of bouts in Maple Leaf Gardens before whopping crowds. All four main-bouters have shown at the Brock from time to time, so fans know what to expect. Semi-final has Larry Moquin in against Firpo Szybsko, while the prelim puts Frank Taylor against Ovila Asselin. If the frost is out of the country roads, a lot of district mat followers no doubt will be on deck.

Quiet Soon At The Rink

As spring rolls through our streets again, puck action becomes rather limited in Civic Arena. But two hockey nights are slated for the southend sheet this week. Rural semi-finals open tonight at eight, Mount Pleasant playing Fourth Line, and this one is followed right away by Scott's Corners vs. Bethany. Out bantam "A" Shamrocks trek tonight to Guelph and have the return match of provincial finals here on Thursday eve. A two-game series for the Ontario crown, and Pat Doherty's scrappy young Shamrocks are hoping desperately to take it all this week. There may be the odd other game at Civic within the next couple of weeks, and plenty of figure-skating, but ice action locally is on the wane.

Despite a heroic finish, Toronto Maple Leafs missed the gravy train. They won 3-1 last p.m. in Boston, but Chicago kept ahead of 'em by downing the Rangers 3-1. That puts Detroit, Montreal, Boston and Chicago in the Stanley Cup semi-finals, commencing this week, and leaves Leafs and Rangers out of it for this year. Only the second time in 22 years that Toronto has missed the series, failing also in 1946. Just like the Petes in their belated drive in a vain attempt to make a playoff berth this season, the Leafs weren't at full strength quite in time and just missed out by a game or two. A mighty close fit for both teams, but neither one made it. Time ran out on them. Gord Howe of the Wings failed by one point to tie Ricahrd's mark of 50 goals in one season.

Dutchmen Win First Crown In 25 Years

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's been a quarter of a century since any Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen fan has been as proud as he is today. The Dutchmen won their first Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship in 25 years Saturday when they defeated Owen Sound Mercurys 5-1 in Kitchener. The victory gave them the best-of-seven-series 4-2.

In Sudbury Kitchener's rivals for the Eastern Canada senior finals were decided as Sudbury Wolves pounded Rouyn Flashes 10-0. The Wolves breezed through their best-of-seven playoffs in four straight games.

The pattern of the windup in Kitchener was written in the first period when the Dutchmen scored the first goal for the first time in the six-game series. Mercurys momentarily tied it up but Kitchener took a 2-1 lead before the period ended. They added another in the second and wrapped it up with two more in the third.

Art Hurst, Howie Lee, Jack McKenzie, Doug Verity and Don Bauer scored for the champions. Buck Forslund tallied for the Mercs.

Carruthers Kayos Toweel In 10th

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Jimmy Carruthers of Australia knocked out Vic Toweel of South Africa at 29 seconds of the 10th round Saturday night to retain the world bantamweight boxing title he won from Toweel last November.

The decisive victory demonstrated that Carruthers' first-round knockout in their first meeting was no fluke.

Toweel hinted that he is considering retiring from the ring at the age of 25.

"I am burnt up," he said. "I just ran out of gas, and it was physically impossible for me to continue."

He indicated he would have a conference with his father and trainer, Mike Toweel, to decide his ring future.

HOPE FOR REVENGE

Carruthers, a 5-to-4 favorite in the scheduled 15-round bout, disappointed the crowd of 36,000 in open-air Rand stadium who came hoping to see their idol, Toweel, get even for the Nov. 15 beating.

Carruthers weighed 117 pounds, 14 ounces; Toweel 117 pounds, nine ounces.

For a brief time it seemed the South African might make it as he staged a short-lived rally in the middle rounds. But his supporters stopped cheering in the ninth round when Carruthers caught him with a smashing left to the jaw.

After that it was just a question of time.

Badminton Player Loses Small Girl

Chris Lockyer, whose small daughter—one of twins—accidentally strangled to death when caught in the cord of a venetian blind Saturday, is a well-known badminton player in Central Ontario. He lives in Picton but has been playing for the Belleville Club in local and district competition for some years.

Peterborough badminton players were shocked to learn of the tragedy over the weekend, the information being phoned to Mrs. Marg Baker here by friends in Belleville. Mr. Lockyer teamed up last year with Ralph Charlton of Peterborough in COBA men's doubles.

C's Open TVL Finals

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Campbellford and Wellington will meet in Belleville arena Tuesday night for the first game of a best four-of-seven series to decide the TVL championship. Campbellford eliminated Marmora Millionaires to win the Northern Division championship and Wellington took Frankford to win the Southern Division honors. Due to the absence of natural ice in local arenas, these two top-notch teams will battle it out for the Bata Trophy on the artificial surface in Belleville.

Referees Carson and Goyer, who have handled many of the regular league games, are expected to officiate in this series.

ESKIES SIGN SHIRA

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference announced Saturday the signing of Charlie Shira as playing line coach for the 1953 season. Shira, former first-string tackle at West Point, has been on the coaching staff of Mississippi State.

SCORES 300 GOALS — George (Sonny) Agar, 33 has reached the small, select group of players who have scored 300 goals in professional hockey. The centre for Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League broke into the money ranks in 1939 and has played all his hockey in minor leagues. He won the scoring championship in the Coast Hockey League last season and the 1947-48 title while with Houston of the old United States League. Maurice Richard of the National HoHckey League and Wingy Johnston of the Tacoma Rockets of the WHL are the others in the 300-goal circle among still active players.

There is room for a few more rinks in the Ostrander Trophy bonspiel. Contact chairman F. Stenson or Secretary Ira Moore.

Tonight is the start of the annual leads and seconds' bonspiel. This is without doubt one of the outstanding events of the entire schedule. Many of the boys will be on the "Tee" for the first time and the experience will be all new. Many old-time skips will be down looking the boys over.

Old Abe says: "The safest way to double your money is to fold it over and pocket it."

Winning skips Saturday afternoon were Joe Adams, G. Green and Ross Williamson.

Use Canadian Talent Former Player Urges

SIMCOE (CP)—Billy Roggell, former shortstop with Detroit Tigers, told Ontario baseball operators Saturday to stick to Canadian talent and quit spending their money on "has beens" from the United States.

Roggell, guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association, said: "You aren't doing anything for your own boys when you start importing ball players."

"Let your own boy play and leave that fellow home across the river."

Sudbury Wolves North Champs Meet Kitchener

SUDBURY (CP)—Sudbury Wolves Saturday night captured the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship by blanking Rouyn Flashes 10-0 to win the best-of-seven final series in four straight games. They won the others 6-2, 6-1 and 5-0.

The high-flying Wolves, undefeated in 11 straight play-off games against Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians, North Bay Trappers and Rouyn, now meet Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Ontario Hockey Association Senior A champions, in the Eastern Canada semi-finals.

Saturday night's victory marked the first time the NOHA crown has come to Sudbury since 1945.

Sparkplugs in the goal-getting spree were Roly McLenahan and Nick Tomiuk with two apiece.

SECOND SHUTOUT

Other marksmen were Andy Milne, Red Barrett, Tatter McLellan, Gordie Heale, Marty Burton and George Defelice.

The outclassed Rouyn club, coached by Bill Durnan, trailed 1-0 at the first intermission and 5-0 at the end of the second.

The game also marked the second straight shutout for Sudbury goalie Andy Anderson, who allowed only three Rouyn goals against him in the four games. It was Andy's second perfect game of the season.

Eskimos And Cats In Volleyball Final

Two teams squeezed themselves into the "Y" volleyball finals Saturday over supposedly stronger opponents. Barney Dundas' Eskimos made it by half a game to eliminate the strong team of Howard David's Alouettes, who won 78 and lost but for during the season. Eskimos won the first 15-6 and took the second 13-8 as time ran out. Roy Westrop's third-place Tiger-Cats won 15-13 over Bill Edger's good Stampeders, the latter sweeping the second 15-1, but the Cats came back for the third 15-6.

Finals for the Lillico Trophy will be played at three p.m. Saturday in the "Y" between Eskimos and Tiger-Cats, three out of five games.

Winning teams will be guests of the league at a banquet in the YMCA after play, and all oldtime volleyball players are asked to come out, also, to participate at the dinner; they should contact Fraser Wade at the "Y".

In the preliminaries for the consolation prize, Lloyd Ash's Blue Bombers took Ken Kingston's Argonauts 15-12 and 16-14, the Argos winning the first game 15-11 but failing to rally after losing the second in overtime. The semi-finals of the consolation set meet at two p.m. Saturday, Alouettes and Stampeders tangling for the right to meet Blue Bombers in finals.

Chicago Wins Fourth Spot In Playoff Musical Chairs Toronto Out 2nd In 22 Years

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Before the season they were called the bums. After a few weeks of play they were the wonder team. Later, they were showing their habit of slipping. But Sunday night Chicago Black Hawks came through to win fourth and last spot in the National Hockey League playoffs. It is the first year that the Hawks, piloted by Freshman coach Sid Abel, have had a crack at the Stanley Cup in seven years. While Chicago slid into the lucrative post-season play, the ax fell on Toronto Maple Leafs who failed to gain a playoff position for the fourth time since Conn Smythe bought the Toronto St. Patrick's franchise in 1926 and renamed the club.

As St. Patrick's, the Toronto team missed in 1926, Smythe's first year. As Maple Leafs they were out of playoff contention in 1930 and again in 1946—the last time Chicago broke into the money series.

Several weeks ago Detroit Red Wings were assured of finishing atop the standings for the fifth straight year. A short time later Montreal cinched second place.

But there was a wild scramble down to the wire for the last two playoff berths.

Before Saturday night's games the race for berth Nos. 3 and 4 looked like this:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Boston	27	28	13	149	168	67
Chicago	25	28	15	162	171	65
Toronto	25	30	13	148	166	63

That night's results: Toronto 5, New York 0; Boston 2, Montreal 1; Chicago 4, Detroit 3. Thus Boston cinched third place and Toronto kept its playoff hopes alive. To take fourth place all Chicago had to do was tie Sunday

With only the last games to play, the race for fourth spot shaped up like this:

Chicago	26	28	15	166	174	67
Toronto	26	30	13	153	166	65

Sunday night's scores: Chicago 3, New York 1; Toronto 3, Boston 1; Montreal 1, Detroit 1.

Toronto's hopes going into Sunday night's game were pinned on a Leaf victory coupled with a Chicago loss. That would have tied the clubs with 67 points each, but Toronto would have been awarded the playoff position on a games-won basis.

The Chicago victory kept Abel's playoff record perfect. As a player for 12 years with Detroit, he was a big factor in the Wings' entering the playoffs every year Abel inherited an anything but promising club when he took over from Ebbie Goodfellow. The team finished last in 1952 and was largely made up of castoffs from other clubs.

But the club, much to the surprise of everybody, started off in first place for the first few months. The Hawks dropped back a little as the season progressed, but they finished strong enough to cop a valuable playoff spot.

Chicago had to come from behind in downing Detroit Saturday night. Two of Chicago's goals, including the winner, were notched by Bill Mosienko, an old hand around the Hawk camp. Other Chicago goals were scored by Gus Bodnar and Jim Peters. Alex Delvecchio, Marcel Pronovost and Metro Prystai scored for the wings.

George Gee scored the winner at New York Sunday night when the score was tied 1-1. With the Ranger nets open, Gerry Couture added the Hawks' third tally Jim Peters had counted for Chicago early in the game. Defenceman Allan Stanley notched the lone tally for tail-end New York

Toronto's hopes were buoyed with a 5-0 runaway over New York Saturday night in what turned out to be the last game of the season in Toronto. Tod Sloan paced the Leafs with two goals and Sid Smith, Ron Stewart and Harry Watson counted once each.

Sunday night the Leafs bowed out of the 1952-53 season with a 3-1 victory over the Bruins in Boston. Sloan, Bob Hassard and Smith scored in the second period for the Leafs. Pentti Lund scored Boston's goal in the first session

Fleming Mackell, a former Leaf who has been doing much of Boston's scoring of late, notched the goal for the Bruins Saturday night that gave them third place and a 2-1 victory over the Canadiens in Montreal. Veteran Milt Schmidt counted for the Bruins in the first period. That goal was equalized later in that session by Paul Meger.

Montreal and the Red Wings played to a 1-1 tie at Detroit Sunday night. Metro Prystai registered for Detroit and then Ernie Geoffrion equalized it.

Gordie Howe, star Detroit right-winger, failed to score his 50th goal of the season, falling one short of the record held by Maurice Richard of Montreal. However the big forward finished the season on top of the point, goal and assists departments.

Detroit meets Boston and Montreal tangles with Chicago in the best-of-seven semi-finals for the Stanley Cup. The Detroit-Boston series starts in Detroit Tuesday night while at the same time the Hawks meet the Canadiens in Montreal.

Sin Bin Busy As Barrie, St. Mike's Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The penalty box in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens was well-heated during the week-end's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A activity. But the netting in the goals also took a test for although in the two games 106 minutes in penalties were handed out, 17 goals were scored.

Saturday's game accounted for 54 minutes in penalties and eight goals as Barrie Flyers took a 4-2 lead in their best-of-nine semi-finals with Toronto Marlboros by downing the Dukes 6-2. The Flyers' victory broke a jinx in that until Saturday's game, neither Barrie nor Toronto was able to win on visiting ice. Flyers need one victory only to clinch the series and the next game is scheduled for Barrie Wednesday.

St. Michael's College and Galt Black Hawks drew fewer penalties and scored more goals Sunday as the Collegians downed the Hawks 6-3 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-finals. There were 52 minutes in penalties Sunday but six majors for fighting accounted for 30 minutes.

Marlies took a 1-0 lead in the first on Chuck Bucas' counter but before the period ended Johnny Martan tallied once and Skip Teal notched a pair to send the Flyers into a 3-1 lead. Teal scored his third and fourth markers in the second and third periods. Orv Tessier brought down the curtain on the Flyers' scoring in the final, three minutes before Parker MacDonald notched the Dukes' second.

Sunday, captain Bill Dineen set a goal-a-period clip to lead the Irish to their second playoff win against the Hawks. Rightwinger Paul Knox who had scored three goals in each of St. Michael's last two home games before Sunday, notched two and just missed getting his third on about three occasions. Butch Ratchford tallied the other for the Collegians.

The Hawks did all their scoring in the first and at the end of the period they had a 3-3 tie with St. Michael's. Hec Lalonde, Ed Sleaver and Jim McBurney shared the Galt output.

Fourth game of the series is slated for Galt Tuesday.

Providence, St. Louis Flyers and last-place Buffalo Bisons failed to gain a cup berth. The Hornets blanked the Bisons 2-0 in Sunday's other game.

Johnson Decisions Gilliam In Dull Bout

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Speedy Harold Johnson hooked and jabbed to a unanimous decision over towering Bill Gilliam Saturday night in a televised bout that drew frequent boos from the crowd.

Johnson, light heavyweight contender from Philadelphia, weighed 176 to 208½ for the huge Orange, N.J., battler, who had a height advantage of four inches.

Judge Joe Justo scored it 58 to 44; Judge Jack Myers, 52-48; and referee Johnny Webber, 55-45, all in favor of Johnson.

Boston Bruins won their first NHL championship 24 years ago tonight by winning their third straight league playoff game over Montreal Maroons, 3-2. Bruins had taken the first two games by identical 1-0 scores. The Bruins, then coached by Cy Dennenay, went on to defeat New York Rangers two straight in the Stanley Cup final.

Saskatoon Quakers finished on top, followed by Vancouver Canucks, five points back, Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Flyers. New Westminster took sixth, the last playoff spot.

Vancouver nipped New Westminster 2-1 Saturday while Edmonton defeated Calgary 5-2 and Seattle blanked Tacoma Rockets 3-0

New Westminster opens a best-of-seven series at Saskatoon Thursday, with the second game to be played on the same ice Saturday.

IDENTICAL TWINS—Only their children can distinguish between Paul Tobey (left) and his identical twin brother, Wesley, president and vice-president respectively of the Canadian Legion branch at Newmarket, Ont. Since childhood they have been confusing friends, RCAF officials during the Second World War, and even their wives whom they met while in England. They are married to sisters, formerly Zena and Amy Bainbridge.

Identical Twins Elected To Head Legion Branch

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Their wives can't tell them apart—that's what they say about Paul and Wesley Tobey who live in this quiet town 30 miles north of Toronto.

The brothers are identical twins, married to sisters they met while serving with the RCAF in England. They spent their early lives together, went through five years of Second World War companionship and again joined forces to go into business together.

Now they have been elected to the two top positions in the Canadian Legion branch here—president and vice-president. Paul is president, if it makes any difference.

Friends and neighbors are always confusing them, but they say that the Tobey children are the only ones who can tell them apart. Paul has a boy and a girl and Wesley has two boys.

Wesley and Amy Bainbridge were married in England, but because he hadn't enough time off duty for a honeymoon, Paul carried out his guard duties for him without being detected.

Paul was married to Zena in Newmarket. The twins had planned on a double wedding in England but Zena, serving in the WAAFS, was posted, so the wedding was postponed until after the war.

The twins have had some amusing moments.

Before the war, judges at an Ontario amateur championship race at Galt thought Wesley had broken the half-mile record. But they confessed afterwards that when Paul finished the first of two laps he ducked behind a car and let Wesley take his place. Wesley was 100 yards ahead of the field when he crossed the line.

Labor Laws Won By Struggle

MONTREAL (CP)—Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, said Saturday there is too great a tendency on the part of the public to take existing labor laws for granted instead of recalling that they are the direct outcome of a struggle by labor movement pioneers.

Mr. Bengough addressed a banquet commemorating the 80th anniversary of the founding of the TLC, his own 10th anniversary as president and the 10th anniversary of the founding of the TLC federal labor unions in Quebec.

He said it was not until 1900 that the federal government set up a labor department and now it was taken for granted.

Matter Is Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"MATTER" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world including First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "Little children, keep yourselves from idols. (1st John 5: 21.) Selections from the Bible included the following from Proverbs 23: 19, 23. Children Carry Materials Up Mountains For School

TAXCO. — This is the story of a girl named Irene whose courage and faith have worked miracles and of children who wanted a school so badly that they carried 20-pound blocks on their backs half way up the mountainside.

Last fall when the building of the school commenced on one of Taxco's mountain's, everyone helped. There was difficulty bringing the material up the steep slopes. A special truck with mountain gear was borrowed to bring the cement, gravel and sand. But the other materials had to be brought by hand.

* * * *

All the children from 5 to 12 carried blocks of stone and other materials up the mountainside. Where it was too heavy for one, little girls carried it between them, one on each side. In one morning, these youngsters made as many as 10 trips from the Los Arcos hotel, much further down the mountain.

* * * *

When I climbed the narrow road to the school, I had to have help in spots. How those children scrambled up with their load I will never know. Some of the little girls who hauled material did not come above my waist. When Sr. Fernando Reyes and I entered the classrooms of the temporary school we were besieged by smiling youngsters shaking hands and all asking: "When do you want us to carry more blocks?"

* * * *

NOT A HAPPY ENDING

But this is a story which has not yet got a happy ending. For the school is only partly completed and there is no more money. The fund started by the Rotary Club and private donations has been used up and the state government which promised to share the cost has not given the money. If the Rotarians can raise $1,500 they can put a roof on the three completed rooms.

* * * *

But the real spark behind all this effort is a woman burning with the desire to give these forgotten children a chance. Her name is Irene Castro Giles.

* * * *

(Mexican children are not as fortunate as Canadians with their fine schools. The government is making progress as fast as possible but there are many schools and many more teachers needed. The Department of Education has not enough money to accomplish this any way but gradually. So education here is never taken for granted.)

* * * *

Irene has been teaching since she was 12 in the rural districts because her mother was widowed at an early age. She has risen from being a first grade teacher to principal of a school and three years ago she was awarded Mexico's top prize for being the best teacher in the country.

* * * *

BADLY BURNED

In 1948 she and her sister were teaching in the small village of San Juan de Dios near Taxco. One day at a special celebration some fireworks exploded in the schoolhouse during presentation of a play. Twenty-nine people were badly burned, among them Irene and her sister. They were taken to hospital in Taxco and had to remain many months for treatment. While they were ill, their positions as teachers at San Juan de Dios were filled by others.

* * * *

When she recovered she saw the need of a school in her part of the town. So she threw open her home for students. Her house was only what a poor teacher can afford to have. There was one small porch, one living-dining room, two small bedrooms and one kitchen. She volunteered to provide the schoolhouse if the government would pay the teachers.

* * * *

When they first opened there were no pupils, but at the end of a year she had 300 in her small home. Because the house was not big enough she wrote the Taxco Rotary Club asking if they would help her put up a shelter on a piece of land beside her home. Pupils were working there all day in the blazing sun, with no shade and the blackboard was nailed to a tree.

* * * *

The club appointed a commission to visit the house and school and they were ashamed that no one had realized the situation. When they investigated they found the shelter would be quite inadequate so they began to work for a new school to be built beside Irene's home.

* * * *

In a space of about 10 feet by 18 feet there were two groups of 50 pupils each; there was a group in each bedroom; one out in the sunshine and one in the living-dining room.

* * * *

RAISE MONEY FOR NEW SCHOOL

The Rotary Club campaigned, money was raised and it was agreed that the people of Taxco would pay one-third of the cost; the state government would pay one-third and the federal government one-third.

Family Of Five Forced Out Of Chemong Park Home As Fire Destroys Building

Flee Home In Their Night Attire
Lost All Their Clothing
Only Chesterfield, Heater Saved

BRIDGENORTH (ENS)—A family of five—father, mother and three children, the oldest only eight years of age—were forced to flee for their lives at 3 a.m. today when fire destroyed their home in Chemong Park, a half mile south of Bridgenorth. Victims of the fire are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson and their children—Barbara 8, Charles Jr., 3, and Shelley, 11 months. The family escaped in their night attire and lost all their clothing and personal possessions.

Only a damaged chesterfield and a space heater were saved. No estimate of their loss has been made but they are covered by insurance—$5,000 on property and $3,000 on contents.

OVERHEATED BURNER

An overheated burner in the kitchen stove started the fire. It spread throughout the downstairs of the one-and-a-half storey frame house before the smell of smoke roused Mr. Watson a few minutes before 3 a.m. The family's escape through the downstairs of the house was cut off and Mr. Watson had to leap from a 12-foot balcony to the ground and get a ladder to help down his wife and children.

Nobody was injured but Mrs. Watson, who is expecting a baby in April, is today suffering from shock.

THIRD TIME BURNED OUT

This is the third time that the Watson family have been burned out. The first time was in Toronto two years ago; next they lost their furniture in the blaze that swept Lawrence Salvage last year. Last July they bought the cottage in Chemong Park from James E. Moore of Peterborough and they equipped it with new furnishing—new kitchen and bedroom suites, and they also bought a washing machine. All of it was lost in today's fire.

WORKS IN TORONTO

Mr. Watson is a trucker and works in Toronto, commuting between Toronto and Chemong Park on weekends to visit his family.

It was 2:54 a.m. when Mr. Watson awoke and smelled smoke. He jumped out of bed to look about and found the stairway to the ground floor a mass of flames. He roused his wife and three children and got them out to the balcony which juts out over the front of the house.

After leaping to the ground he got a ladder that he had been using during daylight to clean leaves out of the eavestrough. He slid it along the side of the house and helped the others to the ground. They spent the rest of the night at the home of their neighbors, Bob Arnott of Dutchman's Point.

PRAISE FOR FIREMEN

Though dispirited over being a three-time loser to fire Mr. Watson had strong praise for Fire Chief Al Crowe and the volunteer firefighting brigade.

Dead Two Days, Man's Body Found In Bed

The body of 60-year-old Roy Whatman was found in his room at 240 Simcoe St. at 1:30 Sunday afternoon. He had been dead for about two days.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said Whatman had died of natural causes and no autopsy would be performed.

The body was discovered by another roomer, William Hitchings, who broke into Whatman's room and found him lying fully clothed in bed. When police entered the room they found everything in order. There was no sign of foul play. Constables Jack Wilson and Ray Caldwell investigated.

SEEN THURSDAY

Hitchings was apparently the last man to see Whatman alive. As he was going to his room last Thursday between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. he saw Whatman sitting on the edge of his bed. Joe O'Brien, another roomer, said he thought he heard Whatman cough about 6 p.m. Friday and supposed he was all right.

Others at the rooming house, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Martin McNee, said they heard no sound from Whatman's room for about two days but were not too worried as he always ate his meals out.

The funeral service was conducted this afternoon from the Bellegrem funeral home, 190 Hunter St., west, by the Rev. Charles Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Interment was in Little Lake cemetery.

Born in Uxbridge, Ont., he was the son of the late John Whatman and Mary Ann Tuck. He spent most of his life in Peterborough and until recently was an employee of the Peterborough Lock Co. He was an adherent of the Church of England.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Harold Carr (Viola), Mrs. Charles Kelley (Margaret), Mrs. Clarence Manning (Mildred), and Mrs. Donald McGregor (Alberta); three sons, Edward, Wilfred and Ronald, all of Peterborough; two sisters, Mrs. F. Hall, Peterborough, and Mrs. David Ainsworth, Winnipeg, Man.; a brother, William, Peterborough, and 14 grandchildren.

ROSENEATH (ENS) — After travelling 1,000 miles to the coast of Africa for a medical examination, Mrs. Donald Stegink, formerly Clarice Atkinson, was hurriedly flown to the United States for surgical treatment recently.

Mrs. Stegink told of her experience in a letter to her parents Mr. and Mrs. Warren Atkinson, RR 1, Roseneath. She and her husband are missionaries in French West Africa.

Mrs. Stegink told of the difficulty of getting a visa through the United States embassy in London so that she might enter the United States of which her husband is a

180 Leaders Scouts, Cubs At Eastern Ontario Rally

Peterborough district played host Saturday to more than 180 Boy Scout and Cub leaders from Eastern Ontario at the area conference held in the Normal School. A banquet following the afternoon of speakers and discussion was held in the YMCA.

Nils Norenius of Manotic Station, regional commissioner for Eastern Ontario, was the keynote speaker in the afternoon while J. L. MacGregor, executive commissioner in charge of training in Canada, spoke at the YMCA during the banquet.

The keynote address, entitled "First Class Scouting" followed registration in the afternoon, while scout executives from the area handled round table workshop discussions later.

DISCUSSION ON CUBBING

In charge of discussions on cubbing was V. Gunn, assistant district cub commissioner of Cobourg. Scout leaders attended the workshop headed by R. Taylor, executive assistant at Ontario headquarters in Toronto. E. True, chairman of the contact committee in Peterborough led the committeemen's meeting while Mrs. R. Corbett, also of the Ontario headquarters, led the discussions on Women's Auxiliaries.

Several speakers followed on topics of general interest for the scouters.

Among the speakers were Martin McIlvena, district scoutmaster for Port Hope; Mr. Taylor; Murray Johnson, Belleville rover leader and F. O. Barnett, scoutmaster from Napanee.

Dr. G. R. Langley, district commissioner of the Peterborough Boy Scout Association, was chairman for the afternoon program while Dr. James Perry, president of the local association, presided at night.

WARNING ISSUED

A warning not to worry about losing scout membership to other groups but to worry about losing members to street corners was issued in the evening by J. L. MacGregor, executive scout commissioner in charge of training for Canada. Mr. MacGregor was speaking following dinner in the YMCA.

Scouting in its three phases taxes the skill of anyone, the speaker said. It is not just a one-night affair but needs study, adventure and ingenuity. "Our objective is to create better men for the future to make this world a better place to live in."

NOT IN COMPETITION

The boy scout movement, Mr. MacGregor stated, is supplementary to the house, church and school and does not attempt to take away any responsibility from those organizations. "We cannot underestimate the power of our leadership; those things we do may reflect on the lives of the boys under our charge."

Scouting is not in competition with other organizations such as the YMCA, Sea Cadets and church societies.

"We should not worry about losing scouts to these groups but we should worry about losing scouts to the street corners, looking for what mischief they can get into," the commissioner pointed out.

Although the aim of boys is first-class scouting, this first-class standard should be based more on the application of the scout law, the speaker concluded.

Car Misses Turn Somersaults Driver Injured

The driver was injured when his car failed to make the Central Smith Creamery turn on Highway 7 early Sunday, hit a culvert in the ditch, somersaulted and came to a stop just 19 feet from the corner of the creamery.

Neil Sinclair, 22, 509 Braidwood Ave., was reported to be in fair condition today in Civic Hospital with facial cuts. X-rays were taken to determine if there were any other injuries.

Mike Andrews, proprietor of the creamery, heard the thump and then a horn blowing a few minutes before six a.m. Sunday He rushed out of the house and found the car, but could not at first see anyone in it.

He phoned provincial police and in the meantime his neighbor, Jim Jenkinson, saw that there was a man inside. Sinclair was not moved until Nesbitt's ambulance arrived to take him to hospital.

It is believed Sinclair may have fallen asleep and the car continued on a straight course instead of rounding the turn as it approached Peterborough.

The 1951 car was badly wrecked. Constable Morris Baker investigated.

However, the words "of Agriculture at Toronto" were inadvertently omitted. The co-operation of the two Departments of Agriculture was a big asset of the Show.

Irish Sweepstake Prize Money Totals $4,202,746

DUBLIN (AP)—A huge melon of $4,202,746 will be cut up in Irish sweepstakes prizes, it was disclosed today as pretty colleens began drawing lucky tickets for the big annual hospital benefit.

The kitty, biggest in 18 years, provides for 12 first prizes of $140,000 each.

One of the first tickets drawn, on the Horse Yonder Hill, was held by Harry Wagner of New York city.

With the records of the last quarter-century as a guide, authorities expect some 60 per cent of the prize money to go into American pockets.

The payoff comes on the winners of the British Grand National horse racing classic at Aintree, England, next Saturday.

For three days the pretty Irish girls in nurses uniforms have been mixing up the more than 3,000,000 tickets sold from the jungles of Africa to Times Square and on around the world.

SUPERVISED

The sweepstakes is supervised by the Irish Government, with the profits—about 25 per cent of the total take—going to Irish hospitals.

Approximately 5,000 lucky ticket holders stand to win anywhere from $28 to the big $140,000 plums.

Since the sweeps started in 1930, more than $152,000,000 have been handed out in prizes.

The favorite in the Grand National this year is Lucky Dome, with Early Mist and Whispering Steel ranked high.

Prizes can go to the holders of tickets on any of the 73 entrants in the race, whether they run or not. The original favorite, Teal, died, but a ticket on him might be good for as much as $500.

WINNING BEANIE — This handsome "beanie" won first prize in the Ottawa boys' club beanie contest for Sheldon Bradford, 3. Although not a member of the club, young Sheldon entered the contest as a guest of his elder brother and stole the show with his ingenious headgear.

100 Workers Go On Strike At Wallaceburg

WALLACEBURG (CP) — More than 100 workers at the plant of the National Pressure Cooker of Canada Limited went on strike today for a new contract with increased wages and other concessions.

The decision to strike was made at a meeting Sunday of Local 251 United Automobile Workers (CIO) under the chairmanship of Brice McMillan, plant chairman.

Union spokesmen said the plant will be picketed on the round-the-clock basis and that three watchmen and three boiler tenders will be permitted to enter the plant to work, respectively, eight-hour shifts.

Officials of the company said today they have no statement to make.

LONG NEGOTIATIONS

Negotiations between the union and the company have been going on since last September. The original strike vote was taken several weeks ago, but conferences were renewed which failed to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

In addition to seeking higher wages, the union is asking a contract which will provide for relief periods in the foundry, union security and a form of hospital insurance.

FLOODS DISTRICT—A section of Halifax was flooded when this sewer—actually an old brook walled up and used as part of the city's disposal system—clogged and burst through the street pavement. It poured 18,000 gallons of waste over a city block and into nearby houses and buildings. A dynamite blast finally cleared the obstruction and officials said repairs would cost $7,500.

Red Farm Failure Threatens Eastern Europe

By DANIEL de LUCE

MUNICH (AP) — A Communist failure in farm policy is threatening Eastern Europe with hunger.

Three Soviet satellites—Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary—are hit by food shortages and seriously behind in planting 1953 crops. Public admissions by Communist officials or agricultural deficits show that millions of acres turned into collective and state farms since 1950 have slumped in production because of mismanagement.

Independent farmers are harrassed by discriminatory delivery quotas, crippled by lack of mechanical equipment diverted to collectivized estates, and demoralized by ill-conceived Communist directives on every phase of their work.

Czechoslovakia, once the world's third largest producer of beet sugar and a famous "potato basket," suffered crop failures last year primarily because a Communist-enforced planting date was followed by frosts.

Now it has sugar rationing, and potato supplies for consumers are 37.5 per cent below normal. Production of cereal grains in 1952 was only half of domestic needs, sufficient before the war.

In Poland, the number of collective and state farms has risen from 243 to 5,625 in recent years. Production is one-third less than on comparable privately - owned land.

Because of a fodder shortage, Poland's supply of pigs has been reduced 500,000 by emergency slaughtering. Hungary has been compelled to abandon most of its traditional meat exports—except to Russia—and to import fodder.

A Hungarian government broadcast reported that half of the 7,000,000 acres normally planted for spring harvests had not even been plowed last fall, and only a quarter had been seeded. Approximately 38 per cent of Hungarian land is collectivized.

The Communists are continually reporting the punishment of small, independent farmers for such trivial things as having a dirty chimney or having hay lying in the farmyard.

Refugee economists from Eastern Europe say reasons behind the Communist farm failure include over - hasty collectivization, with consequent disorganization of production and over-confidence in the ability of government bureaucracy to make iron-clad plans for agricultural operations.

44 Diplomatic Missions Representing Canada In Various Parts Of World

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada now has extensive diplomatic representation in every major region of the globe except the Middle East as the result of an expansion that has increased the number of her missions abroad nine-fold since the pre-war years.

The announcement that envoys will be sent this year to Ceylon and Indonesia raises the number of diplomatic missions to 44, ranging all the way from the big staffs in Washington and London to fledgling posts in Latin America.

Before the war broke out in 1939, there were five missions.

The number has more than doubled since 1945 and it has increased significantly in the last year. It has steadily plugged gaps all over the map until the Middle East is the one major region that is largely untouched—the one mission there is in Turkey. That gap is expected to be filled, too, in the years ahead.

PUSH CANADA'S TRADE

In addition to the diplomatic missions, the government also runs an extensive trade commissioner service around the world and 10 consulates, all but two in the United States. The consulate in New York is really the third largest mission Canada maintains abroad even though it doesn't rank as a diplomatic post.

Despite the steady and gradual expansion of her diplomatic representation, Canada still hasn't satisfied all the countries that would like her to send ambassadors or ministers to their capitals. There are two main reasons — lack of trained personnel and money.

Before the Second World War there were only 32 officers in the department of external affairs. In 1945, the number was 94. It now is 277. Thus there has been a ninefold increase there which corresponds with the increase in missions. But many of the officers of today are still learning the intricacies of diplomacy.

From the money angle, Canada spends less than one per cent of her federal budget on running the department and its missions abroad—$11,300,000 in the next fiscal year.

IN MANY CAPITALS

Before the war, she had missions in the U.S., Britain, France, Japan and Belgium. Today she has them in capitals as widely separated geographically as those of Australia and Sweden, as widely separated politically as those of Spain and Russia.

Twenty-one of them are in Europe, Seven in the Commonwealth, nine in Latin America, three in non-Commonwealth countries in the Far East, one in the U.S., one in the Middle East—and two at the international headquarters of NATO and the United Nations.

The man in charge of these missions generally ranks as an ambassador, a high commissioner or a minister although the chilly relations between Canada and the Iron Curtain countries have put men of the lesser rank of charge d'affaires in charge of the missions in Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

High commissioners are sent to Commonwealth countries and they rank as ambassadors.

Brazil Drought Spreading Riots, Hunger

By STANFORD BRADSHAW

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A prolonged drought—now in its third year—is spreading hunger, riots and death in Brazil's hilly northeast area.

The federal government, at the insistence of the affected states, now is mobilizing help for the stricken areas.

Authorities have termed the drought, in a normally dry area, "the greatest of modern times." They report a mass exodus from the countryside, without rain now since 1950.

The state of Sao Paulo alone estimates that it has received 455,000 refugees in the last two years.

The presence of a homeless and hungry "floating" population has given rise to violence in some villages. Food stores have been raided by mobs.

BISHOP ASKS AID

The bishop of Sobral, in Ceara, asked help from the state government saying the city was menaced by 300 armed men. "Hunger," the bishop said, "is intense throughout the region."

The Rio de Janeiro newspaper "Tribuna da Imprensa," which sent a special team to the region, said seven children in Imaculada had died of hunger. Starvin gchildren begged food and water at the roadside.

Other reports said that the farmers had trimmed bark from trees, or made a stew from nettles, to feed their children.

CATTLE DIE

Thorn fields were burned so cattle could penetrate thickets in search of what little food could be found there. Water holes were reported dry. Carcasses of many cattle, dead of thirst, were reported in the fields.

Among the measures currently suggested for the relief of the area are:

1. The declaration of a state of catastrophe throughout the region, making available to it special grants from a national emergency fund.

ASK GRANT

2. The immediate grant of 271,000,000 cruzeiros ($108,400,000) from the emergency fund, as well as payment of 27,000,000 cruzeiros ($10,800,000) voted for the drought relief in 1952, but never turned over to the states.

Private help campaigns organized in Southern Brazil have sent some food and clothing to the area.

President Vargas ordered the director of national drought service to proceed immediately to the area to start work on water supply. The president also directed the national food service to send supplies to Northeast Brazil.

Residents of the region still hope for rain. "But already," one official says, "we are becoming a desert."

MARMORA (ENS). — A surprise party in celebration of the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hannah was staged at their home Saturday evening.

Participants comprising relatives and close friends paraded from the home of a neighbor, Blake Ketcheson, to the strains of a mock band. With Jack Grant, brother of Mrs. Hannah, as master of ceremonies, a mock wedding was enacted. This was followed by the singing of parodies on well-known songs.

Jack Grant sang "Only a Touch of Thy Hand, Lear Lord," and as an encore, "It Is No Secret." Pianists for the evening were Mrs. Gordon Bateman and Mrs. Milton Campbell.

The presentation of gifts to the honored couple included a ruby ring from the family to Mrs. Hannah and a wrist watch to Mr. Hannah. Refreshments were then served.

The event celebrated took place at the Methodist parsonage, Monteagle Valley, on Tuesday, March 11, 1913. The officiating minister was the Rev. Ernest Harston and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Campbell.

The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Hannah and the bride the daughter of Mrs. Wesley Grant and the late Wesley Grant. They came to the Marmora district 33 years ago. Mr. Hannah worked for Deloro Smelting and Refining Company for a number of years, residing in Marmora. Later he took up farming in Bonarlaw but returned to Marmora 13 years ago to operate a dairy here.

Of six children, five are living today. They are: Mrs. William Abrams (Violet), Ottawa; Frank, Marmora; Mrs. Gordon Bateman (Iris), Harold; Mrs. Doris McKaren at, home; Wilda, RN, Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

Famous French Painter Raoul Dufy Dies At 75

PARIS (AP)—French painter Raoul Dufy died today at the age of 75. Agence France-Presse announced. He had been a longtime sufferer from arthritis.

One of the famous "fauves" (wild beasts) whose bright colors helped to revolutionize modern art early in this century, Dufy died at his home in Forcalquier, a village south of Avignon in southern France.

For the last 15 years he had been partially crippled by arthritis. He went to the United States in 1950 for treatment with the drug cortisone for 15 months and recovered partial use of his hands.

"Art and arthritis are the two most important things in my life," he said a few years ago, "and I must try to prevent one from killing the other."

Splashing brilliantly colored oils and watercolors in a gay, loose style of painting, Dufy won a place as one of the world's foremost artists, ranking with his contemporaries Pablo Picasso and Henri Matisse.

He was noted for his lively paintings of French and English racetracks, yacht regattas and in recent years of musicians and orchestras.

While in the United States, he won new acclaim with his impressions of America. He returned home with an acquired love for baseball and a remarkable painting of a ball park during a night game.

MANY OUTLETS

Dufy's work extended to the designing of fabrics, tapestries, ceramics and theatre decorations. He also did several large murals and illustrated many books.

Of Irish-French-German descent, Dufy was born June 3, 1877, in Le Havre, one of nine children in a middle-class family.

At 23, he went to Paris to study on a grant from the municipality of Le Havre. There he became influenced by the "impressionists. About five years later, however, he abandoned the "realism" of impressionism and joined "les fauves."

For a while he tried cubism, but never really was adept at it. Critics said "his taste for life prevented him from warming up to abstraction."

Dufy himself said a painter "must also create a world of unseen things," and his paintings strikingly revealed his own emotions. Even when he was crippled and in pain, they expressed a gay warmth.

Child Strangles In Blind Cord

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Penny Sue Lockyer, 13 months, climbed up to the living room window of her Belleville home. She became entangled in a venetian blind cord and strangled.

She was among the nine violent deaths recorded in Eastern Canada during the first week-end of spring. Seven occurred in Ontario, four of them in traffic accidents. Quebec and New Brunswick each reported one traffi cdeath.

Three of Ontario's traffic deaths occurred in the Toronto area Raymond Matteson, 20, was killed when the truck he was driving crashed through a guard rail and turned over in Toronto's northern suburbs. Thomas McGee, 47, was killed by a truck as he ran across a street in Lakeview and Edwin Cheetham was killed when struck by a street car. Daisy Ellen Pilon, 18, was killed when the truck in which she was riding crashed into a bridge railing at Markstay, near Sudbury.

Moots Dog Tax Boost, Irritates Dog Lovers

EDINBURGH (CP)—Dog lovers throughout Britain are hot on the trail of Sir William Darling, 67-year-old Conservative member of Parliament for Edinburgh South.

The rumpus started after Sir William, former lord provost of Edinburgh, launched a television appeal for a boost in dog licences to $5.75 from the present fee of approximately $1 a year.

"The facts show that dogs worry sheep, trespass in gardens and dirty the streets," Sir William remarked. "They may be carriers of disease. They sneeze and they snuffle while children are fondling them. Statistics, furthermore, show they are a menace on the roads, causing hundreds of accidents. And each dog eats anything up to four pounds of meat a day."

School Children More Capable

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—C. W. Routley of Toronto, assistant superintendent of elementary education for the Ontario department of education, said Saturday he is "not disturbed" by many of the criticisms of the modern school.

"I find modern children more capable in many ways than the children in my day," Mr. Routley told an education conference of 175 eastern Ontario teachers and school trustees.

Schoolchildren have a wider knowledge and can think, read and talk more clearly than the pupils of 20 years ago, he said.

However the province was straining to overcome a shortage of school space and the Ontario government had asked school boards to concentrate on essential classrooms in any new building.

Fire Damages Cafe

MONTREAL (CP)—A two-alarm fire early Sunday heavily damaged an east-end cafe owned by Butch Bouchard of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. No one was injured in the blaze but firemen fought for more than two hours before bringing it under control.

2,500 Natives Arrested In Single Raid

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—More than 2,500 African tribesmen were arrested in one raid Sunday by hundreds of troops and police with armored cars at the shanty town of Pumwani.

The operation—one of the biggest mass raids during the Mau Mau emergency — began before dawn when the government forces converged on the community. Both Kikuyu and Embu tribesmen were arrested.

An outbreak of murders, hold-ups and robberies at Pumwani in the last few weeks has terrorized the teeming two-mile square area where an estimated 15,000 Africans live.

The entire area was sealed off while troops and police, controlled by radio cars, spread through narrow streets and alleyways, where a number of Mau Mau terrorist leaders and thugs were believed to be hiding.

Slightly High Production Only Cloud In Business Sky

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Comments on the business scene from both sides of the border continue to be generally favorable as the year progresses.

The National City Bank of New York says "business moving with good momentum" and that if there is anything to worry about in 1953 it is that sales expectations may prove too high. Production through the spring months, therefore, "may be overdone."

It points out that while stocks usually decline during the fourth quarter, business inventories during that period of 1952 rose by $500,000,000. This is a "moderate" rise, little above that of a year earlier, it adds, but present levels of output still seem to indicate "some increase in stocks."

"Any indication that output may be exceeding consumption naturally raises a question as to how long the present record-production rates can be supported," it cautions, but for the early future, "these speculations have little significance."

HAVE CONFIDENCE

Among automobile manufacturers, home builders and others looking forward to good spring markets, "the disposition is to move confidently, prepare for good business, put forth a strong selling effort and maintain high production schedules."

"They will be ready to cut back if and when sales and inventory figures indicate the need, but see no purpose in crossing the bridge until it is reached, and hope it will not be."

On the Canadian side, Greenshields and Company, Montreal investment house, says that while uncertainty about the international outlook "has been naturally intensified by the death of Stalin," the stock market has "reacted surprisingly well."

In addition:

"The new crop of Canadian annual reports is in line with the pattern of profits which had been anticipated, progress being shown generally by corporations catering to domestic consumption and declines reported by most of those depending on the export market."

Dresses, Suits Are Gossamer – Light

Women will choose their woollen fashions for spring, 1953, from the widest variety of suitings and coatings ever offered.

For wear in every climate across the country, there are fleece-soft "ermine cloth" coatings, thistle-fleece tweeds, fine wool crepes, flat and dimensional jerseys that are full in body but near-gossamer in weight, flannels ranging from light to tissue, and many worsted suitings in tiny checks and smudged or broken stripes.

We show (left) a thistle-fleece tweed that's extremely light in weight. Here, it's cut into a version of the "paper doll" look. This is gull-gray herringbone tweed with surplice bodice and plunging neckline. Oval midriff is tightly fitted and wide skirts fall over layers of ruffled petticoat. This is young and fresh in feeling, right for wear all through spring.

A smoke-checked worsted (right) is used in tissue weight for a stole-topped suit. This has neat, immaculate tailoring with a feminine look. There's just a touch of white cotton at the "V" neckline. Jet buttons are used in double-breasted effect on the bodice, detached stole is fringed.

Touches of White On Shoes, Patent Leather In New Styles

The new spring fashions herald "the new in shoes" — an exciting and fashionable array of footwear, beautifully designed to complement and enhance the wardrobes of the season.

The classic pump looks new again for spring, being lighter in weight, softer in construction, slimmer in line, and higher as to heel. There is infinite variety in pumps, with a wide choice of contrasting trim and heel contours. The sling is a big favorite, but the closed pump runs it a close second for early spring wear.

At the top of the fashion news for spring is patent leather, a most popular accent for the subdued colors and pastels that will be seen everywhere.

FLATTERING STYLES

Especially flattering are the pointed toe styles with low square cut vamp and very high curved heel, the refreshingly open sandal with a single curved strap, and the closed front and back styles with open sides.

Inspired by the extensive use of patent this spring are the interesting uses of this glossy leather as a matching piping on suits, and embossed trim on both formal and streetwear dresses, especially popular because of its complete washability. Umbrella cases, handbags, and hat and glove trimmings in patent leather make for a sleek ensemble look when worn with the new patent shoes.

Also new-looking, very smart and sophisticated, is the tailored pump, again with the very high curved heel, in one of the beautiful soft shades of aniline calf, light wood tones and warm beiges. The feminine touch of a low cut envelope vamp, bound with contrasting leather gives a soft look suited to the newly feminine tweeds and flannels.

Suede is seen in black and rich navy in more open types of pumps to wear with silk town suits and ensembles. In some instances, suede is combined with faille in these dress pumps for more formal costumes. Elasticized suede will give glove-perfect fit to the closed styles.

TOUCHES OF WHITE

Touches of white are as important on the first spring shoes as they are on costumes themselves. Never have there been so many white trimmed shoes as this season, introducing white as a major fashion theme right through spring and summer.

White combines with black, navy, spring tans and browns, bright red or royal blue, depending on the type of costume. Newest of all is white with grey, heralding the return of the grey shoe to the fashion picture.

Colorful Vests Brighten Suits

Time to throw out your chest, man, and adorn it with one of the newest, fancy — and we do mean fancy, — vests.

Yes, the fancy "waistcoat" is in again. This spring, the vest takes on new airs in Tattersall checks, in blazer stripes, in bright scarlet and in new prints.

Bold color or embroidered cummerbunds come to the front, too, for evening wear, and together with the fancy vest makes the male of the species bright with gay plumage for the most formal or the most casual of dress occasions.

Ties conform to the new trim look that pervades all of men's wear this spring. They range in width from 2½ to 3¾ inches.

Patterns on the slimmer ties are clean and have a sharp look about them, often travelling up the tie to heighten the vertical look.

More than 20,000,000 tiny trees were distributed for planting in 1952 by the Ontario Forestry Department.

Painful Cramps of "Monthly Periods" halted or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

• Women and girls who suffer from those functionally-caused cramps, backaches and headaches of menstruation — who feel upset and irritable on certain "particular days" — may often be suffering quite unnecessarily!

Such is the conclusion from tests by doctors in which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases tested!

Modern in action!

Yes! Medical evidence shows Lydia Pinkham's Compound is thoroughly modern in action. It strikes directly at the cause of menstrual pain!

The effectiveness of Lydia Pinkham's needs no proof to the millions of women and girls whom it has benefited. But how about you? Do you know what it may do for you?

Take Lydia Pinkham's through the month. See if you don't get the same relief from the pains and weakness of "those days"! See if you don't feel better before and during your period!

Get either Lydia Pinkham's Compound, or new, improved Tablets (with added iron). Both are grand, too, for those "hot flashes" and nervous feelings of "change of life"!

Don't suffer needlessly . . . when relief may be so near!

Lydia Pinkham's has a quieting effect on the uterine contractions (see chart) which often cause menstrual pain!

Flower Sellers In Shawls Feature Of Tea

Kinettes of Peterborough entertained Saturday afternoon at a very pleasant social affair—their annual Daffodil Tea, and the feature of the event was the sale of fresh daffodils. Flower sellers Mrs. Harvie Ball and Mrs. Karl Greenside dressed for their parts in the manner of the old English flower women in shawls and old-fashioned bonnets.

The tea was in the YWCA Green Room where they had marked off the flower stand and the bazaar table s with streamers of the daffodil colors.

Candles for the tea table picked up the leaf color and were very prettily decorated with sequins and silver by Mrs. Walker Jones. A beautifully hand-made lace cloth was used and daffodils in attractive pyramid arrangement were in the centre.

The centrepiece was raffled afterward and the winner was Mrs. J. Burns. Mrs. Burns was the ticket convener and was at the door with treasurer Mrs. Robert Hamilton during the tea.

A hamper of groceries was offered as a draw prize and a cake made and donated by Mrs. Norm Buzzelle was the consolation. Tickets were sold by Mrs. George Stone and Mrs. Ed. Henwood and a guest in the city for the day, Mrs. John Challend, made the draws. The groceries went to Mrs. Norman Elliott, who is a past president of the club and was one of the tea pourers, and the cake went to Mrs. J. Walton.

Mrs. Wm. Godson, with whom Mrs. Challend was visiting, was in charge of a "white elephant" table with Mrs. G. Ball. The home baking table was attended by Mrs. Fred Ash, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. Harry Tewsley, Mrs. Buzzelle and Mrs. C. Boorman.

Serving the guests were Mrs. Bud LaPlante, Mrs. Arthur Black, Mrs. H. Carr, Mrs. G. Norris, Mrs. Vern Selkirk, Mrs. G. Towns, Mrs. W. Henderson, Mrs. J. Robertson and Miss Audrey Oliver. The tea was poured by four past presidents, Mrs. Norman Elliott, Mrs. James V. Elliott, Mrs. Adam Sands and Mrs. Howard Powell.

Recorded music was playing softly all through the tea hours.

President Mrs. Beverley Metcalfe was extending welcome to the tea, assisted by the tea convener, Mrs. Cameron Craig.

Proceeds will be used for the club's main service project of sending children with heart disease and diabetes for a holiday at Ilalee Lodge in the summer.

Says Women Seldom Sharp About Purchasing Clothes

CALGARY (CP)—Women aren't always as sharp as they could be when buying clothes. That's the word of Albert E. Johnson of New York, who told a meeting here that "it's 50 per cent emotion" when women select clothes.

"They like the garment and they think it will impress their husband or their boy friend," he said. "They seldom if ever stop to think of whether it will dry-clean, whether the colors run or whether it would be hard to press."

Johnson has a keen interest in this, since he's director of trade relations for the National Institute of Cleaning and Dyeing at New York.

MAIN PROBLEMS

He says there are three main problems. Fashion creates most difficulties, because manufacturers cater to the whims of designers and make clothes which are attractive, but often difficult to clean, and sometimes impossible to press.

Secondly, there is a constant "price-pressure" which leads to poor fabrics being used for many garments.

Finally, there is a technical problem created by "novelty" fabrics which don't stand up under dry cleaning. Flocking and embossing rubs off unless special treatment has been used during the manufacturing process. New straw cloth tends to wrinkle.

Water spotting on taffeta is another problem. A new process has been developed in recent months which makes the fabric stand up under cleaning, however.

For a growing-out poodle cut, John Emile, hairdresser to the Queen, sweeps the sides of the hair up beneath a black velvet coif, embroidered in colored sequins and trimmed with light brown tulle, created by Norman Hartnell, dressmaker to the Queen. This headdress is created for ladies who are not peeresses attending the Coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

Two Top Fashions For Easter Parade

Easter Sunday differs in climate clear across the country. What's a clear warm day in one section is raw or cold or rainy in another, so it's difficult to pin down any one fashion as "the" thing to wear.

The best way to solve the problem is to wear whatever makes you feel prettiest and most at ease.

If you are breaking out a new fashion for the day, it's best to wear it at least once or twice beforehand.

This will take the newness away and allow you to become adjusted to the fashion so that you are not awkward in it. Ladies who go about clutching nervously at mink stoles would do better without them.

We show here, for wear on Easter Sunday, two of Spring's outstanding fashions.

The ensemble (Left photo) is in a crepe that's a mixture of rayon-and-acetate. This original has tucked, sheath-like dress worn with boxy jacket that has all-over pin tucks. Striped sash of dress is matched to lining of jacket.

Ermine cloth, is used in a virgin wool in snowy white, for a wrap coat (right photo) with lean look. Worn slim and close to the body, it has wide-winged collar and buttonless closing.

Find Variety Spice Of Sportswear

Many an otherwise conservative man welcomes the opportunity to give full sway to his flair for color and his urge to individuality and variety in the choice of his sports wear. This spring, he will find the sports wear style stage lavishly set with a bright array of styles and colors to spur his imagination and give wide scope to his tastes.

Gayer and lighter in tone are the colors featured in the new spring sports coats, which present a fascinating variety of fabric patterns, including plaids, checks, stripes and herringbones.

Favored among the fabrics are soft, lightweight tweeds, shetlands and cheviots, together with woollens and worsteds with strong surface interest. This is achieved by the use of slubs and nubs which create an impression of depth in the cloth and enhance the richness of the color effects.

Adding to the attractiveness of the spring fabrics picture are the specialty fibres, notably cashmere and mohair, which come both alone and in blends with wool which create completely new fabrics. The orlons, dacrons and various blends of these and other man-made fibres with wool are looming large on the style scene.

NEW STYLE FAMILIES

Among the new styles bowing in for spring is the one-button sports coat model. This newcomer is reported due to give the more conventional two- and three-button models a strong run for top honors.

Style touches that will identify the new sport coats as "definitely 1953" are the ticket pocket, side vents, pleated back and leather-covered buttons.

Fancy waistcoats will continue to grow in popularity this spring. Tattersalls will lead by a wide margin. Plain solid colors and tartans will also be frequently seen, along with some striped reps and foulards.

As to slacks, flannel will continue to share honors with wool gabardine in the top-favorite bracket, with the various man-made fibres and blends sure to claim a healthy slice of the market. Many new and novelty fabrics, such as cotton sharkskins (extremely light, yet tough and durable), chambrays, denims and lightweight pure silks will add to the diversity of the fabrics line-up.

SWEATERS COLORFUL

For active sports, the always popular pullover will feature a wide variety of designs, including diagonal stripes and muti-colored patterns of Scandinavian flavor together with diamond patterns, hunting themes and other novelty effects. As usual, solid colors will continue in strong favor in the pullovers.

Color highlights leather in these new Spring shoes. Pliable moccasin (above) is worn with fuzzy angora socks. Black patent leather pump from Capezio (upper left center) has baby Louis heel in white, is worn with sheer stockings featuring stripped heel line. Golfer's shoe (lower left center) is in ambertone calf, pairs with cotton knee-length sock.

Shiny black patent sandal (upper right center) has rhinestone buckle trim, Louis heel. Airy gold kid sandals from Jerro Brothers (lower right center) are studded with rhinestones and worn with rhinestone-studded hose. Spanish theme is used for Capezio flats (above) in ruby calf. These are soft, slender shoes worn with knee-length nylons.

Flute Heel and Square Vamp Important In Spring Shoes

Good looks in this year's spring shoes come through in softness, glowing color, the pointed toe and squared-off vamp, the slim flute heel and increased emphasis on the Louis heel.

Color contrasts for the blacks, browns, oatmeal and beiges of ready-to-wear are found in accessories. Thus, new shoe colors of importance are black patent leather trimmed in white, the sand tones, clear reds, chalky pinks, muted honey and blonde shades.

Shoes are glove-soft and have a light and airy feeling on the foot, even when they're completely closed. The best looking silhouette is slender and feminine with a slim flute heel and tapered toe.

The important opera pump, in this new silhouette, is unadorned except for line. Sandals are very open and are set on heel heights varying from the midway heel on sling back to the high, thin heel for late-day and evening wear.

New in hosiery this spring is the knee-length nylon with elasticized top for wear with "at-home" or casual shoes.

The knee-length sock, in either wool or cotton, looks right fo casual clothes worn in the country. These are natural companions for tweeds, but are also seen on college campuses.

Black, navy and brown contrasting heels and seams are shown sheer hose for ready-to-wear in the same colors. And for very dressy wear or evening wear, there are stockings with lacy and embroidered heels or with handpainted or flocked motifs at heels or ankles. Some have sparkling jewel accents at ankles or seams.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Mother's Celery Dish Has Virtues Of Economy, Flavor

To some observers, sitting at a desk, isolated and alone, pounding on a typewriter, trying to answer perplexing questions seems like a tedious job.

That s what I do—BUT it isn't tedious or lonesome or isolated, for one end of my long desk is buried in letters from you, all of which are cheery and full of praise and good works.

While I know I am running late with my answers to you, like Old Engine, 99, and each new mail adds to the pile, when I open them I know your letters will be interesting and fun to read. That is not only reward enough, but it is enough to make me claim that I have one of the most satisfying jobs that exists. And for it, a big THANK YOU to you.

✧ ✧ ✧

I'm a week late in giving you Mother's Celery Dish which I promised because of its virtues: (1) economy (2) flavor (3) meatlessness (for Lent).

I'll give you that and try to finish off my answer to Mrs. G. D. wnich I had to break off abruptly on Saturday last.

MOTHER'S CELERY DISH

Wash and cut up enough outer celery stalks and leaves to measure 3 well-packed cups. Add ¾ cup water and boil, covered, until barely tender. Drain and measure the liquid. Make it up to 2 cups with rich milk and a little cream if you can spare it. Add 12 2-inch square soda crackers coarsely broken, not rolled, and 1 cup mild or strong grated cheese. Gently mix, turn into buttered baking dish, seasoning with sprinklings of salt and pepper and if desired ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, as you put it in the dish. Dot top with a little butter and sprinkle with a little extre cheese if you like and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until bubbling and brown.

ANSWER TO MRS. G. D., cont'd. from last week:

Please see barbecued pork chops in March 18 column.

CREAMED SALMON OR TUNA

For a main supper dish to serve 4 make 2 cups white sauce by mixing 3½ tablespoons flour with 4 tablespoons melted butter and ¼ teaspoon salt, then stirring in 1¾ cup whole milk. (If the milk is preheated stirring time is cut down.) Stir until thick. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 2 cups flaked, canned or cooked salmon or tuna Heat through in top of double boiler.

VARIATIONS: (1) You may substitute 1 cup either sauted sliced mushrooms or drained canned or cooked fresh peas for 1 cup of the fish. (2) Shrimp, crab or lobster may be used instead of salmon or tuna. (3) To make this dish richer you may use cream instead of some of the milk, and stir in 2 egg yolks 1 minute before serving. (4) You may add 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and ¼ cup chopped parsley without making any other changes.

✧ ✧ ✧

RAISIN BREAD PUDDING

Two cups soft breadcrumbs or cubes, 4 cups whole milk (or 2 cups evaporated milk diluted with 2 cups water OR 1 cup (4 oz.) skim milk powder mixed with 3¾ cups water), 2 eggs, one-third cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 or 4 tablespoons melted butter, ½ to ¾ cup raisins. Scald the milk and add the bread crumbs or cubes to it. Beat the eggs, beat the sugar and salt into them. then gradually stir them into the milk-bread mix. Add vanilla, nutmeg and butter and raisins. Turn into buttered large baking dish, stand in large pan containing warm water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour or 1¼ hours or until set.

DOROTHY DIX:

Parents Interfere In Rights Of Daughter

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been happily married for two years, but for the past six months my husband and my family have not spoken.

The trouble between my husband and my mother began when my mother requested that she have my grand piano in the event of my death (it was a gift from her mother), when she wanted to retain possession of an insurance policy she had been carrying for years, and when my father asked for power of attorney over some property of mine. My husband feels that all of these requests are infringements of our rights. He feels we should fight for our rights no matter what the outcome or how bitter the feelings aroused.

I know I have been bossed too much all my life, and have been extremely naive and unaggressive. At this late date, however, is it advantageous for us to harbor grudges and try to change a situation that has existed for 30 years? In brief, am I right to want a reconciliation, or is my husband right to continue the estrangement? HOPE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The difficulties involved in your tangled family relationships could so easily be solved by a lawyer, that it seems little short of ridiculous to continue dragging them into a permanent quarrel. Not one of them constitutes so great a violation of "rights" as to justify your husband's attitude.

DICTATORIAL HUSBAND

When one realizes that you were 28 when you married, your contention of having been bossed, and of being naive and unaggressive, is certainly justified. Tris condition seems to exist as much now as before your marriage, except that your husband has taken over the bossing. You have swung from a too-aggressive family to an overly dictatorial husband. Since the various properties concerned in this hubbub are yours, you are entitled to decide what disposition should be made of them. My suggestion would be that, while the grand piano should revert to your mother, since it has associations for her, the insurance and property should be in your hands.

You are certainly right in seeking a reconciliation of all persons concerned, since there's no reason why everyone can't agree on a satisfactory settlement. Call a family conference, with a lawyer on hand, and discuss the matter amicably. You know the longer these dissensions go on, the harder it is to settle them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very fond of a certain girl, but her mother presents a problem. She has a habit of swearing at everything and anything—the children, her husband, neighbors, even the radio. She's a nice person otherwise, but I know this habit bothers her family. Can anything be done to stop it? M.M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since the habit is undoubtedly one of long standing—probably going back to her own youth—it would be difficult to effect a reform now. Has anyone ever told her how that swearing disturbs the family? Perhaps her husband and children have become accustomed to hearing bad language, that it just doesn't register. Suppose the whole family ganged up and told her how much they object to the constant flow of bad language, then go a step farther and announce that henceforth they'll pay no attention to any conversation, order or request that includes swearing. Very often people go on with bad habits just because no one in the family has taken the trouble to correct them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there a rule of etiquette that says a girl shouldn't write to a man friend? I have written several letters to a young woman I met four years ago, have requested permission to call on her, and have also asked if she would permit me to paint her portrait. I can't telephone her, since I am deaf. She has never answered. S.A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Obviously the young lady doesn't wish to further the friendship, but she should at least be gracious enough to acknowledge your letters. Better forget about her.

Shirts Accent Collar Trends

The trend to button-downs, rounds and the new short points in men's shirts continues to gain ground at the expense of the widespread collar.

A feature of the new season will be the increasing importance of short-sleeved models. While ventilated weaves, sheers and lightweight fabrics will predominate in this type of shirt, it will also be available in white on white and regular weight oxfords and broadcloths.

Although white will continue to dominate the picture in business shirts, solid colors, thin stripes and closely woven patterns are staging a sharp upsurge in this field.

In sports shirts, lightweight ventilated weaves and sheers will continue popular, with summery cottons coming into increased prominence.

"Textured surface" or "surface interest" fabrics seem sure to grow in favor this spring. Never before have so many nub, slub, grained and seeded effects been shown as will be seen in the new spring lines.

Stripes will be strongly featured in men's sport shirts this spring. They will include verticals, horizontals, and stripes formed by a series of designs, as well as border stripes that hit only at the collar, pocket and front.

Three years ago we had to part
With one we loved with all our heart.
A wound so deep it would not heal,
Only those who have lost, know how we feel.
If we could speak with dad today,
Laugh with him the same old way,
And hear his voice and see him smile,
Then life indeed would be worth while.

JAMIESON—In loving memory of Greta Belle Jamieson, who passed away March 22, 1952.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of our beloved son, David Mahood, who died March 23, 1949.
Fondly loved and deeply mourned,
Heart of my heart, I miss you so.

But never the one in my heart that lies.
